The Original Chocolate "Bordo" is the one Confection that comes to your counters as temptingly good as the moment it leaves us.

A ROYAL MEANS TRADE FOR YOU

The Best Mill in the World at the Least Cost to you,

You don't like to grind coffee by hand, Mr. Merchant, and you cannot expect your clerks to like it any more than you do.

A clerk is not going to urge coffee upon your customers if he has to go through the drudgery of grinding every time he sells a pound.

The reason a ROYAL electric mill will make more business for you is because your clerks will all be glad to sell coffee with a modern mill in the store.

Besides, the ROYAL cuts the coffee instead of crushing or grinding it, and a penny's worth of electricity will cut fifty pounds.

Send to-day for a free copy of our latest catalog. It tells all about the ROYAL.

Famous
Dayton Scales

The Scale with the Guarantee, and the Guarantee backed up by our Canadian Factory

The scale that saves time, money and worry. The Dayton is the only scale that is fitted with an automatic thermostat, which regulates the scale in every temperature. No other scale maker can use this wonderful invention, as we have all patents on it. Remember, the Dayton Scale fitted with the automatic thermostat is always right. Hot or cold weather makes no difference with it. Other scales may change in cold weather or hot weather, but the Dayton does not.

We say to the merchants of Canada : "The Dayton Scale will positively stop the giving of overweight." We can prove it to you. The thousands of merchants who have bought Dayton Scales prove this every day.

There are more Dayton Scales sold than all other computing scales combined. There is a reason for this, and the Dayton Scale is acknowledged to be the finest scale in the world.

When you buy, be sure you get the finest, and remember the Dayton costs no more than the cheaply made grade of computing scales offered on the market to-day.

Send in your card, and we will have a scale demonstrated to you. You will be under no obligation to buy it.

Do not buy the imitation. Buy the original famous Dayton Scale.

A START IN BUSINESS

PROBABLY every reader of The Canadian Grocer noticed that the Orange Meat Company, of Kingston, Ont., were offering prizes in a carton-collecting contest. The winner of the First Prize was entitled to a Life Annuity of $52.00, convertible, at the winner's option, into Seven Hundred Dollars Cash. A second prize of One Hundred Dollars, and several other cash prizes, aggregating Thirteen Hundred Dollars, were also offered.

Not many grocers or their clerks interested themselves in this contest, although they are in a position of advantage to compete successfully. One grocery clerk, however, did enter his name as a contestant, and he has proved what earnest, persistent effort will accomplish.

This young man is Mr. David Magee, of Cardinal, Ontario, and is in the employ of Mr. F. F. Adams, grocer and general merchant, of that town.

Although there were other contestants in his district, Mr. Magee succeeded in getting a sufficient number of his customers and friends to save the bottoms of the Orange Meat boxes for him. This enabled him to send in 2,612 carton-bottoms, placing him in the first position, which entitled him to the First or Grand Prize. He elected to take the Seven Hundred Dollars in Cash rather than the Life Annuity of One Dollar per week.

With this tidy sum as a starter, Mr. Magee intends establishing himself in the grocery business with a friend in the City of Winnipeg. This fortunate young man stated that he did not think that he had much chance of landing the First Prize. He hoped to win one of the smaller cash prizes and he can thank his employer and his persistent, systematic efforts, which resulted in success.

The following is Mr. Magee's story: "I was informed of the contest by one of the Orange Meat travelers, but did not think much of entering, until a friend of mine, who had a few carton-bottoms collected, offered them to me, as he thought I had more opportunities to collect them than he had. I accepted them and sent my name in to Orange Meat, Kingston. I then started to collect and save in real earnest.

"I secured a list of all our customers for Orange Meat, whom I thought would not mind doing me a little favor; and whenever opportunity offered, I asked them to save the Orange Meat carton-bottoms for me. There were very few who did not readily promise.

"I also secured the names of as many consumers of Orange Meat as possible, who were not customers of our store and, when I could, got them to save the Orange Meat bottoms for me. They amounted to more than I thought they would.

"I was a little discouraged once, shortly after I got nicely started, because so many people would tell me that there was no chance of my winning a good prize, as all the large prizes, if they were given at all, would be distributed among the friends of the Company. My employer, Mr. Adams, discouraged this idea, stating that he did not believe any people like the Orange Meat Company, would be foolish enough to attempt anything like that. He was certainly right and I am glad that I did not quit."

The Orange Meat Company is now advertising another Contest, ending November 30th next, similar to the contest which matured May 31, 1909, and all prospective contestants should mail their names and addresses as requested. They are adding two Fifty-Dollar Prizes, and also one hundred One-Dollar Prizes to their last list.

How Old Business Firms Often Lag

The Prince of Wales Strongly Endorses the Principle of Publicity and Advises Great Britain, in a National Sense, to Make the Most of Her Opportunities—Quitters in Advertising Quickly Suffer, and Firms of World-wide Reputation Have a Diminution in Sales When They Rest on Their Record or Try to do Business Solely on Long-Established Connections and Past Achievements.

By G. B. Van Blaricom.

While reading a few days ago I picked up several papers at random. One was a small Ontario daily, the other a copy of the London, England, Mail. Glancing over the former I ran across an article under the heading of "How the Quitter in Advertising Suffers." The opening paragraph ran "There is no field of endeavor in which quitters suffer so speedily as they do in advertising and there is no way to make money so easily or quickly as through a very carefully arranged advertising campaign of a useful article or business. You need not go out of your own community or among strangers to find a verification of this statement."

In the Daily Mail appeared a report of the first meeting at Marlborough House of the Royal Commission appointed to organize the representation of British products at the Brussels Exhibition next year and at the Rome and Turin Exhibitions in 1911. A notable speech was given by the Prince of Wales on that occasion arousing considerable enthusiasm among the commissioners. His Royal Highness said: "Experience has shown that even in the case of firms having an established reputation and world-wide connections attempts to discontinue advertising have usually been followed by a diminution in the sales effected, and it is not unreasonable to assume that the neglect by Great Britain of one of the most important forms of national advertisement would be equally detrimental to her interests as a manufacturing country.

"But as there can be no profit either to the individual or to the nation as a whole in displaying inferior British exhibits by the side of the best productions of our commercial competitors, if we participate at all in international exhibitions we must see that the great industries of this country are represented in the most complete and effective manner."

The Prince appealed to the members of the Commission "to do everything that is possible to secure a worthy exhibit, and, in addition to the general work of organization with which you will be occupied, to use your personal influence to the fullest extent in persuading the commercial community to co-operate with us in making a striking success of the British sections which we are called upon by his Majesty the King to organize."

It may seem strange that a writer in a country paper and the Prince of Wales should virtually give simultaneous expression to the one truth in practically the same words, but this observation merely goes to show the fact is now generally recognized that to secure success in any line the participants, to use a colloquial term, "Must stay with the game." The world has little use for the man who shifts, or the one who, as His Excellency Earl Grey, remarked in addressing the boys of Trinity College School, Port Hope, has not "learned to play the game." By that is meant that the qualities of persistency, pluck and perseverance are uppermost in any arena toward securing permanent success. A policy once adopted should be rigidly adhered to, providing the policy is a right one. There is no doubt that selling force —advertising — is what makes any business grow. This is recognized by the greatest industrial and commercial institutions in the land. Even communities, which are progressive and enterprising, know the strength and value of well directed publicity and are appointing commissioners of industry and publicity. Tourists' Association, Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and nations are feeling the effects of this self evident fact. They are profiting by experience, fully assured that the best school in life is experience. It is pointed out that the Prince of Wales has done a service to his country by insisting on the urgency of abandoning a conservative habit. His eminently practical mind takes account of what he observes on all sides. He has urged Great Britain to adopt modern methods and his appeal will not be a vain one, for it has been favorably commented upon by the press of Great Britain which affirms that the Old Country cannot rest on its prestige and traditions, great as these are, but like Germany, the United States, and other countries must be up and awake if she is to retain her place as the leading nation of the world.

Emperor as a Traveler.

It has been said that Emperor William of Germany is the best commercial traveler his country ever had. In season and out he has proclaimed from the house tops the virtues and capacity of his people and has lost no chance of promoting their interests, either commercial or financial. In the same sense, Theodore Roosevelt has done much to make the American nation known more widely and favorably than it ever was before he went to the White House. And now Great Britain is waking up and realizes that the facilities for making displays at foreign exhibitions must be cultivated to the full, that a natural reluctance not to take part must be overcome, and that every effort should be put forth to maintain and improve the reputation of British manufacturers as a whole. "No opportunity of advertising must be neglected," says His Royal Highness, who cannot be accused of having any personal or selfish motive in view.

What is true of the nations is equally applicable to all business houses and commercial institutions. They must advertise to make themselves known. It matters not how long established or how superior their products, they must proclaim incessantly the merits and quality of what they produce, or else they will fall behind in the race. This truth is so self apparent as to have forced its attention upon the Prince of Wales whose practical ideas and observant disposition allows nothing going on in the great world about him to escape his attention.

To say "I have tried advertising and it did me no good," will not answer. A man might as well say: "Oh! there is no money in the grocery, hardware or dry goods business. I know, for I started a store once and failed." The world would look upon such a member of the community askance and tell him not to base his deductions by one concrete example, not to measure other people's corn in his own bushel basket. It would tell him to adopt new ideas and develop the factor known as stick-to-itiveness. To assume a superior manner and practically declare: "Oh, I know all about it," is another serious mistake. Such persons will find food for thought in the fact that each of the six leading stores in New York city spend in daily newspaper advertising from $20,000 to $35,000 a month and are increasing their appropriations. They recognize that it pays. They are not pouring out thousands for the sake of charity or benevolence. They believe it is a good idea to get the attention of the people directed to whatever they have to offer and, once the attention directed, to keep it looking that way. If the eyes of the purchasing public are once taken off a name or an article, it costs infinitely more to secure their interest again than if it is kept there continuously. Record, tradition, ancestry, or long associations will not serve to do the work of publicity in an age when competition is keen and lines of greatest difficulty have often to be followed instead of the paths of least resistance which some have been content to pursue.

Value of Persistency.

Few people buy a thing the first time they see it announced in a newspaper but, when they see that article mentioned week after week, an impression is created which is translated into interest and attention and finally into desire and action. If a firm presents its story day by day, year in and year out in an earnest, convincing and intelligent manner, doubt on the part of the public gives way and readers feel there must be merit and worth in the proposition or article. It is by hammering home the facts and all the facts constantly and steadily that conviction takes possession of the mind and the leaven of publicity begins to work; and once it has begun it must be kept working. There is no such a procedure as stopping to rest or laying back contentedly and saying: "I think I have given enough impetus to this thing to see it complete its journey." The one, who adopts such an attitude, will find that the thing of itself soon spends its energy. It is only by keeping at it everlastingly that permanent success is scored. It is somewhat peculiar that, until recent years, while people have believed in the veracity of this axiom, they have thought there was one exception—advertising. They have found, however, that the same principle holds good in reference to publicity as in any other line, but many old established houses have learned the lesson at terrible cost.

Advertising must be simple, direct, truthful, and carefully looked after to bring results. It is a seed that can be planted and left of itself to grow. There must be the proper soil, cultivation, nourishment and superintendence. All statements made must be supported by quality, service, promptness, value and efficiency. It must also be realized that a disobliging clerk, or a false promise on the part of an establishment can do as much to drive away custom as a month's advertising campaign will bring back.

BUSINESS MAXIMS.

It is grip and grit that conquer success; not alone the vigour with which one takes hold of his task, but also the doggedness with which he holds on after he has taken hold.

If you are not doing good with the little you have, if you are not making the most of it, you may be sure that you are not likely to do the great good that you think you will when you get a lot of money.

After one has once felt the joy, the exhilaration, the infinite peace and satisfaction which come from the exercise of his highest faculties, he cannot be satisfied ever again to grovel by the exercise of his brute faculties.

"It is the young man whom labor cannot weary nor enemies scare, nor drudgery disgust; who confronts reverses with an unflinching front; who can neither be turned aside from his settled purpose by the world's dread or laugh, nor by its scorn or its frown, who makes his mark."—Success.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal, make a most attractive offer to the trade in their advertisement this week, as they state they are ready to quote prices on Canadian canned goods, 1909 crop. This in an important announcement, and will be welcome news to the grocers of the Dominion. They advise grocers to await the visit of their travelers before buying, as it will be to their advantage to do so. The representatives of the firm are now on the road with the new lists. The offerings comprise all standard brands, and all varieties of fruits and vegetables. As well, the firm is ready to make some attractive offers on their famous "Victoria" and "Princess Louise" teas. They prepay freight on all lots of 200 lbs. or over to all points in Ontario and Quebec.—advt.

Invoicing Goods at Prices They Should Sell At

Opinions of Retail Grocers on the Question—Some Believe Prices to Consumers Would be More Uniform—Others Would Not Buy From Manufacturers if This Were Done.

Toronto, June 30.—In consequence of the fact as was stated recently by a Grocer correspondent that some staple articles, especially biscuits, are sold at different prices for the reason that retailers do not know at what prices they should be sold, it was suggested by the correspondent that it would be a good idea if the busicuit manufacturers would invoice their goods at retail prices and deduct 20 per cent. of the total for the profits of the retailer. This, he thought would be a guide to all who do not wish to cut and who desire to establish uniform prices.

In view of this suggestion a number of retailers were interviewed with the following results:

A. White, 438 College St., thinks the idea a good one. It would not bind a retailer to sell at the prices stated in the invoice, at the same time it would serve as a guide to sell at uniform prices.

J. M. Corke, College St., believed it would be no advantage, at least, he could not see that it would.

L. Nighswander, of the "Oxford Grocery" College St., thinks it would be all right. "Not knowing what others are selling them at, we often unintentionally cut prices," he said. "This would be avoided if the retail prices were shown on all invoices. It is all right."

John Grigor, College St., does not think much of the scheme. "Let them sell at anything they like," he said. "The cheaper they sell the sooner they get out of business."

Jas. L. Casey, College St., strongly approves of the plan and is much in favor if it. There would then be no excuse for unintentionally selling under fair retail profits.

John Walton, 670 College, said that it was a good idea, as grocers certainly get mixed up on the prices of biscuits.

Jos. E. Hurst is also in favor of the scheme and thinks it would establish uniform prices. If any varied from them, it would would show to his mind that they were not fair in business. Some lines of biscuits do not pay grocers to handle, he said.

R. N. Dowsely, Queen St. West, commended the plan. "We are not getting enough profit on biscuit," he said, "and there is too much guess work in the grocery business and not enough sound calculation. I am strongly in favor of the idea."

F. G. Martin, 1498 Queen St. West, said that it would certainly be a good thing as it would establish uniformity in prices, and be a good guide to those who sell below living prices because they are told by their customers that others sell so and so.

Girvin & Robinson, Queen St. West, also approved of the plan. "We endorse it strongly and hope it will be adopted by the biscuit men," they declared.

J. Tripp, Queen St. West, could see no use for it. Grocers would sell at anything they liked anyway, he claimed.

J. Anderson, 1584 Queen St. West, didn't desire the wholesaler to tell him at what price he should sell. "The minute any concern tells me at what price I shall sell my goods then it is time for me to quit. However, it may work out all right."

P. D. Dunn, Queen St. West, is another grocer who is in favor of the scheme. "Yes, sir, that will be all right," he exclaimed.

J. A. Hopkins, corner Dovercourt and Main, thinks the plan a good one and that it should be appreciated by all retailers. It would no more bind grocers to sell at the same price, than it does now, but they would all know what they should be sold at, and with the exception of a few they would sell them at uniform prices.

E. Armitage, 443 Parliament St., proprietor of the "Live and Let Live" grocery, thinks it a good idea, and is strongly in favor of it.

J. W. McCullough declined to give an opinion, but D. H. Dobbin, Huron St., thinks it is a good suggestion, and a splendid idea, and that it should work out all right.

F. Dean, Queen St., West, said he didn't have much trouble, however, he thought it would lead to more uniformity in prices.

HE CAPTURED THE ORDER.

Kingsville, Ont., June 28.—Last Tuesday the government lighthouse supply boat, "Simcoe," arrived in Kingsville harbor, to provision up for the voyage.

News of her coming had been noised abroad, and a number of grocery boys were waiting at the dock to see if the boat required any groceries.

As the "Simcoe" came along side and the rope was put on the snubbing post, one lad grabbed the railing, put his foot into a port hole, and, thus assisted, climbed aboard the boat, where he hunted up the steward and politely invited that gentleman to take a ride up town with him and leave an order for groceries.

By the time the gangway was thrown out, the lucky lad walked off with the steward, capturing a $35 order for his store as well as about the same amount for a neighboring butcher for meat.

Lucky? No—just ordinary business foresight, a clear head, and a mind alert to grasp an opportunity.

An article on the remodelling of a grocery store in Thorold, Ont., prepared for this week's issue had to be held over until next week on account of lack of space.

London Grocers Invade Detroit in Full Strength

The Excursion This Year was a Little Better than the Best—About 1,500 Londoners Cross the Line—Praise for the Hospitality of the Men Behind the Counters—Some Incidents of the Day.

London, June 29.—The visitor in London on Wednesday last could not help wondering what had happened to this ordinarily lively city. There was an air of quietness pervading that seemed inexplicable until he attempted to gain entrance to a grocery store and found the door locked and the blinds drawn. If the stranger concluded that the concern had gone into liquidation and sought out another grocery he found the door locked there also, and all quiet inside. Great would be his wonder and many his speculations as to the cause of this unusual state of affairs until he asked the nearest small boy the reason when he would be met with the reply: "Why, don't you know? This is the grocers' excursion day; they are all off to Detroit."

The citizens, of course, are well aware of the ways of the grocers; they know that once a year the men who from January to December provide their material needs must have a day off; but fair warning is given of the necessity of providing beforehand for the wants of that particular day. Thus it happens that few citizens are caught napping the day before the big excursion, and that complaints are never heard.

CYRIL HAYES,
Secretary of The Association and a Large Contributor to the Success of the Outing.

The grocers' excursion has ever been popular with all classes of the community. People have learned from experience that whatever these men undertake is certain to be a success; that whatever the weather may turn out to be, the grocers are certain to give them a good time.

Some Refreshing Showers.

But it happened that the day was an ideal one, although when the train pulled out of London the clouds looked ominous, but they soon passed off, and the trip down was made in the best of weather. At Detroit the sun was shining brightly, and it was very warm, but shortly after the excursionists arrived, a plaeasant little sunshower fell and cooled the atmosphere.

About 2 o'clock a heavy thunderstorm visited the city, and for about an hour

PRESIDENT E. J. RYAN,
One of The Chief Engineers of the Excursion and the Recipient of a "Cu-cumbersome" Gift.

it looked as if the day would be spoilt, but it soon cleared off. There were about 1,500 passengers on board.

At 11.15 the first part of the train reached Brush Street depot, Detroit, and the balance quickly followed.

Here the excursionists parted, many going to visit friends, while others took a trip to Belle Isle before luncheon.

After dinner many took a ramble around town till near time for the St. Louis-Detroit ball game, and then the local baseball fans who took in the excursion started to gaze heavenward, as it looked much more like rain than baseball, but luck again favored them and by the time that the game was called the sun was shining.

Many of the excursionists not interested in the ball game took the chance for a ride up the river, while others took in some of the amusements offered. Others saw the sights from automobiles. One of these latter parties, after doing the city, started for the suburbs. They were traveling along at a good rate of speed when suddenly the gasoline tank of the car exploded, putting the car out of business, and giving the occupants a bad shaking up. Two of the occupants fared worse than the others. One was badly stunned, and the other received a slight cut in the hand. They were able to catch a car, after walking a few blocks, and were later seen rooting at the ball game.

A second auto party also had rather bad luck. When they hired the auto it took them upwards of twenty minutes to get started, as the car's mechanism was somewhat out of kilter. They were about five miles from the centre of the city, when suddenly there was a lurch and a loud report, and the auto came to a stop. A few blocks away they met a street car, which conveyed them back to the city.

The Grocers' Hospitality.

A word about the passengers and the hospitality of the grocers en route both to Detroit and homeward is timely. The train had hardly left London before the grocers started with their baskets and continued till the end of the journey, every passenger in the car being supplied with many different kinds of sweets and sandwiches, while the men were also treated to cigars. Soft drinks in abundance were also on the train.

The following will give some idea of the immense quantities of sweets fed to the excursionists: 2,000 oranges, 50 dozen pop, 8 gallons of lemonade, 4,000 sandwiches, 1,000 cigars, 2,000 bananas, 30 pounds of cheese, 50 pounds of soda biscuits, 4 gallons of pickles and olives.

HARRY RANAHAN,
The Treasurer, Who Handled His Portion of The Plans as Well as He Does The Funds of The Association.

Besides these 1,000 boxes of choice wafers, donated by McCormick's and Perrin's, were also distributed to the ladies. On the homeward journey it was found that the grocers had underestimated the appetites of their many guests and a fresh supply had to be laid in, and the same generosity in dealing out the sweets prevailed on the homeward journey as on the trip to Detroit.

In the Baggage Car.

During the return journey from Detroit a little presentation was made in the baggage coach.

W. Fulton, the C.P.R. agent, was asked by those present to make a presentation to President E. J. Ryan, of the grocers' association, and also to thank him on behalf of the many guests for the hospitality extended by the association of which he is head.

Fulton's short speech was like an address from the throne, and brought down the house, or rather the car. This was followed by the presentation of a beautiful juicy cucumber.

Though taken entirely by surprise, Mr. Ryan was able to make a suitable reply thanking them for the valuable present, which, he remarked, was better than a lemon, anyway.

The high court of the association established their headquarters in the baggage car on the journey, and returning home the members of the court and some of the guests were most royally entertained. Songs were given and impromptu speeches were made by the guests.

During the trip John Hunt, of the Hunt Mills, moved a vote of thanks, in a few well-chosen words to the grocers for their hospitality.

Home Again.

At 1.30 Thursday morning after one of the most pleasant day's outing in the history of the Retail Grocers' Association, the long excursion train arrived in London, and departed for their various homes. They were tired, but who could take in such an excursion and have such a good time without being tired. They were tired, but considering the fact that their hosts kept them on the go all day, it was little wonder that such was their condition. But they were not weary, and not one person on the train was heard to say that he wished that he had stayed at home, while on the other hand nothing but praise could be heard for the generous hosts of the day. A happy feature of the return trip was the fact that when the train pulled into the city at 1.30 the tired passengers found the street cars awaiting them, and were all able to get cars to within short distances of their homes. For this pleasant surprise the excursionists are indebted to President E. J. Ryan and ex-president Thos. Shaw, who had the foresight to make arrangements for street car accommodation at the unusual hour. It is true two fares were charged, but who minded that?

Notes of the Day.

Bob Ross, Dick Morgan and Bob Collins certainly worked hard behind the lunch counter. They deserve great credit for handling so many men, all the while having a pleasant smile for everybody.

The grocers are indebted to Joe Boyd, of Red Rose tea, Walter Nichol and P. C. Powell, of Sunlight Soap, and J. Ecclestone of Comfort Soap, for accompanying them on the trip, and for their many acts of kindness in Detroit, Walter Nichol, of the Sunlight Soap Co., was the hero of the day. While waiting for the train at Windsor, he was startled to hear a little girl call for help, and running to the scene, found that her foot was caught in a hole about two feet from the rails, and try as she would she could not get away. Mr. Nichol soon released her when he arrived on the scene, though he sustained a bad cut on the hand in doing so.

Special praise is due Norman McLeod, Jas. Haskett, Frank Paull, Ernie Reed, Frank Travers, Dick Donaghy and ex-president Shaw, who worked hard passing the good things around through the train.

Secretary Cyril Hayes was on the job early and late and outdid himself.

It required a great deal of hard work looking after the details and making everything run smoothly. President Ryan and Treasurer Ranahan did a lot of this work, and their efforts were crowned with success.

McKinley Millman, of Elliott, Moss & Co., and Clem Garvey, of John Garvey, are a great team. They made things lively for the boys and also looked after the ladies.

Walter Hungerford, of A. M. Smith & Co., N. Ripley, of M. Massuret & Co., and Went Dowell, of Edward Adams & Co., were silent workers, and kept busy moving around and giving the glad hand to the grocers.

Charlie Mountjoy, formerly with Ryan & Russell, and Fred Parsons, of Gorman, Eckert & Co., certainly sing well together. They made it lively in the baggage car. Everybody joined in the chorus.

Art. Connor was the principal rooter at the ball game. Bill Gorman, Tommy Vincent and Ab. Young were also in the running. Jack May was there some place, but he was not heard.

The grocers are very grateful to the many friends for their kind donations which aided so much in the success of the picnic.

TRADE NOTES.

H. Laporte, of Laporte, Martin & Co., has returned to Montreal after an extended trip to Europe.

Jules Cote, manager S. J. Major & Co., Ottawa, was in Montreal for a few days last week.

R. J. Graham, Belleville, spent a short time in Montreal with his local agent, John A. Moir, on his way through the city to St. John, N.B.

W. Smith has succeeded M. L. Kenzie, grocer, Birnam, Ont.

Garroch & McRae, grocers, Corunna, Ont., are dissolving, Garroch continuing alone.

Clarence Cronk, grocer, Hamilton, has sold to G. MacInnes.

C. D. Simpson, general merchant, Wroxeter, Ont., is succeeded by F. S. Davey.

James Pritchard, general merchant, Swan Lake, Man., has sold his stock to D. W. Flack.

F. Ceretti, macaroni manufacturer, Winnipeg, has sold to C. Condor.

A. R. Peters, grocer, Calgary, has sold his business.

Nairn & Jackson, grocers, South Hill, near Moose Jaw, have sold their business to F. J. Moffatt, of Carberry, Man., who took charge on July 1st. The former proprietors have been in business for some years and have met with good success. They have a larger proposition in sight in Southern Alberta.

S. C. Millman, general merchant, Humboldt and Watson, Sask., has sold the Watson business to H. Aberman.

The Alsop Process Co., of Canada, has been given an Ontario charter to "manufacture machinery and to own, acquire, sell lease or dispose of the right or rights to use a process or processes for the improving, ageing and whitening of flour and to buy, acquire and own and to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of machinery used in the said process." The head office is in Toronto.

A POOR COLLECTOR?

Editor Canadian Grocer,—Allow me to congratulate you on the decided improvement of the "Canadian Grocer." If there are still any grocers who do not read it, the reason must be that they do not know what it would bring to them from week to week. Among other things contained in last week's issue, I was somewhat amused with the article describing the experience of a collector in collecting a small account. If this is not overdrawn and there are many in the grocery business like that fellow in Toronto, it is no wonder that the fruit, produce and provision dealers were forced to adopt harsh methods to bring them to time. I am now anxious to know whether that account has since been paid, or whether the visits are still going on. It seems to me, however, that while the collector must be possessed of the virtue of patience to a large degree, he lacks the essentials as a good collector.

The article by J. W. Wheaton on "Home Consumption of Cheese" is also interesting and the question should be further discussed through your valuable paper, which would no doubt lead to good results.

Your editorial on "The Merchant as Benefactor" is also opportune and to the point. Strong articles, I think, should be written on this line to enthuse the merchants throughout the country with the idea that they are a necessity and that their interests must be protected against the unfair and deceptive encroachments of all kinds of disturbances to the general trade.

I also appreciate your invitation to grocers to send in contributions or take part in the discussions of all questions of interest to the trade.

MARKET CHANGES OF THE WEEK.

The Canadian grocery market of the past week shows many features with the strawberry situation in the lead. Correspondence from all parts of the Dominion, show a wide difference in prices and a number of fluctuations. In Ontario on Saturday prices ran away down and berries were sold to consumers at five cents a box. During the early part of the week they rallied in many cases due probably to want of rain. If rain does not fall the season is likely to be shortened.

Although no changes have occurred in sugar prices the demand has increased wonderfully, attributed to the advent of the berry season.

Potatoes are weakening in prices owing to the new variety coming on the market. The supply will likely be sufficient to meet the demand.

Some interesting conditions exist in the dried fruit market. Prunes have been selling well, despite the fact that strawberries are on the market. The Bosnia and Servia prune crops are reported damaged, while it is estimated that the Greek currant crop will be 15 per cent. lower than last year.

Pork and hog products have advanced again, the prices being firm. The Manitoba markets show advances in beans and dried apples and a decline in tubs.

There is a shortage of French petits pois and prices are likely to advance.

Prices have been named to jobbers on canned tomatoes, corn and peas for future delivery and they are somewhat lower than last year. Contracts are being signed at these prices.

COMPULSORY HALF-HOLIDAY.

The government of the state of Victoria, Australia, recently passed an Act to provide for a half-holiday every Saturday in the metropolitan district of Melbourne. The Act, which came into force on May 1, provides that all shops shall in each week be closed from the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday until the following Monday morning. It is provided that shops may be kept open till the hour of ten o'clock on the preceding Friday evening. Certain exemptions are made of shops in the occupation of druggists, butchers, bakers, hairdressers. bicycle dealers, flower sellers, restaurant keepers, confectioners and tobacconists. Before May 1, it was optional for shopkeepers to close on either Wednesday or Saturday afternoon. The new Act is the result of years of persistent effort made by the many thousand employees of retail stores in and about Melbourne, who maintained that the Saturday, the week end, half holiday was the most suitable for all classes. Over 20,000 employees who previous to this month worked throughout Saturday afternoon and evening are now released.

D. H. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner for Victoria, in telling of the effect of this change, states that the experience of the first few weeks with regard to Friday as a late business night in Melbourne and suburban retail shops can hardly be relied upon to gauge accurately its bearing on the volume of sales transacted. It is true, he says, that the large suburban stores are apprehensive that the change will operate against them; it will take time for the people to become accustomed to the substitution of Friday as the 'late night' for shopping.

Sympathy is shown to the emp'oyees, in carrying the reform to a successful issue, by large employers of labor making Friday the weekly pay day.

It is provided in the Act that after the expiration of one year a majority consisting of fifty more than one-half of the shopkeepers in the metropolitan area can petition the government to suspend the half-holiday and revert to the Wednesday half-holiday. In the latter connection, employees are endeavoring to strengthen their position by appealing to that portion of the people who hitherto made purchases on Saturday evening to fall in line with the new order of things by shopping on Friday.

RICHES OF THE RETAILER.

The statement was made not long ago in the United States Senate that the retail grocer was the man who was making all the money in the grocery trade. A few weeks ago the Canadian Grocer pointed how ridiculous such an assertion was in view of the competition existing in all places, and the claims then advanced have been substantiated by the New York Journal of Commerce, which asks the question "Who is getting rich in the grocery business?" and answers it by interviews.

"Certainly not the wholesaler," said a leading jobber when asked the question. "Go up and down the line of the jobbers of New York and show me a multi-millionaire among them. There may be a very few who push the six-figure line pretty hard, but they did not make it all by buying and selling grocery goods. There is probably no line of mercantile business where goods are handled on such small margins as in the grocery business. Other lines of jobbing whose business aggregates that of our wholesalers will be much more productive in furnishing you a list of millionaires."

"You can count the rich retail grocers of New York on the fingers of one hand," a well posted man said. "By 'rich' I mean those who are worth more than a couple of hundred thousand dollars.

"Of these, two concerns made their money in 'chain stores,' two by gaining a big business in liquors and cigars and the fifth by keeping eternally hammering at it, early morning to late night, for so many years that I have forgotten how long.

"Of course there are a good many who have made their little $10,000 or $30,000, but there are mighty few who do much more than make a bare living, and that only by mighty hard work.

"You can put it down that the retailer is not robbing the public."

The question was put squarely up to the representative of one of the large manufacturers of foodstuffs.

"Candidly, I must admit that the manufacturers of the country have made far greater fortunes in the foodstuff line than any other branch of the trade.

"There are many more millionaire manufacturers than jobbers or retailers.

"How do they do it? By being more aggressive; by advertising liberally when they have what they think is a meritorious product and by dealing with business propositions on generally broader lines than any of the other branches of the trade and by a better organization of their forces."

Here are three different opinions, with only one willing to admit people are really getting rich in his particular line.

Dr. Pyne's "Red Herring"

Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education for Ontario has returned to the attack on MacLean's trade journals which he began a few weeks ago during a platform address. His latest attack is in a letter to a Hamilton bookseller published in the Herald of that city. He says: "There is a criticism arising from certain electric corporations, and through their influence certain trade journals are endeavoring to stir up the retailers of the province by means of circulars. The men who are at the back of this have really no financial interest in the books, and are endeavoring to use the retailers of the province for their own interests."

Hon. Dr. Pyne's statements regarding the influence which induced MacLean's trade newspapers to take the stand they have in regard to this matter are most unfair, and what is more they are untrue. The so-called electric ring neither in word or even by suggestion, had anything to do with the articles in question. One who is head of the educational institutions of Ontario should make sure of his facts before he speaks. He should not make wide ventures in speech even if it is for the purpose of "saving his face" as the Chinaman would say. He should be an example for probity as well as for sound logic.

The fact of the matter is that the Education Department has made a grave blunder, and no one knows that better than Dr. Pyne himself. His attack on the MacLean trade papers is merely an attempt to burke the question and to draw a red herring across the track.

MacLean's trade papers have no complaint to make against the Ontario Government because it has brought about cheap readers. One of the planks of the party now in power when it was in opposition was cheaper school books and it was their bounden duty to carry out this policy and to get books as cheaply as possible commensurate with efficiency. We believe it has honestly tried to carry out its pre-election promises in this respect. It is obvious, therefore, that we have no quarrel with the government on this point. Where we break with them is in regard to method. The T. Eaton Company is not a publishing house in the accepted sense of the term. It has a printing plant employed wholly for printing its own catalogues and other literature. That in itself is perhaps not a serious objection.

Where the government made the mistake was in giving the contract to the Eaton Company before considering its import. We are not quarreling with the government because they made this mistake. Governments as well as individuals err. We only ask, in view of the fact that they did make a mistake, that they take steps whereby the evil wrought the retail trade in Ontario may at least be modified.

The government can do this in two ways. They can stipulate that the imprint of the Education Department shall be placed upon the books instead of that of the T. Eaton Company. Furthermore, besides doing this, they can distribute the books themselves.

We are not asking them to do something they cannot do, but are merely asking that they do that which under the provisions of the contract they have the power to do. As an act of justice to the retail interests of the country they should not hesitate to move in the matter.

Drawing a red herring across the track will not lead the retail trade to any other conclusion than that the onus of affording relief rests upon the Government. To the retail trade the red herring smells "fishy" and it will not divert retailers from their purpose to secure a remedy.

It is quite true, as Dr. Pyne says, that MacLean's trade journals are working in the interests of the retail trade. Why shouldn't we? No one knows better than Dr. Pyne the harm the department stores have wrought to the retail trade. In this reader contract the Education Department of Ontario, unknowingly, it is true, place in the hands of the T. Eaton Company a weapon more powerful and potent than any yet possessed by that or any other department store to further cripple and maim the retail trade.

For ten years and perhaps for longer, because the contract is renewable, every reader that leaves the department store will have on its title page what is practically an advertisement for the T. Eaton Company. As pupils requiring a reader can get it from the T. Eaton Company for the same price as the local retail dealer is charged they will only in rare cases be satisfied to pay the higher figure which must necessarily be demanded by the local dealer if he cares to handle the book at all, as the parents of the children are not likely to hesitate as to where they will buy the books. Twenty per cent. is twenty per cent., and they will be as anxious to save that discount as any business man would be on his purchases. Consequently parents will send to the department store for the readers and not only for them but for other school books besides.

But the trouble is they will not stop at school books. When sending for the latter they will naturally order general merchandise—food, clothing, house-furnishings.

Every reader bearing the imprint of the T. Eaton Co. will be an advance agent for the latter into every home which it enters.

It is these facts which are alarming the retailers of this country and cause them to join with the MacLean trade journals in asking the government to exercise the privileges it possesses under the terms of the contract.

The Hamilton Herald warmly praises the Government for providing cheap readers but says that the objection to the readers being used for advertising the T. Eaton Co. is a sound one. "No advertising matter," it declares, "ought to be allowed within the covers of these school books." That, in reality, is all that the MacLean trade newspapers are asking for.

Judging from the way in which Dr. Pyne is trying to draw a red herring across the track the government is not yet disposed to modify the terms of the contract. Until they are persuaded the retail trade should not let up for one moment in their agitation to have the objectionable features of the contract eliminated.

AGE AND HONOR DID NOT SAVE.

Bradstreet's and Dun's announce that one of the oldest and most honorable manufacturing firms in Canada has gone into liquidation.

Age and honor have not prevented commercial death. They were never alone known to do so. The trouble with this particular firm was that with age did not come the realization of the fact that to keep in business was to keep up-to-date. They had an idea that because they had been in business many years it was not necessary for them to give publicity to their products. They did not believe in advertising. They thought that those who needed their products would know where to find them.

A few years ago a retailer wrote to a business friend, asking him if a certain line of goods was made in Canada. This happened to be the very line the company that has now gone into liquidation made. The party receiving the letter drew the attention of the president of the concern to the enquiry, and the latter declared that the retailer who made the enquiry was a blank fool. "Everybody," he said, "that has brains knows perfectly well that we manufacture that line."

Age and honor, plus industry and enterprise, are valuable business-building qualities. Age and honor, plus lethargy and stupidity, superinduce dry rot.

CHATHAM.

June 30.—Strawberries are the chief feature of the grocery business just now. The price has held up remarkably well from the very start, good berries having commanded the price of 3 boxes for 25c right through. Occasionally, on account of deterioration, 4 boxes have been sold for 25c. On Saturday morning there seemed to be a glut, and this price was the rule for an hour or two. By noon the market was sold out, and during the afternoon the price went up to 3 for 25c, grocers having more demands than they could supply. The demand throughout has been exceptionally good. Growers consider that the season in this section has already started on its decline, and in which event no further break is likely, The first home grown cherries have already made their appearance, and the prospects for the raspberry crop are good.

Cecil G. Moore, after seven years' experience in the grocery business as clerk for Jas. N. Massey and his successors, C. H. Burnie & Co., is branching out on his own account, having purchased the business of H. G. Reed on King St., near William. He takes charge on Wednesday of this week. Mr. Moore had some experience as a grocery traveler a year or so back. Major Reed's intentions for the future are as yet unknown, though it is understood he intends to retire from active business.

C. H. Echlin, a retired farmer, has purchased the Teddy Bear grocery, owned by Miss Bennett, at the corner of Raleigh St. and Lorne Ave.

The question of Sunday selling of ice cream by restauranters and cigars by druggists has been brought before the police commissioners by the local Ministerial Association. The matter will probably be discussed at a special meeting of the commissioners. It is charged that both practices are widely prevalent.

J. F. Holden, western Ontario representative of the Magic Baking Powder Co., called on the trade last week.

Complaints have been made to the police that some bakers are selling a 16 oz. loaf with the 20 oz. label affixed.

Negotiations are in progress whereby, it is understood, the Blenheim branch of the Canada Flour Mills Company, Limited, is to be taken over by the manager, Jas. Rutherford.

Allan McRae, till recently proprietor of the general store at Oungah, has left for the Northwest, where he will locate.

W. C. Dainty, for thirteen years past principal of Wheatley school, has purchased a grocery business at Belmont, and will take possession about the middle of July.

A meeting of independent canners was held in this city last week, representatives being present from Tilbury, Stoney Point and Belle River. Nothing was divulged, however, as to the objects of the gathering.

Wallaceburg grocers have a good ball team this season, and are making other teams travel some.

Tomato can displays seem to be dangerous just at this season. A number of cans were displayed last week in Ruttan's grocery, Wallaceburg, when the heat of the sun caused one of the bottom cans to explode, shooting the rest into the air, a couple smashing a side window.

The Erie Fruit, Co., Leamington, held its annual meeting last week, the reports presented being encouraging. Directors were re-elected for the ensuing year, they being J. D. Fraser, J. Atkins, A. McLachlan, M. Malott, W. W. Hilborn, C. H. Kenny and John Richards.

The Leamington Canning Co. is just commencing operations. They have all the strawberries contracted for that they can handle, and will probably ship some away. Canners throughout this section are declining to purchase outside their contracts, unless they can secure strawberries at prices exceptionally low.

P. C. Little, grocer, of Blenheim, has just concluded a "popularity contest," in connection with his business. Some time ago Mr. Little offered a china set to the most popular lady in Blenheim —each purchase at his store counting for a certain number of votes. The scheme worked so well that Mr. Little has given four other candidates due bills for $3 each on purchases of china.

A proposition is on foot by the Ottawa Department of Agriculture to inaugurate in August a cold storage car service between Kingsville and other Essex fruit growing points and Montreal, the car leaving the fruit section every morning. Cold storage accommodation will be provided on ocean steamers, not only to London, as heretofore, but also to Glasgow. The proposition is being cordially received by fruit growers in the Leamington section.

BRACEBRIDGE.

June 30.—Nearly every grocer in town Saturday had heavy shipments of Canadian strawberries. The samples were good and readily sold, the ruling price being 3 boxes for 25c.

Butter on Saturday again dropped in price, this time to 16c and 17c per lb. As a rule, our merchants during the summer months import most of the butter sold in town, but this year, according to one merchant, we have more home-made butter on hand than ever before.

Melville Ross is being congratulated on the appearance of his clean, bright store and the pretty window display of canned meats he exhibited last Saturday.

Peter Hutchison, grocer, took in the excursion to Guelph and Toronto last Thursday and Friday.

R. A. Lawson, who handles considerable grain in connection with his grocery store, says that a great deal could be saved in time, and figures if the Government would frame a law making all grain, seed and farm produce 100 lbs. to the bag. Selling by the pound, instead of the bushel is a grand idea and no mistake. For instance, a man comes in who wants the price of timotny seed. The merchant quotes the price by the hundredweight. The farmer writes elsewhere for quotations. They come back quoted a much lower price by the bushel, and, of course, thinking the quotations are for the same weight, sends his money away, only to find, instead of receiving the 100 lbs., he only gets the bushel. Letters of explanation follow, but the moral is: It would save mistakes like the above and give the home merchant the order, instead of some outside town.

A few days ago the Sons of Scotland camp of this town held its seventh annual gathering. It was favored with fine weather and a large crowd. You see all the grocers in this town with the exception of two are Scotch and hot Scotch at that. The merchants along the main street took an interest in the day by decorating and arranging special windows. Some very pretty ones were arranged showing the visitors from larger towns and the city of Toronto that the merchants here keep abreast of the times. In most of the sports the grocers had some representative. The lacrosse team which defeated All Saints team of Toronto had playing on the defence line, Jerry Reid and Charles Reid of Armstrong & Gillespie. In the one mile race Hutchison Bros entered W. J. Reid, who got third money.

D. McLaughlin of Woodville, Ont., and Mr. Plank, of Lorneville Jct., general merchants, spent Wednesday, June 16th in Bracebridge, seeing the sights of this busy town.

BRANTFORD.

June 30.—John Laing, clerk at G. S. Winter Son & Co., is erecting a new house on St. George St.

The canvassers for the new Machine Telephone Co. have been hard at work for the past few days. They state that results are good, over two hundred subscribers having already been secured. A large number of merchants have become subscribers and several are waiting to see what the result of the canvas will be.

Saturday's market was large. Strawberries were very plentiful being sold at 4 boxes for 25c, and it was expected the bulk of the crop would be harvested this week. They were selling on Monday at 5c per box. Green vegetables were sold on the market at 2 bunches for 5c; eggs 25c per dozen, spring chickens $1.25 to $1.40 per pair. Potatoes were plentiful at 75c per bag.

D. D. Clarke, who has had a grocery at the corner of William and Palace Sts. for the past eight months, has sold his stock and the store is closed. He intends going back to farming again. This makes two north ward closings in the past few weeks.

GUELPH.

June 30.—There is a great demand for fruit just at present. Hugh Walker & Sons are having their hands full in supplying the wants of their many customers. Last week 3 carload of bananas arrived in the city and by Saturday night there were none left.

Saturday was a great day for strawberries and many crates changed hands. There were local berries in abundance, and of excellent quality. Many crates were brought in by Hamilton growers, which were soon snapped up.

The market on Saturday was a large one with plenty of buyers and good prices. The prices quoted ruled : butter, 19 to 20c; eggs, 22c; spring chicken, 40c to 50c, and strawberries $1.75 crate.

BELLEVILLE.

June 30.—Local grocers, both retail and wholesale, when interviewed, nearly all told the same story—that they had done the best June business in years.

The John Sloan & Co., wholesale grocers, who have occupied quarters near the Grand Trunk station since they opened their branch office here some few years ago, have just completed arrangements for the lease of new offices and store-rooms, these being formerly occupied by the Corby Distillery Company.

Mrs. Ellen C. Thomas, who has conducted a prosperous grocery business here during many years, near the market, passed away on Friday, after six months' illness, from rheumatism. She was a sister of Alderman Thomas, of this city. Her son, Edward, and daughter, Jessie, will conduct the business.

The local canning factories began work in full blast this week, putting down strawberries. For several days it has been intensely hot, and unless rain comes shortly it will affect the growth. A couple of grocers contracted for all they could use at 5c a box, and some at present are paying 10c to supply their customers.

The grocers generally regret the closing of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, Albert College, St. Agnes School, etc., but the summer tourists coming in will help considerably.

There has been a shortage of lemons here for the past week, but at the time of writing a big consignment had arrived. The extreme warm spell was the cause.

A new "grocer" arrived this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hanley, of Hanley Bros. Tom is coming in for congratulations.

W. Shortt, representing Lever Bros., of Sunlight Soap, was here recently.

Mr. Forsythe, traveler for McCormick's biscuits, of London, Ont., was here last week.

PERTH.

June 30.—In the death of A. R. McIntyre of Middleville, Lanark Co. has lost one of its most successful and most highly respected merchants. For thirty-five years he carried on his business at Middleville and through his fair dealing built up a solid business connection. Mr. McIntyre was connected largely with county and township affairs.

Bread was a scarce article in Perth last Saturday. Every loaf in the five bakeries was sold at about 6 p.m. and late comers had to make out some way without it.

Local dealers handle home grown strawberries on a 1c a box margin. This seems small but its being small brings about one good result. Growers will turn their berries over to dealers rather than peddle them for the extra cent. This gives the merchants practically the whole strawberry business. Many berries are being brought in from western Ontario. Last Saturday although over 1,500 baskets were imported not a berry was for sale after 5 p.m. The ruling price was 3 boxes for 25c.

Butter is down somewhat. It dropped 3c this week to "paying 20c."

Cheese money counts for much in this section. Last Friday 2,700 boxes were boarded at a ruling price of 11¾c. This means that this days sales will put, roughly, $20,000 into circulation. As Perth business depends largely on farm trade these weekly sales count for much in a business way.

LINDSAY.

June 30.—A rumor went the rounds in Lindsay this week to the effect that J. R. O'Neil, grocer, on King Street, East Ward, was about to dispose of his business, and was calculating starting up in business in Toronto. However, Mr. O'Neil states that there is nothing in the rumor. He has no intention of vacating the good old town.

J. R. O'Neil and J. Dwyer, of Campbell's grocery, were in Toronto this week for a couple of days.

Peaches, the first of the season, appeared for sale in town this week. They are somewhat of a luxury at present.

The 45th Regiment camped at Sturgeon Point this year, and Adams Bros. provided the groceries, meats and hay. Some provisions were also provided for the soldier boys by other grocery firms, including A. L. Campbell and Joseph Brown.

Some of the town grocers are experiencing, or rather did experience, an unusual demand for conundrum biscuits during the past few months. The wafers or biscuits with the printed conundrum on them were very much in use at euchre parties during the past winter months and they "caught on," and as a result are becoming a table necessity. Of course, there are some grocers in town who do not carry these at all, but those who do state that the demand for them has been large.

At this season of the year, would it not be well for the grocers, especially those situated in towns on or near the water, to do some extra hustling to attract the eye of and cater to the picnic parties. In Lindsay, for instance, it is an everyday scene to see one, two, three or more picnic parties with their baskets nicely "packed" with dainty edibles, leaving for some secluded picnic ground on the waterfront. Lindsay people are great for this sort of outings, and the yacht owners are lenient and courteous in meeting the wants of the citizens who get up these parties. It strikes your correspondent that the grocer, by a little extra thought, could capture some good trade by catering to this class of tourists—the picnickers. As a rule, in the hot weather the ladies are prone to enter the kitchen and stand over a hot stove cooking something for such an outing, and prefer to buy something nice and fresh from the store, and a neatly dressed window containing picnickers' supplies might net the grocer a considerable amount of profit. For instance, how about putting in the window some pickles, lump sugars, coffees, teas, bananas, oranges, lemons, breakfast foods, canned goods, olives, strawberries, fresh bread, cooked meats, butter, etc., having the same placarded with such signs as, "Here, for your picnic supplies," etc.?

Thos. Brady has had a simple, but yet attractive catsup and pickle window lately. The bottles are laid out neatly on the sawdust, and nothing else is in the window.

W. E. Baker, of the Baker grocery store, and Mrs. Baker, have just returned from a delightful trip through to the coast. Mr. Baker's health has greatly improved.

ST. CATHARINES.

June 30.—Strawberries are plentiful—too plentiful in fact to make good business. The growers are disappointed because of small prices realized, namely, from seventy-five cents wholesale to one dollar per crate retail. Deduct from these prices twenty cents for crate and twenty-four cents for picking and one can readily see that the net amount for berries is not very great. "Poor pay," the grower says, "for time and energy expended on the vines." The grocer on the other hand, while the buying price is low so that he can retail berries at five cents per box with a profit, finds that in place of large sales that the turnover is limited. This is explained by the fact that the growers in their endeavor to realize as much for their crop as possible, are peddling from house to house and offering berries to the grocers' customers at exactly the same price they expect the grocer to pay by the crate.

The canners seem to be the only persons profiting by the large crop and small prices. They take what berries they require at prices ranging from sixty-five to seventy-five cents per crate. They are not bound by contract to accept berries more than they require day by day and in this way they are eliminating the loss caused by deliveries being made heavier than they could can the same day.

The St. Catharines Cold Storage and Forwarding Co. have made an experimental shipment of a carload of strawberries for Winnipeg. The shipment was a co-operative one representing about one hundred growers. In case of failure the individual loss will be small while if successful the result will be of great importance to the fruit growers of this district.

CANADIAN CANNERS

LIMITED

Some canners have announced prices for canned vegetables and strawberries. The prices are lower than those of last year. Prices will not be guaranteed as in former years, the market being an open one for both buyer and seller. At the present writing the prospect is that the grocer will purchase his requirements at favorable prices.

Next month the majority of the retail stores will be closed Wednesday afternoons.

HAMILTON.

June 30.—The Retail Grocers' Association is making every effort to have the annual picnic the best ever. Transportation arrangements have been made with the Grand Trunk and the T. H. & B. railways to seat six thousand people, one hundred first-class coaches having been engaged. Many new games and amusements have been added for the delectation of their customers. Hamilton grocers are recognized as a "pretty sporty crowd" and when they undertake a thing, it generally shows up all right. R. M. Hill, the "high pressure" secretary is working overtime to make this year's picnic a landmark and when "Bay" Hill gets on the job it looks good.

THEIR ANNUAL PICNIC.

Comfort Soap Works' Employes Enjoy Hospitality of the Company.

Toronto, June 30.—On Saturday, June 26th, the employes of the Comfort Soap Works, held their annual picnic and games at High Park, and it proved to be in every respect most enjoyable and was pleasingly successful.

The fraternal feeling and harmony that exists in this large manufacturing establishments was delightfully manifest judging by the manner everyone, large and small, entered into the spirit of the outing and good naturedly contested with each other in the numerous games provided. This was gratifying to all present and especially to those closely associated with the Comfort Soap Works.

An excellent repast was served to the large gathering under the supervision of Miss Maude Lehnann, to whom much credit is due for this essential part of the outing. At the conclusion of the refreshments the liberal prizes donated by the company were distributed to the successful contestants, after which an exciting game of baseball was played. F. D. Cockburn captained the eastern portion of the Dominion and Wm. Colville the western. The latter "put it all over" the easterners, much to their dis-Comfort and most Comforting to the westerners. Mr. Cockburn did the catching for his stalwarts. While this noted gentleman may stand high in his profession as an "order catcher" he could not, in the phraseology of the excitable fans present, "catch a cold" or "stop a balloon."

The day's enjoyment was brought to a close with cheers for President Knight and Managers Millar and Massacar, and the singing of the National Anthem.

The President placed his automobile at the disposal of the "kiddies" and they were not slow to avail themselves of the rich treat.

ST. JOHN.

June 29.—The fact that Ontario and Manitoba flours are now identical in price in the wholesale market is causing much speculation among local dealers. There seems to be a feeling among them that the Manitoba millers will not at present raise their prices any higher. The reason given for this view is that these concerns are now getting, or will soon secure, the bulk of the business. On the other hand it is felt that the Ontario millers will have their revenge later on when there is more wheat on the market. For certain branches of the baking business Ontario fall wheat, it is said, makes a better flour than Manitoba. Many bakers when mixing their bread sponge, use equal qualities of Manitoba and Ontario flours and many housewives do the same. On the whole dealers say that Ontario flour will not likely be as low again as it has been.

Catches of harbor salmon have not been as heavy as the dealers would like and the price has kept pretty high thus far. The lowest quotation has been 16 cents a pound and it is doubtful if any lower figure will be quoted. The United States market has taken a large quantity and it is expected shipments will continue heavy until after the 4th of July and by that time the best of the fishing will be over.

William C. Cross, manager of Hall & Fairweather; William W. Harding, of the W. F. Holloway Company and Andrew Malcolm, are the delegates from the Maritime provinces to the annual meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' Exchange, in Victoria. Mr. Cross, before returning, will visit some of the principal points in the United States, along the Pacific Coast.

James Pender will likely be a delegate, along with W. F. Hatheway, from the St. John Board of Trade, to the meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, which opens in Sydney, Australia, on Sept. 14. Mr. Hatheway is a wholesale grocer and Mr. Pender is head of the Pender Nail Works, of this city.

Letters patent have been issued incorporating F. E. Law, commission merchant; Oliver B. Akerley, commission merchant; Frank E. Williams, grocer and provision dealer; Alex. W. MacRae and George Swanton, to purchase the export business carried on at present by the F. E. Williams Co., and to be known as the St. John Produce Co., with a capital of $49,000.

MONTREAL.

June 29.—A good sized cargo of foodstuffs was abandoned when the Quebec Steamship Company turned over the wrecked steamship Campana to the underwriters. The boat went on the rocks at St. Valier, below Quebec, a couple of weeks ago, and was finally given up by the owners last Thursday. Included in the cargo, valued at $15,000 were. 4,500 bags potatoes, 450 cases lobsters, 200 cases eggs, and several barrels and packages of fish. The boat plied between P.E.I. and New Brunswick points and Montreal, making weekly trips. The vessel will be replaced by the Trinidad.

One of those receiving Birthday Honors at the hands of the King this year was W. J. Gerald, Deputy Minister of Inland Revenue, Ottawa, who was made a Companion of the Imperial Service Order. The appointment will be learned of with pleasure by Mr. Gerald's many friends and acquaintances, for he has been an indefatigable worker, and has done much good work. He has been connected with the department for several years, at one time being secretary. His latest effort for the improvement of conditions for the trade and the public is the proposed establishment of food standards for Canada. He, and A. McGill, Chief Analyst, have been working on this matter for months.

Robt. Meighen, president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Montreal, has made an offer of the most patriotic kind to members of the firm's staff. To all of them who belong to the militia, or will join, the firm will grant two weeks' holidays, besides what time they may spend in military camp every year, and Mr. Meighen, will hold himself personally responsible for the payment of their salaries during the extra holidays they may thus obtain. Mr. Meighen's patriotism has been favorably commented upon in business and military circles.

E. D. Morton, of C. & E. Morton, London, Eng., visited Montreal this week, on his way home after completing a circuit of the world, and expressed himself as delighted with the improvement noticeable in Canada since his last visit, some three years ago, especially in Montreal, where he said he was surprised at the number of new buildings which had been erected. While in the city he made his headquarters with Watt, Scott and Goodacre, the firm's agents.

HALIFAX.

June 30.—Jobbers report the grocery business in a very satisfactory condition at the present time. In fact trade is said to be exceptionally good at this season of the year. Excellent orders are coming in from the country districts and the prospects are bright for a good season's business. The crops are in splendid condition and everything points to a good yield.

Collections show considerable improvement of late, and business men are quite enthusiastic over the outlook. Fruit is now coming in in large quantities and the most of it is of splendid quality. The holiday in Halifax this week made fruit in good demand and all the jobbers report large sales. The market is still well supplied with potatoes and the stock has wintered remarkably well. In fact, all produce is in fine condition and it is now in good demand. Prices are reasonable for the season of the year. In consequence of the plentiful supply the jobbers have made only slight advances over the winter prices.

Heavy imports of sugar continue to arrive here from the West Indies. The steamer Sobo that arrived here this week from the Southern Islands brought eighteen thousand bags of sugar. The most of this sugar is for Montreal.

The prices of fruit are unchanged. Cherries and plums and watermelons are now on the market. The melons are especially large and are quoted at fifty cents each. Cherries are selling at $2, and plums at $3 per crate. Cucumbers have dropped 25 cents per box since last report and are now selling at $5 per box. New American carrots and beets are now on the market, but the demand is light as the prices are high.

George J. McQuarrie, representative of the G. T. Barbour Company, Ltd., of St. John, N.B., was in Sydney this week. This firm manufactures grocers' specialties, and there is a possibility that they will open a branch in Sydney with Mr. McQuarrie in charge.

Doing business at the same old stand while a brick building is being erected over their heads is what is going at the corner of Brunswick and Jacob streets, where T. F. Courtney & Co., do a large grocery business. Some time ago Mr. Courtney found that the present building was inedequate for his increasing trade and he decided to erect a modern brick structure in place of the wood and stone building now occupied. When the fine weather set in he started the work going and now it is proceeding rapidly. The building is being erected by day work. Mr. Courtney engaged a foreman who is superintending the work for him and the new structure is rising rapidly. There has been no stoppage of the grocery business since the new building was started. Of course they are a little cramped for room, but otherwise everything is running quite smoothly. The new building will be ready for occupancy in the course of a few months, and it will be quite an addition to the north end of the city.

The grocery store of Ernest C. Chappell, of Charlottetown, has been painted and renovated throughout and now presents a very attractive appearance. It is one of the brightest and cleanest grocery stores in that city. The addition of a large light outside has made quite an improvement in the premises.

NEWCASTLE, N.B.

June 30.—All roads will lead to Sackville, on July 14th. Arrangements have been perfected whereby a "Merchants' Day" will be held in that town then. Low rates have been secured on the N.B. and P.E.I. Railway, and the merchants will make especially attractive offers to eash buyers and no effort will be spared to make July 14th the biggest and best Merchants' Day ever held there.

VANCOUVER.

June 29.—The high price feature of the potato market will soon pass away with new Californias being quoted at three cents a pound wholesale, or $60 a ton. This was the price of old potatoes a short time ago, and now that new ones of respectable size have started to come in there should be a continued drop in prices.

With an influx of local strawberries, the price has come down to about 10c a box wholesale, or $2.25 a crate. They retail at two for a quarter and are considered pretty cheap, seeing that they have not been below two for 35c so far this season, with a not unusual quotation at 20c and even 25c. A nice shower of rain this week will do much toward improving the quality.

Local eggs have taken an upward tendency, being quoted wholesale at 30c and 31c. Easterns are 28c and 29c, while Manitoba candled are 25c.

Navel oranges are about cleared off the market, and will be followed by Valencias, which are $2 a crate. Mediterranean sweets have been available for a little time past.

The London Grocery Company, of this city, has bought out the People's Grocery, corner Fifth Avenue and Granville Street. Mr. Petch, late of the White-Thompson Company's store, and Mr. Clarke, late of the London Grocery, will be in charge.

Leon Melekov, of Vancouver, is reorganizing the firm of M. R. Smith & Company, biscuit and confectionery manufacturers of Victoria. The capital is being increased from $125,000 to $300,000.

The Lower Mainland Milk and Cream Shippers' Union, at a meeting held in New Westminster, decided to raise the price of milk delivered in Vancouver from 17½c per gallon to 20c a gallon, and the price of cream to $1.10 per gallon. The price of milk and cream at other points will be in proportion. The reason given for the increase is the difficulty in keeping milk good until delivered during the hot weather. Many of the small grocers in the residential districts handle milk. Members of the Union stated that the middlemen, those who deliver, sell at 40c a gallon in some cases, making as much as 100 per cent. An effort is to be made in the fall to form a farmers' dairy to deliver direct to the consumer.

In accordance with the custom to alternate the presidency of the B. C. Wholesale Grocers' Exchange between the two chief cities, the president for this year is Simon Leiser, of Victoria, head of one of the pioneer wholesale grocery houses in the province and president of the Victoria Board of Trade. The election took place at the annual meeting held in the Board of Trade rooms, Victoria, the other officers being: Vice-president, H. T. Lockyer, Vancouver; hon. treasurer, P. Wollaston, jr., Victoria, re-elected; secretary, F. Elworthy, Victoria, re-elected; assistant secretary, J. N. Ellis, barrister, Vancouver; directors, Robert Kelly, G. Macdonald and C. H. Gross, Vancouver, and L. A. Genge, James Thompson and H. G. Wilson, Victoria.

Okanagan fruit dealers have the same complaint to make regarding the tariff as the lumbermen of British Columbia, viz., the United States grower is enabled to dump surplus product into the Canadian market at a sacrifice, demoralizing the market on this side of the line while preserving that on the "American" side. Cheap negro labor in the nearer South gives an advantage to the berry grower in the United States, and this has been distinctly felt in the prairie country. S. J. Fee, manager of the Vernon Fruit Company of Saskatchewan, shows how the market is being glutted, and the unfairness it works to the grower in British Columbia particularly. A post card, surrounded by a border of the word "strawberries" promonently displayed, has been circulated broadcast, he says, through Saskatchewan, the card reading:

Regina, Canada, June 10th, 1909.

We have a straight carload of Missouri berries due on Friday. Don't miss this opportunity to secure your preserving requirements. Wire your orders. —— ——— Limited.

Across the face, typewritten, is the price, $3.65. In bringing this to notice, Mr. Fee points out the attempt that is being made to get people to preserve before the B. C. berries were on the market, one of the objects being to force the growers in British Columbia to sell to jobbers at the latter's own prices. The jobbing houses in the cities on the prairie are nearly all controlled by "Americans," and last year, Mr. Fee declares, their orders to him were "sell through us on our own terms or we will shut you out of these markets." The reply was that it was a strange thing a Canadian could not sell Canadian goods in a Canadian market without having to pay tribute to a foreign company. There was quite a fight, but the Canadian got the best of it. Still the "Americans" did what they threatened, says Mr. Fee, namely, flooded the country with fruit from the United States, keeping the markets glutted, causing waste, loss and low prices. The prices made on the Missouri berries, $3.65, is equal to $2.25 at Vernon. On the imported fruit, there is 48c per crate duty, but negro labor is low in Missouri and berries can be profitably grown there at $1.50 per crate. But this is not the principal disadvantage, Mr. Fee points out. For instance there are 15 carloads of berries going into Minneapolis; the market there will take ten at good prices, while fifteen means a glut with low prices for the whole lot. As it is now, Minneapolis jobbers will dump the odd five into Canada, taking chances on a loss, but making good on the other ten. With "Americans" controlling many of the jobbing houses west of Winnipeg, they have distributing sources for their goods. Mr. Fee points out that while these conditions are apparent, it is difficult to get material evidence, but he outlines the facts so that Canadians may see the unfairness of American methods and rally to the support of the Canadian grower.

A. Macdonald, head of the wholesale grocery firm which has branches in Winnipeg, Nelson and Vancouver, has purchased two lots in Nelson and will erect a three-storey brick structure for use as offices and warehouses. The business done by Mr. Macdonald's house shows a very considerable increase over that of former years.

Reports are that the shipment of lobsters recently brought out from Eastern Canada are doing well. Rev. G. W. Taylor, who is in charge of the Dominion biological station at Nanaimo, B.C., is having hatched some spawn taken from the lobsters brought out. The eggs are developing and it is expected they will come to perfection. He has also a few of the adult lobsters in cages where they may be closely observed.

in the city will show a decline in business for the past ten days as compared to any week since May 15. When the writer called upon a grocer a few days ago he was examining the city map in an endeavor to locate a site in some other portion of the city where business might perchance be more congenial. He said, "people do not wish to deal with me, they prefer to go down town." At that moment the Horse Show was occupying the minds of more people in the city than any other single thing. Crowds were on the street eagerly gazing into every window they passed, in order that they might discover something new which would tend to intensify the gay spirit which was everywhere in the air. These things the grocer calmly ignored. Old goods filled his window in a jumbled way. Dust had accumulated on several articles. There were some oranges there, partly decayed. "Things were not moving as they ought," he said. He did not know why.

The Canadian Northern Railway is evidently preparing for a big rush of freight this fall as hundreds of new

The fact that irrigation is not required in that particular settlement is advanced as a strong argument in favor of the locality.

The directors of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association met in conference with Premier R. P. Roblin, on June 23, and discussed government ownership of elevators with him for several hours. As a result of the meeting the secretary of the association has been instructed to have petitions for the provincial ownership of elevators and the dominion ownership of terminal elevators circulated throughout the province in the districts heretofore overlooked, with a view to have them presented to the different governments next December. At a recent meeting of the executive association a letter was read from E. W. Hopkins, president of the interprovincial council, instructing R. McKenzie to engage counsel to appear on behalf of the interprovincial

WINNIPEG.

June 29.—A peculiar effect of the great event of the week—the horse show—was to enliven to a marked degree the window display work of the city. The response to the prize contest given out by secretary C. W. Graham was admirably taken up by the merchants in almost every retail line. It is disappointing however to note that the grocers in the city were more lax in this regard than other merchants. Only one grocer in the city entered this contest, and although credit must be given for this attempt, yet it is evident that neither time nor artistic taste were lavished on the display. It cannot be argued that lack of time prevented grocers from entering the competition, since the books of almost every grocer box cars are arriving here every week. They are of the 60,000 pound class and measure 8 feet high by 36 feet in length, and are up-to-date in every particular.

Though the spring was cold and late vegetation has been very vigorous since the warm weather set in. Late sown cereals and vegetables are almost as far advanced as they would have been if the growing season had been earlier. In the back yard garden of E. G. Mahara of this city, potatoes which were planted on May 14 are 18 to 20 inches high, and blossoming, and others planted 28 days are over a foot high.

Winnipegers who have fruit farms and other property interests in southern British Columbia, have been alarmed by reports of serious damage caused by the late and unusually severe spring frosts, which have occurred in the Okanagan and other districts. association of grain growers, before the Board of Railway Commissioners in Ottawa, in support of their claim for reduction of the storage charges at the terminal elevators. Mr. McKenzie will also appear in support of a reduction in the same storage charges. A motion was passed in the matter of the claim of Mr. Thompson against a local elevator company for the loss in a car of oats, referred to the executive by the Shoal Lake branch of the Grain Growers' Association. The association will take up the matter if a satisfactory arrangement is not arrived at within a reasonable time.

SASKATOON.

June 29.—A deputation of farmers from Floral waited on the city council this week and urged that a market be established in the city for the disposal of farm produce. The matter is now under consideration.

W. T. Stevens has taken charge of the grocery department in the MacBeth store.

J. F. Cairns has just received a carload of canned goods from Ontario. A display of the goods has been made in the east window by Harold Parr. In the west window there is on extensive display of biscuits.

REGINA.

June 29.—The large displays of California decidious fruits, such as apricots, plums and peaches, and Florida watermelons attracted a great many shippers this week and a good business was done in these lines and in fact all fruits have been moving well lately. There has been a noticeable shortage of strawberries during the week. The B. C. berries are considerably later than last year and we understand the prospects are for a lighter crop.

One firm issued a new price list during the week showing a general increase in the prices on all lines of cured meats, which are now at quite high figures. All the jobbers report that butter is beginning to come in quite freely, but that eggs are dropping off. For number one dairy jobbers are allowing from fourteen to fifteen cents here and about two cents a pound less, according to quality, for number two. Butter is an article which the country merchants cannot look after too closely both in regard to seeing that the different grades are packed separately in different boxes and also that it is stored in a good place. During the warm weather very little affects the quality of it and reduces the prices which they might otherwise realipze for it.

On account of the new pack strawberries being close at hand the local jobbers this week rehuced the price of these to $3.85 per case.

R. J. Campbell, senior member of the firm of Campbell Bros. & Wilson, Winnipeg, was in the city during the week looking over their property here with a view to starting the erection of their new warehouse.

CALGARY.

June 29.—Calgary bank clearings again show a large increase over the corresponding week of last year, the total being, for the first time in the history of the city, over the two million mark, an increase of some 89 per cent.

Timely showers of rain have fallen in nearly all districts. This, with warm weather, is inducing very rapid growth and grain and vegetable crops are making splendid progress throughout the whole West. Pastures are fine. The output of butter this season will be the largest in the history of Alberta, it being estimated that the government creameries alone will make not less than two and one half million pounds. This butter is practically all shipped to British Columbia and Yukon points. The resulting benefits are considerable to our dairymen, farmers, and merchants, as the creameries distribute a large amount of money from month to month. Railway construction and survey work are active in many parts of the province. The demand for produce is heavy, the market being right at the producers' door in many instances, and good prices are being paid for butter, eggs, hay, oats, etc.

Fresh fruits are in good supply. California apricots are in but the price is high, 15c per lb. B.C. strawberries were more plentiful this week. On Monday of last week the retail price dropped to 2 boxes for 25c. It is said that the crop is not large this year, and that prices will hold moderately firm for good stock. The grocers all handle large quantities of B.C. fruits, some of them having direct connections with the grower and shipper.

There is also considerable activity in canned goods of the present season's pack. Many of the large retailers are taking advantage of the low prices being quoted, and are anticipating their requirements well in advance. The demand will be heavy this season, as many retailers have bought sparingly during during the past two years. The demand for canned salmon is good. Stocks, generally, are not heavy, the jobbers having bought sparingly last year in anticipation of lower prices for this season's pack. This, however, will not be available for nearly four months, so that, should opening prices be low, stocks will be practically cleaned up before the new goods are on the market.

Fresh pineapples have been selling at $2 per dozen, a very favorable price in this district, and many housekeepers are taking advantage of it for preserving purposes. Imported plums and peaches are also newly arrived on the market.

The volume of business, both wholesale and retail, is heavy, and prospects excellent for a continuation of like conditions.

Winnipeg, June 30, 1909.

The retail trade of the city naturally turned to dry goods and millinery during the past few days. The horse show was everything. This seemed to re-act upon the grocery business, since the trade fell off considerably at the time. A driver, who was not being rushed, as usual, recently remarked, in a crude way, that "people do not eat when excited." The condition of things in Winnipeg for several days would lead an observant person to think that there was considerable truth in the driver's statement.

Market prices have not declined, however, and some advances are recorded. Strawberries have been fluctuating greatly for several weeks. The first arrivals of the Hood river berry are all cleaned off and new shipments are expected this week. The B. C. berries are on the market in limited quantities, and command a price from $4 to $6 per crate. It is expected that the next Hood river variety will not reduce the price, and that the season will run on and close with high price berries. Pineapples are low, as usual, and housewives are preserving large quantities. Tubs have made a sharp decline, which may be only temporary.

EGGS—The egg market is quite featureless. Last week's prices are firmer with some jobbers. We quote the prevailing figure at 20c per dozen.

BUTTER—The creamery market is steady, 21c being the ruling price. Some has sold for 22c per pound. The dairy is somewhat weaker. 16c buying the No. 1, and 14c the No. 2 variety.

THE TRAVELING-MAN.

I remember the days when a bare-footed boy,
In the village which witnessed my birth,
I was taught to believe that a traveling-man
Represented the scum of the earth.

Whenever a stranger appeared on the street,
Arrayed in a checker-board vest;
With a coffin-nail stuck in the front of his face,
And a "sparkler" astride of his chest;

With a razor-edge crease in the leg of his pants,
And his shoes of a dazzling tan;
And I'd say, "What on earth is the object I see?"
They would say, "It's a traveling-man."

When a dutiful hubby came home just at dawn,
And was asked to account to his spouse
For the fact that his pins wouldn't hold him erect,
In charge of his beautiful "souce,"
He'd look humble and meek, like a dog that's been licked,
And say, "Now so HELP me, Susanne,
I started for home at ten minutes of ten,
But—fell in with a traveling-man."

When you saw a small bunch of the town's local sports,
In a corner obscure and alone,
Pursuing a picture of art in the nude,
With an "ad" on the other side shown—

And they'd say to the owner, "It's a peach, ain't it Bill?
Where'd you get it? Let's look; let us see!"
He'd say, as he stuck it away out of sight,
"Oh, a traveling-man gave it to me."

When the Ladies' Aid met to darn socks for the poor,
And peddle some scandal around;
Some old lady would say in a horrifed tone,
"I've some news that will simply astound.

"Old Deacon Jones' girl has gone clear to the bad,
(That HUSSEY they call Mary Ann);
She was seen on the street AFTER DARK Tuesday night,
ALL ALONE, with a traveling-man."

And so I believed from the things that I heard,
And the stories I heard people tell,
That a traveling-man embodied 'most all
Of the wickedness this side of h—l.

But I find that the law still permits them to live,
In fact they quite freely abound;
And they don't even quarantine virtue at all,
When a traveling-man happens around.

We have found that the species is human, in fact,
Whose presence enlivens and cheers;
Who believes that a boost is worth more than a knock,
That a laugh has more value than tears.

We find him a friend when a friend is in need.
Who will never a kindness forget;
Whose heart is developed far more than his "mit,"
In short, a hail fellow well met.

Then here's to his future, and may it e'er be
As smooth as the unruffled brook;
Our hats off to him, and oft may he come.
With his grip and his mileage book.

The Advantages of Storeroom Conveniences

The Equipment of a Brantford Store Makes Light Work and Saves Money—Sugar Hopper One of the Features — System Needed as Well as in the Store.

Whether or not, a retail grocer will admit it, the storage departments in his store plays an important part in his business. In the storeroom the unpacking is done, and through it passes practically all the goods on sale. Its equipment, therefore, has considerable to do with the amount of manual labor expended and with the systematic manner in which goods are arranged for the sake of convenience and safety.

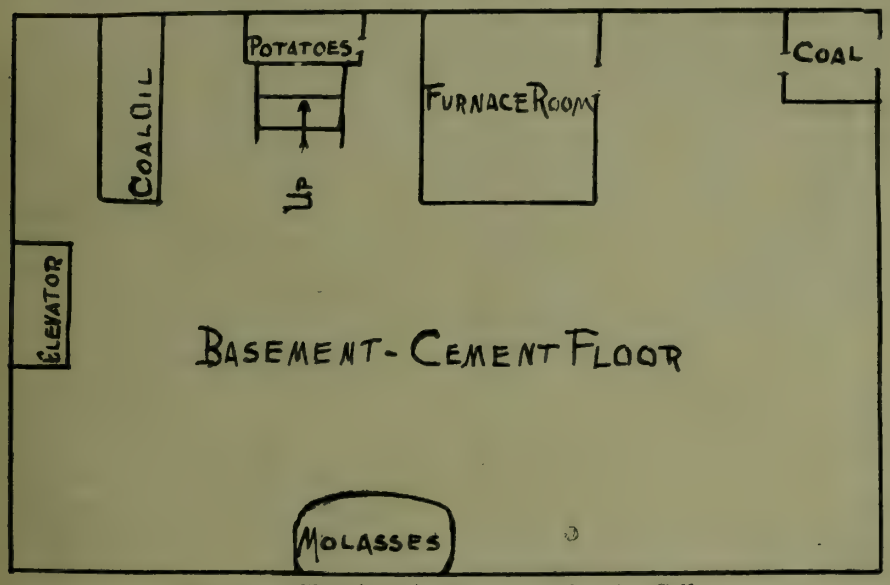

Diagram Showing Arrangement in the Cellar.

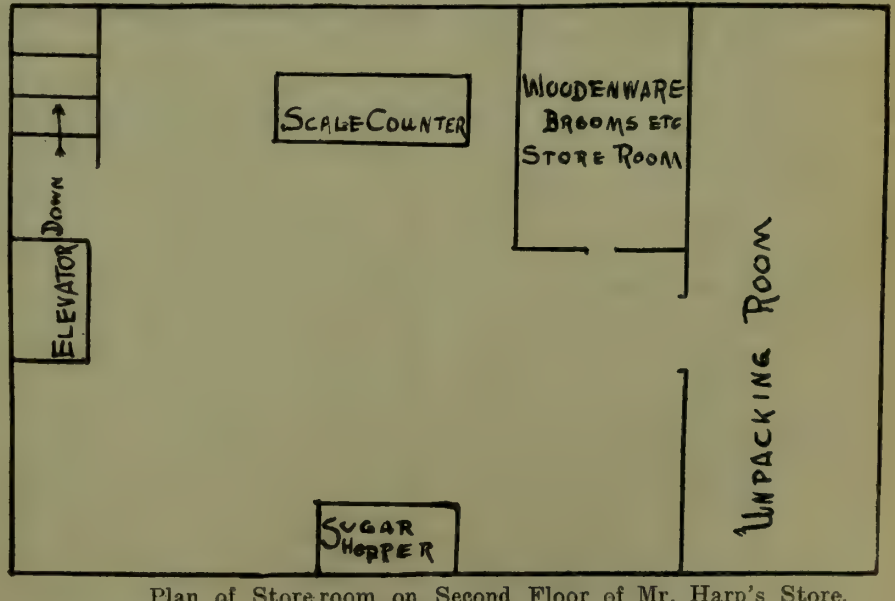
The equipment from an economical standpoint is important. A storeroom in which there is no place for anything but simply one place for everything is not conducive to economy. Goods are sidetracked until they become stale and unfit for sale. Thus profits are cut down.



A store that stands high in storeroom equipment from the standpoint of convenience and economy is that of F. C. Harp, Brantford, Ont., known as the "Cash Bargain Grocery." Both the cellar and second floor are used so that ample room is provided.

An elevator at the rear situated just inside the ground floor door handles all the goods. As the illustrations indicate, the cellar is used for coal oil, molasses, potatoes, etc. The oil tank is an immense one, connected with a pump above. The potato bin is located under the stairway, and the furnace-room, with coal-bin opposite, are conveniently situated, the latter being so arranged that the coal may be shovelled through a basement window. The floor is of cement.

Goods such as flour, sugar, salt, brooms, woodenware, etc., are all sent to the storehouse above by elevator. The illustration shows a scale counter for weighing flour, cereals, etc., in order to eliminate, as far as possible, the accumulation of dust in the store where the goods are sold. Any work that has to be done in connection with weighing, etc., can be accomplished with no trouble upstairs, as it is quieter.

Sugar Hopper Saves Labor.

One of the principal conveniences in the upper storeroom of the Harp store is the sugar hopper. The sugar is dumped into a large box, from which leads a galvanized pipe to a receptacle in the store. Any person selling the sugar soon has little difficulty in getting the correct weight and knows just when to close off the chute.

Plan of Storeroom on Second Floor of Mr. Harp's Store.

A special room is partitioned off for the brooms, brushes and woodenware, and there is still another where the unpacking of lamp chimneys, canned goods, etc., is done.

In fact, the whole store is laid out with a view to economizing and making things as convenient as possible. Thus time, labor and money is saved.

INTO NEW PREMISES.

Minto Bros. Open Handsome Offices and Well-Equipped Tea Building.

The Minto Bros.' new premises at 45 Front St. East, Toronto, have been completed and are now occupied by the staff who look after the business. The building is owned by F. J. White, the sole proprietor of Minto Bros. He has now a building with offices among the brightest and as up-to-date as one could wish. The office is divided into sections including sample, reception and cloak rooms as well as private and business apartments. The interior is finished in quarter cut oak including desks, chairs and partitions, the latter being panelled with bevelled plate glass. A hot water heating system has been installed, the boiler and other machinery throughout being of the latest type to facilitate cleanliness and rapidity in work. The plumbing and electric light equipment is in accord with the rest of the fixtures. The ceiling is of the metallic variety, while a feature of the office is the sanitary floor which has been laid. Private fire appliances are located on each of the five storeys. The building is 186 feet long by 28 in width, with packing, blending, labelling, storage and shipping departments.

Mr. White was the founder of the fruit business of White & Co., Toronto. Four years ago he took over the tea business of Minto Bros., formerly located at 55 Front St. East. As a business man he has succeeded in anything he has undertaken. He has also an establishment in Buffalo managed by F. G. Lillie, and this as well comes under his direct supervision.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Sugar—Demand Increasing.
Petits Pois—Shortage.
Tea—Japans Scarce.
Prunes—Crops damaged.

Montreal, June 30, 1909.

This week also, canned goods have proved the most interesting market, the trade being alive to the existing situation. Officeial prices have not yet been announced, but are expected any day. Meantime, more or less buying is noticeable—1908 pack—for immediate delivery. Sugar is reported by several jobbers as being in especially strong demand, owing to the proximity of the preserving season, and the consequent desire of the trade to have a good stock on hand. Beans are a little easier in feeling this week, if anything, but this is thought to be but temporary. Peas are scarce and steady. Advices from France state that there will be a disastrous shortage in petits pois. Molasses is steady with a strong tendency. Reports from California say the market continues strong. Persian dates will likely be on this market a month earlier this year. Evaporated apples are steady. Pork has advanced $1 a barrel. Warm weather has stimulated demand for green fruits.

SUGAR—A considerable quantity of sugar is being sold to the retail trade, grocers being anxious to secure stock for the preserving season, which is now about on. The market has been firm, but no change in prices has taken place so far.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES — Corn syrups are moving satisfactorily. Some rumors were afloat to the effect that lower prices would rule for molasses in August, but advices from most reliable sources in the Barbadoes would indicate higher prices if anything. Packers were surprised to find their anticipated large supply of choice disappear as if by magic, and they were forced to cancel many orders for Quebec, Maritime, Newfoundland and "American" points. So it is unlikely that there will be any decline.

DRIED FRUITS—With the exception of a few Valencia raisins, and some Bosnia prunes, jobbers are fairly well cleaned up, and are likely to enter upon the new season with almost bare boards. Watt, Scott & Goodacre, Montreal, in their circular this week say in part: "Currants: As indicated from time to time, Patras has been steadily advancing for the balance of 1909 crop. It is now anticipated that the crop will be 15 p.c. below that of 1908. Valencia raisins: The flowering season has been happily passed, and with continued fine weather, the yield should exceed that of last year. It is, however, as yet impossible to reasonably predict how the prices will rule at the opening of the season, and, as to this, Denia is silent. California fruits: Apricots—the situation continues firm. Prunes—It is now practically established that the crops of Bosnia and Servia have been seriously damaged. Germany in particular, will have to look to California for her supplies. The position in France is not yet definitely determined, but if French prunes also turn out to be in small supply, the combined results will greatly enhance the California market. Raisins: The position is gaining strength." A prominent broker remarked this week that the Middle West was fast becoming a serious factor to be considered by the East, in regard to California fruits. At present firms in Chicago and other places near there are taking new fruits freely, for future shipment. On the whole the California market is firm and steady. New quotations on dates, Hallowees and Sairs, are out and are reasonable. It is expected that first shipments will reach Montreal this year before navigation closes on the St. Lawrence.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL.—Considerable interest continues to be displayed in canned goods, owing to the new prices which are in the air. Official prices are not yet out, but will be in a few days. More or less business is being done, but mostly in 1908 stock, which is being sold for immediate delivery. More definite information will be available for next week's issue. A disastrous shortage in petits pois, in France, will likely result in higher figures for this line.

TORONTO.—Canning factories have begun preserving of strawberries and a large number were put away this week. If rain does not fall frequently the season will be somewhat short and the chances are that prices may become firmer.

Packers have given out figures on vegetables to the jobbers who may dispose to retailers at what prices they wish. Prices on tomatoes, corn and peas are named and these are lower than last year. These prices are based on present crop prospects which are very bright. But 'there is many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip,' and drought, too much moisture or early autumn frosts may make some differences. Tomatoes often suffer from the latter and all three from the other adversities. However, the prices are given and contracts are being closed for future delivery.

A commission merchant in touch with the salmon industry states that preparations are being made for the packing of 1,000,000 cases on the Pacific coast and he anticipates prices for Sockeye will be in the neighborhood of 25 per cent. lower. This does not apply to the lower grades of fish he says.

ONTARIO MARKETS

POINTERS—

Sugar—Splendid demand.
Prunes—Good sellers.
Evaporated Apples—Stocks low.
Beans—High prices maintained.

Toronto, June 30, 1909.

Wholesalers this week are pleased with the business they are doing. Money seems to be loosening up considerably in view of the good crops in sight and although retailers are not all buying in large quantities they are buying small quantities often.

One of the features of the market is the demand for sugar this week. The reason is quite apparent. The strawberry season is in full blast and sugar is a necessary attribute in preserving.

Beans are still in demand although firm in price and are not selling in large quantities. Evaporated apples are disappearing and it is probable few will be left when this year's crop is ready.

Prunes has been a good seller right up to the present, contrary to expectations, and the general tone of the whole grocery market is good.

SUGAR.—The ripening and the marketing of the immense crop of strawberries has made a wonderful change in the sales of sugar. For some reason retailers were slow in placing their orders which caused some disappointment to the wholesalers. This, however, is altogether changed and the sales this week are quite up to their highest expectations. While the market is very active and firm no change in price has taken place this week.

TEA—Tea is an article, very fortunately for the dealers, which is always in season and always in demand, without the continuous fluctuations in prices. The value is based very largely on the skill in blending, as well as in selecting the best pickings. A noticeable feature in the tea trade is the improved Java tea cultivated from the original Assam seed. The first sale of India tea took place in Calcutta and prices ruled slightly lower than last year. There is nothing in sight, however, that is expected to cause much change in the value of tea.

COFFEE.—There is nothing new to report in coffee. The demand is steady, and satisfactory, with nothing in sight to cause excitement on the Canadian market. Arnold & Dorr, New York, in their latest circular report that a better demand is expected during July.

DRIED FRUITS.—Wholesale dealers are agreeably surprised at the unexpected demand for prunes, which is remarkable at this time of the year with strawberries in abundance at 4 and 5 cents a box. The stock of dried fruits is pretty well sold out.

THE DUTY ON TEA.

American Grocer

Renewed efforts on the part of a few interests that would materially benefit thereby are being made to have a duty put on tea. Very grave danger of the success of these efforts exists unless vigorous opposition is voiced in the press, the only forum the consumer has.

First. The proposition to tax tea 10c per pound in order to protect the tea industry of South Carolina is carrying the protective idea to an extreme, almost ridiculous point. South Carolina after twenty-five years of work produces on the average little more than 10,000 pounds yearly, and that with Government assistance. The consumption of tea in the United States is about 90,000,000 pounds yearly. Shall 85,000,000 people be taxed for their tea for the benefit of a few holders and against the protests to the Senate and House, of consumers and wholesale, jobbing and retail associations from all over the United States, the latter numbering 350,000 retail merchants, representing the tea consuming public of the United States.

Second. The poorer clasess now pay 25c to 35c per pound for their tea (not 60c to 65c as falsely stated), which can be verified by inquiry at any retail grocery store.

Third. A tax of 10c per pound would simple mean that the price to the consumer would be increased that much.

Fourth. There is no trust, hence competition is keen and the retailer for his own protection cannot ask excessive profits.

Produce and Provision Situation of the World

Hogs and Hog Products Still Firm in Prices—Good Demand for Cured Meats—Large Butter Yield During June—Advance in Eggs.

There is little change from the high pressure of last week. The markets in all lines are well maintained. Hogs are eagerly sought and picked up at almost any price that will land them. The demand for cured meats is such that packers must have the hogs to supply their customers. Farmers are making great efforts to increase their output of hogs, which, with the "'new ideas'' that will be gathered by the commission now in the old land, will likely, in the future, bring the prices again within more reasonable bounds. The demand for all cured meats is very keen. One packer said that he never saw anything like it in his life.

On account of good pasture the June yield of butter was large, but dealers are not getting any more than they require for immediate use, and to put a supply into cold storage.

The best laying season is over, and the receipts of eggs are falling off. All are required for present use, with an advance of 1c a dozen. The necessity of looking more carefully after the quality of eggs when they are brought in by the farmers is becoming a matter that requires attention. Farmers, if they are not careful in gathering their eggs, should candle them before they sell them, and if they bring out bad eggs it might be a good idea to deal with them under the "Adulteration Act." The excuse that they did not know should not be accepted, for they can know, and should know.

The cheese market is quiet, and Canadian prices run from 11½c to 12c at the factories.

MONTREAL.

RETAILER TO BE CONSIDERED.

Manufacturer Must Co-operate With Him to Produce Best Results.

The Retailers' Journal.

The time to handle the retail grocer as an unsophisticated infant has gone by. The sooner and quicker the manufacturer assimilates this fact, the sooner and quicker will he find active co-operation on the part of the grocer and the less will he have to spend on his advertising direct to the consumer.

The retail grocer is growing more and more intelligent, day by day, and hour by hour. He no longer simply realizes that he is handling certain profitless goods, but he has arrived at the stage where he understands the whys and wherefores. With this arrival of positive knowledge has come a feeling of unrest, a desire and intent to better his condition, and the manufacturer, who in the past and at the present has considered the retailers but too lightly, or possibly not at all, need not be surprised to suddenly discover a concerted action on their part to as lightly consider his product.

Arrogance does not become the merchant. It does not look well upon the countenance of the manufacturer. Let it not be forgotten that there is no proprietary food product made which is indispensable and the retail grocer who has been so often cavalierly dealt with is going to try to make the consumer see it in that light.

The manufacturer should give diligent heed to the plaint of the retail grocer and if this advertising direct to the consumer without reference to the grocer and the cutting of prices be harmful to the retailer's business he should seek to remedy these conditions. It must not be forgotten and it might as well be learned sooner or later that the retailer is the real factor in popularizing goods, and his demands must be considered.

The Grocer's Encyclopedia From Week to Week

Processes Through Which Cane Sugar Passes—Early History of the Plant—Sources of the Supply—How Refining is Done —Amount Brought Into Canada.

CANE SUGAR.—Of all the goods handled by grocers probably the most called for is sugar. At the present time the Canadian grocery trade derives its supply from two sources—that made from cane sugar, which comes from chiefly the West Indies, and that made from beets. It is with the former sugar this article treats.

Formerly chemists called everything a "sugar," which had a sweet taste, but the term in its scientific sense soon came to be restricted to the sweet principles in vegetable and animal juices. Until 1619, however, cane sugar was the only known pure sugar substance.

The word "sugar" is derived through the Arabic from the Persian "shakar," but the original habitat of the sugar-cane is not known. It seems to have been first cultivated in the country extending from Cochin China to Bengal, and it was at a comparatively late date that sugar reached the West from India. In the age of discovery the Spaniards became the disseminators of sugar cultivation, and in 1494, two years after the discovery of America, they planted it on San Domingo. Within 25 years the sugar trade on the island was so enormous that the dues imposed on the imports into Spain enabled Charles V. to build his palaces at Madrid and Toledo. Before the middle of the 16th century the growing of sugar cane spread over the occupied portions of the West Indies and South America, and it has continued to be one of the principal crops of tropical America ever since.

The art of boiling sugar was known in India in the first half of the 7th century, and a little later in China, but sugar-refining was not then known, for the Chinese only learned the use of ashes for this purpose in the Mongol period, from some Arab travelers who came from Egypt. Even down to the Middle Ages the best sugar came from Egypt. At that time Venice was the sugar mart of Europe, and it was a Venetian citizen who towards the end of the 15th century received a reward of 100,000 crowns for his invention of making loaf sugar.

Expensive At One Time.

In 1319, there is an earlier reference to sugar entering England, when 100,000 pounds was shipped to London in exchange for wool. There is also in that year among some private papers an entry stating that sugar then sold for 1s 9½d per pound. Throughout Europe sugar continued to be a costly luxury and an article of medicine till the increasing use of tea and coffee in the 18th century brought it into the list of principal food staples.

The sugar cane is a species of grass, the stalks or canes of which reach a height of from 8 to 15 feet, and attain a diameter of about 2 inches. The stalks are divided into prominent joints, with long leaves springing from each joint, and the flowers consist of beautiful feather-like panicles. The joints are filled with a loose, spongy, fibrous matter saturated with a juice at first watery, but afterwards becoming glutinous and sweet. As the joints ripen the leaves wither and fall away, the stem gets smooth and hard, and contains much silica. The varieties of sugar cane are very numerous and are distinguished by color, height and richness in juices.

Extraction of The Juice.

The juice is extracted from the cane by pressing it between three iron rollers. The yield of juice varies from 60 to 65 per cent. The juice is led into a trough whence it is carried through pipes to clarifiers. Because of the fear of fermentation the manufacturing process is hurried. The juice is first filtered through a series of sieves; then it is run into the clarifiers—a set of iron vessels capable of holding 600 gallons of juice—and in these is heated up to about 130 deg. Fahr. Milk of lime is added, sufficient to neutralize the acid constituents it contains. The heat is raised to near the boiling point, and, when a scum forms on the surface the clear liquid below is drawn off. The juice now passes to a battery of pans where it is heated by direct fire and boiled down to the crystallizing point. It is then run off into shallow coolers in which the crystals form. A few days later it is transferred into hogsheads and the molasses drained away. It is now ready for refining or for shipment abroad.

In this state it comes to Canada, where it is refined. The sugar crystals are melted in cast iron tanks fitted with mechanical stirrers and steam-pipes for heating the water. The hot liquid is next passed through twilled cotton bags encased in a meshing of hemp through which the solution is mechanically strained. From 50 to 200 of these filters are suspended in close chambers in which they are kept hot. The liquid is now passed for decolorizing through beds of animal charcoal enclosed in cisterns to a depth of 30 feet, the sugar being received in vacuum pans. In these pans it is "boiled to grain," the treatment being varied according to the nature of the finished sugar to be made. To make loaves small crystals only are formed in the pan, the grains being liquified and then cast into moulds. To whiten the loaves they are treated with successive doses of saturated syrup ending with a syrup of colorless sugar, and the liquor then being driven out by suction. The syrup which drains from these loaves is the "golden" syrup of commerce.

Something like 1,600,000 tons of cane are cut annually in all the islands of the West Indies group. Eastern Canadian refiners import annually about 175,000 tons of raw cane sugar from the British possessions in these islands. The total consumption of all kinds of sugar (beet and cane) in the Dominion is about 200,000 tons per annum. These figures are authentic and based on the Dominion Government's estimates for last year.

Attention to Cleanliness Necessary in July

Things for the Grocer to Reflect Upon During The Present Month—Soft Drinks Are Good Sellers And Produce Good Profits—Fruit Needs Careful Watching—Take a Day Off.

During the month of July a grocery store requires careful attention. A good many lines of goods suffer from heat, and if they are improperly placed, also from flies and dust. To avoid trouble from these sources all out of season goods should be removed from the shelves and put away, not altogether out of reach when wanted, but where they are kept in as good condition as possible.

The store should not be crowded with goods. Everything as far as possible should be removed from the floor, to give the store an airy and cool appearance. Goods that have been on the shelves for months with which the customers are already too familiar, and may be tired of seeing, should be thinned down and only a few allowed to remain. Nothing that can be injured from flies or dust should be exposed.

The windows should be neatly dressed with seasonable goods, but only in small quantities, attractively arranged, and changed every day. It is good storekeeping to keep everything clean and in order, at any time of the year, but during the hot weather when people are looking for something appetising it is of still greater importance. It also adds very much to the attractiveness of the store if "all hands" wear clean white coats and aprons.

The Soft Drink Month.

Quite a nice profit can be made on soft drinks if properly handled. It the store is cleared from all out of season goods, a grocer will find room to make an attractive display of all kinds of summer drinks. This looks well, can easily be kept clean, is in season and is saleable with good profits.

Cooked meats require great attention and the sales depend entirely on the way they are kept and handled.

Sugar will be a heavy item during the month and should always be done up ready for the customer. As the profit on sugar is small, it is very important that it must be weighed carefully, and if a boy is told to weigh out sugar, and a package is found to be 1 oz. out, give him one more chance. Here is where the younger clerks get the first lesson in accuracy.

Fruit is one of the principal articles that will be handled through this month and after a great deal of anxiety, worry and hard work, some will end the sea without having made any profit. There is always an unwholesome rivalry among grocers in handling fruit. The question does not seem to be to make money, but to handle the most fruit, and in many cases the entire profit is lost through waste. A grocer who sells one case and makes a dollar is a wiser man than the one who sells ten cases and loses his profit. Buy what you can sell, and sell what you buy, and be sure that you get paid for your work. If your neighbors close on Wednesday afternoons be decent and close with them.

You will never regret a day off.

MANUFACTURERS MEET.

Montreal, June 29.—On Thursday of last week the annual meeting of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, took place, when the new chairman, W. Cauldwell, was asked to preside for the first time.

Ald. G. W. Sadler, retiring chairman, occupied the chair at the opening of the meeting.

The report of the executive committee was presented, and showed that the association had given its support to a number of municipal and other matters during the year. The chairman then gave his annual address, covering much the same ground as the executive committee, especially the provincial legislation regarding liability of employers for accidents to workingmen.

The chairman announced that the election had resulted in the return by acclamation of William Cauldwell, of the Canada Paper Company, as chairman of the Montreal branch, and W. T. Whitehead, of the Mount Royal Spinning Company, as vice-chairman, while as representatives of the district of Montreal outside of the city, D. J. Fraser, of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, St. John's, Que., and J. C. Casavant, of Ste. Hyacinthe, had been elected.

There was a contest for the executive committee, there being twenty-three candidates for the eighteen seats. The candidates who were successful were:

R. J. Younge, Wm. Rutherford, Fred Birks, Chas. A. Smart, L. H. Packard, Robt. Gardner, Geo. Esplin, C. S. J. Phillips, C. W. Davis, J. H. Sherrard, Walter J. Sadler, Carl Riordon, A. J. Brown, Jos. Fortier, A. H. Brittain, F. H. Hopkins, Hon. A. Desjardins, W. T. Rodden.

The grocery stock of S. H. Reynolds, Barrie, Ont., together with the household furniture and confectionery of W. R. Mitchell was burned recently.

WHY IMPORT BISCUITS?

It isn't a question of the Quality of imported Fancy Biscuits at all. We know that British manufacturers have reduced baking to an exact science—a fine art. But we also know that our Acorns, Wafer Rolls, Dominoes, La Fetes, Orange Wafers, Coffee Wafers, Philopenas, etc. We also know that all will compare favorably with any imported line—however high the Quality. Christie's fancy biscuits are superior to any baked on this continent, and they are equal in Quality, Purity and Nutriment to any fancy biscuits baked anywhere. Besides—it's a matter of dollars and cents to YOU. You can get Christie's biscuits when you want them. Think it over before placing your Christmas orders.

Advantages in Keeping Confectionery Silent Salesmen in Proper Condition—Easier Tone to Flour Market — Cereal Prices at a Standstill.

A great many grocers, especially in cities, are handling confectionery. To do this properly, they have very wisely supplied themselves with silent salesmen. While every one agrees that these beautiful glass cases are the right thing for that purpose, it might be pointed out that unless they are kept in perfect order they are not an advantage, but a decided disadvantage. They are only salesmen so far as they can present the goods to good advantage by making the best possible appearance. If it is badly kept the poor thing cannot even make an excuse, but stands powerless as a salesman, and, besides, makes a bad impression on the customers.

If the silent salesman can attract people to buy by properly presenting goods it can also drive customers away by presenting them in a distasteful way. It is, therefore, absolutely necessary, in order to be just to your silent salesman, and expect from it good and profitable service, that you keep it in first-class condition. This will take a little time, but in no other way will a silent salesman be able to pay for his cost.

FLOUR—The condition of the flour market is to some extent, more settled. At a meeting of millers recently held, it was reported that the millers in western Ontario had all the wheat they required to keep them going until the new crop came in. Some even reported that they had some to spare. This, with the fair prospects of the new crop, causes an easier feeling, at least, in so far as local trade is concerned. Wheat from farmers on the Toronto market sells at $1.40 a bushel, and oats at from 61c to 62c. While prices are the same as last week, the market has lost that intense strong feeling which was such an outstanding feature for some time.

Growing in popular favor every year, where known, Japanese sardines are attracting wider attention.

Canada is receiving a share of the catch made off the coasts of the island nation, and it is likely that imports will be larger as the fish are introduced throughout the Dominion.

It is stated that the Japanese sardines are almost the equal in quality of the French sardines, while they are supported to surpass in this respect, those coming from Portugal, Spain and Norway.

Interested parties are endeavoring to promote the sale of the fish in Canada, and their efforts are meeting with success.

STAY IN THE LEAD.

How Stores In The Outlying Districts Can Get And Hold Custom.

By D. B. B.

Lack of capital and inexperience seem to be the chief reasons that so many do not make a success. One can imagine some incredulous reader exclaiming "What! the small grocer—surely this cannot interest him save as bad news. But the argument is, that in any case the small grocer must 'keep up with the procession' and that he can do so if he avails himself of the aids at his command.

Individual attention is his grand stand-by principle for keeping his customers when he has the goods to supply them. It is doubtful if one could find a better class of grocers and grocery stores than we have in the outlying stores of some of our towns and cities. We have a better and more competent class of men in these stores, many of whom do not hesitate to leave the old tracks of trade if new ones recommend themselves as promising rewards for their enterprise.

Few indeed are the men in these times who are content to plod on in one regular rut. The man who has but himself to depend upon is compelled to apply his energies in many directions in order to be successful judging from the suburban stores. The "Sell-Everything Principle" should be generally adopted, every man being a law unto himself in settling what he has to sell in his shop. Instead of tempting his customers with a few lines and leaving them to go elsewhere for others they require, his chief concern is to sell them everything they require, so as to give them no excuse for going elsewhere. He should cautiously add to his business, new departments in which there is a profit to be made, laying himself out to supply his customers with as many as possible of the goods they need.

Thus we find in the suburban stores the following departments: meats, fruits and vegetables, chinaware, flowers, dry goods, ice cream, soda fountain and confectionery.

Flour Cleanliness

2. What Physicians say about Crease Dirt.

JUST A MINUTE, Mr, Storekeeper. You recall what "crease dirt" means—the smut in the fold of the wheat berry.

¶ Doctors who are paid to know say that this particular dirt in the crease swarms with bacterial life, some of them being particularly objectionable. Dust, you know, is the foundation of all uncleanness—whether it comes from wheat, mill or methods.

¶ Now, your customer is buying flour—not flour, plus wheat smut laden with bacteria and noxious germs. The housewife doesn't want dirt for flour at any price. Outside their health menace, these flour defects are bound to out in a thousand ways in the cooking.

¶ True enough, if wheat had no crease the miller's problem were simplified. Yet the crease exists—likewise its inhabitants. FIVE ROSES, we say, is pure and wholesome, more than any other flour can possibly be, because all this abomination must be removed before the grain is ground. It's impossible to remove it after grinding, although some makers attempt it.

¶ You may be tempted, Mr. Junior Partner, to say that your customer's health is not your affair, that you are not "your brother's keeper." But look at it thusly: that the health of your trade is the health of your business, the less there is for the doctor, the more for the grocer.

¶ There is big money in cleanliness. Tell them about clean, pure flour, flour that is wholesome. Then tell us the name of one single woman who knowing the facts as you know them would deliberately risk the family welfare for half a cent per pound?

¶ She must inevitably buy FIVE ROSES when she knows through you that between "has made good" and "just as good" flour, the price difference is less than half a cent and the quality difference infinite.

New Method for Keeping Green Stuff Fresh

Peterboro Grocer Originates Plans of His Own—Uses Moist Sugar Bags—Simple Device to Prevent Rhubarb From Wilting.

By J. M. Donovan.

Readers of The Canadian Grocer should be interested in a scheme which has been of great service to me since I hit upon it not long ago. The plan is how to keep green stuff fresh and crisp all day in the sun if its rays cannot be avoided; and if not in the sun so much the better.

I am not thinking of the large fruit and vegetable dealers who pile up everything promiscuously, probably sprinkle a little water over all and use off the top first while the bottom is remaining fresher for a short time. The heat finally penetrates and soon causes them to become withered and mushy if much water is used and the stuff is not disposed of.

My aim is to help the grocer who carries a fair supply on hand but a small amount which he must necessarily or should do in some quarters of a city. If he does not sell much, he will sell less if the green stuff is not properly cared for. If he can keep it nice and fresh his customers will not have to go elsewhere for it and the grocer's business will increase. I know this from experience. I have often, when picking over the stuff at night thought: "Well, there is no use putting that out out to-morrow and throwing away two bunches—I only lose the profit on a dozen."

I never saw this plan used until I worked it out myself. I have a "knock down" table in front of my shop that I only move indoors on Saturday evening. It is composed of two boards cleated together and placed on two salmon boxes. Two heighths of table can be made with them, by placing them on end or side. The latter I use when I have a lot of stuff so as not to obstruct my window view. On the board, table or box, I put a sugar sack, and wet it before or after I place on my green stuff. I usually soak it in a pail of water before spreading it out. I cover the top with another wet sack which seems to suffice in keeping all nice and fresh and when the top sack becomes dry I rewet it by sprinkling water over it and let water drip through to the bottom sack. The latter being covered, it keeps moist and cool a long time and will always be so while the top one is kept damp and is much better than if the stuff is piled up dry or immersed in water in a box.

How Rhubarb is Treated.

My plan for keeping rhubard nice and crisp cannot be beaten and like the above the idea is my own, at least I have never seen it treated as I do it. I have seen it stand in a wash tub with root down in water, but my scheme is to cut a portion of the top off—if not already done by the gardener—and place the top or leaf-end in very little water, say half an inch. The leaf draws up the moisture and they remain firm and crisp.

Left exposed, there is, I believe, no other vegetable or plant that wilt or become more raggy quicker than rhubarb and to keep it in good condition, I have a box lined with zinc made water tight. Any ordinary strong box about two inches deep will do, a sardine box being best. The idea of the zinc lined box is that it cannot absorb the rancid water and the vegetable or plant will not absorb the taste of the wood. This box will be found very useful all summer to keep the other stuff in when the green vegetables are over. I have kept rhubard two and three days and I have found that the tie-string becomes tighter where otherwise the rhubarb would fall through the string after lying out five or six hours in the sun.

OFFICES REMODELLED.

The Canada Brokerage Company, Limited, Toronto, have recently enlarged their offices, all fittings being in quarter cut oak. The main office is divided by a counter, the front portion being for a sample room, in the rear of which is the general office and adjoining a cloak and wash room. The private office is in quarter cut oak "Early English" finish, with furniture to match, and with the handsome wall decorations presents an attractive appearance.

PURE FOODS ENDORSED.

The Canadian Grocer says that food standards are about to be established in Canada under authority of the Department of Inland Revenue. It is to be hoped so. Pure food promotes good health, and there is no better service Government can render than to increase the average health of the people.—Toronto Star.

Canadian Fruit, Vegetable and Fish Markets

Strawberries are King in the Fruit Line — Prices Much Lower Than a Week Ago—Advances in Lemons—New Potatoes Lower—Fish in Good Demand.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Lemons have advanced appreciably since last week, being sold as high as $3.75, with the prospect of still higher figures. Oranges are steady. Strawberries have slumped very considerably, and are even quoted at 5c to 10c a box. Demand is excellent and receipts are heavy. Cherries are easier. Grape fruit is a little firmer, while Florida pineapples are not so strong. Cantaloupes, from Georgia, are offered this week. Warm weather has stimulated the demand for all fruits.

VEGETABLES—New corn, imported, is now offering, but the high price asked, $4, is limiting the demand very considerably. Increased receipts dropped prices on several lines this week, it will be observed. New carrots are 50 p.c. lower; cucumbers are away down, new potatoes show a severe decline, while beans also have dropped. Horseradish is a little firmer, while mushrooms, scarce, are somewhat easier. Illinois tomatoes are now quoted. Gradually imported vegetables are working north in origin, and soon the market will be supplied by Canadian stuff entire.

FISH—Dealers report good demand for various lines of fresh fish, the trade being open for slightly larger supplies than usual this week on account of there being two fish days, Friday and Saturday. Halibut is going out freely at old prices. Steak cod is easier, while an advance has occurred in Gaspe salmon, which is not so plentiful, and for which demand has increased considerably. Sea bass is 2c lower, while buck shad are quoted at 25c each. Roe shad and dressed bullheads are off the market. Brook trout and mackerel are frequently asked for. Lobsters are higher, owing to the season for Canadian being practically at an end. New labrador herring and skinless cod are in fair demand. Sales of smoked fish are few, owing to warm weather.

GREEN FRUIT.—Strawberries are taking up almost the entire attention at the fruit market. Every train adds more to the bulk for sale. It is almost useless to quote prices for they vary according to quality and quantity with the arrival of each train. The hustle, and the exchange of opinion between the buyers and seller is amusing to one who is not "one of the bunch" and can see things from a disinterested viewpoint. The sellers wants all he can get and points to the larger berries, and the buyer with finger pointing to the small berries, and with most convincing arguments claims that he should buy them cheaper. A deal is generally arrived at, but frequently a compromise settles the matter. The late California Valencia orange is about the only kind on the market now. The great rush on pineapples is over, with a light balance still in stock. California peaches and apricots are now in order and are selling from $1.50 to $1.75 a case. Early Canadian cherries are coming in but only in small quantities. Grape fruit is off the market.

VEGETABLES. — The vegetables used now are nearly all supplied by local gardeners and are cheaper. New potatoes, cucumbers, cabbages, tomatoes, watermelon and cantaloupes are imported but prices all through are lower. Old potatoes are plentiful and in good condition with prices low. NEW WHOLESALE HOUSE.

Gerald Martin and E. Scannell, two Port Arthur commercial men, who have been operating in this district for some years, have decided to open up a wholesale grocery house in Fort William, and they have leased a portion of the Fitzsimmon's Fruit Co.'s wholesale house there. Mr. Martin represented Telfer Bros., Collingwood, for some years. E. Scannell has been with the Geo. E. Bristol Co., of Hamilton, for some years as Thunder Bay representative.

Toop & Lees, late of Almonte, Ont., opened their new grocery store in Moose Jaw.

Have You Place in Your Organization for An A1 Business Builder?

I want to get into touch with some manufacturer or wholesaler with a proposition big enough to warrant the employment of a man to push the sales end of the game.

To such a connection I can bring an equipment of experience and energy backed up by past success. Trained in some of the best of the big organizations in the States—up from a stenographer. Railway, newspaper, road and office experience.

For a perfectly satisfactory reason I am severing my present connection as Sales and Advertising manager with a leading Canadian manufacturer, and want to tie up with a concern where resourcefulness, directed enthusiasm and the ability to show results will be appreciated and remunerated.

Have proven ability as a sales promoter and can handle advertising to trade and public if desired. Capable and diplomatic correspondent.

I am thoroughly equipped to lift the burden of this work from an executive who is anxious to devote more time to other phases of his business, but is laden down with the important detail of the sales department.

Write me fully, with the assurance that confidence will be rigidly guarded.

A man wants credit. If you think he is good give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book. Have him sign the receipt or note form in the front of the book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10—no trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten cent coupon, and so on until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10 and gets another book. BUSINESS FOR YOU AND FOR US.

SUN PASTE Stove Polish in Tins goes so much farther on the stove than the so-called liquids (which are always settling out) that the up-to-date housekeeper is bound to be far better pleased when you sell her SUN PASTE.

It is always ready to use, no separation of the ingredients and, as a result, she uses it oftener and comes back to you for more. That's business. Good for you and good for us.

MORSE BROS., Props. - Canton, Mass., U.S.A.

What "The Lancet" says:

"Cobra" Boot Polish has just been analysed by Dr. Ed. Nihaul, Professor of Industrial Chemistry at the University of Liege, and he has recognised that the Polish does not contain lamp-black or any acid substance. This is important so far as the preservation of the leather is concerned, but from the health point of view the Polish does not close up the pores of the leather, so that the feet keep fresh and cool.

—September 6th, 1905.

from the health point of view

'COBRA" Polish instantly commends itself to those who appreciate the difference between health preserving, hygienic shoe dressing which keeps footwear in good condition, and the destructive compounds made of acids, oils, treacle and soot known as "Blacking."

Softens and Preserves the Leather

It will not come off and injure the finest fabrics and it is so easy to apply that polishing one's own shoes is a positive pleasure instead of a disagreeable drudgery. It will do all that any other polish will and a great deal more. It's the best seller—every grocer knows that.

IT'S ALL IN THE TASTE

That is, so far as the public is on the surface able to judge; but back of it in all canned fruits and vegetables there should be a definite assurance that the products are pure and the process sanitary and the preserving done without the aid of any chemicals or coloring matter.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND
Canned Fruits and Vegetables

are pure. Here is what a leading Canadian paper says:

"An argument against the use of chemical preservatives in foodstuffs not easily got over is that in good food products they are not necessary to their preservation, while the use of them at all makes it possible to palm off inferior articles on the public. All foods which contain preservatives are open to suspicion."

Causes of the Failures of Many Retail Merchants

Too Much Optimism in the Trade—Crediting Soon Eats up Capital—Overdoing a Source of Weakness—What the Beginner Should Avoid.

By D. L. Gore.

Some merchants fail from one cause and some from another. I think there are very few that start in business with the intention of failing. Those who fail, as a rule, are a hopeful set and they think that all they have to do is to get a few goods and put them in a store (small or large), for they know that some goods are sold at a good profit and that merchants sell a considerable quantity some days. These sanguine men make a calculation on how much they should make by calculating the profit that they think the merchant makes on the goods he sells on his largest days at the profit they think he makes. And immediately come to the conclusion that there is a fortune in it and they cross the Rubicon and start in business.

One great cause of failure is crediting. If a man starts on a small capital —say $500 (and that is enough for him to start on if he is a man with no business or store experience), what would be his chance for success or failure? If he were to credit out $3 per day more than he collected, in about six months all his capital would be in the hands of his debtors. Three dollars per day more than you collect, if you credit at all, is a very small amount. Pardon a personal allusion. When I commenced my little mercantile business in Brunswick County I had $200 and borrowed $300. I had to refuse to credit any one and, of course, if I refused the best class of men I refused the other also. The first reason for that was: I had to keep my capital in hand to do business on. I took in some Mexican dollars which I sold at $1.10. I was advised to hoard them, and if I had done this, before the year was out I would have gone out of business for the want of business capital, for, as you are aware, the Mexican dollar went down in value as low as 50 cents each some years afterward. So even if I had been wealthy, the policy was a bad one. Don't hoard money; keep every dollar at work somewhere.

Cut Down Expenses.

Don't owe too many men, and go to the creditor (not to the lawyer) and get extension on their debts, if necessary, and cut down expenses. Be more careful to carry less unsalable goods and do all possible to collect what others owe them and they will pull through. They shouldn't have too much confidence in themselves when starting and too little when they see their affairs not coming out like they expected. Crediting, and especially crediting out too many goods, is the principal cause of failure with the inexperienced man or man who has had no store training. With the man who has been in the store for years and starts out on partially borrowed capital, I think he is apt to want to take as much from the store monthly as he was paid a salary for clerking. Most new business will not stand that. He has no established trade and he is going to lose by crediting some men who paid the old house and will not pay him. The man who gets credit as a rule will not pay a man who has no established trade as well as he would an old merchant. The new man is more apt to fail than the man with an established trade, so the smart debtor waits, and if the new merchant fails he doesn't pay that debt at all.

Don't overdo. A little success sometimes makes a new merchant feel so big and confident until he pitches into larger ventures and thus overdoes the thing. Lord Wellington, when asked what was the next worse thing to defeat, said victory. I think his idea was that the average general was made by his first victory to think that his army was invincible and that he would get into the next battle without due caution or preparation and perhaps be defeated. I believe the merchant who has some bad luck or rough places to go through (if he does not lose heart but pushes forward) is better off in the long run than if he had great success at first.

Pardon another personal reference. When I had merchandised in the country for about nine years I thought it would be better to move to the city, and I announced it to my friends. While talking to them I told them I did not know whether I would succeed or not, but if I carried out my well studied plans I thought I would do reasonably well. But if I lost my head and threw away my chart and compass on an unknown sea I would be apt so be a commercial wreck.

A merchant should take an inventory of his debts and credits and his stock of goods often, and especially an inventory of his debts and credits. Of course we men who bookkeep by double entry see that every month; at least we see what the books say we owe and others owe us, and an estimate on the amount of goods on hand. But the small merchant when starting doesn't keep books that way, so often he doesn't know how much he owes or how much others owe him. All of these things must be carefully looked after.

Estimate of Failures.

In the above I have tried to show the pitfalls that the beginner should avoid. Now we will commence on what Dun and Bradstreet would call "Failure statistics, their meaning and utility." I have an estimate by Bradstreet's Commercial Agency for 28 years, from 1881 to 1909. He says 29 76-100ths of all the merchants who did business in those years failed, and Bradstreet nor Dun either count a man who makes an assignment or quits business as a failure unless he fails to pay at least a portion of his debts. If he ceases to do business and pays all his debts that is not a failure. Bradstreet says in 1907 that 10,265 merchants failed; Dun says 11,725. In 1908 Bradstreet says 14,044 failed and Dun says 15,698. I would suggest a merchant asking for credit that it is to his advantage to make annual statements to the commercial agencies, Both Bradstreet and Dun say that lack of sufficient capital is the largest source of failure. This may be so as a rule, but not till after a man is well established in business, and even then I think doing too much crediting with too little security is one great cause of failure. Of course if a man is doing business on borrowed capital he should not credit any, or very little if any, and if he has plenty of capital he should be careful to take good collateral, and this he should take before the goods go out of the store. Let me run over his collateral and I can tell each piece the business man took before he delivered the goods. Before the debt is made the seller says what kind of security he will take; after the debt is made the buyer says what kind he will give; hence, you see the difference.

The get-rich-quick idea. If he does a $5,000 or $10,000 business yearly and makes $500 or $1,000 net for the year's work it does not follow, as a rule, if he does $50,000 or $100,000 worth of business during the year he will make $5,000 to $10,000 per year. And many times trying to increase the volume of business rapidly is a dangerous thing, and especially so when you are doing business on other men's capital; and, sad to say, most men will take more risk crediting out other men's capital than they will their own. That their competitors will get a part of their trade makes many merchants take unwise risks. Don't do it. You cannot get all the trade, so don't try for it. It is not best for one man to do it all; let others have some. About all a man can use in this world is what he eats and wears.

Specialize on Integrity.

The first article a new merchant should put in his store is "integrity" (common everyday honesty), and the second thing is confidence in his ability —not bigotry or egotism, but calm confidence that he must and will succeed if he carries out his well calculated plans. He must be honest in his dealings; live a clean and upright life in every way. Don't allow loafers to stop long at his place of business, for an idle brain is the devil's workshop, and the loafer has the idle brain.

Pay your bills promptly, even if you have to borrow money at 12 per cent. per annum to do it. One of the best records the wholesale merchant can find is when the merchant you traded with last says you paid all bills the day they were due. Your reputation for paying promptly gives you the highest credit; hence, when the wholesaler has bargains to offer you hear of them and goods well bought are half sold.

Now last, but not least, collect your bills, both large and small. This, I think, is one of the most important duties the merchant has to perform, so keep continually at it and use your best judgment and you should keep from failing.

PERSONALITY IN BUSINESS.

The Sample Case.

There is much written in these days about the effect of personality in business, but few have more than a vague idea of what is meant by the phrase. They think all the time that is something connected with the individual; and it may be in some isolated instances. Still there is another idea along this line advanced by one of our clever business writers that has little to do with individuality. It's impressions gotten in many ways—often peculiar ways. For instance, if a gruff, surly operator always answers the phone at a given house, we get the impression that this house is sour and repelling. We go into a store and find it filled with slouchy, ill-mannered, gum-chewing salespeople, and though the stock may be the cream of the market and the prices satisfactory, we can't get away from the impression that it is a cheap-john place. Again we enter another store and find it neat as a pin and the salespeople highly proper and all that, but you feel no welcome in the air. The place is so exactly right that you get an impression of independence amounting to indifference. You don't put yourself out to go back to that store, and you may never stop to think why.

Now take another place, perhaps very near by. The store is pleasingly arranged, but not so that you particularly notice it. The salespeople seem to be in a good humor and working under satisfactory conditions, although the fact does not stand out except in their spontaneous good nature and willingness to accommodate. The prices are not in any way appealing; the goods nothing extra; but that place strikes you. You like to go there. You like to be there. You will linger there. It's the atmosphere of the place—the composite impression—and it's all to the good.

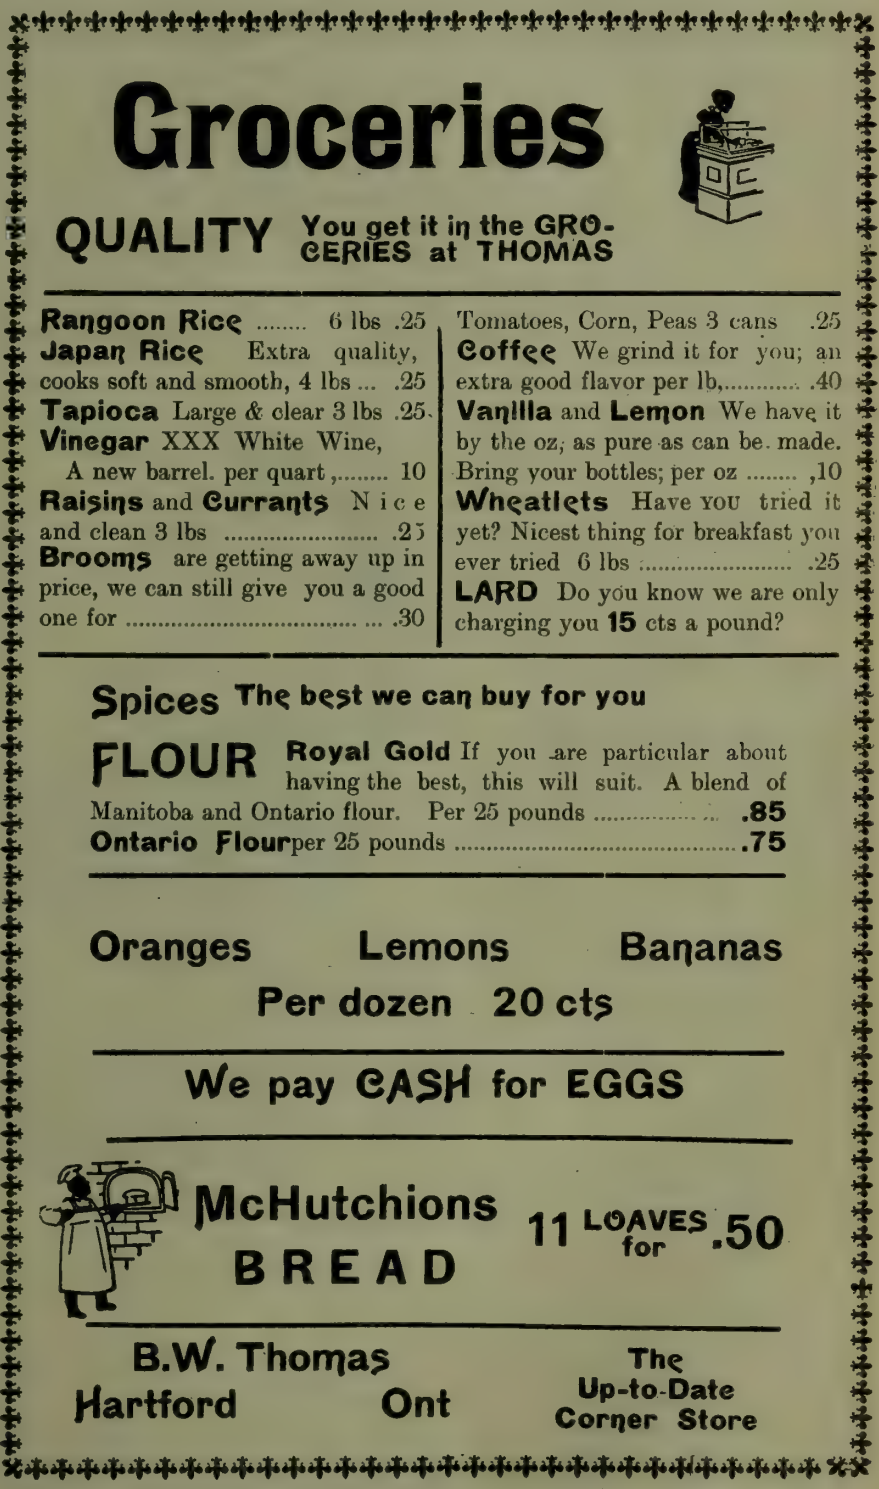
If you want to know the why of this, get back and study what molds that composite impression. You will not in very many cases find a great, towering personality, although there will be a fellow there in charge who has force of character. Back of that you will find diffused sensitive sympathy—the intuitive kind—and perhaps just good old-fashioned Abe Lincoln love of humanity, Or there may be a mixture of elements hard to classify. Anyway they are not purchaseable, or every store would have them on tap..

However, you get the idea—it's impressions. Everybody on the job is helping to make them. It's something of a responsibility for the commercial traveler when he is about all of his house that very many of his, and the house's customers see, year in and year out. Isn't it a shame, then, that houses will not always get right with their men and men with their houses, so that they may always make the most of this element?

A traveler stopped at a hotel in Alaska, where the nights are six months long, and as he registered asked a question of the clerk:

"What time do you have breakfast?"

"From half-past March to a quarter of May."—The Sample Case.



Village Merchant Who Sets Up His Own Ads.

No Printer In Hartford And R. J. Thomas Sends Circulars Off His Private Press To Families On His Mailing List—Evolution From Pen and Typewriter.

The fact that there is no newspaper in the village of Hartford, Norfolk County, Ont., is no deterrent to the advertising campaign of R. J. Thomas, general merchant. His motto is, "I'll find a way or make it," and not being able to find the way he has made one.

Mr. Thomas has a mailing list containing some 250 names and regularly sends out circulars. He sets his own type and does his own printing on his own press.

The evolution of his present system is interesting. In sending out his cir-

Mr. Thomas in referring to his system says: "Last summer I was doing the work with a typewriter and copying pad. Since them I have bought a Pearl press and am placing the ads. as you see the samples enclosed.

"I have also enlarged my mailing list, and send out 250 copies. It is bringing good results.

"The work of setting the type is all done by myself, and without previous experience."

As a sample of Mr. Thomas' handiwork one of his grocery circulars is herewith reproduced. Not only is the typographical work done rather artistically but his ad. is writen intelligently and effectively. This may be seen in speaking of rice—cooks soft and smooth; and of brooms—brooms are getting away up in price, we can still give you a good one for 30c. That shows knowledge of the fundamental principles of good advertising.

Besides sending out grocery circulars he also mails drygoods, boot and shoe literature, etc., and as he intimates, the results are gratifying.

AN INDOOR BASEBALL GAME

To be One of the Features of the Drummers' Snack Club Day at Erin.

No little amount of energy is being expended by those in charge of the Drummers' Snack Club outing to be held at Erin, on July 30 and 31. The arrangement of the details is progressing rapidly and everything points to a record-breaking crowd. J. H. Wildfong, the Toronto secretary, visited Erin a few days ago and completed the organization of committees there, including reception, decoration and school committees. The townspeople of Erin will be given a half holiday on Saturday afternoon, so as to be able to enjoy the fun.

Ross Cameron, manager of the bank at Erin, is the home secretary and he has charge of the work there.

One of the features of the day not yet mentioned will be the indoor baseball game for a silver trophy, presented by J. H. Wildfong, the teams to be captained by a Hamilton and Toronto drummer respectively. The captain of the winning team looks after the safety of the trophy for the ensuing year.

The club have issued attractive little "Erin-go-Snack" buttons, which are being extensively worn.

Canadian Wholesale Grocers in Business Session

Victoria was the Mecca for Large Number of Delegates This Year—Banquet Given by Wholesalers of British Columbia—Uniformity of Terms of Payment Favored—Secret Commissions Act Endorsed—Happenings on the Side.

Staff Correspondence.

Victoria, B.C., July 3.—When the invitation was received to hold the 1909 meeting of the Canadian Wholesale Grocers' Exchange in Victoria, B.C., President Geoffrion was strongly in favor of its acceptance. He believed that the trip to the coast would be of immense interest and educational value to those members who had never taken it, and he knew that those who had been there before would want to go again. Moreover, the Exchange requires the hearty cooperation of all its western members, and it is essential that the eastern members learn their view-point. These considerations had weight in the choice of Victoria as the place of meeting. It may not have been central, but those members who attended have no regrets and those who did not attend missed a successful and important meeting, to say nothing of the most enjoyable outing in the history of the organization.

Montreal and Quebec Province and New Brunswick were well represented. There were four representatives from Montreal, and one from the province. New Brunswick had three representatives. Ontario, unfortunately, had only two, and there were none from Toronto or Hamilton. For various reasons the Toronto and Hamilton wholesalers found it impossible to attend.

But, in spite of the disappointingly small attendance from Ontario and Manitoba, the meeting was one of the best in the history of the organization. The eastern and western members learned each other's viewpoint over several contentious questions, and there was a spirit of give and take about the meeting which augurs well for the future of the Exchange.

The greater number of the eastern members traveled west together on the same train. For the majority it was the first trip through the Rockies, and it proved enjoyable. The party arrived in Vancouver on the evening of Wednesday, June 23rd, some eight hours behind time, and too late to catch the boat to Victoria. The first meeting should have been held on Thursday morning, but it was impossible for the president and his party to arrive in time.

Business Sessions.

It was nearly four o'clock on the afternoon of Thursday, June 24th, when President Geoffrion's gavel was heard in the Board of Trade room in Victoria calling the assembled wholesalers to order. He opened by explaining the causes of the delayed arrival of the Montreal and eastern contingents—floods, washouts, and "acts of God," for which not even the C.P.R. could be held responsible. Perhaps Mr. Geoffrion knew something of the diversions planned for the entertainment of the visitors, for he strongly urged upon the members of the Exchange the desirability of brief speeches. There was much to be done and little time in which to do it.

Simon Leiser, president of the B. C. Wholesale Grocers' Exchange, extended a hearty welcome to the visitors and hinted at delights and excursions to come.

The greater part of the business of the afternoon session was of routine nature. Secretary Cook reported the result—or rather lack of result—of a conference with the Bankers' Association regarding the collection of drafts. Business men very often have cause to complain that their drafts are returned for no specified reason, and often there is reason to believe that the banks could collect drafts which are now refused if they would exert a little pressure. The conference with the Bankers' Association did not do anything more than bring the matter forcibly to the attention of the bankers. The collection of drafts is still a matter for the individual customer and his banker to settle between themselves.

Terms of Payment.

A great part of the afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of terms of payment. The wholesalers feel that often they have acted as bankers for the retail trade. This is particularly true in some sections of the country. The wholesaler must pay promptly for his own goods, but often he gives long credit to his own customers. It is quite evident that the tendency from the Atlantic to the Pacific is in the direction of a shortening of terms. Local conditions must rule in some sections, but the goal in view is 30 days net. Those terms are in force in the Province of Quebec and in some other districts and they work well, according to the testimony of the Montreal delegates.

A. Carrier, M.P., made a strong appeal to the wholesale trade in the other provinces to follow the example of Quebec in this matter. The meeting adopted unanimously a strongly worded resolution favoring shorter terms.

Secret Commissions Act.

At the Friday morning session there was a long discussion of the Secret Commissions Act, and its bearing upon the manufacturers' contract selling plan. The members were supplied with circulars issued a short time ago by The Canadian Grocer, containing the text of the Act, and a reprint of comments upon it appearing in the issues of May 14 and 28. General satisfaction with the new Act was expressed by the wholesalers at the meeting, but there was some conflict of opinion as to the merits of the Contract Selling Plan. The fact that the draft contract between the manufacturer and wholesale contemplates the former going to the retail trade with his goods, occasioned much discussion. The meeting was of the opinion that the manufacturer should choose for himself definitely and absolutely whether he is going to handle his goods through the wholesale trade or direct to the retail.

Goods in Large Quantities.

The abuse of the quantity price for goods occasioned much discussion, and several Exchange members went on record as being opposed to the whole system of price reduction for large quantities of goods. This opinion did not prevail, but there was no difference of opinion regarding some prevailing abuses of the quantity price. The practice of selling 100 boxes of any line of goods to a retailer and delivering as required in 5-case lots was strongly disapproved of.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President—L. E. Geoffrion.
Vice-presidents—
Ontario—H. C. Beckett.
Quebec—L. A. Carrier, M.P.
Manitoba—H. P. Gordon.
British Columbia—H. T. Lockyer.
Alberta—D. Telfer.
Nova Scotia—M. Dwyer.
New Brunswick—S. A. Jones.
P. E. I.—W. H. Aitken.
Secretary—J. Stanley Cook.

The re-election of Mr. Geoffrion to the presidency gave general satisfaction to the meeting, and has since proved popular among the trade at large. He was anxious to retire at the end of his term, but it was felt that the affairs of the Exchange at a critical period of its history could not be in safer hands, and there was an unanimous desire that he should continue in office for another year. So strong was the pressure brought to bear upon him that Mr. Geoffrion, much against his will, was forced to agree to it. He thanked the meeting for this expression of confidence in him and expressed the hope that long before the next meeting there would be a satisfactory judgment in the long-drawn-out "Guild suit," and the Exchange would then be able to take action in several matters with regard to which at present its hands were tied.

Jos. Ethier, on behalf of the Montreal delegation, extended an invitation to the Exchange to meet next year in Montreal, and, on motion of William Georgeson, this invitation was accepted unanimously by a standing vote. The meeting will be held in April or June at the call of the president.

Delegates Present.

The list of members in attendance was as follows:

New Brunswick—W. C. Cross, A. Malcolm, W. L. Harding.

Quebec—L. E. Geoffrion, A. Chaput, A. L. Carrier, M.P., Jos. Ethier, A. Desroches.

Ontario—Ed. Masuret, W. Riley.

Manitoba—P. Marrin.

Alberta—Wm. Georgeson, D. Telfer.

British Columbia—H. T. Lockyer, Robert Kelly, W. H. Malkin, W. J. MacMillan, Simon Leiser, G. H. Wilson, E. H. MacLean.

The Banquet.

On Thursday evening the visiting delegates were tendered a banquet at the Empress Hotel by the British Columbia Wholesale Grocers' Exchange. In every respect it was a highly successful function. The appointments were perfect, the speeches were good and there was a general spirit of good fellowship.

Simon Leiser, the president of the British Columbia Exchange presided, and at his right was L. E. Geoffrion, the president of the Dominion Exchange. After the toast to the King had been duly honored, H. T. Lockyer proposed "The Government of the Dominion of Canada" in a brief but eloquent speech, in the course of which he emphasized strongly the national responsibilities of Canada as part of the Empire.

Auguste Carrier, M.P., responded to this toast in eloquently patriotic vein. It was the evening of Ste Jean Baptiste day and he therefore took occasion to explain the significance of the French-Canadians' National holiday. Reviewing the history of the French-Canadians he roused the enthusiasm of his audience by showing how from the day of the American Revolution they had been conspicuous for their loyalty to British connection.

H. G. Wilson proposed "The Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia" in a speech bristling with western optimism, facts and figures. The most westerly province of the Dominion, its resources and present and future, proved an interesting theme as he dealt with it for the benefit of the Eastern visitors. British Columbia with a white population of about 200,000 exported last year goods and natural products to the value of $51 000,000. "Double the population," declared the speaker, "And we will quadruple the exports." No other Province in Canada could make as good a showing. This toast was responded to briefly by D. R. Ker.

Simon Leiser then proposed "The Canada Wholesale Grocers' Exchange" and in doing so made the statement that in his opinion the wholesale grocers have done as much as any Canadian government for the prosperity of the country. By financing the merchant of small means, they have enabled the people in the newer districts to get supplies and have assisted materially in the advancement of the country.

"Ten years ago" said Mr. Leiser, "a meeting of this kind would have been impossible in the West, but it has been accomplished successfully to-day in the most westerly city of the Dominion. It is a good thing for the East and the West to meet in gatherings of this kind for we can learn from each other. We are trying to adopt your system of shortening credits, and I hope there will soon be uniform terms of credit throughout the entire Dominion.

Mr. Geoffrion in responding to the toast regretted that he was not a lawyer or a politician in order that the gift of ready speech might be his as a gift of nature. The business men in Montreal have to sell their goods so cheap that they have not me, like their confreres in British Columbia to devote to the art of speech making. Notwithstanding such disclaimer, Mr. Geoffrion made an excellent speech, outlining the high aims of the Exchange. Referring to the "Guild suit," he said that, when a decision is arrived at the Exchange can accomplish much that is now impossible. All that is necessary is to have the good will and cooperation of the entire wholesale grocery trade of the Dominion.

Concluding, Mr. Geoffrion expressed his appreciation of the hospitality of the British Columbia grocers and extended an invitation for next year on behalf of Montreal.

Other speakers in response to this toast were W. C. Cross, Jos. Ethier, D. Marshall M.P., W. Georgeson and W. Riley.

Diversions.

"Victoria is a hospitable City and the wholesale grocers of the coast cities are good fellows." Such is the verdict of all the Eastern visitors to the meeting of the Exchange. The city belonged to the visitors during their stay and there was "something doing" all the time to contribute to the entertainment of the Easterners.

The business sessions of the Exchange were over at noon on Friday. Immediately after lunch the visitors were taken by special train to Esquimalt to inspect one of the salmon canning plants belonging to the Todd Brothers. The ladies of the party were included in all the entertainment from noon on Friday and as several of the members' were accompanied by their wives their presence added greatly to the pleasures of the trip. Unfortunately the salmon run had not commenced at the time and therefore it was not possible to see the plant in actual operation. However, the processes were explained to the visitors and the inspection of the plant proved most interesting.

A Partial Group of the Party Taken Before the Tally-Ho Drive on Saturday Morning.

During the return of the party to Victoria they were taken up the "Gorge" in a large launch to one of Victoria's pretty parks. This park is one of the beauty spots in a very pretty city and the trip up the "Gorge" was thoroughly appreciated.

Saturday morning the whole party were shown the sights of Victoria by tally-ho and the drive through the beautiful residential portion of the city was a delightful revelation to the visitors. Victoria is a city of fine homes and the pride of its citizens is justifiable.

In the afternoon the tally-ho was again requisitioned and the entire party were taken to the races where they occupied boxes as the guests of the British Columbia Exchange. Hat pools and a few small stakes helped to augment the interest in several well contested events.

Almost the entire party left Victoria for the Seattle Fair. On the six o'clock boat that evening and as the boat left the wharf the visitors cheered the hospitable Simon Leiser and his associates who had done so much to make their stay a pleasant one.

Western Breezes

Victoria is a pretty city and as hospitable as it is beautiful.

Most of the visitors to the Exchange meeting took in the Seattle Fair before returning East. On the Saturday night boat for Seattle there was a jolly party on board including President Geoffrion, Secretary J. S. Cook, A. Carrier, A, Chaput, Jos. Ethier, A. Desroches, Wm. Georgeson, P. Marrin, W. Riley, D. Telber and The Canadian Grocer representative. Messrs. Cross, Malcolm and Harding, the Maratime Province contingent, also attended the Fair but did not go by the same boat as the others.

Before returning East, Jos. Ethier took a trip to San Francisco and A. Desroches to Los Angeles.

Armand Chaput made the return trip by easy stages stopping at Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg.

D. Marshall, M.P. and "Bob" Turris of the Canadian Canners were in Victoria at the time of the convention and were guests at the banquet. Mr. Marshall referred to an interesting rumor that Mr. Geoffrion is shortly to be called to the Senate. The popular president of the Exchange says there is nothing in the rumor but his friends hope he may be mistaken. The appointment would command the unqualified approval of Canadian business men.

Montreal next year. The Eastern people will then have an opportunity to return the magnificent hospitality shown them in the West.

A DUAL PURPOSE.

Complaining Customer—Say, this fly paper is full of holes.

The Grocer—Yes, madam, I know it. It is the new "combination" fly paper, and is made with the holes so that it can be used for porous plasters after the fly season is over.—Judge.

PROSECUTION ONLY DELAYED.

New York, July 5.—The case against the American Sugar Refining Co., involving the loan of $1,250,000 to the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Co., has not been dropped by the government. Authoritative denial was made to this effect yesterday at the federal building. The reason for the delay in bringing in indictments in the case is the desire of the government's representatives here to have Attorney-General Wickersham pass on one of the points raised by the lawyers representing the company, John E. Parsons and Gustave E. Kissel, in their argument as to why neither the company nor any individuals involved could be prosecuted.

CONSTITUENTS OF TEA.

The preparation of tea for market comprises four processes : wilting, turning and rolling, fermentation, and roasting. In the course of these processes the proportion of tannin in the leaves is greatly diminished, for example, from nearly 23 per cent. to 12 per cent. The characteristic aroma of tea is developed gradually in the process of fermentation, during which the ethereal oils or their chief constituents are set free from the glucosides. The freshly plucked leaves contain about 1½ per cent. of free caffein (thein) and 3 2-3 per cent. of combined caffein, but after roasting three-fourths of the caffein of the leaves is in the free state. The increase of free caffein is proportional to the decomposition of tannin, a fact which indicates that the two substances were originally combined together. The oxygen of the air assists in the decomposition of tannin, but atmospheric organisms play no part in the fermentation, which must, therefore, be caused by ferments already present in the leaves. In the "bud" tea made from the youngest leaves, apparently by simple drying, two-thirds of the caffein remains in the combined state. Burmese tea, which is prepared by crude methods contains the smallest proportion of combined caffein. Green Chinese tea contains less combined caffein than black tea, and also less tannin.—Scientific American.

TRADE NOTES.

The delivery horse and outfit of the Edwardsburg Starch Co. won second prize in the miscellaneous class at the horse parade in Toronto on Dominion Day.

S. E. Boulter, of the Niagara Falls Canning Co., returned at the latter end af last week from a prospecting trip through the silver districts of northern Quebec.

John Y. Morrison has recently opened a general store at Farm Point, near Ottawa, in the building known as "the Elms." Mr. Morrison also has the Farm Point post office in connection with the store. An up-to-date line of groceries, fruit, confectionery, boots and shoes, and a general assortment of dry goods will always be in stock.

A Store Remodelled and Equipped for $3,000

Small Welland County Town Boasts of One of Finest Groceries in Ontario—Department for Comfort of Customers—Confectionery, China and Crockery Sold—Newest Bin Fixtures and Shelving.

Thorold, June 30.—At an expense of about $3,000 an old store here has been transformed into one of the handsomest, cleanest and up-to-the-times grocery stores in Ontario. This may probably seem to be a rather sweeping statement, but it is a fact, nevertheless. There is little doubt that it surpasses ninety-nine out of every hundred outside of the larger cities—and Thorold is yet only a town of over 2,000 inhabitants.

The credit is due to the enterprise of J. T. Petrie, the proprietor, who, about the beginning of the year, took over the store until then owned by the late T. E. Simpson, and his estate. The stock had previously been sold by auction, and when Mr. Petrie assumed control he remodelled the interior so completely that there is not the semblance of a sameness with the one that stood before.

The remodelling in such an up-to-date manner is largely an experiment on the part of Mr. Petrie. The store was opened to the public about six weeks ago and the large expenditure to obtain the up-to-date fixtures and equipment has so far been justified by the amount of business done.

The owner wants no better compliment than this: An esteemed old lady well known in Thorold, came into the store shortly after it was opened and after looking over the interior, she remarked, "Well, Mr. Petrie, I don't know whether you or the citizens of Thorold are to be congratulted for this."

In the first place the store-front is attractive. The block is of brick, and at once commands attention. There are two large show windows with prism glass at the top and the entrance between.

In Three Sections.

The store is 118 feet long and 20 feet wide, and is divided into three sections —confectionery and grocery department, china and crockery, and storeroom. It has a hardwood floor and hot water heating apparatus with the furnace in the basement.

The cellar is used for storage purposes and has a concrete floor, so that goods are kept cool and wholesome. A new feature in the basement are prism windows, hung from the beams, and which may be either hooked on the beams or left hanging so as to diffuse the light to the rear.

Among the equipments belonging to the most modern types are the bin-fixtures, computing scale, butter and egg refrigerator, meat slicer and coal oil measurer. The counters and bins are of solid oak, with medium dark golden-velvet finish. The store is lighted by electricity with 12 Tungeston lights, each 40 candle-power. The chain idea is particularly attractive.

For Customers' Comfort.

Upon entering the store there is observed on the left hand side near the large plate glass show window an inviting corner or waiting room, which has been set apart for the convenience and comfort of customers and their friends.

In close proximity is the confectionery department, stocked with high-class confectionery, temptingly displayed in plate glass show cases. Following this is the main grocery department, equipped with counters and wall cases fitted with bevel mirror front and full glass display bins of different sizes for the display and handling of all lines of bulk goods, and shelving of special design for the attractive display of bottle, package and can goods.

On the opposite side of the store is a combination biscuit and fruit case, fitted with display bins for the handling of fancy biscuits without breaking the original package, and open fruit compartments for an extensive line of fresh fruits, and early vegetables.

The upper part of this case is enclosed with sliding glass doors, providing a magnificent cabinet for fine china, glassware, etc. From this case a section of open wall case and shelving runs back to the private and general offices, which are placed most conveniently between the front and back stores.

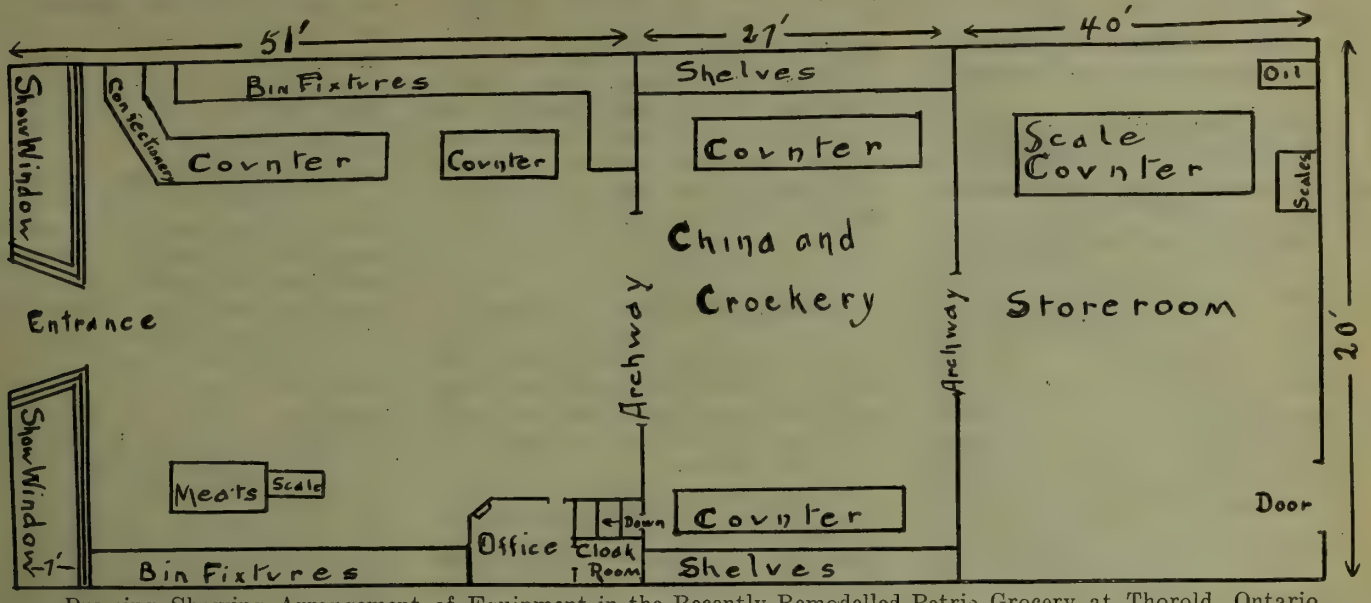
There is also a counter on the same side used for the handling and weighing of meats, with a receptacle beneath fitted with sliding doors.

There is a cloak and wash room to the rear of the office, and this is fitted in accorance with the rest of the store. A partition with a large archway separates the grocery from the china and crockery department. The china is attractively arranged on shelves and, by the way, Mr. Petrie was the first merchant in Thorold who imported these goods from the Old Country.

Mr. Petrie's enterprise does not stop at the door of the china department. His store-room to the rear holds its own with the remainder of the store.

A counter equipped with a weighing-scale is located on the left-hand side. This is used for weighing flour, etc., which would tend to produce more or less dirt in the store proper if the work were done there.

An automatic coal oil measurer is attached to the 250-gallon tank, and those who are familiar with this device will recognize the accuracy and saving of labor which it affords. A large scale for weighing heavy goods, such as salt, flour and sugar, is built in the floor just inside the store-room door.



No delivering whatever is done from the front door. Everything goes out at the rear and this is recognized as a great convenience and a protection against dirt in the store.

Mr. Petrie is also the proprietor of a grocery and crockery store in St. Catharines, where he personally attends to business. His manager in Thorold is A. H. Higgins, who is an experienced grocer and who is working up a good business. His labor should be comparatively easy with such an attractive place of business. Mr. Petrie's progress will be watched with interest, particularly in view of the fact that he has expended so much in the remodeling and equipment of a store which has certainly been done with a view to obtaining the best.

The Price Book from the Retailer's Standpoint

A Grocery Salesman Describes a "Store-Kink" That His Employer Used to Advantage—A Ready Reference Book That Lasts a Lifetime.

By A. R. H.

Having noticed in a recent issue of The Grocer your desire to learn from clerks something about "store kinks," I have convinced myself that in the store in which I am employed, we have one.

Counter check books, day books and ledgers are common, but the term "price book" is probably unfamiliar to the majority.

This "price book" is intended for reference and the information which it gives is of great advantage. The one to which I refer is about eighteen inches long and eight wide, and strongly bound. The cost should not be beyond three dollars, and for any ordinary grocer it should last a business life-time.

Each page, as you will see by the top of each, which practically explains the use and value of the book.

The first column is for the name of the article the retailer buys from the wholesaler or manufacturer. After every purchase the price-book is used accompanying drawing, is divided into a dozen sections with a heading at the for recording it. Next comes the "brand," if there are more manufacturers than one, and this is followed by the "invoice price." The last column mentioned is one of the most important to the grocer. He can at any time turn to any article he has ever purchased and find what he paid for it. This is evidently an advantage, as it saves delays, and settles disputes in a minute.

The "discount" columns follow, one for the trade and the other for the cash. This also is handy to the buyer, who desires to purchase to the best advantage.

A section showing the cost of freight is also counted among the valuable ones. Freight rates from various points is information often wanted and wanted badly. The price-book covers it nicely if proper care is taken in keeping it up-to-date.

The retail and wholesale prices are also given. If a customer comes into the store and disputes a price, saying that we sold her a certain article for such-and-such a price, all we have to do is to consult the price book in order to form an estimation of his or her memory.

Supposing a customer wanted to buy several boxes of a brand of soap. We naturally would give him a special price since he was taking a quantity. A half-minute perusal of the price-book shows us exactly the wholesale price and we can in a moment give our price to that customer. It has proven very valuable in this respect and often have we had occasion to use it.

The party from whom the goods were bought is shown by the "bought of" column and this is fololwed by the "date of invoice," which is another of the particularly advantageous columns. If a traveler is offering us goods and we are not satisfied with his price, we turn to the price-book to see what they cost us the last time or at any time in the past.

THE MARKET FEATURES.

Retailers should study the canned goods situation at the present time with a view to purchasing to the best advantage. As pointed in another column on this page quotations have been made by packer to jobber and by jobber to retailer and a large amount of goods have changed hands. Opening prices are low.

Strawberries have been the feature of the market of the past week, but the season is now on the decline. Prices dipped down rather low once or twice and on the whole were higher than anticipated. The crop was an abundant one, but owing to the infrequency of rains the fruit quickly ripened and was marketed in a hurry. Prices on a few occasions and in some places were lower than for years.

Canadian cherries and imported apricots now hold the stage-centre in the fruit market and grocers should look to these at once. Home-grown peas and tomatoes are also on the market. New potatoes are dropping in price, a change of 25 cents per barrel being noticed in Montreal.

The hog and hog-product situation is peculiar. An advance of a dollar a hundred for pork has occurred in Montreal, while in Ontario the prices are, if anything, easier. There has been an advance in lard in the former place also, to the extent of a quarter of a cent, while in Halifax the price is up to 16 cents per lb.—the highest in years.

The Winnipeg market shows a decline in rolled oats but markets elsewhere are unchanged. The price of wheat is also lower than a week ago.

In the fish market, salmon prices quoted for Fraser River Sockeye are lower by about a dollar a case. Live lobsters are higher with the close of the season and an advance has taken place in Gaspe salmon.

CANNED GOODS A PUZZLE.

While jobbers are quoting prices to the retail trade on canned vegetables and strawberries, what the future will bring forth regarding changes is by no means certain.

One thing is assured and that is that opening prices are considerably lower than those of a year ago. This is due to several causes, among them being good crop prospects and held over stock in some cases from last season's pack. Retailers have felt that the prices existing during the past two years had the effect of curtailing consumption and have impressed this upon jobbers and indirectly upon canners. No doubt this, as well as keen competition, has had something to do with the low prices.

Considerable quantities of tomatoes are still in stock. Opening prices at which contracts will be made by jobbers to retailers are from 17 to 20 cents per dozen lower than last year. Corn is down 10 cents and peas about the same. Beans are also cheaper by 10 to 12 cents, while strawberries, of which quantities have been carried over are less by 65 cents per dozen than opening prices a year ago.

The drought of the past few weeks has had the effect of shortening the strawberry crop and in consequence prices have gone up about 10 cents in some instances from those quoted last week.

No prices have yet been quoted on raspberries, but from present appearances the crop will be good. Few raspberries were carried over from last year, the supply having scarcely been equalled by the demand.

Still the future is an enigma, as is intimated by one jobber's assertion. When asked what was likely to happen he replied: "I would like to be able to tell you that; if I could we would make some money out of canned goods this year."

Packers are quoting prices to jobbers on an open market. The latter may sell to whom and at what prices they desire, which only makes the situation more of a puzzle. This accounts for so many different quotations to the retail trade.

FEW MORE LAWS TO BREAK.

It would be a rather difficult proposition to imagine more fraudulent business methods than those credited to the American Sugar Refining Company, recently compelled to make amends in millions for brazenly cheating the customs department of the United States. Even at the present time some of the minor employes are under indictment charged with the offense of actually committing the frauds.

A few days ago the same company settled out of court, rather than allow the case to come before a jury, a suit for $30,000,000 brought against it by the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company for conspiracy in restraint of trade.

By tracing past records it will be found that it has been convicted and fined for obtaining rebates. Memory will also carry some back to the times of the secret pipe-connection by means of which thousands of dollars' worth of water were stolen from the city supply for use in the Brooklyn refinery.

The method by which the Sugar Trust annihilated its Philadelphia rival is described by the Wall Street Journal as so ugly that it "can not be adequately characterized under the statutes governing newspaper comment."

A loan to the Pennsylvania Sugar Company, secured on a majority block of that company's stock, was made by a secret agent of the Sugar Trust, with the seemingly harmless stipulation that the lender should nominate the directors until the loan was paid off. He elected himself and his clerks directors, and immediately shut down the Pennsylvania refinery.

The tricking of the government by false scales and the tricking of a rival company by a false loan are probably two of the most grave offenses in business that any United States concern can be accused of.

The New York Tribune in commenting on this says:

"The revelations in regard to the short-weight scales supply a commentary upon the revelations regarding the trick by which the rival plant in Philadelphia was closed. Many are too prone to dismiss cheating in the realm of high finance as mere 'smartness,' but here we have an illustration that goes hand in hand with the vulgar forms of cheating; that the agents or the management which stoops to one is not above the other; that the moral sense blunted at one end is likely to prove dull at the other; that, to be specific, those who would trick the Philadelphia refinery-owners out of their property would also systematically trick the Government with short-weight scales and are of the same kidney with the cheating grocer."

Whether or not any important statute has escaped its attentions, the Trust can certainly point with pride to the extensive fractures it has produced in the United States revenue laws, the Interstate Commerce Law, and the Sherman Antitrust Law.

AN EATON EDUCATION.

At the annual convention of the Retail Merchants' Association, held in Brockville recently, there was a resolution passed condemning the action of the Ontario Government in granting the school-book contract to the T. Eaton Company.

The discussion leading up to the passing of this resolution brought out some interesting facts and opinions. The convention was a unit as regards the scheme of the Eaton Company in offering to do the work at such a low figure. It was evidently an advertising scheme, which would tend to undermine the business of retail merchants throughout the province.

It was estimated that out of every 1,000 of the buying population outside of Toronto, only one knew how to deal correctly with the departmental stores. The aim of the T. Eaton Company was to educate the 999, and the fact that they have the school-book contract is a factor that will loom up large in their favor.

Merchants will not be keen to handle books in which there will be little profit for them. The bulk of the business will therefore be done directly with the publishers. This gives the company an excellent opportunity to propagate their campaign in educating the public how to do business with them. In sending for school-book supplies, which every family in Ontario must necessarily have, orders will soon be given for dry goods, groceries, etc. With the extensive advertising campaign being continuously waged by the T. Eaton Company, the general public will desire to do buying from them and they want to know how.

No doubt the T. Eaton Company had this in view when they tendered for the contract. It is probable, however, that they will fare better than they planned, and to that it will be to the disadvantage of the retail merchants from one end of the province to the other.

PRACTICAL MEN NEEDED.

Too often do the Governments of the provinces and of the Dominion err in their selection of men for commissions of enquiry into existing circumstances affecting health and trade conditions. Frequently men are placed on such commissions who lack the ability to intelligently inquire into affairs which require thorough consideration.

Men are not all fitted for similar work. Members of Parliaments may be all right to discuss laws and regulations for the country, but when it comes to determining whether an alleged food is pure or not, practical men are needed.

Political favorites come in too frequently for work about which they know absolutely nothing. These are not the men to be selected by Governments. One practical men is worth a dozen such.

There is considerable truth in the philosophy of Elbert Hubbard, when he says that one good man can do as much in one hour as a committee can do in a week.

FARMING AND BUSINESS.

The more farmers there are, and what is of still greater importance, the more farmers there are scientifically cultivating the soil the better will it be for the country merchants.

Next to the farmers none would profit as much from an ideal condition of farm life as the country mercantile interests.

A prosperous farming community means a prosperous mercantile community.

Schemes, therefore, which tend to greater agricultural productiveness and add to the attractiveness of farm life should receive the sympathy and active aid of business men.

Where nothing is being done it will be anything but waste of time for business men to put their hands to the plough and cultivate an agitation.

Through business men's organizations, farmers' institutes, school boards, local press and many other ways much can be done.

It is education that is wanted—education that will attract the children in rural schools to farm life and that will induce the farmer to employ scientific and more profitable methods.

Now is the accepted time for the business man to get busy.

UNFAIR PUBLICITY.

Complaints are growing, says the New York Journal of Commerce, against the practice of many of the State pure food officials who take samples here and there, have them analyzed and publish the analysis, often branding the product "illegal" without taking any court proceedings.

The national law specially forbids any publicity until the case has been tried and a court decision reached.

Only recently the food inspector of a western state took samples of a canned fruit which had swelled and was unfit for use. This is liable to happen to any brand of any product of the kind, and is perfectly apparent to any purchaser.

In this instance the commissioner published broadcast that he had examined a sample of "So-and-so" brand of canned fruit and found it unfit for consumption. There was no chance given to the packer to state his side of the case, for there certainly are two sides in cases of that nature.

Ex parte decisions grow less popular every year, and this practice of putting the brand of illegitimacy on a product without a court trial is unfair to the manufacturer and opens what might be a large line of graft if the official was so inclined.

OBTAINED HER TEA TRADE.

Grocers everywhere are up against the peddling nuisance, and how to make the best of circumstances should therefore be the keynote of every retailer's methods.

The experience of a grocer in this connection is interesting and his method of alleviating the evil of one customer buying her tea from the peddler is worthy of consideration.

The customer in purchasing her groceries included a quarter of a pound of tea in the order. The grocer looked surprised that such a small quantity satisfied the large family which he knew existed in this particular case. He referred diplomatically to these conditions whereupon he was informed that she purchased her tea from a party who called regularly at her residence.

A sound, sensible talk, one free from any offence, ensued. The grocer asked if it were fair that he should maintain his business for the convenience of a clientele while the latter in return purchased tea, fruit, etc., from men who were here to-day and gone to-morrow, who came at their own conveniences and who took no interest in the welfare of the community.

The woman was a sensible one and susceptible to reason. She had never looked at it in that way before, but since the new phase of the question was presented in a reasonable, fair manner, she decided to discontinue purchasing from the tea-peddler. Her decision was acted upon and the grocer henceforth secured her entire tea business.

This illustrates what can be accomplished by diplomacy and reason. The same applies to those who buy from the mail-order houses.

Notes from the Maritime Provinces and Quebec

How a Sydney Store Has Been Remodelled — Heavy Lobster Shipments From Halifax to England—Sugar Arrivals From the West Indies—St. John Grocer's Method of Catching Tourist Trade.

SYDNEY C.B.

July 6.—Improvements to the premises of Harringtons Limited, Charlotte Street, are nearing completion. When finished this store will be one of the finest in its own line in the Maritime Provinces. A spacious, well lighted room on the second floor, 50 by 30 feet, will be devoted entirely to the crockery and chinaware department. The room is now in the hands of the painters and it will undoubtedly, when completed, be one of the handsomest shop apartments in the city. At night it will be brilliantly lighted, and with the great variety of chinaware etc., displayed will make an attractive point for shoppers. The firm is making a specialty of crockeryware and kitchen utensils of all kinds and their stock is probably the finest ever seen here. The transferring of the crockery department to the second floor gives more room on the first or street floor, which will be devoted exclusively to groceries. It is likely that new plate glass windows as well as a new central door, will be put in. In the back premises refrigerators of a special kind have been installed, which will keep goods fresh, and clean.

ST. JOHN.

July 6.—Austrian granulated sugar advanced ten cents during the last week and fresh salmon is dearer.

The harbor fishing season is now pretty near at an end. Salmon have been scarce and the price high. The majority of the fish were shipped to the United States for July fourth market. Shad were quite plentiful, but the demand from the west kept the price high. Gaspereaux were in good supply and lobsters have been quite plentiful.

The cold backward weather has retarded the growth of vegetables and berries and these are all likely to be later than usual this season. The first lot of green peas arrived on Monday and sold at 75 cents a peck.

Strawberries are coming in slowly and the price keeps high. They are retailing now at 17 and 18 cents a box.

Rhubarb is selling now at 1 to 1½ cents a pound wholesale.

Talking with a number of the retail grocerymen this week it was remarked that business had fallen off considerably in the past few weeks. This was accounted for largely by the annual exodus of city people to the suburbs. A A few years ago it made little difference to the local grocers if their customers did go away to the country, as they would continue to send supplies to them by train or boat, but in the past few years, small grocery and general stores have been established in the suburban districts, while teams with meats and fish and some with a moderate sized grocery store on wheels, call at the houses several times a week and the people, finding it much more convenient to get stuff right at their doors, gradually cut away from their city dealer. This means quite a loss to the city merchants, as the annual exodus to the country seems to be more popular each year.

One grocer has shown his enterprise by having a neat time folder printed, showing the arrival and departure of suburban trains on different lines, and each of these folders is a constant reminder that this grocer,—M. E. Grass —makes a specialty of suburban orders and gives careful attention to the wants of picnic parties, fishermen, sportsmen, etc., etc.

Several wholesale and retail grocers have moved with their families to the country for the summer. Hon. D. J. Purdy is at Millidgeville; Charles F. Francis, at Pamdenec; Ald. John W. Vamwart, at Riverside; John A. Lipsett, at Renforth; Sydney Francis, at Acamac; J. Willard Smith, at Westfield; L. G. Crosby, at Ononette, and Charles H. McDonald, at Woodman's Point.

HALIFAX.

July 6.—The grocery business is reported good all round and the prospects for a continuance are excellent. Money is circulating quite freely and collections show considerable improvement. The demand for fancy goods remains strong and staples are being neglected for the present. The wholesale jobbers are asking 16 cents per pound for lard. This is the highest price quoted here for lard in many years. While the sugar market is still easy there is no reason to suppose that there will be any change for several weeks. Another advance is noted in rolled oats, and the price now quoted is six dollars per barrel. Some Egyptian onions are now coming on the market. The quality is good and they are wholesaling at about 3¾ cents per pound. There is an abundance of fruit of excellent quality and prices are fairly reasonable. The first new potatoes came on the market this week. They are American and the price is high, $2.50 per bushel being asked.

With a full cargo, including ten thousand cases of lobsters valued at nearly $200,000, the Furness line steamer Kanawah sailed for London to-day. This shipment of lobsters is the second of the present season from Halifax and the prospects are that even larger and more valuable shipments will be made shortly.

E. M. Walker who started a grocery business in Dartmouth in 1869, retired from business life last week and his business passed into the hands of John B. Coleman and John Eisniner. Mr. Walker will spend the remaining years of his life without the exacting ties of a retail business. H. R. Walker, who was in charge of the tea department of the business, has branched out for himself, and has taken the adjoining shop and warehouse, where he will conduct a wholesale tea house.

Large quantities of sugar are on the way to Halifax. The steamer Uller is bringing a full cargo from Trinidad, and the steamer General Gordon will leave the same port later with sugar for Halifax. The regular Pickford and Black steamers are also bringing large cargoes. About ten thousand bags, landed here from the steamer Crown of Galica, are still at the Deep Water terminus awaiting shipment in Montreal.

It is predicted that the strawberry crop in Nova Scotia this year will be small, owing to the drought during the latter part of June. The season opened this week with the arrival of a few crates of fair quality berries. The price opened at 25 cents and as the shipments gained slightly the price dropped to 20 cents per box.

There is not much change in the butter market, prices remain pretty steady. It is reported that some of the wholesale dealers are buying up the surplus butter placing it in cold storage. Creamery is quoted at 25 cents and fresh made dairy at 20 to 22 cents. Chesse, large are quoted at 13 and twins at 13½. Eggs are in fairly good supply, and the most of the stock offering is of good quality. The price quoted is about 17 cents.

E. W. Crease and Sons retail grocers, Argyle Street, have realized the benefit of up-to-date fittings and have recently had them installed in their store. They now have new bin fixtures all around the store, and while displaying the goods excellently, they are at the same time protected from the dust. The fittings are all of quartered oak and the drawers and bins all work on pivots or rollers and are most convenient.

J. T. Poulin has joined the sales staff of Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal.

Louis Hambly, with Scandrett Bros., London, wholesale and retail grocers, was in Toronto last Friday.

— Emmerton, of Emmerton Bros, general merchants, Ripley, Ont., was in Toronto on Monday on a business trip.

OTTAWA.

July 7.—In spite of the weather, which was not the finest, there was a large offering on the market on Saturday morning and the attendance of buyers was good. As there was no Thursday market on account of the holiday, two days' buying had to be compressed into one. The feature of the offering was the quantity of vegetables on sale. Prices were as follows: beets, 40c doz.; peas, 25c qt.; carrots, 30c doz.; radishes, 4 doz. 25c; onions, 3 doz. 25c; asparagus still holds at $1.00 doz. The offering of strawberries was by far the best yet on view, $1.00 per dozen boxes being the prevailing figure for local berries. Potatoes are firm at $1.10 to $1.25 per bag. Butter was perhaps a little stiffer, the price asked being 23 to 25c per pound for pail variety. Chickens brought from $1.25 to $1.75 per pair.

There were 922 boxes of cheese boarded on Friday last on the Ottawa Cheese Board and all were sold except 220 boxes. The prices were 11⅝ and 11 9-16 as compared with 11¼ and 11⅜ the week previous.

The Dominion Fruit Exchange, Ottawa, last week brought large quantities of strawberries into the city and ran a large advertisement in the local papers for three days stating they would sell retail to any person at 6 and 6½c per box delivered. Needless to remark the housewife took advantage of the same and it was necessary to employ five deliveries to deliver the fruit, each purchaser having to buy the whole crate of 27 boxes. The retailers feel that they have been slighted and are very much up in arms over the affair. About 80 per cent. of the dealers are buying now direct from the gardens and leaving the auction sales to the peddlers.

The marriage of F. W. Forde, retail grocer and former president of the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association, to Mrs. Lizzie Jane Harrison, took place quietly on Friday evening. The guests included only the relatives of the contracting parties. The groom was supported by A. G. Johnson, grocer. After the ceremony and supper, Mr. and Mrs. Forde left on a trip to Old Orchard via Boston and New York, and are not expected home for two weeks.

E. Hunt, a Bank St. grocer, has returned from a trip to the Old Country.

The change in the weather is much greater in Ottawa than what one carries around in his trouser's pockets.

LINDSAY.

July 6.—Ed. Robson, proprietor of the West End Grocery, had an attractive window this week. He had it dressed to catch the eye of the camper and the tourist. A miniature tent in one corner dyed excelsior for grass, a water pond, etc., as well as a variety of supplies, were the essentials in this A-1 camp.

New potatoes made their appearance on the market Saturday and also in the grocery stores. They sold at fifty cents a peck, and a great number of the citizens, more especially those who are fond of relishes, bought a peck or two. The first always seem to be the tastiest.

There has been an exceptionally good run on strawberries this past week. As far as the town growers are concerned so far the crop has been small, but large shipments have been received from outside points. Locally the growers state that they are only getting one box this season where last season they got five—quite a falling off. Some of the grocers and fruit stores are selling these at eleven boxes for the dollar, while others are selling them at fourteen for a dollar. It does not seem just the right practice to follow. The grocers would no doubt benefit if the prices were uniform.

Robson's grocery store was entered by burglars the other day, although nothing of any account has been missed. They entered the cellar through the grate at the front of the store, but fortunately the door into the cellar from the store was securely locked and the intruders were baffled.

Your correspondent dropped into Adams Bros.' store Saturday afternoon and had a brief chat with the senior member of the firm, J. E. Adams. When asked how business had been he at once stated that he had never experienced it better. "I'll tell you how it goes," said he. "A large trade was done in pineapples this season, more so than last year. There was a big demand for the pines, and of course it naturally follows that those buying pineapples for preserving purposes also needed the sugar, etc. Well, it so happened that the season for pines extended into the season for strawberries, and the demand for the luscious red berries promises to be brisk. Already hundreds of boxes have been disposed of. I think that before the strawberry season closes we will have a plentiful supply of raspberries, gooseberries, etc., so that we are having a splendid season all round; and it is peculiar in the grocery business, as soon as there is a demand in any one line, other lines seem to take a step forward at the same time. We have experienced it that way. So far the fruit season has been a very bountiful one."

Palmer Eyres has joined the ranks of the sugar shakers and counter hoppers. He started in with Adams Bros. Saturday, and as it was a busy day he got off to a good beginning.

PETERBORO.

July 7.—The merchants have not yet announced the midsummer half holiday which they extended to their clerks last year. The latter are looking forward to it but as yet there does not seem even to be a rumor of it. All the towns in this district are having closed stores on one afternoon in the week, the choice being Wednesdays in some places and Thursdays in others.

There was a slight swoop upwards in the price of eggs last Saturday on the market. The farmers were asking 20 cents a dozen.

Since the opening of the season for early fruits and vegetables there has been a marked falling off in the usual market offerings. The Grocer's correspondent has been observing the state of affairs and it is apparent that the merchants are getting a greater trade than in the past years. The market gardeners seem to have forsaken their one time habit of displaying their goods on the market and are going directly to the grocers. The channel seems to have been diverted and even the practice of selling from house to house has fallen off to a large extent. This has been noticed during the last month in the case of radishes, onions, new peas, early potatoes, strawberries, cherries, etc. There is one fact assured and that is that Peterboro people receive little or no opposition from the farmers on the market compared to former years.

Peterboro grocers had to send out of town for a large part of their strawberry supplies. The warm dry weather seems to have cut down the local supply considerably. The price has been very fair and one day last week, R. C. Braund offered an excellent quality at 14 boxes for $1. He had no trouble in disposing of them. This price of course did not prevail and the general quotation is now ten for a dollar. The imported berry seems to meet with more favor than those grown locally. This has been reported in more than one instance.

J. T. Donoghue, corner of Rubidge and Sherbrooke streets, has made decided improvements to his grocery store both interiorally and exteriorally. He has been in business several years and has now a model equipment for the handling of general provisions and groceries. In spite of opposition he is enjoying a good business and the neat trim appearance of his place should be an additional asset. His show cases and shelves are well arranged from a utility standpoint and every thing is bright and inviting. His windows have new awnings and the entire place is a credit to the proprietor.

The commencement of the fruit season is again calling for an extra supply of sugar and the grocers state that the demand is showing a slight increase. Cherries and berries are at present the only fruits that the housekeepers are buying.

White & Gillespie invariably have a night show window. They arrange to have some kinds of goods on display and a colored light shows off the goods in a striking manner. It is generally a quiet arrangement but it is so neat and dainty that it always demands attention. The firm seems to have made a specialty of this and it always catches the attention of the people passing after dark, which in the summer time is generally a larger number than during the day.

LONDON.

July 7.—Wholesale grocery trade is fair, merchants reporting orders more numerous than usual, but not as large. Collections are good. All staple goods remain unchanged. The tea market is firm. Early pickings of Japans are about all sold out at one to one and a half cent higher than last years. There are no quotations yet for cheaper teas. Quotations for California fruits are coming in.

Norman McLeod, whose portrait photograph is here reproduced is vice-president and one of the most energetic members of the Retail Grocers' Association. At the recent picnic Mr. McLeod was indefatigable in his efforts to please the association's guests, and to him as much as anyone else is due the success of that affair. Mr. McLeod is the oldest retail grocer in the city, his two stores,

NORMAN McLEOD,

First Vice-President of the London Retail Grocers' Association, and the Oldest Grocer in the Forest City.

the "Cash Bargain Grocery," at 133 King street and 609 Dundas street, being among the best stocked and most efficiently conducted in the city. Years ago Mr. McLeod clerked in the store of Charles Elliott, recently of Elliott, Marr & Co., and now collector of customs for London. A son of Mr. McLeod's, Norman, jun., is also in the grocery business here.

In connection with the merger of the principal gum factories of the United States and that of C. R. Somerville, of this city, a number of men connected with the movement were in the city last week. The visitors, who included Mayor Adam Leighton, of Portland, Maine; F. B. Adams, of Portland; Samuel Graves, of Salem, Ohio; T. W. Schwab, of Philadelphia, were entertained at the Tecumseh, and afterwards left with Mr. Somerville to inspect the different concerns in the merger. It is rumored that Mr. Somerville will be made general manager for Canada of the combined factories, and it is estimated that within three years the business done by the factory here should be trebled under the new regime.

Member of the Retail Grocers' Association are talking of running an excursion to Port Stanley, on the afternoon of the 21st inst., with a moonlight trip on Lake Erie in the evening. On the same day the annual event known as "the grocers' excursion to Niagara Falls" will be held.

CHATHAM.

July 7.—The strawberry season is practically finished. Though busy while it lasted, it was unusually short. A good rain last week would possibly have prolonged it. The season, however, was late in beginning; and it seems as if such seasons, no matter when they begin, usually terminate at the same time every year. The raspberry season will open in about a week's time. Grower's report prospects excellent; though it is admitted that everything depends on weather conditions. Several grocers have remarked that in spells like this, when the bulk of business is large and the turnover considerable, business is largely confined to special features, and regular shelf goods move slowly. The explanation doubtless is that housewives are so busy preserving that families get "pot luck" in the matter of meals.

Berry prices were pretty well maintained this year, the lowest being $1.25 a crate. There has been very little, if any, cutting in sugar. Most of that reported apparently originates in the minds of bargain-hunting shoppers. Grocers here are well satisfied to let a few isolated cutters cut, the general conviction being that they do themselves more harm than good.

Grocers and customers alike seem well pleased with the improvements in the quality of jars this year. They are much better packed than formerly and breakages are rare compared with last year, when it was not unusual to have four or five broken jars in a single box. Not only this, but a prime cause of complaint in the old jars seems, in part at least, to have been remedied. Housewives complain that with 1907 and 1908 jars after they were a little while in use, it was impossible to screw the rims tight. Blame was attached to the lightness of the tin used. This year the rims seem to fit much tighter.

Wilfrid McCorvie, of the grocery firm of John McCorvie & Son, leaves tomorrow morning for a month's trip to the west. He will tour the Canadian west to the Pacific coast, take in the Seattle exposition, and return via Southern California and Salt Lake City.

V. J. Bosworth, jr., of the Bosworth grocery, 184 William St., is spending a couple of weeks in New York City.

Jas. A. Thompson, confectioner and wholesale and retail fruit dealer, last week made an assignment to T. A. Smith of this city. The creditors' meeting will be held in Chatham on July 14.

Geo. Dodson, grocer and general merchant, Highgate, was recently united in marriage to Miss Edna Shaufler of Tilbury East.

Miss Foster, daughter of Jeff Foster, grocer, of Leamington, was the winner of a free trip to Muskoka offered by a Windsor paper, and is now enjoying her holiday. Miss Mary Malott is taking Miss Foster's place on the grocery staff.

Jas. Rutherford, manager of the Blenheim mill of the Canada Flour Mills Co., Limited, since its inception, has purchased the mill from the company.

Miss Bertha Hill, for five years bookkeeper of the King Edward Grocery, Chatham, was married on June 30 to Donald McDonald of this city. Miss Verna Meggs has joined the King Edward staff in Miss Hill's place.

TORONTO.

July 5.—Dominion Day brought with it the annual parade of the Toronto Open-air Horse Parade Association in which many horses belonging to grocers and the allied interests took part and obtained prizes. This year the entries numbered 574, being an increase of 119 over those of last year. Medals and prizes were presented in Queen's Park by Mayor Oliver, assisted by President Noel Marshall, the president of the Association. In the class "Commercial Horses in Harness," open to all, prizes were won by York Springs and Lake of the Woods Milling Co. The Harris Abbatoir Co. captured third for single express and heavy delivery horse and outfit, open to all, and in the single horse and outfit, open to bakers and confectioners, the results were: 1, Sam, Christie, Brown & Co.; 2, Cock o' the North, Cowan Company, Limited; 3, Napoleon, Bredin Bread Company. There was a class open to grocers only in single horse and outfit, the judges being Wm. Radcliffe and C. A. Dunning. The winners were: 1, Roger, R. Barron, Limited, and Dollie, R. Matthews, 509 Yonge Street; 2, Joe, H. G. Macdonald, 223 Sorauren Avenue, and Fred, R. Barron; 3, Polly, Thos. Berrie, 349 Broadview Avenue, and King, Robert Glendenning, 114 Westmoreland Avenue; 4, Maude S. K., W. Armstrong, 852 Yonge Street, and Fred, R. Matthews, 509 Yonge Street. A similar class open to fruit, fish and game dealers showed the following prize winners: 1, Kitty D., M. Doyle, 26 Market Street; 2, Jack, R. A. Leighton, Davenport road, Seventh Ward; 3, Charles II., Clemes Bros., Church Street; 4, Jessie, Fred Woodlawn, 55 Palmerston Avenue; commended, Nellie, A. Cosento, 165 Queen St. West. In the single horse and outfit, open to millers and flour and feed merchants, prizes were won as follows: 1, Kate, R. Knowles, 656-658 Yonge St.; 2, King, A. Armstrong, 263 Pape Ave.; 3, Tom, John Williamson, 538 Bloor Street West; 4, Peter, E. D. Gamsby, 806 Queen Street East. In class 41, single horse and outfit, open to wholesale and retail provision merchants, Fred, belonging to F. J. White of Minto Bros., came first; Don I., Maciver Bros., second; Dann, White & Co., 32 Bismarck Ave., third, and Sailor Boy, Willard & Co., fourth.

Several Toronto bakers have reduced the size of loaves of bread from 20 to 16 ounces. This is virtually a rise in price of one and a quarter cents per 20 ounces. The cause is attributed to the rise in the price of flour.

R. J. Williams, 896 College Street, who succeeded A. Rily, is satisfied after a month's experience, that he made no mistake in choosing the location he did. He hustles, and his wife looks after the details of the store.

W. J. Graham, College Street, was quite interested in the opinion expressed in last week's Grocer in reference to invoicing goods at retail prices, with a discount off for the profits of the retailer. He thinks it would be the best thing that ever happened. He is one of the live College Street grocers, who makes sure that he gets his share of what is going.

Geo. Rogers, 930, College Street, has his store always in good trim, and the seasonable goods in proper display.

A. Hudgin, 198 Dundas St., has some trouble with his canned goods. He sold several cans, which, according to the label on the outside, were tomatoes, but when opened by the customers they were found of a pale yellow color, and immediately returned as bad. Through his high qualifications as a grocer he soon discovered that the contents were a superior quality of pumpkins. He now looks at the label and is quite sure that it reads tomatoes, but is not quite so sure about the inside.

McCaw & McKay make a strong kick against the system of classing all grocers alike in dealing with them. They say that, if they, through some mistake, overlook to meet a weekly payment, in the minute they are blacklisted. "It is neither decent nor businesslike, and retailers should not stand for it," they say. "We pay our bills promptly, as they all know, but we do not like to submit to such harsh and unreasonable methods."

Mrs. Goodway, Dundas Street, has her store well looked after by her two daughters. They do their work in a businesslike manner, and deserve great credit, as well as a liberal share of the trade. They read The Grocer, which is a great help to them.

W. J. Fitzgerald, Christie Street, is also complaining about having been put on the black list. He thinks the wholesale men have a right to get their money, but they should not come after innocent men in that "bull-dog" way.

H. R. House, Christie Street, reads The Grocer, increases his trade, and is happy.

H. W. Smith succeeded John Waddell on Christie Street about four months ago. He claims that he has the store which was the first on that street, and in which several have made their "piles." By appearances, he will outdo his predecessors, for he is a worker.

STREETSVILLE.

June 7.—R. Graydon, who kept a general store here was one of the unfortunates who was burnt out a few days ago.

E. Goodison & Co., have been in Canada for 35 years, and conduct a general store business and carry everything from a needle to such articles as pianos, buggies, cream separators, etc. They take in large quantities of butter in exchange for goods, with which they supply grocers in Toronto. There are four general stores here, and if it is possible for one to handle a larger variety of goods than the other, it is this firm that takes the cake.

F. W. Morgan is mayor of the town as well as a merchant. He also carries so many lines that it would be easier to name what he does not carry than what he does. His store was considerably damaged by the fire and had a narrow escape.

C. H. Falconer has the store which was established by his father about 40 years ago. He was born here, where he spent all his life, and therefore knows all about his business, the town and the country surrounding.

Fred Ward's business has not yet developed into a department store. He does not carry everything but devotes his attention more to fruit, ice cream and other delicacies. With the assistance of his wife and daughter, he has very little reason to worry.

BRACEBRIDGE.

July 7.—Lazzare Bros, of Toronto, have opened out a wholesale and retail fruit store in the Tremble Block.

"Jimmie" Reid, the star home player of our lacrosse team had his knee badly hurt in a championship game on Dominion Day, making Armstrong & Gillespie short handed.

Kirk Bros. have a beautiful window display in the nature of camp supplies. The window shows an expert hand behind the scene, and reflects great credit on the trimmer.

Monday last seemed to be travelers day in our town as no less than nine called at one store. Its to be hoped they all secured good orders—at any rate they seemed to be happy.

A heavy tourist invasion is looked for from now on. Most of the leading hotels and large summer homes have already received applications for rooms.

Hutchison Bros., grocers, lost a valuable delivery horse on Friday last. "Old Duffy," was a general favorite and the above firm have lost a faithful servant.

The strawberry, on account of the big crop, found its way into nearly every household this year. The price—95 cents per dozen boxes—was the lowest reached in this section for some time. Last year a great many people and merchants got badly left on account of the short season and high prices.

The account of the London Retail Grocers picnic in the last issue of The Grocer is making itself felt in our town. Already some of our leading merchants and clerks are talking of having one. That's right boys, go ahead and get up a good one; the grocers need the outing, but don't forget The Grocer correspondent in the invitation list.

HAMILTON.

July 7.—Business seems to be getting in pretty good shape. Grocers report rushing trade in fruit and sugar which, while not showing so much profit as is made on some of the cereal lines it shows a little, keeps them moving and consequently there is less grumbling to be heard.

Wholesale grocers say things are booming both as to sales and collections, and that city trade never was better. We are advised that strenuous efforts have recently been made by the local houses to make arrangements with the manufacturers to ensure better profits for the retailers.

STRATFORD.

July 7.—Farmers on the market on Saturday last, reported that as yet, little or no hay has been cut, and it will probably be about a week yet before it is commenced. They also state that a good rain at the present time would be of great benefit to the grain, as well as the haycrop. All the usual farm products were in abundance, especially butter, eggs, potatoes and chickens. Instead of taking a downward drop as expected eggs and butter seem to be getting dearer. Each of these sold at 20c, and were present in large quantites. Potatoes brought from 75c to 90c, and chickens from 50c to 80c.

The outlook for small fruits is said to be the best that this section of the country has experienced for some years. Raspberries and cherries will be the next small fruit to come in. Cherries will not be forward in any large quantities for perhaps a week yet. Raspberries are well in the blossom and should ripen quickly under the present weather. They will do even better than the cherries, some growers of the latter, reporting that the early cold weather seemed to have caused quantities of the green cherries to fall from the trees. Plums will make a fine showing, if nothing happens to interefer with the present outlook. Here again are reports of plums falling from the trees, but the loss in this way will be atoned for in the improvement in the fruit that remains. Gooseberries are likely to be a very large crop; red currants are expected to be abundant also.

The strawberry season in this locality is practically ended. Although it has been a very heavy one with most grocers.

Business has been very brisk this last month, the June sales of this year, in many cases, far exceeding those of last year with most merchants; and the prospects for the next few months are brighter still.

INGERSOLL.

July 7.—This week will witness the passing of the strawberries. The crop has been a bountiful one, probably the largest in years in this section, but only for a day or two did the prices get down to those of a few years ago. Considering the great quantity of berries that were available the prices were comparatively high. There was probably never a time when the weather was more favorable and the fruit on the whole, of such first-class quality. The periods of rain and sunshine last week, however, had the effect of ripening the fruit unusually fast, and this fact alone was responsible for a drop in the price for which housewives had anxiously waited. The drop came when the growers found it necessary to market their fruit as quickly as they could get it gathered. For a couple of days seventeen boxes were sold for a dollar, and a few lots sold at 20 boxes for a dollar. This state of affairs however, was the exception. This week the supply has gradually dwindled down and the price is again back to ten cents per box, with only a fair demand.

It is felt that the Retail Merchants will receive favorable treatment from the council in regard to their request that peddlers and hawkers and others doing a transient business in the town be called upon to pay a higher fee than formerly. This matter was recently carried before the council by a very influential deputation, and at the time they were given to understand that their grievance would receive careful consideration. The finance committee of the council in reporting at a meeting this week instructed the clerk not "to grant a license to sell by public auction on the market square or anywhere in the corporation until such time as the council have considered the request of the Retail Merchants' Association."

Interest in the Retail Merchants Association continues to grow. The membership has been augmented and the association has taken up many questions by which they should profit as a whole. There has been much important work for the association during the past couple of years, and the only regret is that the same enthusiasm and earnest disposition, which now prevails, was not manifested months ago.

Large quantities of new potatoes are now being carried by the grocers. The demand for the old "spuds" is gradually falling off, as the new ones are coming in. The ruling price is 50 cents a peck.

GALT.

July 7.—Trade conditions in Galt are unusually brisk just at present. Grocers and merchants in other trades report that business is exceptionally good.

Galt now has a Wednesday market, which is largely patronized. Strawberries still remain high in Galt, the price not yet having fallen below three boxes for a quarter. Just why this is cannot be understood. The crop was an abundant one, while it lasted. New potatoes are worth 15c per quart; new cherries 15c per quart; new peas 40c peck; butter and eggs 20c.

The Board of Trade and Retail Merchants' Association recently tendered a complimentary banquet to Allan Deans and Hugh Walker, who formerly conducted the Red Front grocery store. The banquet was attended by a representative gathering of business and professional men, all of whom referred in eulogistic terms to the guests. They were presented with silver-mounted fountain pens. They have closed up business in Galt, Mr. Deans having accepted a position as traveler with a Toronto firm, and Mr. Walker goes to Paris. Their former premises will be occupied by Frank Chapple, stationer.

The retail merchants' picnic will be held on July 22nd this year. The picnic was exceptionally successful last year, and the committee in charge state that this year's will be even better.

Jas. Clay, proprietor of the grocery of that name, reports that business in his section of the town is particularly good just at present.

Grocers state that many housewives are doomed to go through the winter without the usual supply of preserved strawberries. "These people," said a grocer to your correspondent, "won't buy berries now. They imagine that if they wait until the last minute they will be able to get berries for five cents a box. But they won't."

THE TRADE SITUATION.

The fact that trade conditions in Canada are improving rapidly is shown by the government returns to hand for the month of May. Gratifying increases in both imports and exports are observed and indicate that the trade has practically recovered from the depression which set in during the fall of 1907, and is now almost equal in volume to the high record set two years ago.

Imports for the month totalled $28,060,076, an ncrease of $5,183,547 over May of last year. For the first two months of the fiscal year the imports totalled $50,592,549, an increase of $7,792,625 over the corresponding period of last year. The customs revenue for the month shows an increase of $670,000.

Exports of domestic produce for the month totalled $15,810,207, an increase of nearly two millions. For April and May the exports totalled $27,673,004, an increase of $2,471,704. The total trade last month, including coin and bullion, amounted to $44,911,726, an increase of $7,029,650. For the first two months of the fiscal year the increase in the total trade has been $11,457,926.

GROCERS' EXCHANGE NOTE.

P. Marrin, Winnipeg, extended an invitation to the Exchange to meet in the Manitoba capital in 1912, during the Selkirk Centennial Exposition. The invitation was unanimously accepted.

Alexander Foxton, Brockville, has disposed of his property on King Street west, comprising grocery store and adjoining residents, to W. M. Osborne, who has also purchased the complete fixtures, fittings and stock-in-trade. Mr. Foxton and his son, Edgar, purpose moving this month to Detroit, Mich., where the latter has already accepted a good position.

The St. Catharines Cold Storage and Forwarding Company have received satisfactory returns from the shipment of strawberries that went from there to Winnipeg last week. The fruit arrived in good condition and netted the growers $1.85 per crate. A consignment of cherries were shipped by the company to Winnipeg this week.

TRADE WITH THE BARBADOS.

E. H. S. Flood, Canadian Trade Commissioner in the Barbados, points out that Canadian manufacturers of condensed milk should look to trade with those islands. He says:—There was an increase in the importation of condensed milk into Barbados last year, and generally throughout the West Indies an increasing quantity is being annually imported. The attention of Canadian companies putting up this article should be directed to this market. By referring to the blue books, it is found that the import into Trinidad last year amounted to £22,029; in Demerara, £12,331; and in Barbados, £4,097, making a total of nearly £45,000 for these three principal colonies. At present Great Britain supplies the bulk of this trade.

Nairn & Jackson, grocer. Moose Jaw, Sask., have sold to W. J. Moffat.

Hector Cote, general merchant, Cavignac, Que., is offering a compromise.

Creditors of Geo. Hassan, general merchant, Tweed, Ont., met on the 8th inst.

Assets of St. Laurent & Freres, general merchants, Grand Street, Esprit, are sold.

The assets of T. Lecourt & Co., grocers and liquor merchants, Montreal are to be sold by tender.

VANCOUVER.

July 6.—Local eggs are advancing slightly, being quoted at 32c and 33c wholesale. Eastern candled stock are also slightly higher, being quoted from 25c to as high as 27c.

There will not be as much preserving done this year as in former seasons. Strawberries have not been as plentiful or as cheap as the housekeeper would wish. Just now the rush is on apricots.. Generally speaking, the fruit demand is very strong, although warm summer weather has not prevailed yet to any great extent. One merchant for instance handled nine cars of fruit on Saturday and Monday, which is going some.

Now that orders are being placed for Japanese oranges for the trade next Autumn, the provincial government is making public what it will do in regard to their importation. Notice is being given that all oranges found to be infected with San Jose scale or other scale insects will be dealt with in the same manner as importations of apples found to be similarly infected, that is either the consignment will be returned to the point of shipment or destroyed here.

The factory of the Kootenay Jam Company, at Nelson, has started operations for this season, the first boiling taking place on the occasion of the visit to that city of Premier McBride this week.

Having accepted another position, H. T. Goodland has resigned the management and secretaryship of the Chilliwack Canning and Preserving Company. He has been succeeded by J. H. Ashwell, who has been foreman in the factory.

Rev. G. W. Taylor, who is in charge of the Dominion biological station at Nanaimo, has been successful in hatching the eggs taken from some of the lobsters which were recently brought to this coast. The success of this experiment shows that the waters of this district are not too cold. It also points to the feasibility of carrying out a suggestion that has been made, namely, that instead of attempting further importations of adult lobsters, the eggs only should be brought to this coast and artificially hatched.

R. H. Frisby, of Chicago, designer of packing houses and cold storage plants, has gone north in the interests of the Canadian Fish Company to start the construction of the first of the company's buildings near Prince Rupert. The principals in this company are J. W. Stewart railway contractor; James Carruthers, of Montreal; and Andrew Kelly, of Winnipeg, president of the Western Canada Flour Mills Company. George H. Collins, of Vancouver, the managing director, has returned from an extended visit East in connection with business of the company. The investment altogether of the company will be about $500,000, the intention being to handle all the varieties of fish caught.

When Hon. William Templeman passed through this city on his way from Ottawa to Victoria, he was interviewed by the canners here, as well as by representatives of the white and Japanese fishermen on the Fraser river, who protested against the federal regulations governing salmon fishing on this coast. Under the new law, a 42-hour close season is to be inaugurated on the Canadian side, while on the American side, the period is only 36 hours. The point is that all the salmon pass through the American waters on their way to the Fraser, and the six-hour advantage is too much. It was also impressed upon Mr. Templeman that the old fishing boundaries on the Skeena should be resorted to in preference to the circumscribed area in the new regulations. Promise was made that the matters would be taken up with the department at once.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C.

July 6.—Now that the lots have been sold, purchasers are beginning to erect buildings in different parts of the town. The Prince Rupert Opera Co. are erecting a two-storey building and basement on the corner of 6th St. and 2nd Avenue. The basement to be used as a barber shop and billiard hall. The ground floor will be divided into six stores and the top floor will be used as a music hall. Another two-storey building 50x100 is going up on the corner of 6th St. and 3rd Ave., also a building with 150 feet frontage on 3rd Avenue between 6th and 7th Sts., is to be complted before the first of September. This promises to be the centre of the business district for some time, although at the time of the sale it was generally conceded that near McBride St., seven blocks further east, would be the starting point of the business district. This change is caused by outside speculators booming the prices near McBride St. amd forcing the business men now here, out of the field. Consequently after the sale the merchants here decided on at once starting a centre around Sixth Street and Second and Third Avenues, and it looks as if property in that section would be more valuable than that farther east.

Since the recent sale the railway company have disposed of about $40,000,000 worth of property to people here. Besides there has been a large turnover by people that bought at the sale. There is no great influx of people, which is a good thing for the town, as it is not desirable that there should be any great boom until the railway has arrived. If there were a boom now, a slump would follow, which would give the town a set back. As it is, it will move along slowly until such time or conditions warrant it in taking its place with any western town, so far as prosperity and opportunity goes.

WINNIPEG.

July 6.—Considerable gratification is being expressed this week among retailers and consumers regarding the quality of the watermelons that are on the market at present. Retailers claim that they never before handled such large melons and rarely have they seen so many of such good quality. The flavor is particularly delicious and picnicers who are aware of the fact, care very little for the sandwich basket, if there are a few melons provided. Everybody is eating watermelon just now—it seems to be the craze and the State of Georgia has suddenly become famous for the production of this toothsome fruit.

A "new system" store which proposes to develop into a general department store business has been opened on Main street recently. There are about twenty-five local men interested in the concern of which J. E. Thomas, formerly a retail hardware merchant in the same site, is manager. The system in operation is quite unique and it is claimed that it is the only one of its kind in Canada. The front of the store is equipped with display boards to which articles are fastened with numbers and prices attached. The walls are fitted with shelves upon which groceries are placed as samples with numbers and prices also attached. The customer chooses the articles desired and submits the numbers and prices on printed order slips which are conveniently placed on a desk at the entrance. About half-way back a counter runs across the store from wall to wall, and behind this the stock of goods is kept from which the orders are filled and delivered. The management have been encouraged with the extent of the trade thus far, and seem to be satisfied that the "system" will be a success. It is said that many such stores are in existence in the larger United States cities.

A sample of wheat measuring about 24 inches and well headed out, was on exhibition yesterday, from a farm near Glenboro, Manitoba. The heads are long and healthy, and the number of stalks from the one root indicates that the crop is well stooled out, and very heavy. The crops all over the district are said to be similar to the sample, and they are also said to be two or three weeks ahead of what they were this time last year, and the prospects are of the best.

A gentleman who represents one of the largest flour milling concerns in Iowa was in Hanley, Saskatchewan last week, arranging for the erection of a 250-barrel flour mill. This company does an export business which they consider could be successfully handled from any town on through lines in the West. A statement was made by the representative that the central States were not producing wheat which was popular on the export market, and that Western Canada would see an influx of millers from the States, who recognize the superior quality of Canadian wheat.

The Ontario and Western Co-operative Fruit Company is the name of a new corporation promoted by John B. Berry, a farmer and capitalist, and J. W. Jones of this city. This movement is an evidence of the ever increasing demand for fresh and cheaper fruit, the market for which is limited in Western Canada. The company is arranging for a warehouse here to which fruit from the Niagara district will be shipped, and from here distributed to branches throughout the West. The promoters also purpose to erect a canning factory on the Niagara peninsula where all kinds of fruits and vegetables will be canned and jams manufactured. These goods will be shipped under a single registered brand to the Winnipeg warehouse. It is expected that Niagara strawberries will arrive shortly at the instance of this organization, and although Toronto fruit prices will not prevail yet they propose to reduce the present Winnipeg prices considerably. This company which is to grow, ship and dispose of its own fruit is to be incorporated with a paid-up capital of $100,000 and with power of extension from time to time. Berry and Jones have disposed of considerable stock in a short time by means of a thorough canvass of influential fruit growers. A trial shipment of Niagara strawberries was made last week to test their durability, and it proved quite satisfactory.

R. L. Waugh has moved his grocery stock into his new store on Sherbrooke street, one block east of his old stand. The trade has been greatly facilitated owing to the extent of the apartments, and the immediate street car connection.

A sad case of drowning occurred on Sunday, June 27, when W. J. Thompson and Samuel J. McCaughey, two young grocery clerks were drowned in the Red River while out canoeing. Both of the young men came from Ireland about three years ago, Thompson coming from Londonderry and McCaughey from Dublin. They have been clerking in grocery stores since their arrival in the city. Mr. Thompson was first engaged by McDowell & Grant, and for the past few months he had been with W. H. Stone. Mr. McCaughey was in the employ of Moffat & Douglas during his stay in the city. As an evidence of the esteem in which they were held by their many friends a very large cortege followed the remains to the cemetery in the north end of the city on July 1. Both were very popular with their employers and fellow-workmen and much grief is felt over their loss. A message of sympathy and condolence was cabled to each of their homes in the old land where the parents of each reside.

REGINA.

July 6.—Both of the local fruit houses received a car of Vasho Island strawberries this week, which are moving very freely into consumption, as are all fresh fruits.

There is not much change in the grocery business, and everybody seems to be wearing that big smile that will not come off, on account of the crop prospects.

S. C. Burton, manager of the local branch of Cameron & Heap, Limited, left last Tuesday for Fort William. He will be gone about three weeks or a month. Mrs. Burton accompanied him.

SASKATOON.

July 6.—The Early-Wilton Fruit and Produce Co, have opened premises in the old stone schoolhouse on 3rd avenue. The property has been purchased by them. The manager is J. H. Early. J. W. St. John and C. H. Spencer are traveling for the company, in which they are interested.

Codville & Co., wholesale grocers, Winnipeg, are negotiating for a warehouse site in the wholesale section north of 23rd street.

J. F. Cairns had an attractive display in one of his windows this week. A tent with the necessary outfit for camping was placed in the background. In front was an appetising assortment of dainties calculated to make the outdoor life a pleasant one.

Winnipeg, July 8, 1909.

The country generally has been refreshed with good growing weather during the past few days. The West is peculiarly known for its varied atmospheric conditions. The days are bright and keen and often hot, while the nights are cool. Rains come suddenly and just as suddenly it is dry and bright again. It is due to these varied extremes that the country bears for a few months of the year such luxurious vegetation. The wheat that feeds the millions is developed rapidly by means of the congenial climate of the western plains. It is interesting to note how the short brilliant season stimulates the business life of Western Canada. With the keenness of the climate there seems to be developed a keenness of business activity. Everybody and everything is active. For the summer months at least, the great active commercial spirit seizes the whole West, which is resulting in the rapid development of the country in every phase of its life. This condition of things is necessary in order that the country might attain the ideal which is cherished in the hearts of her citizens. The prolonged period of winter is not conducive to development, but many of the inconveniences of that season are being dispensed with by means of the precaution taken in the alternate season of the year. We as citizens of the West are called upon to make a country by boiling down twelve months work into six months at most, and there is no alternative, but to face the situation and "live faster," making use of the congenial period which is nature's greatest asset to the wonderful country of Western Canada.

The wholesale trade is somewhat more active this week than last. Collections, however, have declined slightly, which indicate that heavy collections will be made in the fall of the year. The local retail trade is also better than last week. Perhaps the holiday contributed largely to the revival. The market is quite featureless. Lemons have made a sharp advance and creamry butter is firmer.

Rolled oats, which have maintained a high price for some time, are declining. Fresh fruit and vegetables and summer drinks are selling heavily.

Method of Instituting a Retail Cash System

Brantford Grocer Educates Customers in a Diplomatic Way to the Advantages for Them in Such a System—Sends Out Circular Letter Explaining Why He Makes the Change—A Second Letter Tells of the Success Attained.

Brantford, July 6.—Difficulty in instituting the cash system in the retail store has been the experience of many a merchant. How to go about it, has been the question and few have the nerve to "take the leap."

"We couldn't possibly do it," has been a frequent remark from numerous retailers. "It would cause us to lose some of our best customers, who get credit, but are sure payers."

There's where the rub has been, and merchants are now alive to the fact that diplomacy is a necessary qualification if one successfully adopts the cash system.

You cannot say to all your customers, "We have decided to sell our goods for cash only and if you want them you have got to pay us the money on the spot." That would be disastrous to the good credit customer. He would in all probability resent such a statement, and because of your "impudence" leave the store and buy elsewhere.

The Diplomatic Way.

Fred Corey, a Brantford grocer, has established the cash system and claims his method has been successful. He went about it in an inoffensive way by educating the public on the advantages they would be able to secure providing they paid the cash. He showed them by circular letters how they were in a position to save money if they purchased for cash only. His first letter was dated January 11, 1909, and read as follows:—

"To My Customers:

"I have, after very careful and mature consideration, come to the conclusion that I will be able to do much better for my customers by selling for cash only; this will enable me to buy exclusively for cash and will result beneficially to both my customers and myself. It seems that no matter how judiciously or how carefully goods are sold on credit, a certain percentage of loss is sure to occur; the main losses arising from this source are made up by the higher prices charged for goods by the wholesale establishments, to stores that conduct their business under the credit system; losing all discounts, etc., all of which badly handicap the grocer carrying on his business under this system from giving his customers the lowest cash price that they should receive and to which they are entitled. Consequently over in the purchase of goods with my business on a cash basis a fair trial, commencing with the First of February next, and I am sure the results will prove to be beneficial both to my customers and myself, after which date kindly do not ask for credit as it would be a painful duty to have to refuse it.

"The amount of book-keeping and other detail wory that is necessary in connection with the running of accounts is also quite a serious handicap; means the locking up of funds which I should have on hand to turn over in the purchase of gods for the benefit of my customers, and means a consequent heavier expense as well as a certain ratio of lose to me. In fact, with my business on a cash basis, I can buy more cheaply and my customers will all reap the benefit, while I shall do everything in my power to see that the same efficient service is maintained in every respect in the future as in the past.

"Thanking you for past patronage, which I wish to assure my customers I have always very hghly appreciated, hoping for a continuation of that patronage, and with the compliments of the season and my best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year, I am, yours respectfully, Fred Corey."

Results of the Trial.

In a circular letter mailed to his customers on March 10th, Mr. Corey explains how doing business on the cash basis worked out after one month's trial. He says:—

"Dear Friends:

"After carrying on my business upon a cash basis for only one month I am much pleased to be able to say to my customers, both old and new, that that I have succeeded beyond all my hopes; my business at this early date being ahead of what it was while carrying it on under the old credit and cash system. This splendid result could only be achieved by the loyalty of my old customers, and I wish to thank them all most sincerely, and I also wish to thank my new customers for their support and encouragement.

"The placing of my business upon a cash basis has enabled me to both buy and sell at a much closer price than formerly, which is a distinct advantage to my customers, and it is this same system that has made the big departmental stores the success they are the world over. I can now do much better for my customers and those who may favor me with a trial order, than others who carry on their business under the old system.

"Again thanking you all, and hoping for a continuation of your valued patronage. I am, Yours truly, Fred Corey."

Mr. Corey has splendid facilities for doing a good business. He has an attractive store, both exterior and interior, and it is fitted up with modern conveniences.

It will be interesting to follow Mr. Corey's progress under the new method as it pertains to a subject, which at the present time is a very much alive one.

The vital study for the employe is to learn everything touching his position quickly and thoroughly, to adapt himself as nearly as is in his power to the demands made on him, to catch the pace of the workers about him, be it fast or slow, and to accommodate himself in every thought and action to the standards of the department as he finds it.

QUEBEC MARKETS

Montreal, July 8, 1909.

Interest centres this week in the canned goods situation. New salmon prices are quoted, and are below those of last year all along the line. They are, generally speaking, acceptable to the trade. There is a drop of $1 a case in the price asked for Fraser river sockeyes. Stocks of salmon are being cleared rapidly, and it is likely that there will be considerable buying as wholesalers clear out their warehouses. Some jobbers are now taking orders for tomatoes, corn, peas, beans and strawberries, new pack, and are guaranteeing prices against decline until delivery. The figures they are asking will be found in the canned goods market. Sugar is steady, with orders large and frequent. Molasses is also steady. Lard, pure and compound, has been advanced ¼c, while pork is up $1.

Second crop Japan teas are now being picked, but first shipments will not be here for some time yet. Dried fruits continue interesting, but there have been no marked changes in the situation since last week. Ginger is reported firm. Beans continue high. Peas are exceedingly scarce.

Collections are fair. Business as a whole is showing some improvement.

SUGAR—A steady market, and good demand make sugar of more or less interest to the trade. Sales are heavy, especially compared with those made during the past month or two, when there was practically nothing moving. The rapid approach of the preserving season is almost entirely responsible for the large orders now coming in from all sections.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES — Two sailing vessels from Puerto Rico reached Montreal the end of last week, carrying between them six thousand barrels of molasses. This was mostly all for firms who booked several weeks ago, and who are taking delivery at present. The market, as a whole, is steady. Corn syrups are moving satisfactorily.

TEA—Reports from Japan state that second crop teas, which are largely used here, are now being picked. Samples are expected by the next boat from Japan, and should be here in short order. The first shipments will not be on hand until another month, at the very least, has passed. Meanwhile, spot stocks are light, almost nil, though advices from the United States indicate rather large holdings for this time of year. This is because of the frenzied buying which there was some weeks ago as a result of rumors about the levying of a duty on tea entering that country.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—New salmon prices, which are out this week, are the feature of interest in canned goods. Compared with last year, the figures are low, though they are still above those quoted in 1907. The figures announced are from 25c a case on the lower grades to $1 a case on the higher grades below those of 1908. The quotations on Fraser river and Cohoes are considered as satisfactory by the trade as a whole. The figures out for Rivers Inlet and Spring, however, are generally thought to be rather high, considering the quality of the salmon. As a rule, satisfaction is expressed. The trade did not hesitate last year to say that the prices asked by the packers were altogether too high, and that there would be quite a falling off in trade. Their prophecies have been justified, but it is now though that much business will be won back as a result of more advantageous prices. The prices now asked will enable retailers to sell 10c, 15c and 20c salmon by pushing Humpbacks, Cohoes and Fraser River respectively, at the same time giving their customers good value. The marked drop in sockeyes indicates the realiza[illegible] of the packers that last year's figures were altogether too high for good business.

Some wholesalers have, of late, been actually taking orders for new pack vegetables, and strawberries, at stated prices, which they guarantee against decline until delivery. The lines they are booking, and the prices they ask are:

Tomatoes	$ .80	to	$ .85
Corn	.75	to	.80
Peas	.75	to	1.40
Beans	.75	to	.77½
Strawberries	1.25	to	1.30

These are the only lines now offering. Wholesalers taking orders at these prices state that retailers are glad to buy, as a rule, and that they are doing a satisfactory trade. Quebec Province packers are not looking for business at figures such as these prices indicate, and probabilities are that they will not pack heavily this year, for they realize that there is not much in it for them. Sales so far are reported as being about up to those of last year, in quantity. French peas are still selling at reasonable figures, despite unfavorable reports from France, as regards the coming crop. Spot peas are selling around $8.50 to $16 a case, while orders, to arrive, are being taken at quotations ranging from $8 to $14. Agents of French houses look for an advance shortly.

TORONTO.—Jobbers are having considerable difficulty in figuring out the canned goods situation here. Opening prices are, of course, low, but what the future will bring forth is a quandary. They are puzzled when once prospects are touched upon, However, retailers in many cases are stocking up and just now sales from this centre for future deliveries are extensive.

The fact that there is an open market this year and consequently jobbers may sell at their own prices is probably the cause for the uncertain state of affairs.. Several prices are being quoted for canned vegetables and strawberries to the retailer, but those that appear to be most general are:

Tomatoes	$ .77½	$ .82
Peas	.75	1.40
Corn	.75	.80
Beans	.75	.77½
Strawberries	1.25	1.30

As an illustration of the uncertainty of conditions, the price of strawberries was advanced by some canners 10c, from a week ago. The lack of sufficient rain had the effect of shortening the season somewhat and raising prices.

The above prices are interesting in comparison with the following which prevailed a year ago:

Tomatoes	$ .95	$1.00
Peas	.85	1.40
Corn	.85	.90
Beans	.85	.90
Strawberries		1.90

Last year there were low grades of some goods cheaper than these figures. Standard peas opened a year ago at 80c, but soon went up to 87½c, while some lower grades sold out at 65c.

A representative of a canning company said this week that peas were not filling out as well as anticipated, and this may have something to do with future prices.

ONTARIO MARKETS

POINTERS—

Sugar—Heavy sales.

Pepper—Market firm.

Dried Fruits—Quiet except prunes.

Evaporated Apples — Stocks getting low.

Toronto, July 8, 1909.

The wholesale grocers are very busy, but the large bulk of their trade just now is sugar. The immense crop of strawberries and at the low prices, have made an unusual heavy demand on sugar. Still with all this, prices have remained unchanged. Besides the rush in sugar there is nothing startling to report.

Some of the retailers are placing their orders for canned goods which they consider good buying at present prices.

Collections are only fair but the general business is very gratifying.

SUGAR.—The demand for sugar has exceeded all expectations, but prices have not been affected. The prices therefor are unchanged with no advance in sight.

TEA.—The principal feature in the tea trade is the ever present push which is always manifested by the tea men. They are never out of season. Nothing affects their trade. The people will have tea, even at their summer homes where they deny themselves many of the comforts of life. Tea they will have and it seems to be a race who gets there first to supply them. It cannot be a matter of choice in the quality, for they all have the best. The tone of the market is a trifle strong.

COFFEE.—There is nothing to report in this line, with the exception of the cheaper lines, such as Rio, and Santos are firm and likely to make a slight advance.

THE COOK PROBLEM.

Styles keep changing—even the styles in the kitchen. The new culinary fashion sheets for the summer of 1909 favor "lighter" housekeeping. The bills for prepared foods will be longer, with a slight cut in the butcher's bill and a corresponding increase in the number of items on the progressive groceryman's list.

Paris, of course, sets the pace. Travelers returning from Europe tell of the convenience and ease of preparing a dinner in the capital of France.

"There's a shop in every block at which you can buy ready made spaghetti and tomato sauce, hot from the oven and baked chicken and potato salad — and ever so many other things," they say.

Well, you can do the same in Chicago if you take a trip downtown to the grocery stores and the several new delicatessen shops, or if you know where the up-to-date suburban groceries are.

"The why of it is simply this" a down town grocer explained. "Domestic help is harder to get and harder to keep than ever, so women are doing their own work, and doing it in the easiest way."

The grocer walked down one of the long aisles in his store and named the goods shown under the big glass bells and in the platters and showcases. The list included baked chicken, hot baked beans, spaghetti and tomato sauce, chicken and potato and lobster salads, roast beef and pork and veal, veal loaf, smoked pork tenderloin, three sorts of German herring, smoked salmon, smoked goosebreasts and a dozen unusual varities of sausages.

"And this is only an average day," he said. "You ought to see us on Saturday."—Retailers Journal.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Information supplied by sellers but for which the editors of The Grocer do not necessarily hold themselves responsible.

Slow and bad accounts has been one of the great difficulties that merchants have had to contend with for years. The Retail Merchants' Association of Guelph have had the problem solved for them and not only are they getting money that has been on their books for years, but they are making the slow and doubtful customers cash and profitable buyers. D. A. Scroggie, secretary of the association in Guelph, has worked out a system and is prepared to organize and introduce the same to the Merchants' Association of the different cities and towns in Ontario.

The directors of Brooke Bond & Co. Limited, London, Eng., have issued their Report and Balance Sheet for the financial year ended 31st May, 1909, showing that the net profit for the year after deducting Directors' Fees and all other charges, amounts to £26.139 7s. 8d. and with £3,636 3s. 1d brought forward from last year, there is a sum of £29,775 10s. 9d. to the credit of the Profit and Loss Account. The Directors recommend a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum; they also propose to transfer £12,000 to Reserve and £1,000 to the Insurance and Contingency Fund, and to carry forward the balance of £991 7s. 3d. to next year's account.

Joseph Cote, the importer and tobacco merchant, Quebec, is advertising Pichet's Tea Biscuits, which are recommended to every progressive grocer. The house reports sales of Germinal and La Perla Del Oriente Manilli Cheroots, which sell at 10c, as increasing every week. These are all fine lines for the grocer to handle.

The bin fixtures used in the Petrie store at Thorold, Ont., which is described in another section of this issue, were manufactured and installed by the Walker Bin and Store Fixture Co., Berlin, Ont.

L. T. Demers, grocer and liquor dealer, Quebec, has assigned.

TIMELY DISPLAYS.

Staple groceries do not attract their share of attention in midsummer. Something new is needed to start the appetite. A good "starter," in one of three windows in a certain store proved to be a wicker hamper, loaded with picnic supplies—olives in jars, sardines in cans crackers in cartons, lunch tongue in cans, ginger ale in bottles—a complete lunch for a small party. A large hamper in the centre, two smaller ones on either side and several small lunch boxes in the background, each packed as for an outing for parties or for an individual developed prompt and numerous sales for the hampers and boxes as they stood, Price marks were attached to each lot in this case. A card at one side of the window announced that lunch boxes would be filled upon order. Lunch sets of paper table cloth, napkins, plates, etc., were shown in the same window. This display brought excellent business in anticipation of the holiday. It may be used to advantage during warm weather anywhere.—Inland Grocer.

Every Merchant Can Advertise Without Cost

Customers pleased with their tea will talk favorably of your store. That is the very best kind of advertising. You can please more customers with Red Rose than with any other tea.

You know that the most interesting development in the Canadian tea trade in ten years has been the increased sales of Red Rose Tea. Advertising has helped, salesmanship has helped, but the real reason has been its remarkable quality.

Recommend Red Rose Tea and your customers will recommend your store.

Produce and Provision Situation of the World

Puzzling Hog Situation in Canada—Montreal Prices Higher—Advantage of Refrigerator Cars in Butter Shipment — Bad Eggs Produce Higher Prices.

While Montreal is quoting hogs much higher; Toronto is holding on to about the same price. There seems to be a see-saw going in between the farmer and the packer. One week the farmers are getting the better of 10 or 25c and the following week the packers get it their way again. One of the Ontario packers remarked this week that it is a continuous fight all the time. "These salaried municipal and government fellows who draw fat weekly salaries don't know that they are living. They don't know anything of the tremendous struggle in life," he remarked.

The refrigerator cars supplied regularly to carry the butter from country points, are of great service to the butter trade in Canada. Some of the older dealers, many of whom had been ruined for want of this accommodation, are able to make interesting comparisons between present conveniences and those they had to contend with 20 years ago.

The shrinkage in eggs, as the weather gets warmer, is becoming more serious, and some steps should be taken to check this fraud. It is unfair and unpardonable cowardice to allow farmers to put rotten eggs on the market. At present the consumers have to pay at least 1c a dozen more on account of this "innocent" stealing and the honest farmers who handle their eggs carefully have to take less than their eggs are worth. Why should such a state of affairs be allowed to continue when it could so easily be remedied?

The cheese market is quiet, and although cheese is high, it is below the level in food value, with almost any other article of food, If half as much attention was paid to Canadian consumption as to export, a much larger portion of our cheese would be used here and very much to our advantage, and mutual benefit.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS.—Further advances all along the line this week, indicate the continued strength of this market. Last week pork advanced $1, and a similar advance is recorded to-day. The scarcity of hogs is making the question of supplying the manufactured products to the trade quite a problem for the packers. Lard, pure and compound, is ½c higher this week, and very firm.

EGGS.—The supply of eggs is keeping up well, but the shrinkage through bad eggs, is increasing. On account of this shrinkage dealers have advanced their selling price of candled stock to 22c.

FRUIT CROP IN ONTARIO.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has issued a special June crop bulletin in which it states that "fruit blossoming was late but full, and there has been a more general setting of fruit than in ordinary years. Apples will likely turn out satisfactorily, for although early varieties will be scarce, the more valuable winter varieties promise a big yield. Pears will be only fair. The latest reports regarding peaches put the probable yield as medium; in some places the trees have been attacked by curl leaf. Plums are likely to be a full crop, taking the province as a whole, although in some of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa counties a number of trees are said to have been 'blasted.' Cherries will yield from fair to large crops. Grapes promise an average yield, and small fruits generally will do well unless drouth sets in early."

John Blacklock has secured the store formerly occupied by the late A. J. Throop, Ridout Street, Port Hope, Ont., and opened on Wednesday with a new stock of groceries and provisions.

Original Bookkeeping Ideas of a Retail Grocer

On Account of too Much Labor With the Old System He Devises One of His Own—Posts From Check-book to Ledger—Always Has Total Amount Owing by any Party—Never Sends out Itemized Accounts.

By M. Moyer.

With all the wearisome work in a grocery there is nothing so tedious and tiresome as the keeping of accounts in a credit store. For years this had been my great burden and I undertook to devise some plan to relieve myself, to some extent at least, of the slow process of entering all accounts from the check-books into a day book; from there to carry them to separate pages in the ledger for each customer, and then again render itemized accounts.

In the first place I resolved that I would not make out monthly itemized statements after I had sent itemized bills with the goods at the time of the purchase. I then struck upon a new plan and I shall try to make as clear as possible, how I succeeded in doing my book-keeping with less than one-quarter of my previous work, and which served my purpose satisfactorily for 15 years.

I used the ordinary duplicate check books now in almost every store, and a ledger in the shape of a book of about 120 pages, 10 x 14 inches, and costing about $1.50. This would allow 10 pages each month for one year.

All orders were taken in the usual way on the check book, the leaf being torn out and sent with the goods, leaving a copy in the check-book, from which, if not paid, the amount was carried to the ledger. The ledger was arranged alphabetically and the amounts charged as shown in the accompanying drawings, which are the duplicate left in the check book, and shown here as Fig. 1.

These are posted as you see in Fig. 2, and with them in the same manner other purchases throughout the month. The figure in front of the fraction is the date of the month, the denominator the number of the check-book and the numerator, the amount of the purchase.

For instance Mrs. H. Adams on June 1, purchased goods to the value of $1.50, as shown by check-book No. 1; on June 3 she bought 20 cents' worth as per book No. 4, etc.

Enough space between names is left in the ledger to allow the names of new customers to be entered.

You will now understand how the amounts are carried from the check-books to the ledger and at the end of the month carried to new pages as shown in Fig. 3. At the same time an ordinary monthly bill, not itemized, but giving the total amount purchased each day is sent to the customer.

A bracket will be noticed around the $7.35 in the panel opposite H. Adams' name in Fig. 3. That means that the account has been paid in full by H. Adams and the 2 beneath shows it it was paid on July 2. In connection with B. Burns' account, $5 cash was paid me on July 3rd.

After all bills have been made out at the end of the month and the names carried over to the page represented by Figure 3, with the total amounts purchased the previous month, opposite the names, I had little difficulty in determining the total amount I had on my books. All that was necessary was to add up the fignures opposite the names. This was done every month, and if not paid, the amounts were carried forward.

The check-books are all numbered and filed in regular order, so that in case a customer has lost one of her bills and would like to see the items, I could, by looking at the date of the purchase and the number of the book at once put my hand on it and see copy of the original order.

How to Educate Consumers to Eat More Cheese

Intemperate Use of This Nutritious Food The Cause of Comparatively Small Home Consumption—Teach Buyers To Eat Cheese In Small Quantities Regularly—A Grocer's Experience With Honey—Sales Increased From A Few Hundred Pounds to Fourteen Tons.

By A. H. Harvey.

The article on the home consumption of Canadian cheese which appeared in The Grocer a short time ago, opens up an interesting question of vast importance to our country, and which should have careful consideration. That we are a large cheese producing country and yet not a cheese eating people is a fact which the writer of that article observes and which is to him of sufficient importance to enquire into the cause and also to suggest a remedy.

His idea is, that the cheese eaten here is not sufficiently ripened or cured to create a fondness for it. It is, however, not always the taste or flavor alone of an article which governs its consumption. There are other causes, which are often based on mere opinions and not facts. The prevailing opinion is that cheese is hard to digest and for that reason some, with weak stomachs, do not eat it at all, and many others seldom use it for the same reason.

We are also led to believe that old and fully ripened cheese is more easily digested than that which is less ripened. Whether this is a fact or a mere opinion it nevertheless affects the consumption of new cheese.

As an observant grocer of many years experience I have seen the consumption of many articles checked through the circulation of erroneous opinions. A few years ago when the people got the first serious fright from appendicitis it was claimed by medical men that the trouble was chiefly caused through the seeds in fruit. This at once very materially checked the sale of raisins, figs, raspberries, etc. This was nothing but an opinion and not a fact, but it had for some time the same effect as if it had been a fact.

The public at present is laboring under the belief that cheese is hard to digest, and for that reason, more than anything else, it is not used as a regular food. The real reason why old cheese is easier digested than new has never been demonstrated and it may also be nothing more or less than an opinion.

A Strength Producing Food.

One thing we all know and that is that cheese is a very nutrious food whether new or old. Your correspondent makes the statement that one pound of cheese contains as much nourishment as 2½ pounds of beef. Might it not be possible that the whole trouble is caused through the intemperate use of cheese. If one pound of cheese is equal to 2½ pounds of beef it is a very easy matter to cause stomach trouble by eating too much at a time. Look at the piece of cheese some people eat, multiply that by 2½ and eat that much beef and see what the effects will be on the stomach.

It is even claimed that cheese eaten in small quantities aids digestion, which should prove conclusively that cheese, if used moderately cannot be an indigestable article of food. The difference between old cheese and new may perhaps be accounted for, for the fact that old cheese being much stronger, is eaten in small quantities, whereas new cheese which is mild, is eaten in larger quantities. Honey also is a very nutritious food, and few people know how to use it. As a rule they eat altogether too much of it at one time, which sickens them and the honey gets the name of being hard to digest, which when used properly is a very wholesome food.

Proven by Experiment.

Some years ago we proved this by actual experiment, which satisfied me that people should know something about the nutritious value of food and eat in quantities accordingly. In retailing honey to consumers I at first found a great many people who had unpleasant effects from eating honey and they would not try it again. In every case they had eaten an unreasonable quantity. To overcome this prejudice we made it a rule to caution all purchasers of honey not to eat more than a certain quantity at a time. The result of this was that our honey sales increased from a few hundred pounds to fourteen tons a year, and the thought of it being indigestable entirely disappeared.

I believe by judicious handling and proper education that the same results could be worked out in cheese. Instead of eating cheese ocasionally and then in immoderate quantities, it should be a daily food, eaten in smaller quantities.

The Evils Following Price Cutting on Sugar

Does a Grocer Gain by Listening to the Appeals of the Bargain Hunter?—The Cause of Cutting of Prices — Actual Experiences Show Value of Quality In Goods.

By Victor Lauriston.

The preserving season has already opened in most sections, with the advent of strawberries. Raspberries, cherries, currants, blackberries, and the larger fruits, will follow in continuous succession till well into the fall.

The preserving season is a busy time for the grocer. True, he profits little if at all upon the fruits themselves; but sugar, jars, rubbers, and other preserving accesories are in steady demand.

Here and there an isolated grocer is seizing the golden opportunity to gratuitously cut his own throat and that of his fellow tradesmen by slaughtering sugar prices beyond all possibility of profit, in the empty notion that he will "boom business in other lines" by so doing. Fortunately, grocers during recent years have been educated to the folly of price cutting, and, as already stated, the evil is becoming more and more isolated to grocers who have not a business understanding of their trade.

"To attract customers—to boom business in other lines" is usually the aim which the price-cutter has in view.

After all, does a cut in sugar in the middle of a preserving season "boom business in other lines"—or does it in the long run attract customers, for a grocer to advertise his goods as inferior in price and, inferentially at least, inferior in quality?

Certainly, price cutting on sugar in the middle of the preserving season does little to "boom business in other lines." Merchants have almost uniformly observed that during the fruit and preserving season the bulk of their business is confined to special, seasonable features, and that shelf goods—regular lines of trade—show a marked falling off. As a matter of fact, the woman who is buying sugar for preserving will be too busy to cook elaborate meals, and her demand for other lines will be at a minimum till the preserving season is over.

How Price Cutting Works.

To their credit be it said, merchants are rarely the real originators of a "cut" in sugar or anything else. Usually, the cut originates in the mind of a bargain hunting housewife. The wish is father to the thought; and the thought is in turn father to the cut-price.

Recently, at the commencement of the strawberry season, a housewife set out upon a bargain hunting tour. The tour began—and ended—with her nearest grocer. She informed him that she intended purchasing a hundredweight of sugar for preserving. What, she desired to know, was his best price.

"Five twenty-five," he rejoined.

"I can get it at So-and-So's," remarked the lady, "for $4.80. Of course, I'd rather buy from you because you're nearer, but——"

The upshot of it all was that, after a half hour's haggling, the grocer sold the lady a hundredweight of sugar of the cheapest refined grade for $4.80—which, after figuring in original cost, freight, handling, and other essential items of expense, meant a dead loss to him. But he "kept her trade."

How? Well, this is how it worked out. The conversation reported is the lady's—much abbreviated, for obvious reasons.

"Really, I don't like to deal with Mr. Blank any more, he charges so awfully high for everything. Just think, I went there to buy my sugar, and he wanted to charge me $5.25 a hundred, and then he sold it to me for $4.80. I suppose it's the same with everything else, but you know, these corner groceries are so dear."

Probably, henceforth, remembering her "narrow escape from being robbed" this lady will buy from Mr. Blank only when she simply can't avoid doing so, and on other occasions will go to stores where she knows the prices are rock bottom, just because she's tried herself to beat them lower and failed to do it.

And finally, enquiry showed that Mr. So-and-So had never quoted her any price of $4.80. His price for even the cheapest grade of sugar was $5.00, and he kept it there. Mr. So-and-So's price of $4.80 was merely a figment of the bargain hunter's imagination.

Don't Cut—Preach Quality.

"Preach quality" is the motto of many a successful grocer in the handling of bulk goods. And nowhere is the preaching of quality so effective as in dealing with sugar.

There are few things dearer to the housewife's heart than her preserves. Upon them she lavishes an immense amount of labor in the very hottest of hot summer days. To them she "points with pride" in conversations with her neighbors. She is never so deeply chagrined as when she opens a jar of preserves in mid winter to find that they have spoiled upon her hands.

And, with every woman, though a bargain is a bargain, on the other hand preseves are preserves. She will walk ten miles on a hot summer day and canvass twenty grocery stores in the hope of buying a hundredweight of sugar for twenty cents less—but she will, on the other hand, gladly pay fifty cents extra for her sugar once she learns to regard low priced sugar as a synonym for spoiled preserves.

Many practical grocers know this. Says one:

"Yes, there is a cheap grade of sugar. I never handle it at all. My patrons won't buy it."

This grocer takes his patron into his confidence. He explains to her that there are various grades of sugar. Of course, his customer wants the best. The price is, say, $5.25 a hundred—he could not supply it for less.

The customer suggests that a cheaper grade might do—something about $5 or less. The grocer smiles sadly, and rejoins that he did try such a grade at one time, but it didn't pan out well. Too many customers complained. Hence he decided to cut out everything except the higher grades, which he could conscientiously recommend. If the customer wants cheap sugar, she can probably get it at some stores.

But as a rule, she doesn't—especially after the grocer's harrowing hints at spoiled preserves. The field is sown with the wheat of good returns for that particular merchant and those who make a practice of selling good goods at fair prices—but it is sown with the tares of disappointment for the price cutter.

Thanks to grocers who have stood their ground, there are thousands of women who have been convinced of the solid, substantial truth that quality can be secured only by paying for it, and that quality at a fair price is the cheapest purchase in the long run. Such women dodge the grocery bargain counter as they would the plague, and shrewdly suspect the quality of the canned goods that are labeled with the cut price tag. Maybe they miss a genuine bargain here and there—but they also escape a host of pitfalls. And there would be more such women if only more grocers had the courage to stand up and insist upon that to which they are honestly entitled—a fair and reasonable price for their goods.

AVERAGE CROP OF FRUIT.

So Points Out Circular Issued by Fruit Division of Department of Agriculture.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture, fruit division, has sent out the following summary on the fruit crop prospects in Canada:—

Weather conditions in Canada have been favorable during the month of June for fruit development.

Apples.—Eastern Canada will have a large crop of winter apples from present indications. Early and fall varities will not yield as heavily.

The apple prospects in British Columbia will hardly reach the average.

Pears.—An average crop is expected in the commercial pear sections of Ontario.

Plums are estimated somewhat lower, generally, since the heavy bloom, but are showing for an average crop, except in British Columbia, where the crop will be light.

Peaches.—Early peaches are reported medium to full crop; late peaches medium. "Curl leaf" is very prevalent, affecting Elbertas particularly.

Grapes.— Concords promise a full crop; white and red grapes, medium to full crop.

Cherries will be a good average crop.

Tomatoes promise a good crop.

Small Fruits promise well everywhere. Strawberries in Southern Ontario are a very large crop.

Insect and Fungus Diseases are fairly prevalent, but comparatively little damage is reported yet, except from the cankerworm in Nova Scotia.

United States. — Present indications show about an average crop to compete with Canadian winter stock.

Flour, Cereals and Confectionery Department

What Uniformity in Weights in Flour Means — Price of Wheat Declines and Demand for Flour is Lessened—Cereal Market Steady.

With all our progressive ideas, is it not time that the different weights of flour as sold by our grocers should be somewhat changed? A barrel of flour contains 196 lbs. net, which likely was adopted to be equal to 14 English stones of 14 lb. each. For the convenience of retailers it is done up in paper bags of ¼ barrel equal to 49 lbs. or ⅛ barrels equal to 24½ lbs. and then in a 1-14 part of a barrel equal to 14 lbs. or a stone, as well as half stones and quarter stones. In nearly all stores a quarter barrel is sold as a 50 lb. bag, perhaps sometimes unintentionally, and an eighth of a barrel as a 25 lb. bag. Would it not be better to do away with the barrel or stone idea altogether, and sell flour in 5 lb., 10 lb., 25 lb. and 50 lb. bags net? In some parts of our country dealers do not know what a stone means. They buy the flour in bags of 100 lbs. and sell it in round numbers net weight. There should be a uniformity of weight and nothing is more convenient than the decimal rates, similar to those used in connection with our money.

FLOUR—The conditions in the wheat and flour market have considerably changed. The keen competition in buying wheat has disappeared, and instead of looking for wheat the millers are now looking for buyers for their flour. It appears that there is more wheat scattered round among the farmers than was supposed some time ago, and in view of the coming crop millers are not anxious to buy more than they need to keep their trade supplied, until the new wheat is available, which they expect to buy for less money. Many of the farmers who were watching the market to go still higher when it had reached the $1.40 mark, are now kicking themselves for having hung on too long, and the millers are tickled, because they did hang on. A good many loads of wheat are now coming in sight which are quietly and perhaps secretly held for the $1.50 point. The market in flour is quiet with little doing. All are buying from hand to mouth, looking for lower prices.

A MODERN HAMLET'S SOLILOQUY.

To send, or not to send—that is the question:—
Whether 'tis better to keep the goods,
And so make sure of what is in possession,
Or let them go, and run the risk of payment?
To send — to part with — perchance to lose!
Ay, there's the rub.
For once the goods are gone
What skill can charm them back,
Or get the cash from slippery debtors?
What will be done when th' account falls due?
Will cash be paid; or e'en post-dated cheque?
Or promise to remit be quickly made
To be as soon forgotten?
And then reminders much like Thunar's blows,
Softly at first; though each with added force.
Yet no response—silent as a shadow—
Ne'er a stiver, nor soothing plea for "time."
Will then "A Meeting" end suspense?—and hope!
If packed, forsoth, with doting relatives,
Bent on proving claims for borrowed money;
Yet solaced by a shilling in the pound!
And that lean pittance fast in lawyer's grip;—
Leaving us nought but sad experience.
Yet sell we must,
And selling, trust,
That some, some day,
May something pay.

FIRE-ESCAPE CONTEST.

Prize of $100 Offered to Traveler Who Presents Best Design on Commercial Travelers' Day.

Commercial Travelers' Day in connection with the National Exhibition, Toronto, will be celebrated this year on Saturday, Sept. 4th. The principal feature arranged by the Exhibition committee of the association, which met on Friday, July 2nd, was the fire-escape contest. This promises to be of especial interest, as it is something in which every knight-of-the-grip is particularly interested. A prize of $100 will be given jointly by the Commercial Travelers' Association and the License Department of the Ontario Government, for the fire escape which is considered the best for the private chamber in a hotel. The committee in charge, anticipate the exhibition of several designs—the contest being open to all members of the association. All entries must be sent into the secretary of the Toronto Association, Jas. Sargent, 51 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Travelers' Day will also include a five mile marathon race for prizes valued at $125, open to amateur members of the association, holding certificates for 1908 or 1909. A baseball game between the Toronto and Hamilton sections will be still another feature of the day. The winners will be holders for the year following of Ex-president M. C. Ellis' silver trophy, now resting under the wing of the Toronto association.

During the afternoon there will be a meeting which will be addressed by a number of the leading public men of the day.

As the programme is a particularly good one the energies of those in charge will be directed to making the Commercial Travelers' Day of 1909 better than the best of the past.

CANADA AND FRANCE.

Better Trade Relations Will Exist From Government Missionary Work.

Montreal, July 7.—"Canada is much more widely known in France since the French treaty has been before the two nations—two years now — and the resources of the Dominion form the subject of frequent discussions wherever business men meet."

This statement was made to The Grocer by H. Laporte, of Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal, who has just returned to Canada.

"You would be surprised at the amount of good which has come from the missionary work accomplished by a couple of the members of the staff maintained by the Federal Government in Paris. During the last two years these two gentlemen have been traveling over France meeting the members of the Boards of Trade in different cities, giving lectures, discussing Canada with interested busine s men, and otherwise looking after the interests of our country. As a result of the good work they have done, considerable new business has resulted, to mutual advantage.

"I do not know whether or not these gentlemen will continue to travel over France in the interests of Canadian trade, but it is to be hoped that they will. I should think that it would be an excellent idea for the Government to send over a delegation composed of three or five leading Canadian business men, in order that they might, for the benefit of Canadian manufacturers and wholesalers, meet the chief French business men, and discuss with them how best to improve trade relations. The experience of the two agents of the Government I have mentioned proves the feasibility of such a suggestion.

"With a good direct steamship service, such as we will presently have, there is no reason why trade between the two countries should not be doubled."

Continuing, Mr. Laporte stated that a late, cold winter had retarded seeding operations, and all French vegetables would, in consequence, be in short supply this year. French peas, he said, would not be more than one-third of last year's crop, in size.

A PRESENT-DAY HEZEKIAH.

There are prophets among travelers as well as profits in the goods they sell. The following prediction was heard fall from the lips of a tea traveler one day last week just prior to a thunder storm: "The general tenor and aspect of the elements are indicative of ponderous moisture." Is it any wonder it rained?

The Canadian trade commissioner writing from Durban, South Africa, says: "It is possible that Canadian cigar makers might do something out here, as they turn out quite an excellent article. A fair cigar at a reasonable price with a good name might be tried by one or two large Quebec or Ontario firms."

Flour Cleanliness

3. Dirty Fingers Don't Touch Good Flour.

THE FARMER gets wheat out of dirt, and the miller gets dirt out of wheat. The more dirt he gets out of wheat and keeps out of the product the better the miller is he.

¶ But what's the use of spending a fortune in wheat cleaning if afterwards dirt is again introduced in the grinding or packing departments?

¶ Why is it that the best surgeons nowadays wear rubber gloves when performing critical operations? Is it to avoid being infected themselves, or to avoid infecting their patients by contact with hands unprotected? Surgeons declare it is impossible to wash the hands so that they will be free from the danger of germ infection.

¶ Food and fingers are the carriers of contagion. That's why the FIVE ROSES process of flour milling is entirely mechanical. Not a hand, not a finger, can touch FIVE ROSES from the moment it enters our hoppers as the plump Manitoba wheat until it reaches your counter, the finest spring wheat flour under the sun.

¶ Through the sun-flooded mills at Keewatin out in the country air, through the wheat cleaners and scourers; the breaks, scalpers, purifiers; the rolls, sifters, dusters and blenders; via a thousand spouts, elevators and conveyors; into the automatic packers, into the barrels and sacks without ever touching a hand, from start to finish perfect purity—FIVE ROSES flour!

¶ Tell your customer that her hands are the first to touch FIVE ROSES, and she will have no other. Don't YOU want to sell bagged perfection or barreled purity—FIVE ROSES?

The Grocer's Encyclopedia From Week to Week

Where The Lime Fruit Is Grown and The Source of the Canadian Supply—What the Grocer Should Know About It—Valuable For Its Medicinal Properties—Produces a Better Drink than Lemons.

LIMES—Probably it is due to the fact that so little is known about the fruit of the lime tree, that the sale of it in Canada is as yet somewhat meagre. However, the lime is gradually working its way up in the estimation of the public and in a few years hence there promises to be a good demand in this country.

The lime tree is not a very large one—in fact it might be called a shrub. It belongs to the citrus family like the orange and lemon and resembles the latter fruit in almost everything but size. In a good sized lime there is more juice and citric acid than there is in an ordinary lemon. It is also bitterer than the commercial varieties of lemon.

The Canadian Supply.

The native home of the lime is represented as southeastern Asia but it has spread to many other tropical countries. The supply for Canada comes from the British West India islands of Dominica and Antigua, principally the former. Very few limes come direct to Canada but are purchased through New York. Jamaica, Trinidad and Florida are other producers of this fruit.

Probably the best quality of lime is produced in Montserrat, one of the West Indies, but few of these are exported. The great industry of Montserrat is the manufacture of lime-juice and the fruit is practically all used for that purpose. This lime-juice is famous the world over.

The tree, like the lemon, bears practically all the year round.

Grocers who handle the fruit should know something about its qualities. The lime is one of the most important producers of citric acid well known for its medicinal properties. The juice is highly valued for making cooling drinks with the aid of sugar and water. It is recommended by authorities as better than lemonade.

Just at the present time hotels use the fruit more or less extensively for flavoring fish, meats, etc., as well as for mixing with drinks and many of them buy large quantities. In the West Indies where it is grown it is used for cooking and making sauces in much the same way as lemons are used here. Flavored with nutmeg the drink becomes very refreshing and palatable.

First Direct Shipment.

As intimated before, limes have not been used to a large extent in Canada. The first direct shipment came to a Toronto fruit firm in 1905, but even now most of them come to Canada via New York. They are, however, growing in the popular favor and comparatively large quantities come during the summer season.

The cost to retailer in Ontario is usually around $1.25 to $1.30 per hundred limes.

HALF HOLIDAY IN WINDSOR.

Windsor, July 7.—The grocers and butchers of Windsor have agreed to give their employees a weekly half holiday every Thursday afternoon during July and August.

The move has been brought about largely through the earnest efforts of W. J. Cherney and G. H. Nairn among the grocers, and Harvey & Co. among the butchers, though others lent a helping hand.

Mayor Wigle, of Windsor, in an open letter congratulates the merchants in these lines for their progressive move, and Dr. Smith, chairman of the park commission, has set aside the park for the sole use of the employes for their Thursday afternoon games.

HONEY PROSPECTS ARE GOOD.

Chatham, July 7.—From all accounts, the honey output of this section will be exceptionally large this year.

In 1907 and 1908 the bee raisers experienced comparatively bad years, and the output was small. This year, however, weather conditions have been favorable, and a big gain in the output is expected.

An indication is the brisk demand among dealers for bee supplies of all sorts, consequent upon the busy swarming recently.

Canadian Fruit, Vegetable and Fish Markets

Warm Weather Accounts for Extensive Fruit Sales—Strawberries Still Lead on the Fruit Markets—Dry Weather Shortens Season—Canadian-Grown Vegetables Take Place of Imported.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Continued warm weather has been most welcome to the fruit trade. It looked at first as if there was not going to be much of a summer, but recently there have been some fine days for fruit sales, and good business has resulted. There has been a very strong demand for lemons for lemonade making and for other such purposes. Oranges are steady. The first car of Bartlett pears arrived on Monday, and sold fairly quickly, considering the high price asked, $4.50. This is not prohibitive, for an opening figure, and is easily obtainable from retailers who have an exclusive trade to cater to. Strawberries are arriving very freely, and low prices continue to rule. All California fruits are in strong demand, and carloads are quickly disposed of when put up at auction, daily, almost. California cantaloupes are now on the market. Bananas are moving freely at old prices. Watermelons are in good demand, too.

VEGETABLES—Good business came with the warm weather, there being quite a noticeable increase in demand for mostly all lines. Canadian peas are offered this week, for the first time, having made their appearance on the market in rather limited quantity. They are put up in small bags, weighing from 18 lbs. to 20 lbs. These are sold to the grocer at 75c each. New cabbage is firmer, as are also leeks, which have advanced. New potatoes are not so high, there having been a drop of 25c a barrel. String beans are quoted at slightly higher figures, while tomatoes are advanced, too. Egyptian onions and green peppers are easier. Boston lettuce is no longer quoted. Cucumbers are freely sold at old prices.

FISH—An advance of 1c in Gaspe salmon this week demonstrates the strength of the market for this line, which is beginning to be quite noticeably scarce. Lake trout is not in good supply, either, but the price has not been advanced. Grass pike is easier. Mackerel has been advanced. Haddock and cod are arriving freely and prices are steady. Good demand for halibut is reported. Dressed bullheads are no longer quoted. Continued warm weather has resulted in a scarcity of brook trout. Buck shad is not quoted any more. Smoked and prepared fish, as well as salted, are not moving freely, demand being small. Live lobsters are higher, owing to the close of the season.

GREEN FRUITS—Strawberries are still "King" on the fruit market and take up almost the entire attention of the fruit men. The rain last week which just came in time, saved a large part of the crop from drying up without getting ripe. On the whole, the yield this year is above the average, the demand is good, and prices have been reasonable without any serious slumps. Canadian cherries come next in order and quantity. They arrive in common plain baskets. They have given the California cherries a serious defeat. The latter came in neat boxes and even expected to sell at fancy prices. They are occupying a back seat with the appearance of having been neglected and are suffering from advanced ripeness. Out of pure sympathy and considerateness the dealer thought best not to quote their prices. California peaches, pears and apricots are arriving daily, but are high in prices. Late Valencia oranges are in good condition.

VEGETABLES—Canadian tomatoes grown near Leamington appeared on the market this week and were offered at $1.75 per basket. The quality is excellent. Almost in every line the Canadian grown vegetables are putting the imported goods out of business. Peas, beans, cabbages, carrots, onions, asparagus, etc., are all grown here, and the city is principally supplied by the gardeners. New potatoes are down to $3.50 a barrel. Cantaloupes and watermelons are in good supply and will remain undisturbed from our own for some time, and in the meantime we have to pay 3c duty on each cantaloupe we buy.

LOBSTER PRICES TO BE HIGH.

This is Opinion of a Montreal Authority —Storms Cause Havoc.

Montreal, July 6.—"Reports of the serious storm on the coasts of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, which appeared in the papers some weeks ago, were not at all exaggerated," said J. W. Windsor, Montreal, to The Grocer this week.

Mr. Windsor, who has spent several weeks in the east, and who is in Montreal only for a few days, stated that very considerable damage had been wrought by the terrific gale which struck the coasts.

"Lobster fishermen lost their traps, and were themselves kept from the fishing grounds during the four or five days the storm lasted. These traps could not be replaced in time to permit of their being used this season, and, in consequence, much valuable time was lost, and the catch was bound to be so much smaller.

"Personally, I do not think that the pack of lobsters this year will be more than 60 per cent. of last season. This will most assuredly mean higher prices.

"The storm was one of the most serious blows the industry has suffered in years."

Mr. Windsor mentioned the approaching investigation, which Commander Wakeham will hold into the lobster and other fishing industries, and prophesied many desirable changes as likely to result from the inquiries which will be made.

AN ASSOCIATION FORMED.

Potato Shippers of New Brunswick Co-operate For Better Rates.

St. John, N.B., July 5.—At a meeting of potato shippers, held in Woodstock, N.B., on Tuesday, June 22, the "Shippers Association of Victoria, Carleton and York Counties," was formed. The object of the gathering was to discuss with H. E. McDonald, general freight agent of the C.P.R., Atlantic division, the matter of better rates for shipping potatoes.

Coles Dugan, of Woodstock, was elected president, and A. D. McCain, of Florenceville, sec.-treas. Others present were: J. C. Manzer, Guy C. Porter, Andover; James McIsaac, Florenceville; J. F. Tweedale, Perth; Mr. Perley, Woodstock, and H. E. McDonald, of the C.P.R., St. John.

Mr. McDonald agreed to give the shippers a rate of 8½ to 11½ cents per 100 pounds, for export to the West Indies; 17 cents to Montreal; 20 cents to Ottawa, and 22 cents to Toronto, and the main shipping points in Canada. The cars will all be overhauled and put in condition for fall business.

J. T. Tweedale, M.P.P., J. C. Manzer, Guy C. Porter, Coles Dugan and Mr. McDonald made addresses in which they pointed out ways in which the association could be helpful to the farmers and shippers.

Another meeting is to be held on July 22, at Florenceville, for the purpose of framing a constitution and taking up matters of interest to the members.

The potato crop from all appearances is going to be a bumper one this year and it is estimated that fully forty per cent. more than in previous years will be shipped in the coming season. The crops are all looking fine at present, but frequent warm rains will not be unwelcome.

FAILED IN AUSTRALIA.

Costly experiments were made years ago in endeavoring to produce beet-sugar upon a payable basis in the State of Victoria, Australia, says the Canadian Trade Commissioner, in writing the Dominion Government. A splendidly-equipped sugar factory was erected entailing a large monetary expenditure, but, on account of the beet crops not receiving proper care, the industry collapsed and the abandoned mill fell into the hands of the local Government. The building and machinery have been kept in excellent condition and the factory is ready to resume operations if the raw material can be procured.

BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Granulated sugar produced in Canada from beets last year totalled about 6,600 tons; and the amount of raw beet sugar imported from Europe by the Canadian factories was about 13,000 tons.

The acreage of the domestic sugar beet under cultivation last year was 5,500 tons. This will be increased a little this year.

The Canadian Grocer,
Toronto, Ontario.

Dear Sirs:

We have been advertising in the Canadian Grocer for a number of years but never realized the good work you are doing until last Fall when the writer took a business trip through the North West and British Columbia.

Your journal seemed to be well thought of by the retail grocers, and many of them, especially in Vancouver and Victoria, took the trouble to mention that they had seen our ad in the Grocer.

This was appreciated by us as it is rather difficult to know just what class of advertising is giving us results. However we are now satisfied that your journal is an excellent medium for any manufacturer to use who wants to talk business to the wholesale or retail grocer of Canada.

Yours truly,

A GROCER'S CO-OPERATION

RISING SUN Stove Polish in Cakes gives a lustre which far outlasts all others under the heat of the stove, and that is why it has so many friends that call for it over the grocery counters the world around. We believe that the real, live grocer wants to push the goods that please his customers, and that is why we have the hearty co-operation of thousands upon thousands of grocers everywhere. It pays you to push it.

MORSE BROS., Props. - Canton, Mass., U.S.A.

What "The Lancet" says:

"Cobra" Boot Polish has just been analysed by Dr. Ed. Nihaul, Professor of Industrial Chemistry at the University of Liege, and he has recognised that the Polish does not contain lamp-black or any acid substance. This is important so far as the preservation of the leather is concerned, but from the health point of view the Polish does not close up the pores of the leather, so that the feet keep fresh and cool.
—Septemb r 6th, 1905.

SHOE POLISH

from the health point of view

"COBRA" Polish instantly commends itself to those who appreciate the difference between health preserving, hygienic shoe dressing which keeps footwear in good condition, and the destructive compounds made of acids, oils, treacle and soot known as "Blacking."

The Queen Quality Leads

WHY?

Because our fruits and vegetables are fresh, palatable, and the finest specimens that can be secured in one of Canada's most fertile and progressive districts.

Because they are uniform in quality, as we supervise the growing of the raw products from seed time to harvest and our inspectors reject everything that is not strictly up to the highest standard.

Because we have the most sanitary and up-to-date process and machinery and no detail is over looked. We attend to the practical side ourselves and make our own cans of the best tin plate that can be secured.

Qualifications of a Successful Retail Salesman

Stores That Coax Customers To Buy Will Be Disliked—The Business Of The Clerk—No Top To Salesmanship—The Necessity For Using Tact When Selling Goods—You Must Be A "Man."

By Frank Farrington.

The man who thinks that because he is just a clerk there is no use for him to try to be anything else, never will be anything else. And the man who is satisfied with his lot will never have any better lot. Success in salesmanship, like success anywhere along the line, calls for a constant struggle upward.

There is no such thing as falling up the ladder. Men have been kicked up by fate, but they have invariably come down with a thud that betokened the falling of a dead weight.

The successful salesman must be industrious. He must keep busy. There is none too much time in this life to get to the top, with everything working to help. Little of the time should be allowed to go to waste. Industry is the kingpin of success.

Persistence must be prominent in the make-up of the man who is bound successward. There must be persistence in the endeavor to succeed, and that persistence must continue after success has been attained, or success will speedily fly away. Persistence is what makes a man smile at the curt "no" flung in his face. Many a buyer can be coaxed by a little careful handling, and this is oftentimes necessary in the traveling salesman's work, though it is less desirable in the store.

A store that get the name of always coaxing and importuning its customers to buy more will be disliked and people will avoid it. The public like to step in and buy, and be free to go away without having to stand off a series of insistent attempts to sell them other things which they do not want. The retail salesman may easily over do persistence under such circumstances.

On the other hand, the mere handing out of the goods asked for is being nothing that a slot machine would not be, and the machine would have the best of the argument.

If I had a clerk who was nothing more than a machine for taking orders, I would discharge him and get a phonograph. The fellow who cannot help the business by encouraging people to buy better goods, more profitable goods, or other goods than merely what they come in and ask for, is not a bit better than a phonograph, which would take the orders and repeat them with far fewer mistakes than the order-taking clerk would make.

The mere order-taker is worth as much as fifty cents per day, maybe a dollar, if he can wrap parcels nicely, or if he is willing to help deliver goods, and do odd jobs.

A good deal of the live advertising of the modern store is done on the basis that if people can be induced to come into the store for one thing they are pretty apt to buy something else before they get out. How much does a clerk help on this proposition? That is the measure of his salesmanship. If he does not help the store to get its money back on a sale that made no profit, he is a poor investment for the store. And any clerk who is a poor investment for the store is a poor investment for himself.

Of course, customers may look around and find things they want even if no one calls their attention to them. So might they go loking around town for a store at which to trade, and stumble into yours without ever having seen it advertised, but that is scarcely an argument against advertising.

It is the business of the clerk to help people to find things they want, other than just what they ask for, and the clerk who is most successful at this is the best salesman, provided all the time that it is understood that there is no salesmanship in overloading a customer.

Know What Is Doing.

It is the clerk's business to know what the store is advertising. If the store is properly run it will make it easy for the clerks to keep posted on such things, but it is up to the clerk to find out, anyway. There are too many cases where the customer goes in and asks for some special she has seen advertised only to find that the salesman knows nothing about it and has to look it up. This gives a visitor a pretty good line on the amount of business being done on the article that has been advertised as such a big seller.

Plenty of stores get a bad name on account of the incapacity of a few of the employes. It is the poor service that is noticed, rather than the good, even if it happens only occasionally. And one or two mistakes a day will soon give a very general opinion that there is something wrong with the service in that store.

This is due to the fact that it is human nature to complain of any real or fancied injustice, and each customer who feels a grievance will take more pains to air that grievance elsewhere than to come back to the store and get it adjusted. A few such customers going around telling their troubles will soon make much feeling that the store is not fair.

A part of salesmanship is carrying at heart the interests of the customer. People soon discover when a salesman is inclined to help them to a wise choice of goods, or when he is inclined to sell them the most he can regardless of their own needs or inclinations.

It is frequently the case that the salesman knows better than the buyer how many or what goods ought to be bought, and this enables the salesman to do the buyer a favor that will leave an everlasting impression. It is at this juncture that the poor salesman falls down, and loads up his man, while the wise one restrains himself and lays a foundation for future business.

Build For The Future.

It is just as important for a salesman to build for his future as for a merchant to do so. None of us can hope to succeed in a day or in a year. We are here for life, and if we expect to continue in business, either in one place or another, it is wise and necessary that we build well as we go along. Otherwise we are using no better judgment than any fly-by-night con. man.

Any practical art can be made more practical by being made more scientific. That is, the way to make an art worth the most possible money, the way to raise its value to the highest power is to perfect it from the beginning. When you start in to learn salesmanship, learn each step well. Get the rudiments firmly implanted and then the advanced steps will be more easy.

One of the rudiments of salesmanship (or of any other art) is health. With health as a basis any man has ten times—yes, a hundred times—the chance to make a success that he could have without health, and it is questionable whether there can be any large success unaccompanied by health.

Eat to live. Sleep till well rested. Exercise enough to keep your chest expansion normal, and take recreation sufficient to keep your mind fresh.

After health comes the necessity for making one's self personally pleasing. Learn to talk intelligently of other things than your business. Keep posted upon current events well enough to be able to reply with sense to a remark upon any of the subjects of the day. Don't be a one-idea man.

Strive to develop a character that will give people reliance in you. That will help you with the public and it will help you with your employers. A man cannot make a success without a good character. Whatever seeming success he achieves will be based upon a foundation of sand, and it is only a question of how long before the fall will come.

In order to be a successful salesman you must first be a success at what God made you—a Man. You cannot hope otherwise to succeed at these things you would make yourself.

The man who reaches a point where he thinks that he is a crackerjack, and about at the top, has reached a point from which he will go down hill unless he takes his own measure before getting on the toboggan.

There is no top in salesmanship. The man who will can forever improve in his ability along that line. No man ever reaches a point where he knows all there is about selling goods.

They say an old dog can't be taught new tricks. That is a mistake. An old dog can be taught new tricks; and if not many new ones, he can at least be taught to do the old tricks better. As long as a man remains in the harness he is capable of improvement. He may forget some things, but he will learn others, and if he has reached the point where it is easy to forget he has reached a point where he particularly needs to learn.

How Habits are Formed.

The thing which will keep a man from forgetting to do his work properly is habit. We are all slaves of habit, and to habituate one's self to right methods is to make them a second nature which cannot be laid aside.

It takes no more of doing a thing right to make a right way a habit than it takes of doing it wrong to make the wrong way a habit. And it is surprising how few times one needs to do a thing to form a habit.

This makes it easy to make a habit of enthusiasm, cheerfulness, politeness, neatness, any of the desirable attributes. Habits of exercise, dress, thought, manners, emotions, all are easily learned and with difficulty cast aside.

Enthusiasm is one of the important things that a salesman should cultivate, and it is even more important than most of us realize. Enthusiasm is communicable even to the man to whom we are trying to sell goods. I don't believe you know of a single man who has made a real, great success who has not a large amount of enthusiasm in his make-up.

Enthusiasm encourages one to think and to expect great things for himself and for his business. It keeps him firm in the belief that his line of goods are the best goods and that all others are inferior. Enthusiasm is the mother of optimism, and as long as optimism can be curbed to a point where it will not altogether run away with the man, it is the greatest thing invented for making success.

Without enthusiasm and optimism the great things of the world, the great inventions, the great businesses, the great works of art, anything great, would not have been accomplished. Of course, when enthusiasm runs riot in a man's brains and he begins to think he can accomplish the impossible, and he discounts his future by thinking and living in amounts of five figures while his income remains low in the four-figure column, then it is too much of a good thing.

Along with the cultivation of enthusiasm should go the cultivation of good judgment. These two, judgment and enthusiasm, the success twins, will make life's hillclimbs easy.

Enthusiasm allows no half-hearted devotion to a cause. It makes a man all interest in his work and compells him to devote all his energy to accomplish the one thing he has set out to do.

The habit of cheerfulness is one that is native with some people and totally unknown to others. "The smile that won't come off" is a thing that will attract ninety-nine in a hundred and the hundredth man can be spared.

Customers should be greeted with a smile and a "good-morning" that carries with it the idea that it is a good morning. If it is a good morning for you, you can make others think it is a good morning for them, by the exercise of a reasonable amount of cheerfulness and tactful suggestion.

And that reminds me of another important qualification for the salesman. Tact. Tact is the ability to make a customer feel comfortable. Lack of it is what makes the blunderer, and if there is an absolute apotheosis of the salesman, that apotheosis is the blunderer.

Tact tells a man the right way to say and the right time to say it. It helps him to put the hesitated customer at ease, and it makes the man or woman with a little money feel that his or her purchase is just as important as if it involved a large sum.

Tact keeps a man from inquiring after a customer's father when the old man died just the other day. It also keeps him from alluding to divorces, and second marriages, and mothers-in-law, and other similar subjects in talking to people with whose family history he is unfamiliar.

It tells a salesman what grade of goods a customer can afford to buy, and it prevents the often fatal blunder of recommending a grade lower than that desired by the customer, thus to insinuate that that customer is of that grade herself.

Tact is a wonder-worker in the selling line. It is almost a cure-all. Cultivate tact, and I am almost inclined to say salesmanship will cultivate itself.

ON THE PRIMARY MARKET.

A Government Law In Patras, Greece, Relating To Export of Currants.

The Retention Act in reference to business methods in Patras, Greece, is something not generally known among the trade. Wholesalers should be particularly interested in it and the explanation as supplied in the following letter to C. N. L. Marshall, Toronto, from a company he represents in Patras contains the meaning concisely:

"Being asked by several of our friends abroad to publish the principal features of the workings of the Chartered Company, we take the pleasure in giving the following information that may enlighten them on the subject:

"On the one hand, the Chartered Company pay over to the government the sum of 4,000,000 Drachmas (about £152,000) per year. They guarantee the grower a minimum price at which, from the 15-28th June till 1-14th August each year they are obliged to buy up any quantity offered to them. They give the grower considerable cash advance on his fruit, at a moderate interest, leaving him free to take his fruit back by the time the new season comes or leave the same to themselves at the fixed minimum prices less interest. The Chartered Co. are not allowed to export any currants direct or through any other channel, no matter if retention currants or such are bought up at the fixed minimum prices. They are allowed to export the stuff only in a smashed condition, such called currant pulp, of which they sell a lot abroad, especially in Germany. Otherwise they are allowed to use the currants within the country, only for winemaking, distillery and other industrial purposes.

"On the other hand, the Chartered Company receive from exporters an export duty of 35 per cent., according to the size of the crop, either in kind, or part in kind and part in cash money (at a uniform rate) or entirely in cash, the object being always to bring the quantity free for export as near as possible to the approximate world's demand, thus doing away with over-production. Thirty-five per cent. are being levied all in kind this season considering the large crop. A special government committee assemble each year in August to fix the retention. The Chartered Company also receive a cash commission from exporters of 7 Drachmas per 1,000 Ven. lbs. (equal to about 7 pence per cwt.) on quantity declared for export.

"From the above it is evident that the Chartered Company will do the better the smaller the crop is. They have however, shown, through ingeniously turning the never thought of advantage the currants belonging to them, that their existence is safeguarded (and thus far they are paying large dividends) to the great benefit of the grower and indeed the whole currant trade."

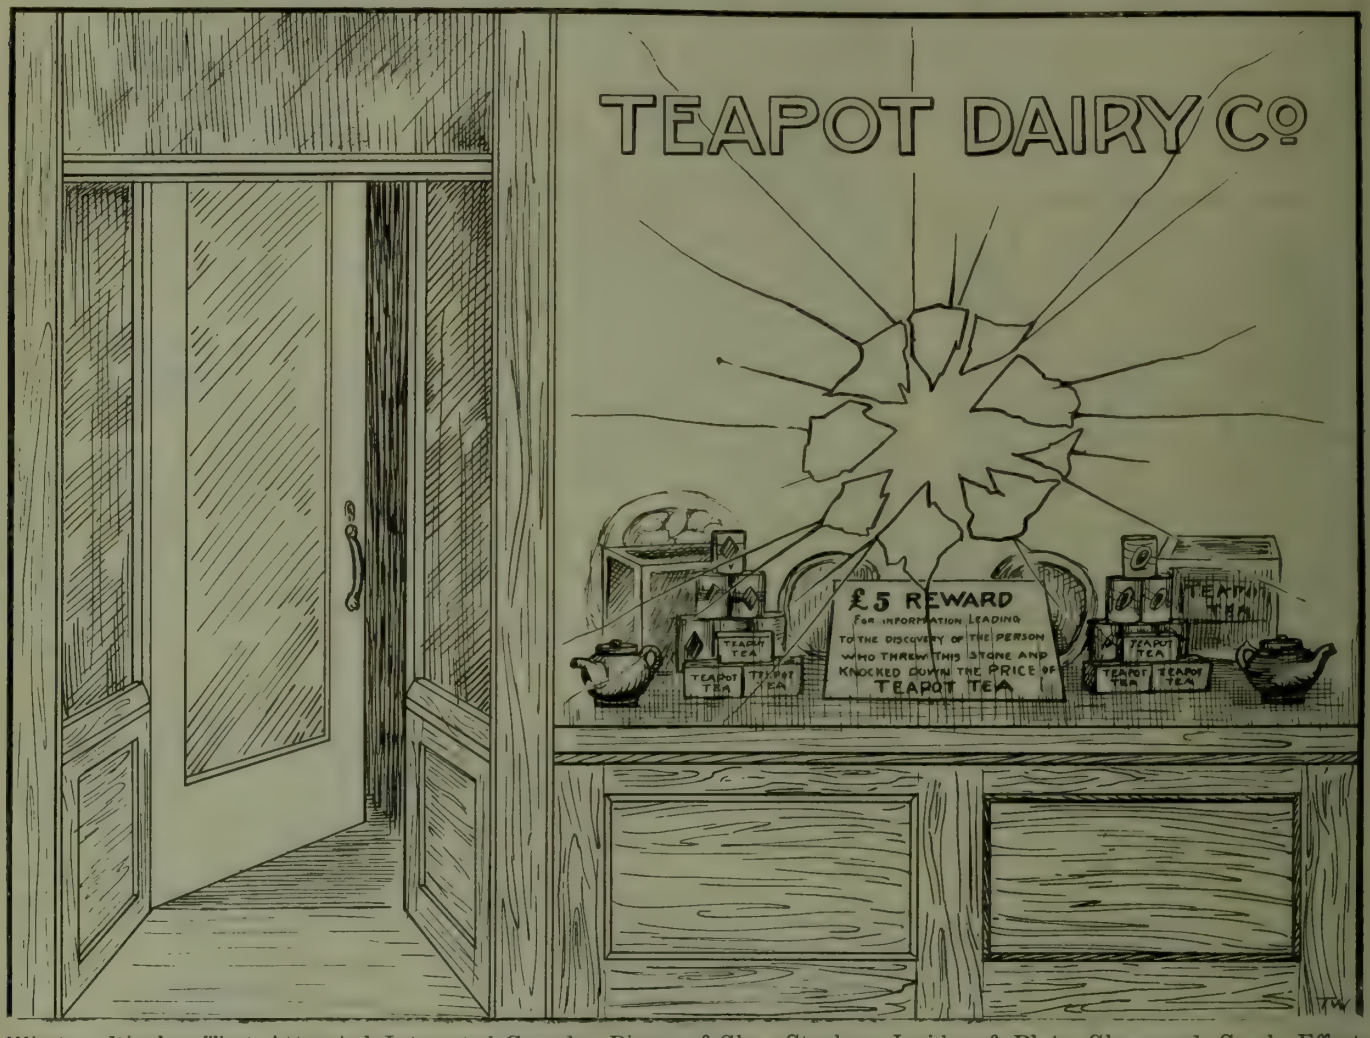
London, Eng., Window Draws Curious Crowds.

Novel Idea Worked Out which Served the Desired Purpose—Passers-by Could Not Resist Tarrying At The Offer of A Reward—How the Display Has Been Constructed.



Staff Correspondence.

London, England, July 10—A large multiple store concern here has lately been attracting a great deal of attention by means of a clever window dressing idea. For days these shops in the various parts of London have been surrounded by curious and interested groups of people.

The windows are filled with attractive displays of butter, eggs and tea with smartly printed price cards. The novel and attractive part of the scheme is that the window has the appearance of being broken and a notice is conspicuously placed in the centre of the display:

> £5 reward will be given for the person who threw this stone through our window and knocked down the price of our Teapot Tea.

In reality the window is not broken but the delusion is well carried out by a number of broken pieces of glass affixed to the inside of the window and arranged in a roughly circular form as that the plate glass is clear where the opening through the window is supposed to be. The jagged parts of glass give a very realistic effect which is increased by the addition of radiating lines cleverly touched in by means of a soap pencil.

Window Display That Attracted Interested Crowds—Pieces of Glass Stuck on Inside of Plate Glass and Crack Effects Carried Out in Soap Streaks.

The accompanying drawing gives an idea of how the display has been carried out and shows how simply it has been constructed.

AN IDEAL AUTO JOURNEY.

After a delightful pleasure trip extending over a period of six months less two days, P. C. Larkin, proprietor of Salada Tea, returned to Toronto on Sunday morning last. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter. The itinerary which included Italy, France, Spain, and England proved an ideal one, particularly becadse the journeys on the continent and in England were made entirely by motor-car with the exception of the jaunt from London to Liverpool. Mr. Larkin had his private auto and chauffeur with him and as the car was shipped from London the trip across to Liverpool had to be made by railway. Mr. Larkin states that the general tone of the business world at present bespeaks better progress than at any time during the past 18 years. He is very optimistic regarding the progressive trend business affairs are taking and predicts a general enhancement of trade in the commercial world.

NEW SUGAR COMPANY.

The amalgamation of the Wallaceburg Sugar Company and the Dominion Sugar Company, Limited, is announced in the last Ontario Gazette.

The new company, to be known as the Dominion Sugar Company, Limited, will have an authorized capital of $1,500,000. The head office will be at Wallaceburg. It is authorized to carry on business in the raising of sugar beets and the mandfacture of beet sugar and development of natural gas and electricity.

The provisional directors are: Senator Jaffray and Mr. Robert Laidlaw, Toronto, and Messrs. D. A. Gordon, Wallaceburg; G. E. Avery, J. H. Avery and F. W. Gilchrist, of Detroit, and Charles Eddy, Benjamin Boutell and H. B. Smith, of Bay City, Mich.

A Retail Grocer's System in Running Three Stores

How the Two Branch Establishments in Other Cities are Kept Track of—Buying Methods Which Save Money —Deliveries Done on Schedule Time—New Ideas in Bookkeeping—Advertise Only in Newspapers—Cash System in Two Stores.

Staff Correspondence.

St. Catharines, July 13.—When a merchant undertakes to personally supervise the operations of three stores in cities or towns miles apart, he has got to have his business methods down to a science. Every grocer knows the cares and worries accompanying a single business. He understands that his buying and selling methods, his advertising, delivering, and accounting systems have necessarily to be worked out methodically if he wishes to succeed in making money.

It will not be maintained that the cost and work of operating three stores will be treble that of one. Buying can be done more economically; circular literature can be prepared and accounting stationery be purchased cheaper and while the work of preparing advertising, dressing windows, etc., will be much greater the fact that ideas thought out and applied to one store will be useful for another, makes the labor comparatively light.

This has been the experience of Bradley & Son of this city. Eleven years ago they established their store here and seven years later were in a position to open another in Niagara Falls. Two years ago they turned their attention to Chatham, where now they have a handsomely fitted grocery establishment.

Strict attention to methods has been one of their strong points and in this lies the chief secret of their success. They do not stick to old and conservative ideas. If a new scheme for bettering conditions presents itself, and it looks reasonable, they do not hesitate to give it a trial. In this way Bradley & Son have in operation modern methods in all the departments necessary to the advantageous running of a retail store—buying, selling, advertising, delivering and book-keeping.

The St. Catharines store is looked after by R. P. Bradley and his son George. They do the purchasing for the Niagara Falls and Chatham stores as well. The latter writes the advertisements for the three, and as they are changed daily he has considerable work to perform in this respect.

The Bradley ads. bring results because they are well written and the advertising is persistent. The accompanying cut testifies to the quality. The correct idea of what good advertising means has been learned long ago and this department is a feature of their business.

Great care is exercised in purchasing. Wherever possible Bradley & Son buy in large quantities and distribute to their three stores what is needed by them.

Canned goods are purchased in quantities sufficient to last all stores for the season. Starch is bought by the carload and their codfish comes direct to them from the coast. They make a specialty in fish and during the season average no less than 30 boxes of haddie per week. Another specialty is cooked ham, breakfast bacon, smoked meats, etc. They contract in February for a year's supply of the leading lines and look to quality. They sell over 1,000 cooked hams in a season.

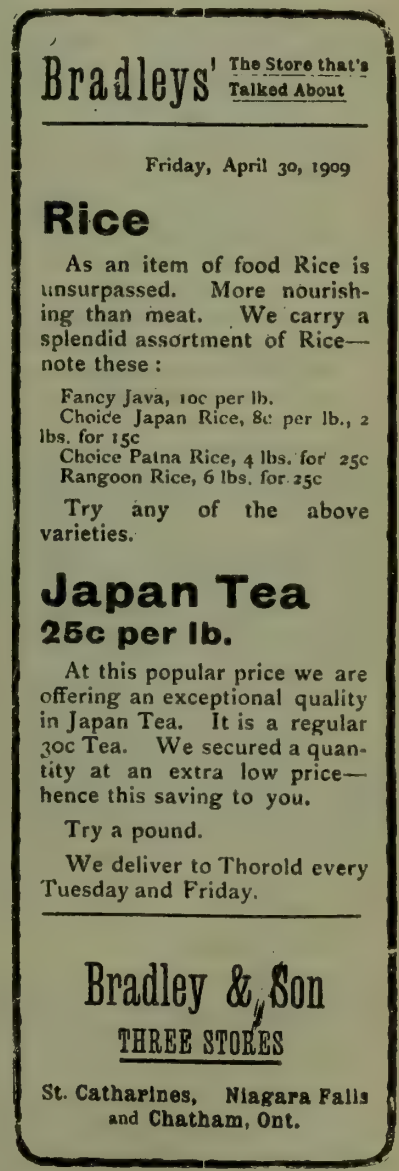
Deliveries on Schedule Time.

Prompt deliveries is made another feature of the business. The Bradley store claims to be the only one in St. Catharines delivering on schedule time. They have four deliveries daily and their customers are educated to the hours. Two are made in the morning at 9.30 and 11 o'clock and two in the afternoon at 2 and 5 o'clock. Before holidays and on Saturday nights an extra delivery is made at 8.30. That gives the drivers plenty of time to conclude their work early and be home long before the day turns into Sunday. The store closes sharp at 6 o'clock during the week and at 10 o'clock on Saturday night.

Delivery slips are sent out with each order and duplicates kept in the store so that complaints may be better handled.

A unique idea is worked out in the construction of the delivery waggon. A great trouble experienced by many grocers has been carrying coal-oil alongside foodstuffs. Housewives object to having goods taste of oil, and correctly so. When they want butter they want it withodt a coal oil flavor. So the Bradley store devised an arrangement to protect food-stuffs from the oil by building an oil tank underneath the waggon box. This is fitted with a tap so that much less trouble is experienced than if the customary can were carried around from house to house.

Altogether Bradley & Son have 23 employes in the three stores. They own 6 delivery horses and 5 wagons.



A "Cash Only" Business.

In the Niagara Falls and Chatham stores a strictly cash business is done. The store here having been so long established the proprietors have not found it expedient to establish the pay-as-you-go rule, but they watch carefully those to whom they sell on credit. In this way they seldom lose from bad debts.

They do not believe in premiums and were one of the few who refused to handle trading-stamps when that craze was on some years ago. They have regular salesmen soliciting orders and claim a great deal of business is obtained in this way.

Their book-keeping system has been carefully worked out and in many respects it is unique. They use the counter-check book giving one page to the purchaser and the other to the office. Each clerk has a small book about 4 inches by 2 inches, containing his own private letter such as "A," "D" etc. The pages are perforated down the centre so that they may be torn in two easily, the half going to the purchaser containing the request, "please pay cashier," as well as the letter and number of sale. The other with the letter "D"—or whatever it happens to be—also contains the number of the sale from 1 up to 100. The amount of sale is of course marked on each half of the leaf.

These sales are transferred to a book the pages of which are divided downwards into ten sections each containing numbers from 1 to 10; 11 to 20; 21 to 30, etc., up to 100. Ruled blank spaces are left in which to place the amounts of sales so that at any time the cashier is in a position to ascertain the extent of purchases. A 'total' column is ruled so that totals may be found by adding either up and down or crosswise and in this way the bookkeeper can tell whether his or her work is correct.

A Representative Ad. Written for a Newspaper by Geo. R. Bradley,

The Bradley store has its own private bank-book for cheques. It issues circulars occasionally on its own letter head and these circulars are written with a view to making them money-getters.

Their trade mark is "The Store That's Talked About," as will be observed from the accompanying advertisement.

In Touch With Branch Stores.

Details regarding the running of the stores in Niagara Falls and Chatham are attended to systematically by Bradley & Son. This is done through a correspondence system that certainly has its merits.

Every morning they receive statements from the branches showing the extent of the previous day's sales. Monthly statements are also made out so that one is able to see at a glance whether an increase or decrease has resulted and the amount.

In addition to these Bradley & Son have weekly correspondence sheets printed on which several questions are asked and blanks are left for the answers. This is attended to by the managers of the branch stores.

Among the questions asked may be seen the following significant ones:

Have the windows been cleaned?

Have window displays been changed?

Total sales for proceeding week.

Does this show increase or decrease?

If increase why?

If decrease why?

Have the ads. proved business getters?

"What would you suggest advertising next week?

It is interesting to note that question number 7 is invariably answered in the affirmative. The Bradley ads. have a distinct feature about them that causes them to be read. They are confined strictly to newspapers, the proprietors stating that any "hold-up games," such as programme or hotel register advertising, are always given the cold shoulder. Newspaper space, they claim, is good enough for them.

The store here has spacious storerooms in the basement, and in the second and third storeys. As they buy whenever possible in large quantities they find this necessary.

With two energetic men at the helm this store has made and is making rapid progress. This has been principally due to the fact that they have made a study of trade conditions and have not hesitated to discard the old systems for the new. They follow trade paper advice and read the best articles that are written in other magazines on salesmanship and the art of doing business on modern principles. They are not satisfied with the amount of business they do—they are after more.

"Put your hammer in the locker,
Hide the sounding board likewise;
Any one can be a knocker.
Any one can criticize.
Cultivate a manner winning,
Though it hurts your face to smile,
And seems awkward in beginning,
Be a booster for a while."

Modern Buying Methods for Retail Grocers

How Discounts May Be Easily Kept Track Of—Purchase In Quantities That Can Be Turned Over Rapidly—Advantages Of Buying Quality Goods—Work With Other Merchants—Keep a Want List.

By Tom Farmer.

In ordinary grocery buying the question of available funds always plays a part. Many of to-day's successful stores were started on small capital but by always working within their capital successful businesses have been built up. Buy in small quantities and often if need be till you get a start but buy always so that you will have no difficulty in meeting accounts, and if possible taking discounts on all purchases.

If you get a 1 per cent. discount at 10 days and pay net price at 30 days you are really getting 1 per cent. on your money for 20 days or about 18 per cent. per annum. Three per cent., thirty days net 60, means, if discounts is taken, about 36 per cent. per annum.

Discounts may be kept track of in a very simple way. Rule an additional column in your Bills Payable book. Enter the discount you take on each bill when entering your check or draft acceptance; total up your columns and carry forward your amounts. It will surprise you how they grow.

Always ask for the best cash price and confine business to two or at most three good reliable houses in each line. This means that your account is worth something to each house from which you buy. Usually these firms give you first chance on anything special they have to offer and their travelers are not nearly so apt to try to "load" you with goods as they would be if each had but a very small share of your business.

Turnover Goods Rapidly.

Consider always whether or not you can handle goods in a reasonable time when offered at 10c a case cut in 5-case lots. You may sometimes save money by buying the single case. Usually it does not pay to buy goods which will last you for say a year. Let the wholesalers carry some of your stock; even canned goods can usually be bought in the spring at little over autumn prices.

When stocking up for winter trade take notes of what you buy. These supplemented by entries showing how various lines cleaned out will be a big help in your next fall's purchases.

Watch market tendencies. By reading The Canadian Grocer you will be kept posted in this line.

For the sake of giving a traveler an order do not order goods for shipment six months from now unless you are sure of requiring them. You can usually buy your goods and have them delivered promptly when you need them.

Buy what you can from those who trade with you. If you can get white beans, onions, etc., from one of your country customers take them from him and do not wear a long face if you have to pay him the cash. Use him right and if you do not get his business to-day you may later on.

Quality Necessary.

Aim at quality goods always, even if the price is a little higher; keep up the standard of your stock. If the tea you have this month gives satisfaction do not change but buy the same line for next month. You will find the statement: "The memory of quality lingers when prices are forgotten," will hold true.

Work with other dealers somewhat. It may take you a long time to handle 25 cases of soap for instance, but if two or six buy together you get your lower price as well as better freight rates and each one can handle his quantity in a reasonable time.

Of course keep a "want list" and when you notice you are nearly out of some line note it down.

What Western Development Means to Merchants

Mixed Farming Gradually Making Inroads Upon the Wheat Industry—Hog Raising an Important Feature—Fruit Growing in its Infancy in Manitoba, but Vegetable Culture is Greatly Aiding the Merchants — Western Flour in Good Export Demand.

By C. L. Harkness.

Western Canada is developing rapidly in every phase of its industrial life. In view of this development and in view of the unlimited possibilities from its fertile soil, the retail merchant who is alive to the trend of conditions and circumstances, has before him a golden future.

At the present time the West is far from being sufficiently populated. Thousands of homesteaders, however, are flocking in year by year and are finding new uses for the soil, so that the annual production is advancing with the stride of a Marathoner.

What does all this mean to the retail merchant?

The answer is quite plain. It spells success to the business man who properly handles his business, by the fact that wealth is pouring in, in ever-increasing quantities, as the years go by.

The one great industry which lies at the base of all others is that of wheat-growing. Perhaps less skill is required in growing wheat than any other crop grown in western Canada. It is a fact, however, that wheat cultivation is becoming more scientific each year in the older sections of the country. For the land is by no means imbued with the eternal power of producing wheat without failing in its productiveness as years go on.

The problem is facing many farmers at the present time, and to avoid it some are going to newly-opened sections of the country to procure farms that will yield profitable crops without the extra labor of soil cultivation that is necessary in older sections.

Progress of Mixed Farming.

Others, however, are resigned to remain on old farms, and develop the mixed farimng industry. This is the tendency of Manitoba farming to-day. Farmers are beginning to depend upon their live stock to keep up the productiveness of their soil to a great extent. They, however, have not generally realized the value to themselves which the live stock would be, and they are still endeavoring to grow wheat even though the yield per acre each year is decreasing.

In the past ten years the increase in the number of hogs was 82 per cent., and in cattle the increase was 88 per cent. This increase is not sufficient to ensure the standard of soil production. For in 1902 the acreage in wheat in Manitoba was over 2,000,000, and the yield was on an average of 26 bushels per acre. In 1908 the acreage in wheat was over 3,000,000, but the average yield was only 18 bushels per acre, showing a falling off of about 12 bushels per acre. This comparison shows the significant relationship between live stock and grain. The future welfare of the one is dependent upon the other. A farm without its live stock soon loses its fertility, and with its loss of vitality, it will soon lose its productivity. Rotation of crops may help for a time, but in the end the real secret of diversified farming lies in live stock. Live stock is dependent upon the crops. The crops are dependent upon the soil, and the fertility of the soil is dependent upon the live stock. Thus each year there is a complete rotation, showing good results.

Twenty-five years ago wheat-growing was the great craze of Minnesota, That state became the great wheat-growing section of the country, greatest in point of area in the world. But as the years went by the productions became less and less and the vitality was gradually but surely sapped from the soil. To-day, Minnesota only averages from 10 to 12 bushels per acre. The farmers of that state prospered for a short time, just as Manitoba farmers prospered and are prospering to-day.

But Minnesota has since learned the value of live stock. Statistics show that to-day Minnesota boasts of having 2,400,000 cattle; 1,400,000 hogs, and 800,000 sheep. It was the introduction of live stock that saved the state. And it is live stock that will save the Manitoba farmer from the humiliation of raising 10 bushels of grain per acre. It is the cheapest soil feeder there is. It gives two returns: Increased crops, and the sale of progeny.

To the Merchants' Advantage.

With the advance made in stock raising there will necessarily need to be a development in the market opening for meats and dairy products. As to the conditions of the dairy industry, we will investigate later. Regarding the live stock market, there is no doubt that the market for hogs is the most important, because hogs are the most profitable farm stock for the production of meat. They do not require the same amount of care as cattle, and will thrive well on the barley grown in this country, which is the best bacon-producing food known. Regarding the hog market we quote the words of W. R. Ingram, of J. Y. Griffin Company, Winnipeg.

"The market capacity for hogs in western Canada is a big subject. It is hard to see far enough in the future and yet see the time where there could be too many hogs raised in our westren provinces. The returns show that for the year 1908, hog receipts at Winnipeg were approximately 150,000; for the year 1907, 82,500, and for the year 1906, 86,000. It is conservative to say that Winnipeg packing concerns in 1908 could have absorbed at least three times the number of hogs that were offered them, and it is only good business to say that as fast as an increased supply offers itself, that capital and facilities will be forthcoming to take care of them. I do not believe that hog raisers and shippers need to worry about the danger of hog values getting to an extremely low level, such as may have happened a good many years ago. There is a limit to the quantity of hog products which can be marketed in Canada, but after our home demands are supplied, we have the big advantage of being able to look to Great Britain as an outlet. The English demand is practically unlimited and England, with her small producing power and immense consuming demand, will always be the world's biggest customer for grain and meat products. An index of big demand from England is shown by figures covering annual exports for meat and meat products from the United States to Great Britain, which have everaged about one billion pounds a year during the past five years. Canadian bacon and hams stand high on the English market, and while prices are not so high as Danish or Irish, Canadian prices are, as a rule, considerably ahead of United States product, owing to the bacon type of hog, feeding and handling they get as against fat corn-fed hogs from the United States,"

Science is Needed.

Scientific hog raising is not developed in the West as yet, to the same extent as in some parts of the States and in Ontario. In order that any farmer can make a success of raising them for market. he must cater to the demands of the market. The packers do not want to handle hogs over 200 lbs in weight, and they prefer to get them at 150 pounds. In the majority of cases the hog raiser looses money on his hogs, after they have passed the 200 pound mark, for the heavier the pig becomes the greater quantity of feed is required to sustain the weight. And again the packers are continually calling for lean pork, and the farmers persist on fattening their hogs and expect the packers to accept them as first-class bacon types. These are some of the disadvantages at the present time in the hog raising industry, but it is only a matter of time when the farmers will take the trade more seriously to heart, and produce in a way that will be profitable to themselves and to the merchants and satisfactory to the packer.

The average price paid for live hogs at Winnipeg for the year 1908, to packers, was probably 5¾c; for year 1907, 6¾c; and for the year 1906, slightly over 7c.

Dairying Industry.

Perhaps the most prominent branch of mixed farming from the western merchant's standpoint is that of dairying. While the farmers may have some difficulty in marketing hogs satisfactorily there seems to be not so much difficulty in Manitoba in marketing the dairy products.

To keep a dairy herd on the farm means a greater revolution in farming than the keeping of hogs. Varieties of field crops must be grown for feed, and thus the crop of wheat is decreased. From this very fact it will be seen that dairying must be gone into thoroughly if it is to take the place of wheat growing. That there is a sad lacking in scientific methods employed in the dairy branch, is a fact of considerable importance to merchants and consumers. It may be that the poor quality of farm dairy products is the cause for the tendency towards the creamery outputs.

Dairy butter at the best is selling for from 5c to 10c less than the creamery butter, and during the past few weeks the dairy butter has become so unpopular that few grocers care to accept any direct from the farmers.

It would seem that just now, while the transition is taking place from the dairy to the creamery product that there is not a rapidly growing trade in dairy products. In 1900 the total amount of butter marketed in Manitoba was 1 557,-010 pounds, and the total amount for 1908, was 1,561,398, making only a slight increase in quantity in the eight years. The increased value, however, due to higher prices was considerable, being about 28 per cent.

An Increase in Demand.

There is no doubt that the consumption of butter will materially increase as the creamery branches increase. We are in the habit of estimating the value of our dairy industry on the figures of the export trade, but in view of the fact that the value of the cheese and butter exported amounts to less than one-third of the total value of our dairy production including milk for direct consumption, it goes without saying that the home market is much the most important of the two.

The development in home consumption means much to the reail merchant who passes the dairy products on to the consumer.

There have been several creameries built recently throughout the province, due to the high price of products and the weakness in the dairy product market. This is one of the hopeful signs of the province. The farmers can co-operate in the industry more conveniently, and with greater profit than to make their own butter at home. And when the consumers demand good quality from the creamery, and the creamery in turn impresses the farmer that he must do his share in furnishing pure milk or cream, then will the consumption increase, and the province will develop that very important branch of industry, upon which it must sooner or later, to a very large extent depend.

There are also cheese factories in many sections of the country, but the cheese business, as statistics show, has deteriorated to a very great extent in recent years. In 1900 there were 1,298,413 pounds of cheese manufactured in Manitoba, and in 1907 there were 1,265,592 pounds manufactured, which shows a decrease of over 30,000 pounds in seven years. This decrease in cheese production is general all over the Dominion. The export statistics show a decrease of 800,000 boxes of 80 pound cheese since 1904.

Poor Cheese the Cause.

The reason why there is a decline in the home and foreign consumption of cheese, according to J. A. Ruddick, Dominion dairy and cold storage commissioner, is that it is not properly made, and is put on the market in too green a condition. In Manitoba there is a lack of scientific knowledge employed in the making of cheese. We have been satisfied too long with illcured stuff, such as expert cheese makers in England, Scotland and Denmark can easily kill on the market.

Strawberries in the West.

Merchants during the past few years have been able to extend their businesses in the fruit and vegetable lines, on account of the development that has and is being made. Easterners can scarcely realize the extent of this development, especially in the case of the latter case.

Fruit growing in Manitoba is, of course, only in its experimental stage. Rarely can any cultivated fruits be found in the province except in the gardens of those who grow varieties that they may test the adaptability of the plant to the soil or climate. It has been known for several years that fruits may be grown here, but the difficulty lies chiefly in the fact that a special science is required to discover the most hardy varieties.

Professor Green. of Minnesota, who is an authority on fruit growing, has studied the conditions of Manitoba in connection with that industry. He says, "It is absurd that the same principles adhered to in Ontario regarding fruit growing, should be adopted in Manitoba."

The one who grows fruit here must study the conditions and conform to them. In so doing, it will be found that it will be a much easier and successful operation than is usually supposed.

Much of the stock heretofore used was absolutely worthless and entirely unsuited for the climate of this country, yet with the experience gained in the past as a guide, thousands of dollars worth of poor stock is still annually imported. Much of the stock brought in will not succeed in the northern part of Ontario, say, for instance in the lower Ottawa Valley, so it cannot be expected to thrive here.

It is on account of the many failures in Manitoba that the idea is quite prevalent that strawberries is the most uncertain crop. But the proper system of growing them has been worked out with great success, and it is simply a matter of following a system of cultivation adapted to the country.

Wild Berry Unsuccessful.

The wild strawberry grows profusely on the prairie. but it is very small and of no economic value. Nothing will ever be done with it. Max Magor, a Manitoba gardener has tried to grow the wild variety, but with no profit. The flavor of the berry is good, but it is too small and its habit of throwing out endless runners makes it an extreme nuisance in the garden. A gardener is willing to spend considerable energy on good cultured varieties that will produce berries an inch or more in diameter, rather than be bothered with the wild type that grows too freely. But the fact that it does grow freely and produces abundantly is significant, since, if the secret of the wild plant life could be revealed it would aid in the choice of better cultured types.

H. L. Patmore, of Brandon, has been developing the art of strawberry growing for a number of years; some years he produced profitable crops, while other years have been failures. Before coming to Manitoba, he had experience in the culture of strawberries in Ontario, and in comparing the two provinces, he says, "The soil and climate of Manitoba will produce strawberries of as large a size, as fine a quality, and in as great abundance, as will the soil and climate of Ontario."

There are many statements made by experts, just as encouraging as the above, but they have little effect upon the general farmer. His energies are all exerted in the production of wheat, and he looks upon such a line as strawberry culture as something beneath the dignified indulgence of wheat growing.

The time will come, however, when the farmer will find his wheat and grain yields decreasing, and the soil will be put to other uses. When this time comes, fruit growing will rapidly increase in popularity, since the experts are laying the basis for a thorough and profitable culture of all kinds of fruit. At the present time the nurseries in various sections of the country have varieties perfectly climatized, from which the crude farmer could produce, without great difficulty, luscious crops.

Vegetable Growing.

Vegetable growing in Manitoba is much more extensive than that of fruit and therefore has been more advantageous to the merchant. The reason for this is that the climate and soil conditions are more congenial to vegetable production, and also to the fact that the demand for vegetables is greater, locally, than for fruit. The farmer can get along quite well without fruit, but he usually goes to the necessary pains to produce vegetables for his own use.

As to the marketing of vegetables the supply is quite adequate to the demand, while the local vegetable season is open. This assures us that there is no difficulty in producing the various lines of vegetables. There has been some difficulty in obtaining suitable varieties of tomatoes and a few other lines, but the problem was not as discouraging as the same difficulty in fruit.

Celery Neglected.

There has been one valuable vegetable which has been seriously neglected in Manitoba among the market gardeners, and this is celery. There is always a good demand for this nerve restorer, and to comply with this Manitoba commission houses depend almost entirely upon foreign production. The cause for this limited production of celery in Manitoba is due to the fact shat it requires scientific cultivation. It is not, however, as highly a cultivated plant as many people suppose, yet it does require peculiar treatment. Where the land is rich and the rain-fall plentiful there should be no great drawback in the production of this plant, and these two agencies are prevalent in Manitoba.

S. Lacombe, of Birtle, Man., the largest vegetable grower in Manitoba, has had great success with celery, having secured a variety that does not require the same method of cultivation as that usually employed.

The old familiar way of growing celery is in the trench, but Mr. Lacombe sows the seed in the field as though it were a field grain, taking cognizance only, of the requirements that the soil is rich and moist, and capable of sustaining the highly nutritive properties of the plant. The objection to this method is that it is later in developing than the plant that is started inside, and set out in a healthy condition.

Benefits to Grocers.

The development of vegetable growing in the province has been of great benefit to the retail grocery and produce houses.

A few years ago a greater part of the vebetables consumed in Manitoba came from the south all the year round. This meant a high price for the stuff, and consequently a poor market. The imported stock was not fresh, or of a good flavor, and were not attractive counter or window goods, all of which tended to weaken the market output.

A Winnipeg grocer, who has been in the business many years, said: "The sale of vegetables, as late as four years ago, was not to be compared with the heavy volume of trade done in the same line at the present time, since the local growers can put on marketable goods much cheaper than the imported stock. The grocers heretofore could never depend upon local stuff being put on the market. Each year the supply varied in quantity and often owing to the laxity of the few growers there would be a decidedly limited supply.

The grocers heretofore could never depend upon Manitoba stuff being put on the market. Each year the supply varied in quantity and often owing to the laxity of the few growers, there would be a decidedly limited supply. For this reason produce men would depend upon imported stock, paying little or no attention to Manitoba grown stuff when it did happen to come in. But now things have changed and the local grown produce is gaining more recognition each year.

The same is true, or will be true of fruits. The supply is so much below the demand that local fruit production does not figure very largely in the retail market. But it will be recognized just as vegetables have become recognized, and the day will come when almost all of the hardy fruits on the local retail counter will be grown in Manitoba. At the present time there are so many fruit importers in the province that the competition has become keen enough to reduce the price of fruits so that they are within the reach of the ordinary consumer.

But this cannot last long, since the profits are too small. The strong firms will eventually control the market.

Ontario garden and orchard fruits are cheap, comparatively, on the western market, and these all can be grown in Manitoba province. When they are grown the market will improve in every way, for the same reason as the market in vegetables has revived. This will stimulate the market, causing merchants to depend more and more upon western grown produce.

Flour Milling in Manitoba.

It was not many years ago when all western grown wheat was milled in Ontario and elsewhere. The milling industry was slow in opening here because the population was not large enough to support an industry of this kind. Wheat could be handled and shipped easier and cheaper than flour and this also has delayed the milling in the west.

Within the past four years the milling in Manitoba has increased from 2,000 barrels to 9,000 barrels per day. Several permits have been issued for new mills in various parts of the country.

The rapid increase in flour production is not due solely to the increase in population. It is owing more particularly to the special features of the industry which enable western flour producers to compete with the English miller, notwithstanding the fact that that it costs more to land flour on foreign markets than it does wheat. The flour trade is, of course, becoming more extensive each year, but the present population would not necessitate more than one-third of the present flour output in the west.

Some Large Mills.

In Manitoba alone there are four large flour mills with a capacity totaling 8,000 barrels per day. One concern operates two mills with a total capacity of 4,500 barrels per day. Another mill in Manitoba has a capacity or 1,500 barrels per day, and a third has a 3,000 barrel capacity. Each of these companies depend largely upon their foreign shipments.

As it was intimated before, it is the highly specialized features of the industry that enable them to do this.

The English miller puts his milled produce on the market simply as "flour," with little variation in price. The western Canada miller puts his goods on the market in "brands of flour," with a range in prices. Some of the brands may undersell the English flour, while other brands will overrate it. The Canadian miller can put "quality" into his flour while the English miller cannot. The over-sea miller gets his wheat in bulk of various grades and can only produce a limited variety of flours depending upon the milling process.

The western millers grade their wheat and from the various grades produce the various brands. They also have the spring and fall wheats from which distinct brands are made. These are the features, together with the fact that they can also mill as scientifically as the Englishman, that gives the home producer the advantages.

Cereal Production.

There is an idea prevalent in certain quarters, that the milling business is all running to cereal production. This line is developing, but it has almost reached its limit and Manitoba millers do not depend upon it to a great extent, except to use up the by-products of the mill. All the mills manufacture a wheat cereal, and it is a profitable by-product. As the population increases and export shipments grow larger this side of the business will necessarily figure more largely, but no wheat will be turned into breakfast foods, as long as the present market condition prevails in flour.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY

THE WEEK'S FEATURES.

The uncertain condition of the canned goods market, the high price of pork and the easing off of grain prices are among the interesting points in connection with the week's market.

The canned goods situation will be found in another column. The continued scarcity of the supply of hogs has caused Montreal pork prices to advance another dollar and on the Toronto market the price of live hogs has scarcely ever been as high. Packing houses are therefore faced with a hog shortage amidst a good demand for the product.

Egg prices are high, due to various causes. The demand is good but apart from that the number of bad eggs on the market has had much to do with the recent advances in prices made by the large dealers.

Garden vegetables generally are declining in prices. Canadian grown tomatoes have been introduced and soon prices will be considerably changed. Home grown cucumbers have also made an appearance and will be presently lowered.

Strawberries are vanishing rapidly and their place has been taken by cherries. This crop has been an excellent one and the quality has never been better. Canadian raspberries are on the market in small quantities and at the beginning of the week were offered around 17 cents to the retail trade. As the season advances they will become cheaper.

The Winnipeg market shows a decline in oats and a consequent easing off in the rolled oats market, while in St. John, N.B., Ontario flour has declined.

CHAOS IN CANNED GOODS.

It still remains a difficult proposition to fathom the market in canned goods for delivery in the future. This is evident from the remark of a jobber to a query on what the present situation was. "There is no situation," he declared, and answers to several other inquiries bears out this assertion to a considerable extent.

New pack goods are being sold at prices quoted in our market columns last week, but only by some wholesalers. Others who are anxiously awaiting the turn of events are not naming any prices.

Last week peas were quoted at from 75c up to $1.40 per dozen to the retailer, but some of the canners have cancelled the opening figures to jobbers. The reason as given by one jobber for this was the probable advance owing to the crop prospects not being so bright as they were when those prices were first presented. This phase of the question was referred to in our last week's report.

Everyone knows that the opening prices have been low and the question that should now attract the retailer's attention is "When shall I buy?" In some cases at least advances seem probable. It is stated that canners can make little profit at their prices quoted.

The pivot-point of the whole question however seems to bear on the extent of the crops. If the recent rains were not too late, they may play an important part. If they were delayed too long, the market may be given a bearish tendency.

Jobbers are now quoting prices on salmon for future delivery, sockeyes ranging around $1.75 to $1.80, while inferior grades are in the neighborhood of $1 and $1.05. Last year prices ran from $2 to $2.50 for the former, and from $1.10 to $1.15 for the latter. Different jobbers have different prices.

TEA SPECULATERS LOSE.

It is now practically assured that there will be no duty on bulk tea entering the United States. The effect of this on those who bought tea when the tax was proposed is apparent.

The Grocer has been informed by an authority that one firm, the Carter, Macey Co., New York, collected a stock of more than 6,000,000 lbs. with the idea that a duty would be imposed. A speculator in New York, named Buttfield, is said to have bought a 4,000,000 lb. stock with a similar purpose in view. It therefore seems evident that those who bought like this on speculation are going to have a hard time and will scarcely be able to pull themselves out of the hole.

It is represented that the United States retailer and jobber are loaded up with bulk tea and that many of them have enough to fill their orders for two years. This must be more ill news for the speculator.

Already large shipments of tea are being exported to London at prices less than cost and holders are losing from 5 to 6 cents per pound.

In addition to holdings of bulk teas being enormous, large sums were expended for lobbying purposes. If the duty as proposed had been imposed speculators would have cleared a million at least.

FIRES AND FAILURES.

The fire losses in the United States and Canada for the first six months of the year were over $21,500,000 less than for the same period last year.

The opinion obtains among insurance men that fire losses are always heavier during hard times, than when trade is in its normal condition.

The inference is that when business is inactive incendiarism is active. This inference may not be based on fact. But whether or not the fire records of the past six months can be taken as evidence that trade is healthier than it was a year ago, other indications such as clearing house returns, railway earnings and fewer commercial failures place the question beyond dispute.

PERISHABLE GOODS IN DANGER.

At this season of the year considerable loss is incurred by many retail grocers, due to lack of equipment for sufficient care of perishable goods.

These include butter, cheese, fish, molasses, syrups pickles, etc., all of which need to be kept in a comparatively cool place, and some more so than others. Even canned goods should not be allowed to become too warm.

About the best method for efficiently attending to these, is to use the refrigerator. Those with glass fronts may also be used to display pickles, cheese and butter, as well as other goods.

Careful attention should be given to oat and cornmeal. Grocers should not purchase in too large quantities, as in the warm weather worms begin to move about in them, if they are allowed to stand too long.

Salt fish should also be watched and kept continuously in brine.

All goods of the above character need special care just now. If such is not given it may become necessary to consign them to the garbage heap.

PETERBORO.

July 14.—Charles Harmer for some time clerk in the grocery store of Peter Connal & Son, has gone to the west where he has secured a good position. Before leaving Peterboro he was presented with a gold signet ring by the members of the B.A.C. club of which he was a member. He was also remembered by the choir of the Charlotte St. Methodist church. At a meeting one evening he was presented with a gold headed umbrella. Mr. Harmer had many friends in the city and was a valued clerk to the firm with whom he was employed.

Investigation among the grocery stores seems to prove conclusively that there has been more business on the part of grocers in the handling of tomatoes than in other years. In the past the custom was for the most part to wait until the local supply was received. The imported kind was sold mostly by the fruit and vegetable dealer. This spring the people seem to have been educated into buying the early tomatoes which have to be brought into the city. This has been noticed in connection with other vegetables that have been handled this spring and apparently the grocer is cutting in more on the exclusive fruit dealer's business.

Practically all the Peterboro grocers are handling bottled drinks and are also disposing of them in a satisfactory manner. The hot weather makes the demand and a good clerk can make it apparent to a customer that his or her comfort will not be completed without some of the ordinary summer drinks.

One of the disadvantages of the handling of tomatoes is the high price when they are first received. Twenty-five cents a pound has been the price prevailing for some time and this turns away too many customers. In fact with many it is prohibitive. A grocer stated recently that with the ordinary customer the purchasing of tomatoes was looked as a little extravagance.

Eggs are selling at twenty and twenty-one cents a dozen and are considered rather dear. The price was expected to go up on Saturday owing to the bad weather but there was not the usual large number of purchasers and no change was reported.

Strawberries are practically all done and the grocers are advertising cherries with berries to follow when the cherries are done. The crop in this district is a fair one. Market gardeners state that berries will be plentiful and that Saturday's rain will do a great deal of good. Although there are many good gardens in this vicinity the local supply is not sufficient for the demand.

Mrs. Sid Mitchell is meeting with encouraging business in her new store at the corner of Sherbrooke and Reid Sts.

R. C. Braund, grocer, and his family are camped on the Otonabee and is enabled to spend nights with them, occasionally taking a day off himself.

Harry Ball, a grocer, who has been in business here a short time has disappeared. According to his books he is in a fairly good position financially and the reason for his departure is credited to the small amount of business he was doing. A note that he left intimates this, and also that he had suicidal intentions.

INGERSOLL.

July 14.—Hereafter those who call upon the retail merchants during business hours soliciting donations for charitable or other purposes, or with a view of disposing of tickets will receive the courteous but emphatic answer "no, thank you." This plan of action has been unanimously endorsed by the members of the Retail Merchants' Association, and there will be absolutely no deviation. Only those actually engaged in the retail business can have a proper conception of the extent of the demands that have been made from day to day dpon the finances of the merchants in consequence of the canvassing method. This plan has been in vogue in connection with practically every money raising scheme and the merchants have invariably been the first ones singled out for "attack." The merchants have long sighed for the day when concerted action would be taken which would enable them to say "no." This time has at last arrived. The reorganization of the Retail Merchants' Association, a few weeks ago, paved the way. The matter of indiscriminate giving was slated as one of the first to receive attention. It came up for consideration at the last meeting of the Association and was unanimously endorsed.

Another important matter dealt with by the Retail Merchants' Association at its last meeting was the question of cartage. In the past the merchants have had to pay the cartage at both ends on all consignments received by them. The manufacturers and wholesalers have added this to the freight bills and individual protests were unavailing. Hereafter the merchants will attach slips to all orders instructing the wholesalers and manufacturers to ship all goods cartage prepaid at their end. The slips will also clearly set forth that if this request will not be complied with the orders are to be cancelled. The association has affiliated with the Provincial Retail Merchants' Association and it is the intention of the members to give prompt and earnest attention to all matters pertaining to the trade.

Although none have yet made their appearance at the time of writing it is expected that raspberries will be offered on the market this week. The season has been very favorable up to the present, but if the drought continues, it will no doubt reduce the crop to some extent. Present indications, however, point to a great supply.

Small quantities of the later varieties of strawberries are still being marketed. The berries for the most part are small, but nevertheless well ripened, but the price precludes their general adaption for preserving purposes. A a rule they retail at ten cents per box.

The enterprising merchants have been busy during the past few days calling attention in their advertising spaces to "cherry week." This is said to be the big week. The local crop has practically nothing to do with regulating the market. Very few cherries are grown in this section, principally on account of the havoc wrought in bygone years by the Black Knot. Only a few trees of the old favorite varieties are to be found, and in most instances the fruit is so highly prized that it never finds its way onto the market. Most of the cherries, as with the peaches, are brought in from the Niagara and other famous fruit sections. At the present time cherries are ranging in price from $1.25 to $1.75 a basket, and it is doubtful if the price will be any lower.

CHATHAM.

July 14.—The first raspberries of the season made their appearance on Saturday, when the King Edward grocery, which makes a feature of early fruits, offered them at 20c a box. These are home-grown berries. To-day the price went down to 15c. During the past week, growers and consumers have been face to face with the prospect of a berry shortage, on account of the continued drought. Rain is needed, and with a little wet weather the next week or so, the raspberry crop will be a good one. Home-grown tomatoes were also a feature at the King Edward on Saturday. Northwood & Bartlett offering a good article at 12½c a pound. This is where Chatham beats the east.

The recent hot spell has stimulated the demand for refreshing drinks for home use, and several grocers have seized the opportunity to display lime juice, lemon squash, ginger beer, orangeade and other lines in their windows.

Among the displays in vogue just now in connection with housecleaning accessories, W. E. Parrott has put in a novelty, the small size cans being so arranged on the bottom of the window as to spell the name of the product.

An important business transfer took place this week at Blenheim, when W. W. Logan and Mr. Walker, of this city, bought E. J. Spackman's grocery and dry goods store. Mr. Spackman came to Blenheim about a year ago, buying out F. R. Webb, now of Kingsville. He expects to move to Calgary, where he has large real estate interests. The new firm of Logan & Walker is now in charge.

The Dresden canning factory is being overhauled, under the direction of Manager Edgecomb, preparatory to the tomato "campaign."

Ben Madden, grocer, of Dresden, has purchased a residence in North Dresden from his fellow-grocer, R. Heyland.

T. G. Guest, of Richmond, Mich., formerly in the grocery business in Ridgetown, visited old friends in this section last week, prior to leaving for New Westminster, B.C., where he will locate in business.

Mahler Bros. are purchasing labor-saving machinery and gasolene engines for instalation in their evaporating factories at Forest and Dresden, an increased output being the objective.

LONDON.

July 14.—Wholesalers report business fair among country dealers. Sugar is not moving so rapidly here as it was expected would be the case, with the opening of the preserving season. The market for teas of all kinds is advancing. Mediums are about ½d up and very fine have also advanced. Excepting a sharp advance in African coffee, all the other staples are unchanged, as are also cereals, but in view of the splendid crop outlook, an early drop is looked for.

One effect of the Wednesday half-holiday is to enable grocers to get better acquainted with their families. Before the introduction of the mid-week breathing spell, it was work, work from Monday morning until early Sunday morning. Now almost every grocer in the city has his driving outfit, and it is a common thing on Wednesday afternoon to see a grocer with his wife and family driving to and from the country. It does them all good and no one suffers in any way.

This has been the biggest year for strawberries on record. The berries are just about over now. There were some on the market Saturday morning, but they were of poor quality and sold as low as five cents a box.

Agitation is being renewed for the establishment of a public abattoir as the result of a statement made by the chief of the Dominion veterinary department to the effect that the citizens of Canada are eating much impure meat owing to the lack of inspection of some slaughter houses. The trouble in London's case is that unless the county co-operates it will be impossible to solve the problem. The city could of course, establish an abattoir, but if the county permitted indiscriminate slaughtering there would still be a danger of bad meat getting into the market.

However true this may be they are a first-class pair of fellows.

Bills are out announcing the grocers' picnic to Port Stanley on Wednesday afternoon of next week and a moonlight excursion on Lake Erie in the evening. The grocers promise a good time.

LINDSAY.

July 14.—Grocers and others have been predicting a famine in this part of the country, hard times, etc., during the past week owing to the fact that the ground was parched, and the small garden fruit, as well as the farmers' crops, were in dire need of rain, and lots of it. In the country everything was almost burnt to a crisp. But the rain descended in torrents on Saturday, and the prayers of the farmers and others were answered. The rain itself will prove a blessing, as already the roots, etc., in the garden are taking on an increased growth due to the nourishment. The grocers of Lindsay do a large amount of business in the small fruit and vegetable line. Every store has its display of this line of produce. There was a time when the market gardener and the peddlar on the street took a large amount of this trade away from the grocer, but of late little small fruit and garden vegetables are to be found on the Saturday market, and the peddlars have given it up for a bad job. Inviting bunches of all kinds of garden vegetables are to be had at the grocery stores at reasonable prices. The outdoor home-grown Canadian tomato has not yet made its appearance, but it is expected within the present week. Green peas are plentiful, but cabbage has not made an appearance at all. New potatoes have been selling at fifty cents a peck with a good demand. The old potatoes are doing very well at seventy-five cents per bushel, but they are expected to go into disuse pretty soon. The first load of new hay was on the market Saturday and sold for $8 per ton.

Fine preserving cherries were offered Saturday at $1.25 per basket. Gooseberries have also made their appearance. The grain market remained the same, but owing to the hot and dry weather butter and eggs advanced in price.

On Saturday last a flash of lightning frightened L. A. Primeau's delivery horse and a tumble in groceries ensued. Granulated sugar, especially took a big drop, and was strewn all along the road.

Mrs. Ed Robson, wife of the popular west end grocer, is an enthusiastic fisherwoman. The other day she secured a beautiful ten-pounder in Scugog Lake.

Some of the town grocers would like to see a grocers' picnic, in which they could all enjoy a sail down the river, and have a jolly outing. The scheme is worth considering, as it has proved to be a delightful outing in other towns and cities.

The Lindsay grocers are on excellent terms with each other. Sometimes one grocer will experience a heavy demand for a certain article, and will perhaps run short. The next customer asks for the same article, and to accommodate her, the grocer will send one of his clerks down to the store of a fellow-grocer and thus trade is not sent away to another store. It is good to see the grocers on such friendly terms with each other.

It pays to deal honestly with the people, and those grocers in Kingston, who are alleged to have sold "adulterated" coffee will be the losers to a large extent. Perhaps, it will not be noticeable at first, but in time trade at those particular stores will go elsewhere. The people will not patronize a grocer who seeks to "do them."

Chatting with a provision man the other day your correspondent learned that, with the exception of sugar, the raising in prices for groceries, generally, was about to take place. Lard and bacon, he stated were exceptionally high in price, and the high price of oats was causing mild consternation.

More poor news for the grocers. It is learned that the apple crop in this district promises poorly this season, and as a number of Lindsay merchants do a large brisk business in apples, the news will be doleful and unwelcome. The dry weather during the past few weeks is given as the reason. Messrs. Primeau and Spratt, two of the large apple-buyers, in conversation, stated that they had visited some of the orchards and thought that from observation both fall and winter apples would be at a premium, and they expect the prices to be the highest in years. In some sections of the province it is reported that an insect pest is killing the apples. However, that is not the case in this section yet. The recent rainfall, however, will do an immense lot of good to the apple crop.

OTTAWA.

July 14—Creditors of a fruit dealer and confectioner named John Lopresti are anxiously awaiting his return and in the meantime are trying to discover his present place of abode. Some days ago Lopresti, who is a bachelor, failed to open his store for business as usual and suspicions were aroused. He lived to the rear of the store alone, and on an entrance being made no trace was found of him. One of his largest creditors called in police assistance but search of the city failed to locate the missing man. At first it was thought he had gone to Montreal, for his father and uncle are in the same business on St. James street, there, but the Montreal police were unable to find trace of him. The father, Antonio Lopresti, formerly kept a fruit store on Wellington street, and the uncle, Joseph Lopresti, is also well known here, having been in business on Bank street near the corner of Nepean. The creditors who are interested and the amounts Lopresti owed them, so far as could be ascertained, are: Dominion Fruit Exchange, $121; C. E. Plain & Company, $34.75; Langstaff Brothers, $22; Maloof & Turner, $49. What little stock remained in the store is being held for the creditors pending developments.

KINGSTON.

July 14.—Housewives who did not buy strawberries early were somewhat fooled this year. Grant Pyke, of Wolfe Island, is one of the most extensive growers in this district. His berries command 12½ to 15 cents per box. He bought 90,000 berry boxes this season and will use them all with his raspberries.

Secretary Dalby has been one of the busiest men in the city arranging for the grocers' picnic.

"Pompadour Jim" has a fine dressed window on Princess St.

The grocers' picnic prizes are displayed in Jas. Reddin & Co.'s window and include many valuable gifts.

Nothwithstanding the rise in flour, some bakers have started in cutting prices selling to stores.

Two grocers here were fined for selling adulterated coffee. It seems that the manufacturers should pay these fines. It is strange how the government looks after this business and yet in getting supplies for their institutions call for pure coffee and sometimes accepts a 12c article, and a pure white pepper and accept one at 8 or 9c. It looks as if the searchlight were thrown on the doings of our governments there would be shown some large spots.

Ruling prices here during the week were: Potatoes, 70 to 80c a bag; eggs, 20 to 25c a doz.; butter, 25 to 28c a lb.; peas, shelled 18c qt., in pod, $1, bushel; pork and meats are very high.

GUELPH.

July 14.—C. Hicks has had a demonstration of jelly recently, and a profitable sale was the result. His Paisley Street store is one of the cleanest stores in the city.

W. Metcalf reports good business. In addition to his confectionery department, he has started in on the ice cream business, and has had good results.

The fruit season is started, and the housewife is busy "putting down" preserves for the winter, which means increased sugar sales for the grocers.

The majority of stores closed on Thursday afternoon of last week, the first half-holiday of the season.

TORONTO.

July 14.—E. S. Calder, Gerrard and Mutual Sts., is pleased with his business, and that spells success. He is not one of those small men who has no time to take pleasure out of anything. He takes time to read the "Canadian Grocer," which he enjoys, and which, he says, keeps him in touch with the bright side of business.

Bail & Brown have bought out W. J. Fawcett, 418 Church St. These are two young men with a well trained grocery experience, and intend to turn the old quiet corner into a hustling concern.

W. H. Armitage, Carleton and Church Sts., deserve credit for their well-kept store. Few windows in any grocery in the city are kept with more taste and judgment. The windows are regularly changed each week and neatly arranged with seasonable goods. This week soft drinks are displayed in one window and glass sealers in the other. They look very attractive.

E. A. McCarthy, 89 Roncesvalles Ave., is setting an example that would be well to follow by all grocers. He has a new store, and in one corner has a beautiful porcelain wash basin, with hot and cold water attachment where the hands may be washed, and wiped with a clean towel every time anything of a greasy or dirty nature has been handled. This is done in view of the customers, so that they may see that it is done. This is one of the best advertisements a retailer can have. Not long ago a grocer was seen to cut bacon, and the next minute he mixed tea in the hopper of his scales with his greasy hands. That is enough to lose a tea customer forever. Cleanliness is coming to be one of the essentials to success in the retail trade.

Some of the grocers who do not read their trade paper are still laboring under the delusion that they have to cut prices in order to get trade, while those who keep in touch with new ideas are snatching the business through more up-to-date methods.

One grocer recently said that he would not give 5c for The Canadian Grocer, and another said that he would rather pay $10.00 than not have it. Who is right, the one who knows nothing about it, or the one who reads it? The answer is easy.

If a grocer is dissatisfied with his business, and finds fault with all other grocers, and with the trade in general, he acknowledges that others are getting ahead of him. He is a back number and does not know it.

Where you find a grocer who says he has no time to read his trade paper you always find a man who has plenty of time to do nothing, or to talk about things which are a year or two out of date.

Some grocers have two or three kinds of tea advertised on their windows, but to find out who runs the store you have to inquire inside.

Wm. C. Miller, 632 Yonge Street, displays many of his fresh fruit samples in clean and attractive baskets. As they are not large several can be placed in the window and they give the idea of cleanliness and care.

BRACEBRIDGE.

July 14.—Saturday was a day of sunshine and rain. The long looked for shower came down in torrents during the morning and made the farmers flock to town.

The grocers got together last week to consider the advisibility of adopting the cash system—that is more thoroughly than it is done at present. Considerable comment on the present system was made. The conclusion was reached that the dead beat now is practically shut out, and the meeting ended with the feeling that, strictly cash will soon be the motto of every merchant in town. The discussion touched upon the practice of ordering strawberries and sugar by telephone and having them charged. When a merchant sends out say 40 or 50 crates of berries with several hundred pounds of sugar and waits from 30 days to 6 months for his money, the limit was about reached. Those present took up the collecting system adopted in Guelph and Brantford but it was considered that in a town of this size, that would not be feasible.

The grocers on Friday and Saturday seemed to have the fruit craze. All kinds were to be had and judging from one remark made by a southern woman, we must be all right when she said: "This is certainly a wonderful business place; one can buy everything." So much for Bracebridge compared with Nashville, Tenn.

PERTH.

July 14.—Monday's celebration tripled our population and consequently made the grocers a busy lot. One Foster St. dealer removed the central display stands from his store, replaced them with tables and served meals to about 300 people. All stores had a large number of customers, but average sales to each were small.

Eggs are scarce but the price 16c, is unchanged. Cherries are arriving freely and are being retailed at $1.35 a basket for red and white, and $1.70 for black. Strawberries are over. The crop in this section was quite a failure. Growers had about one crate where they had five last year.

R. Richardson, Carleton Place, has been succeeded by Bennett & Code. The new firm took possession on July 2.

Deizelle & Warren have opened business in the Carleton Place Arcade. This store was formerly occupied by Jas. McPherson.

Grocery business as a whole is satisfactory. Those stores handling fruit have been especially busy for the past three weeks.

F. C. Harp, grocer, Brantford, Ont., visited Toronto on Wednesday of this week.

Delmere D. Butler, who has been clerking with F. C. Harp, a Brantford grocer, has cast in his lot with the knights of the grip, and on Monday morning next will go out on the road for Geo. E. Bristol & Co., wholesale grocers, of Hamilton, Ont.

Cape Breton Business Badly Affected by Strike — Halifax Commission Merchants Handle Many Strawberries—Decline in St. John of Ontario Wheat Flour—Sugar Selling Freely.

HALIFAX.

July 13.—Business will receive a serious set-back as a result of the strike of the miners in the Cape Breton coal districts, which started last week. Up to then the prospects throughout the province for a very busy season's business were excellent, but this unfortunate labor trouble has completely changed the aspect of the whole thing. Before the strike was called the travelers who had been in the Cape Breton towns reported business brisk and the outlook for trade was splendid. Although the strike has been on less than one week, business has already felt its effect. Some of the dealers at Glace Bay report that their sales had dropped 95 per cent., but throughout other parts of the province business is in a prosperous condition. The crops are progressing favorably, and the general outlook is most promising.

Prices still rule high in all lines, particularly in bread stuffs. Quotations have not changed since last report. On account of the high price of flour the sales are not as large as they otherwise would be. There is a good demand for hams and bacon, and grocers report large sales even at the high prices. There is a general complaint among the trade regarding the scarcity of first-class stock, and the prices asked for it. The opinion prevails among many that the supply is not equal to the demand. There is a ready market for everything that the farmer can produce, and in this province the farmers of the present day do not raise half enough stuff to supply the home markets. There is only a fair supply of eggs coming on the market now, and the demand is rather light. The price is also advancing, 20 cents being asked for P. E. Island stock, and 21 cents for Nova Scotia. Butter is practically unchanged.

The molasses market is now rather quiet, and the stocks have been considerably reduced as the jobbers have filled most of the large orders. Fancy Barbadoes is now quoted at 35 to 36 cents, and Barbadoes 35 cents.

Sales of sugar have increased considerably during the past week, as a result of the placing on the market of strawberries for preserving. Cut loaf in barrels is $5.25, extra standard granulated is $4.70, bright yellow $4.55, and Austrian granulated, $4.30.

John Coleman, referred to in last week's issue of The Grocer, as taking over the business of C. M. Walker at Dartmouth, has been identified with the grocery business for about forty-five years. He was head clerk with the old firm of Bauld & Gibson, wholesale grocers, and he continued in the same position with Bauld Bros., which succeeded the former firm. On his retirement he was presented by the firm with a handsome gold watch chain, and charm, suitably inscribed. The employes of the firm gave him an onyx clock, also bearing an inscription.

Charles H. Harvey, the recently appointed agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department in Halifax, formerly conducted a commission business here.

The fish markets are now rather quiet. The spring run of mackerel is over, the lobster season closed on the last of June, and the demand locally for salt fish is light. While large shipments are being made the foreign demand for lobsters is lighter than usual.

The commission merchants are kept busy handling strawberries, hundreds of crates having arrived for local consumption. With heavy receipts the price dropped from 20c to 10c per box. The dealers report a good demand for berries. Large shipments are being made to Newfoundland and St. Pierre Miq. It is generally expected that the heaviest of the shipments will be made about the first of this week, and after that the season will be pretty near at an end. The crop is much smaller than last season.

Jobbers who handle flour and feeds report trade rather quiet in these lines. Corn and oats continue firm with very light offerings. The feed market is cleared up. Some small lots of middlings are available, but there is no bran or feed flour to be had. The leading brands of flour are quoted at $6.75 to $7.00.

The crop of Bermuda onions is pretty well cleaned up and the stock offering is of poor quality. Some of the surplus is being sent to the auction rooms to clear it out. The prices obtained at these sales are only about half of the original cost.

MONTREAL.

July 13.—C. A. Chouillou, Montreal, sailed on Friday for Europe. He will be absent two months.

F. K. Keogh, representing Hills Bros. & Co., New York, was in Montreal this week, and visited the trade in company with the firm's local agent, W. C. Christmas. Mr. Keogh is covering Canada.

Harold H. Hughes, manager Spratt's Pattent, Limited, Canadian branch, of Montreal, is in Winnipeg, attending the Industrial Exhibition dog show.

H. Collings, of H. Collings & Co., London, has left Montreal for Halifax.

P. M. Girard, with Hudon, Hebert & Co., Montreal, is again at his desk, after a short holiday.

L. E. Geoffrion, of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie., Montreal, re-elected president of the Canada Wholesale Grocers' Exchange, has returned from Victoria, where he was attending the annual convention of the Exchange.

ST. JOHN.

July 13.—About the only feature of interest in the local grocery markets last week was the decline in Ontario flour. After reaching the highest point attained in years the price tumbled on Thursday last, when full patents, which were selling at $7.15 to $7.20, and medium patents at $7.05 to $7.10 a barrel, declined to $6.85 to $6.95 for full patents, and $6.75 to $6.85 for medium. Manitoba's still maintain their position at $7.15 to $7.20, with little likelihood of a change from present indications.

Sugars are stronger, and some of the cheaper grades of granulated have advanced 10c a hundred weight.

New cheese has been coming in quite freely since the last of May, and the price is a little easier. A decline of half a cent a pound was recorded last week.

There is not a great deal of produce arriving in the city yet, but the prices of new vegetables and spring lamb have declined. On the other hand, hennery eggs are 2c a dozen dearer, while butter remains unchanged at 18c to 22c.

Strawberries reached the low water mark last Wednesday, when they sold at 4½c a box wholesale. Since then they have not gone below 6½c.

William C. Cross, manager for Hall & Fairweather, returned home last Saturday, after attending the Dominion Grocers' Exchange meeting in Victoria. After the meeting Mr, Cross made a flying trip to southern California. He reports having had a delightful time on the Pacific coast. Andrew Malcolm and W. L. Harding, who also attended the meeting in Victoria, are expected home this week. They have been visiting friends in Minneapolis and Calgary.

B. H. Berry & Co., who have been conducting a large general store at Turtle Creek, have just completed a large new store at the corner of High and St. George Streets, Moncton, and opened for business last week with a big special sale.

Vancouver Grocer Sees Benefits of Belonging to an Association —British Columbia Strawberry Market Not Sufficient for Demand—Calgary Exhibition Opened—Travelers' Experiment in an Automobile.

VANCOUVER.

July 13.—The strawberry season is about over. The feature this year was the large demand, for which the supply was inadequate. To help meet the requirements, the Victoria Fruit Growers' Exchange had to buy five cars of berries from Vashon Island, one of the islands in the Gulf of Georgia, in United States territory. On Vancouver Island, the local berry was not as suitable in quality for shipping as last year, owing the the late frosts and the subsequent dry weather, which made the fruit a trifle soft. On the other hand, the reports from the interior are that the greater part of the fruit there, especially the harder varieties, is of the very highest quality and appearance, good prices having been obtained. Special care was taken this year in shipping, and on the experimental barge used on Kootenay Lake, much ingenuity was shown in having cool currents of air circulating among the fruit all the time. The cars, too, were loaded on the most approved principles. Both the C.P.R. and the Dominion Express Company have taken a great interest in the shipping and have been doing all they can to promote the interests of the industry. In the Northwest market, it was noticed that there was the usual competition from Winnipeg, but a feature there was the dumping of berries from the "American" side at slaughter prices, particulars of which were set forth previously in these columns.

The remarks of a local grocer in discussing the adherence to certain brands of goods are interesting. This is not in reference to any particular line, but all lines. He said that when he first started he was inclined to change his brands, according to what inducements were offered, and he believes he lost custom through not having what some people wanted. That is, they got accustomed to getting a certain brand from him, and when they asked for it again he gave them something which he knew was just as good, to use an old phrase. They were used to the other brand, however, and generally got it somewhere else. "I got to study my particular customers' tastes," he explained. "It was not a very hard task and was a paying one, as the particular customers were generally the best. If a man got a thing he liked at my store, he could always depend on getting it again, and if it was not in stock at the time, I would see that it was in time for his order to go out. In all good goods there is little difference in quality, but there may be some slight difference in flavor which is preferred by certain people, and when they get what they want they do not care to change. Although people these days are progressive and aggressive, there is always an underlying strata of conservatism which may be noticed in one way or another."

During the last few weeks, rain has come at not too frequent intervals, with the result that local crops are looking fine. From present indications, there will be a good average crop, of which the main crop of the Delta district, namely, oats, will be heavy. There is not so much wheat under acreage this year, as it has been found that oats are more profitable, the grain being disposed of to the Brackman-Ker Milling Company, of Victoria and Vancouver.

The benefit of supporting the local retailers' associations is no doubt apparent to readers of The Grocer, and the fact is brought to mind by the statement to your representative of a dealer who said that he had withdrawn from the association. It may be that a man may not see at the time the direct benefit from an affiliation of this kind, but there is always some accruing to the trade as a whole which can only be secured through mutual co-operation all the time. The wise man is he who is never caught by an emergency. To be ready at a certain time for something unlooked for is not luck, but preparation away in the past, and the dealer who adheres to his association may find any day that he has got the worth, perhaps in a single instance, of all he ever paid in. An energetic association is a distinct benefit to the trade. This was shown in Vancouver recently by the action in weighing up the butter prints, mention of which was made previously. It was found then that short-weight was being sold. In cases like these, the grocer would get the blame, for he could not bring home the charge the same as the association, and it might be that he would lose good customers through no fault of his own, but who might be retained where prompt united action is taken.

CALGARY.

July 13.—The Provincial Exhibition, Calgary's midsummer holiday, opened on Monday, the 5 inst., under most favorable circumstances. The day opened bright and warm, and the crowds began to assemble to witness the "Pageant," which was eagerly looked forward to by many, who last year saw what could be done in the far west in the way of spectacular street parades, originated and carried out by citizens of Alberta. The Indians were again the feature. They were out in large numbers, many of them togged in their striking war costumes and paint. To see them was a sight which may probably never again be seen in Canada. The whole pageant throughout was a fitting opening for the exhibition, which is in many ways ahead of that of last year, notwithstanding that it was the Dominion Exhibition. Monday was also an important day in the history of Calgary, in that it saw the first street car running. Without ceremony the cars appeared promptly at the appointed time, and it is needless to say that they were loaded to capacity at once, and trips to the exhibition grounds have been made on schedule time ever since. The cars are of the latest "pay as you enter" type, bright and roomy, and a credit in every way to the city. Monday's attendance at the Exhibition was something over 17,000, and those who attended were not disappointed, as it is really well worth a visit. The main building is devoted largely to industrial exhibits.

WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, July 13.—Thomas Jobbin, of the Jobbin-Marrin Company, wholesale grocers of this city, will leave shortly for a trip east, visiting Bruce Mines, Barrie, Toronto and Montreal. A greater part of the summer will be spent in Barrie, where Mr. Jobbin was formerly in business. Mrs. Jobbin will accompany her husband.

B. F. Windrum, F. Cottam and D. D. Ryan, of Winnipeg, commercial travelers, have arrived in the city, after a two weeks' automobile trip through the province and Saskatchewan. They have been making a trial trip, to find out if automobiles would answer the same purpose as trains in their business. In some respects the trip was very successful, but at times the auto did not cover the ground as fast as could have been done by train. Whenever the roads were good the trip was most satisfactory, but in some parts the roads were almost impassable. During the trip thousands of miles were covered. Leaving Winnipeg two weeks ago last Monday, the party journeyed by way of Deloraine, Estevan and Moose Jaw to Regina, visiting all the intervening towns. On their return they passed through Arcola and Souris and then on to Brandon.

C. G. Hayes, manager of the confectionery department of Foley Bros. & Larson, has moved with his family to Ponemah Beach, for the summer months. This beach is a favorite resort for wholesalers and manufacturers of Winnipeg.

A few thousand of the T. Eaton Co. employes enjoyed an excursion and picnic to Winnipeg Beach, a beautiful resort fifty miles north of the city, on Saturday afternoon, July 3. Dancing, boating and swimming were indulged in freely by the crowd.

W. J. Lindsay, W. Highet and E. J. Short, of Brandon, have formed a company to take over the grist mill at Rapid City, Manitoba, which will be improved. A general milling and elevator business will be conducted and a spur track will be built to the main line.

The Don Cereal and Milling Company will erect a number of elevators on the C.P.R., west of Minnedosa, in Manitoba.

The Western Coffee Co., Ltd., have opened a second retail store on Portage Avenue. The other branch has been on Notre Dame Street for about four years. Geo. J. Ellis, the manager, stated that the growth of the business and the tendency of the retail trade to develop on Portage Avenue warranted the opening of the new branch on that street.

POINTERS—

Advances—Clark's pork and beans, eggs.

New Goods—Middlesex pears.

Withdrawals—Simcoe pineapples.

Declines—Smith's and Upton's jams; syrup and apricots.

Winnipeg, July 15.

Retailers express surprise as to the continued active condition of the trade. The city is thronged with visitors from all parts of the west, and many also are in from the east to attend the great Industrial Exhibition—the greatest in the history of the city. The keen interest in the exhibition is made manifest on every hand and the retailers of grocery stocks will be interested in the supply of table delicacies for banquets, luncheons and private festivals, which always go to make up such an elaborate affair as the present industrial exhibition, Apart from the immediate trade, a few retailers are interested in exhibit booths at the great show-house, and this creates considerable extra work and gives the general trade an active aspect.

The stocking of the general line of fresh fruits is the feature of the week's trade. Plums, peaches, apples, cherries, apricots and grape fruit are displayed in every store, and the quality everywhere is apparently of the best. The marked features are the advance in Clark's pork and beans, a rise of 2c in eggs, and a sharp decline in syrup.

BUTTER — Creamery is becoming more popular as time goes on. The farmer has difficulty in finding a market for his dairy, as he drives about the city with his produce. The modern farmer will find it to his advantage to sell the milk or cream to the factories, rather than make his own butter. Creamery was jobbing this week for 22c per lb. The dairy jobs for about 15c.

EGGS—The demand for eggs still increases. The market has been excellent all season and local buyers will be compelled to go below the line soon if Manitoba hens do not get busy. The jobbing price is 21c.

QUEBEC MARKETS

Montreal, July 15, 1909.

Considerable interest still attaches itself to the canned goods situation. Corn advanced this week, owing to the scarcity of it. In some circles it is thought that the supply will not hold out until the new pack arrives on the market. Tomatoes are being sold at low figures by many wholesalers, as stocks are heavy for this time of the year. Beans and peas are firm, stocks being light. Strawberries are being shaded. All of this refers to canned goods for immediate delivery. Some business is being done in futures, at figures quoted last week.

Dates have advanced 1c lb. A crop of Sultana raisins of 70,000 tons is expected. Currants are unchanged. Californian fruits are steady, prunes being rather strong. A larger crop of Valencia raisins is anticipated. Sugar continues to sell freely. Beans and peas are firm at unchanged prices. Pork has advanced again, while eggs, too, are higher, owing to a falling off in receipts. Molasses is reported in good demand. Japan teas continue scarce. Second-crop teas are now being quoted.

Collections are fairly satisfactory.

SUGAR—Wholesalers are shipping freely to the retail trade these days, while refiners report a steady hand-to-mouth business. Uncertainty rules as to whether there will be a change in the market, which is responisble largely for the lack of good sized orders from wholesale dealers. One refinery in New York advanced, but they were simply coming up to the level of the others, having held back in the first place.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES—A strong demand for molasses is reported by the wholesale trade, dealers in all parts of the province buying freely, while there is fair inquiry from more distant points. The market is steady. A fair business in corn syrups is reported.

TEA—Second crop Japan teas, now being picked, keep the importing houses quite busy these days. Quotations are being received daily. Some buyers are inclined to hold off in anticipation of lower figures, but immediate purchasing is advisable, for, while somewhat lower figures may be named, it is doubtful if as fine quality teas can be secured later on. Teas which will be lower at a later date are likely to be of poorer liquor, and generally not as desirable as lines offering at present. For the buying of good mediums this is the season. All this month will be devoted to second crop Japan teas by the majority of the trade, while in August some attention will be paid to third crop Japans.

DRIED FRUITS — Advices from Smyrna, regarding Sultana raisins, are to the effect that the remaining portion of 1908 crop has been reduced to very small quantity, and prices have advanced slightly, in consequence. The growing crop is going very nicely, and no complaints have been received up to the present. As to the quantity which will be harvested, it is yet a little too early to say, but the crop may possibly run 70,000 tons, if everything turns out as present indications point they will. The probabilities of the retention system for Sultana raisins being adopted are diminishing, as some producers are opposed to it, as well as agricultural inspectors, who are representatives of the Government. The inspectors believe that were this system established the producers would retain a large quantity of the lowest quality fruit, which might diminish the consumption, as most of the best fruit would be exported, and the prices would rule too high for some markets. This would possibly lead buyers to purchase currants instead of Sultana raisins for manufacturing purpases. Reports indicate a slightly larger crop of Valencia raisins this year. Californian fruits are steady, with an especially firm market for prunes. Currants are unchanged.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL.—Corn was advanced 5c this week (for immediate delivery), owing to the small stocks held, and the possibility of a stronger demand, which would result in the market being cleaned up before new pack corn was offering. Wholesalers are now asking as high as 85c, as against 80c a week ago. Peas are also firmer, and futures are strong, as well, for continued dry weather has caused some uneasiness as to the effect the lack of rain will have on the size of the crop. Beans are steady, owing to small holdings. Tomatoes are being shaded, many wholesalers having a large supply on hand. Strawberries are also sold at attractive prices, which are not too firm, owing to large stocks many houses have on hand. Following are prices which are being quoted for goods on hand for immediate delivery :

Beans	$ .85 to $ .90
Corn	.80 to .85
Peas	.82½ up.
Tomatoes, western	.80 to .90
Tomatoes, Quebec	.75
Strawberries	1.25

Futures are being sold by some houses at prices quoted last week, while other wholesalers will not name any price owing to possible changes in the situation. Prices quoted a week ago are :

Tomatoes	$ .80 to $ .85
Corn	.75 to .80
Peas	.75 to 1.40
Beans	.75 to .77½
Strawberries	1.25 to 1.30

New salmon prices have received little attention from the trade so far, the general feeling being that there is plenty of time to buy.

TORONTO.—The canned goods market generally is in a chaotic state and any information in the heads of wholesalers applies only to present prospects.

"Canned goods opened so low that we may look for advances at any time when the condition of crops is exactly known," remarked one jobber.

Strawberries remain at $1.25 which includes the 10-cent advance referred to last week. Peas are uncertain unless the yield comes up to what it at first was estimated, advances over opening prices of from 75 cents up mentioned last week, are probable. In fact jobbers state that some canners have cancelled the prices given them before. This indicates a change but whether it will come or not is merely a conjecture.

Some jobbers are this week quoting prices on salmon to the retail trade. Among those given for future delivery are :

Best quality	$1.75 to $1.80
Poorer quality	1.00 to 1.05

These prices are of course lower than a year ago when they stood from $2 to $2.50 for sockeyes and $1.10 to $1.15 for inferior quality. This is the season when the "fourth-year" run should take place, but whether this will actually be the case is not known.

ONTARIO MARKETS

POINTERS—

Sugar—Heavy sales.

Prunes and Dried Peaches—Good demand.

Spices—Call for pickling spices.

Ceylon Teas—Slight advance.

Toronto, July 15, 1909.

There is a sluggish appearance in the wholesale trade. This is natural owing to the hot weather and the summer holiday feeling. Trade on the whole, however, is satisfactory and prospects point to a rushing trade in the fall. Farmers are too busy to do much buying and the grocers in towns and villages are taking advantage of the slack time by giving themselves a good time.

The trade in sugar is splendid although retailers as a rule are not purchasing in large quantities. Prunes and dried peaches, despite the fact that fresh fruit has arrived, are selling well.

SUGAR—The trade in sugar continues very heavy to meet what is required to take care of the immense crops of berries and cherries which are at their best. While the demand is extra large the prices have not changed for some time.

PAPER STOCK FROM ARROWROOT.

W. Maxwell Greene, writing from Bermuda, in reference to the roots of the arrowroot plant, a by-product of the plant from which starch is made and for which the plant is now grown in Bermuda, says that it would seem that paper stock might be made from these roots were the cultivation of the plant increased beyond its present limited area. The starch, being of a high grade, would be of value not only as a food, and for medical purposes—as used now—but for commercial uses, and the roots might prove of equal if not greater value if it should be found that they were of value as paper stock, of which the world is to-day in need.

ANOTHER RED ROSE HOME-MAKER

Red Rose Tea sent another member of its Toronto Branch staff into the ranks of home-makers this week. Miss Lulu Tweedie, senior member of the stenographic corps, was married and is followed into her new sphere of activity by the heartiest good wishes and sincere regard of all her business associates during her three and a half years with Red Rose Tea.

The wedding took place at the bride's home on Wilton Crescent, Toronto, on Wednesday morning. The groom is Joseph Noll, a member of the office staff of one of the life insurance companies. The Red Rose Tea travelling and office staff joined with the firm in presenting Miss Tweedie with a handsome silver-deposit tea service. Mr. and Mrs. Noll are spending their honeymoon in the Muskoka district.

Use Red Rose in your home and you yourself will be won by the refreshing strength and delicious flavor, got only by the expert blending of Indian and Ceylon teas, and you will recommend it, and sell more of it than of all other package teas put together.

The more you make Red Rose Tea your leader the harder it will work for your success.

MAGI WATER

That we are advertising Magi Water very extensively you know. That we shall continue to advertise it goes without saying. The results we have obtained in persuading the public to drink Magi and the dealer to push Magi have convinced us that a meritorious article, well advertised, is the only proper combination in successful merchandising.

Put Magi Water in stock—display signs (we will furnish them) saying that you handle Magi Water and you will build up a family trade that will be satisfactory and highly profitable to you.

And remember that while Magi is recommended by physicians for Gout, Rheumatism and similar ailments arising from disordered kidneys it is further the most delicious water you can persuade your customers to put on their tables purely as a beverage. Try it yourself.

Dear Sirs:

We have been advertising in the Canadian Grocer for a number of years but never realized the good work you are doing until last Fall when the writer took a business trip through the North West and British Columbia.

Your journal seemed to be well thought of by the retail grocers, and many of them, especially in Vancouver and Victoria, took the trouble to mention that they had seen our ad in the Grocer.

This was appreciated by us as it is rather difficult to know just what class of advertising is giving us results. However we are now satisfied that your journal is an excellent medium for any manufacturer to use who wants to talk business to the wholesale or retail grocer of Canada.

Yours truly,

Mail-Order House Effect on the Country Stores

Power of the Department Store And Reasons Why Retail Merchants Should Strive To Conteract It—Rights Need To Be Demonstrated and Strength is Required.

By M. Moyer.

If the departmental stores can give better service to the people than the ordinary retail stores in towns and villages througout the country, then the retail stores must go out of business, for they have no claim on the public. But if not, and the department stores cannot possibly give the service and convenience and the general public cannot be without the retail stores, then they have a right to be protected from them.

Either one or the other of these two systems is right or wrong from a business standpoint. They both cannot be right and in the best interests of the community. Are the merchants all over this Dominion going to sit down with folded arms and allow the trade of this country to drift into channels which will disturb the most convenient and most economical system of distribution without a protest? Are they afraid to open their mouths to defend their rights, and the people's rights? Will they accept the situation passively and hand over to an unnatural concern of gigantic powers the trade of this country, for them to suck the blood out of a thriving and industrious nation? Will they all stand mum when they are from day to day misleading the people through their "oily" advertisements.

The retail merchants have allowed this to go unchallenged until the people believe everything must be cheap, because it is advertised, when in many cases the prices are higher than any retail store sells them. The retailers seem to have got it into their heads that their best plan is to keep quiet, for fear if they said anything, they would only advertise their worst enemy.

Remedies at Hand.

To nag at them, and admit that they are underselling them, and that they are whipped and beaten would certainly do that. But to wake up and demonstrate their rights, as well as their mettle and prove to their customers that they can and that they are giving as good value, and better service than it were possible for the departmental stores to give them would be courageous. Merchants should point out that it is also their duty as neighbors and honest people to support their own towns and assist to improve the general conditions at home, instead of sending their money away to make millionaires, buy automobiles and build mansions, for men who contribute not a cent towards improving the conditions of home life and home towns.

Are the retailers of this country engaged in a business that deserves nothing but discouragement, and to be threatened to be wiped out? Will the merchant stand still without a word in their own defence when men like a certain minister of Labor declares, that the middlemen must be wiped out? Will they accept the position that they are a lot of parasites and a burden on society? Will they submit to be taxed to keep up farmers' institutes, send Commissioners to Europe, and keep up the roads and all kinds of public necessities, and then allow peddlars and departmental stores to reap the harvest before their doors? Will they continue to support a government that carries parcels from those departmental stores below cost, and another that gives an enemy to the retail trade the right to control school books and have the privilege of carrying on their work against the legitimate trade of this country with still greater success?

Will the merchants admit that they are helpless and that they have no redress? The retail merchants want to wake up They have allowed a greedy, selfish, powerful weed to grow up which requires vigorous and united effort to root up in order to save the genuine trade.

The merchants have rights, they have power, they have numbers, and they have votes and they have an important and responsible position to fill which must be maintained in the interests of the entire community.

Suggestions on how to do this will follow in my next article.

THE WINDSOR HALF-HOLIDAY.

Editor Canadian Grocer.—In your issue of July 9, re half-holiday for Windsor merchants an article that the move has been brought about largely through the earnest efforts of Messrs. Nairn & Cherney. Now I think along with these names that of Bruce Allison, an east end grocer, should have been given a little credit. He was the man to agitate the half-holiday and visited all the grocers and butchers, and got them too sign the petition to close their places of business Thursday afternoon and also looked after getting the signs printed and placed in the different stores.—Windsor Subscriber.

Produce and Provision Situation of the World

Pork Market Continues Strong—Advance in Montreal—Cheese Lower on English Market—Canadian Hogs Reach Record Price —Inferior Quality of Eggs.

The highest point in the price of hogs was reached this week, when $8.25 was paid for live hogs in Toronto, although as high as $8.50 was paid in Montreal. It is evident that it taxes the country to its limit, to produce enough hogs to keep the packing houses going, and the demand supplied. With hogs at $8.25, wheat at $1.40, eggs 17c, butter 22, and almost everything else accordingly, the farmer certainly has the best that is going, and should, for once, be well satisfied.

There is very little demand for butter outside of local trade, and all the surplus available goes into cold storage for future use. With the excellent cold storage facilities, with which the dealers have provided themselves, all the butter which is produced can be taken care of, which at all times regulates the market, and avoids the constant fluctuations and serious losses which used to take place.

The importance for country merchants to look after the quality of eggs, and to urge farmers to bring them out as fresh as possible, cannot be too strongly impressed upon them.

Grocers could wonderfully increase the sales of cheese, if they would call the attention of their customers to the real value of cheese as a food, compared with the high price of other foods.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS — Pork continues to advance, another $1 being asked this week for different grades. The scarcity of hogs is given as the reason for the higher figures. Plate beef is lower. PROVISIONS—The cured meat trade is steady. Some report good demand, while others begin to see a gradual falling off on account of the high prices. This is, however, a dull month, and business is irregular on account of the holiday season. Hogs are again higher, but the cured meats have not followed, and therefore remain the same as last week.

BUTTER—The butter trade shows more firmness, and while the prices are practically the same, dealers are anxious to get more butter and are paying a trifle more in order to get it. The local demand for immediate use requires so much of it, that very little is left to go into cold storage. The recent rains improved the pasture, which will have a good effect on the production of butter.

CHEESE—The cheese market continues quiet. The prices asked at the factories are considered too high by the buyers for exporting. The market in England, our principal market for cheese, is one shilling lower. Local demand is fair, but on account of the high price of all kinds of meat, grocers might do well to explain to their customers the food value of cheese, and create a greater demand. Cheese at 35c a lb. would be cheaper than meat, therefore it is good and proper business to induce customers to use more cheese at present prices, which are not half as dear as meat.

EGGS—There is no change in the egg market, but there is a continual change for the worse going on in the quality of eggs. From week to week attention is drawn to the fact that this state of affairs should be remedied and the loss should fall on those through whose carelessness it occurs. All storekeepers should candle the eggs when farmers bring them in, and not pay for the bad ones. If this were done farmers would soon be more careful.

POULTRY — Spring chickens and ducks are coming in freely, and are bought at about 16c a lb., which still brings a very small pair to a dollar or over. The demand is easy. The most of the people who buy luxuries like this are away on their summer outings.

A BRIDE OF ABILITY.

"Do you know," a pretty bride of three months said to a friend the other day, "I think all these jokes about young wives having so much trouble with the butchers and grocers, and being cheated, and all that, is just too foolish."

"Then I presume you are getting on all right with yours, dear?" her friend inquired.

"Why, of course I am! Anybody would if they would just deal at a reliable place," the young wife declared. "Now there is my grocer," she continued, "he is just as obliging and thoughtful as he can be. The other day I ordered a dozen oranges, and when they came I found there were but eleven in the bag, so when I went to the store again I told him so.

"'Why, yes, ma'am,' he said. 'I know there were. I had put in a dozen, but I noticed that one of them was spoiled, and of course, I wouldn't send you any but the best goods, so I took it out.'

"Now don't you think that was nice in him to be so thoughful and honest?" she concluded.—Harper's Weekly.

Early Wet Weather Delays Western Bean Crop

Prospects in Important Sections are Considered Fair, Although Favorable Weather is Needed—Acreage in Beans Much Larger Than That of a Year Ago.

Chatham, July 14.—Just what will be the extent and quality of this year's bean crop is hard to definitely forecast, owing to the fact that there are a multitude of factors, most of them still to be met with, which have an effect upon the success or failure of the crop.

This spring, on account of late cold and wet weather, most crops were behind. Herein, apparently, lies the chief danger to a large section of the bean crop. The late beans need rain to stimulate their growth, and rain to large extent is out of season, and therefore not to be counted on with any confidence. Again, beans which were planted late, if they attain their best growth have still to face the danger which comes from early autumn frosts.

The acreage in undoubtedly large. Here the late season helped the beans. Other crops could not be planted after the ground became workable, since there seemed scarcely time for them to mature, except under the most favorable circumstances. Beans, however, can be planted comparatively late, and hence much land hitherto used for other crops was given to beans. In some instances, however, farmers who had been delayed still attempted to plant cereals, and deferred their bean planting perhaps too long.

Crops Looking Well.

A drive through South Raleigh, Harwich and Howard Townships, the centre of the bean-producing section of Canada, showed conditions which may prob-

It together with the delivery waggon was shown in the single horse and outfit, open to bakers and confectioners. CAUTION.

Put a strong glass on the label and examine it closely every time. Always look for the name "Gillett's."

Like all good articles, which are extensively advertised, Gillett's Lye is frequently and very closely imitated. In some instances the imitators have actually copied directions and other printed matter from our label word for word. Be wise, and refuse to purchase imitation articles for they are never satisfactory.

Insist On Getting Gillett's Lye

and decline to accept anything that looks to be an imitation or that is represented to be "just as good" or "better," or "the same thing." In our experience of over fifty years in business we have never known of an imitation article that has been a success, for imitators are not reliable people. At the best the "just as good" kinds are only trashy imitations, so decline them with thanks every time.

ably be taken as typical of the state of the crop throughout the entire bean-producing territory. Continuous pleasant surprises was experienced at the forward state of all the crops. The farmers are in the midst of a record haying season, an extra heavy crop being harvested; the wheat is nicely headed out and just beginning to change its bright green for a beautiful yellow; while hundreds upon hundreds of acres of beans in all stages of forwardness are to be seen.

A much larger area than usual has been planted this year, owing to the lateness of the season, consequent on late heavy spring rains, beans being sown on many acres intended for other crops. The high prices ruling on the stiff bull market formed no small item, either, in inducing the farmers to plant a much larger acreage this year than usual. Every acre put in in good time presents as handsome a prospect for a bumper crop as was ever noted at this season of the year. Those not in early, however, do not look as prosperous; in fact, the heat necessary for the corn crop tells heavily upon these late beans. Copious showers and many of them are really essential to the development of the small plants just nicely started on their way.

The fine loam lands of South Harwich make the best showing of any section in the district. In that section bean-growing has developed into a well understood science, from 20 to 40, 50 and even 100 acres being grown by some individual farmers. The clay and gravel north of this section and along the Ridge show the effect of the heat on all their hoe crops. A few more rains within a week or two will change all doubt to a certainty, making even the poorest outlook in the section a glowing assurance of a big crop.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Information supplied by sellers but for which the editors of The Grocer do not necessarily hold themselves responsible.

This is an age of progress and enterprise and the successful manufacturer must be ever on the alert to offer "something worth while." Realizing this, White Swan Spices & Cereals, Limited, have recently added to their list several new lines. The latest is a very attractive package of 100 per cent. perfumed-powdered lye, put up under their well-known "White Swan" brand, in double rotating top tins with a movable cap, which makes it a sifting top and does entirely away with the use of a can-opener to reach the contents. It has a great advantage over the ordinary tin of being closed again by a mere hand turn. These goods are being offered to the trade at a price which gives the grocer a much larger profit than has been usual.

Excellent Wheat Crop Prospects Produce Easier Tone to the Market—Price of Oats Lower and Cereal Goods are Not Quite so Firm, Although They are Yet High—Millers Expect Lower Flour Prices.

The American wheat market is steady with the feeling a shade firmer. Manitoba wheat is holding its own, and dealers are keenly watching the coming crop. So far, the prospects are excellent, which has a lowering effect on the market. Ontario fall wheat, the acreage of which however is small, will be a great yield, but oats, barley, and the spring crops in general, on account of the dry spell will be rather light. The recent rains will aid them to some extent, but they came too late to do much good. While the visible stock of wheat in Canada is only about half of what it was last year, there is in sight a much greater crop than ever before, and therefore there is no cause for alarm. Manitoba oats have dropped from 2 to 3c during the last few days, and as oats had been, to some extent cornered, the market will have to settle down to genuine value, before business will assume its normal condition.

AFFECTING CANNED GOODS.

Regulations Inaugurated by The Japanese Government To Protect Citizens' Health.

Sanitary regulations governing the sale of canned goods in Japan are strict and an analysis of them is interesting and of importance to packers who cater to the Japanese trade.

Law No. 15, promulgated in February, 1900, has for its object the prevention of danger to the public health, and deals with beverages and foodstuffs in general, and the receptacles in which they are contained, saccharine and similar substances, aerated waters milk, ice, and injurious coloring matter. According to Article 1 of this law the authorities are empowered to prohibit or restrict the manufacture, sale, etc., of beverages and foodstuffs, the receptacles in which they are contained, or cooking utensils, if any danger to the public health is apprehended. The owners of the goods may be compelled to destroy them, or the authorities may destroy them, or take such action as they deem proper.

Article 2 empowers the officials to take, free of charge, as much as is necessary for the purpose of analysis so that an examination of the goods in question can be made.

Article 3 states that persons who, having received instructions from the proper official fail to carry out the provisions of the law within the specified time shall be liable to a fine not exceeding 20 yen ($9.96), while persons who hinder an official in the execution of his duty shall be liable to imprisonment for a period not exceeding one month and a fine not exceeding 10 yen ($4.98). Penalties are provided for persons who do not carry out their duties, and also in connection with bribery.

The following are the principal points in the regulations concerning receptacles for beverages and foods.

Receptacles for beverages or foods must not contain lead or an alloy containing more than 10 per cent of lead.

No alloy must be used which contains more than 20 per cent. of lead for that part of the solder which touches the contents of the tins, nor may the receptacle tents of the tins, nor may the receptacles be lined with an alloy which contains more than 5 per cent. of lead.

In soldering the outer portions of tins which contain, or are intended to contain, beverages or foods, persons engaged in this business may not use an alloy which contains more than 50 per cent of lead.

The manufacture or repair of enameled receptacles from which arsenic or lead will come out if water containing 4 per cent. of acetic acid is boiled in them for half an hour is prohibited.

The manufacture of children's feeding bottles from rubber containing lead or zinc is prohibited.

Receptacles containing beverages or foods, or intending to contain them, which have been manufactured or repaired in contravention of the provisions of article 2 and article 5, may neither be sold, nor stored, nor exhibited for the purposes of sale, nor used for the purposes of business.

Receptacles for beverages and foods in which the part coming in contact with the contents is made of or repaired with copper or an alloy of copper the plating of which has worn off or which has lost its inherent brightness may not be used in this business.

Persons violating these provisions are liable to a fine not exceeding 25 yen ($12.45).

INTERESTING COFFEE FIGURES.

A mathematician has compiled the following figures: I have been married thirty-two years, during which time I have received from the hands of my wife three cups of coffee each day, two in the morning and one at night, making about 35,040 cups of half a pint each, or nearly seventy barrels of 30 gallons each, weighing 17,250 pounds, or nearly nine tons. Yet from that period I have scarcely varied myself in weight from 160 pounds. It will, therefore, be seen that I have drunk in coffee alone 218 times my own weight. All taken together, I conclude that I have consumed in thirty-two years about the weight of 1,100 men of 160 pounds each.

MORE THAN ONE.

The American Grocer adds a new story to the stock of those told about the returning of flour, says the American Miller. A woman sent back a barrel of flour without having opened it, but with the statement that she could not use that kind of flour. When asked for her reason she said, "The barrel had round hoops on it and green letters on the head; and flour in that sort of a barrel is no good." That sort of a story seems the limit, but we will wager a red apple that every miller and grocer can tell one off the same piece.

Insure Your Re-Orders

IT'S re-orders that make the wheels go 'round. It's the man or article that can repeat that is the great demand of to-day.

The truly wise dealer realizes that the great business enterprises of our times have been built up to a permanent basis by selling honest goods which can be guaranteed conscientiously.

For the ideal salesman is not he who sells the most goods, but the man who while making the most sales at his own price is not dazzled by the glare of Immediate Profit and in each transaction lays the germ of a re-order.

When a woman comes to your store for the first time, even though she merely asks for "flour"—good flour, without specifying any particular brand—there is before you the golden opportunity of laying the solid foundation then and there of a permanent family trade, for where there's a woman 'tis a safe bet there's a family.

Maybe the only chance she'll give you to capture her lasting goodwill. Are you going to be dazzled by Mr. Immediate Profit? Your salesmanship is at stake —the re-orders—the first link in that endless chain. You must give better service than the "other fellow" —price, perhaps; but price—plus!

FIVE ROSES FLOUR

If your greater Immediate Profit sells her "under class" flour, who's going to defend your store methods when she is alone in her kitchen, face to face with the bitter disappointment of a gigantic baking failure? Will Low Price atone for bargain counter quality? And at the sewing circle, won't she give you one beautiful testimonial?

Remember this, the trade worth having rarely comes back to register a kick. Rather pocket their disappointment, charge it to experience and console themselves with—"Never, never again."

FIVE ROSES, our purest Manitoba fancy patent, is not made to compete on a price basis; but for general service the housewives call it peerless. Cheap flours do not give the service required to insure the re-orders you are looking for, nor can they, because they are not made on honor. FIVE ROSES quality has no limitations, the instructions of our millers are like their ambitions—to make a flour as good as they know how, not to meet any man's price.

That FIVE ROSES order you will give us some day is an insurance policy on re-orders. 'Twill make you a better salesman, give better service, and the praises of each pleased housewife will supply you with new selling points. Which flour are YOU going to build on—"just as good," or "has made good"? Are YOU going to be flour wise or otherwise?

COCOANUT.—An article which has a fairly good sale all the year round, is shredded cocoanut, and just at the present time it is in demand in view of the picnic and church social season, being at hand. No woman who prides herself on her ability to cook a tasty "jelly-cake" will be found without cocoanut in her pantry. The house-wife also uses shredded cocoanut extensively for giving a better flavor to rice, tapioca, etc. Then a cocoanut itself as pulled from the tree is something of a delicacy, and relished by many. The Grocer should therefore know something about this article.

The cocoanut tree, which is a beautiful and picturesque palm, grows to a height of from 60 to 100 feet. The leaves are exceedingly large, extending from 16 to 25 feet in length and yet they are thin, and as light as feathers. These leaves are often used for thatching roofs, making fans, etc.

The husk of the nut furnishes fibre for rope, matting and brushes, while the shell of the nut takes a beautiful polish and is made into drinking cups and ornaments.

The milk of the cocoanut is a refreshing and nourishing drink, while the meat, ivory white in color, is a delicious food, one which is used in many delightful ways by the natives, as well as in various ways by cooks in America and other civilized parts of the world. The nut also yields a valuable oil for cooking, lighting and medicinal purposes.

The nut usually grows wild, but when cultivated, its beginning is in a nursery, protected from the sun, where it is well attended and watered liberally. After four months, the young sprouts or trees are transplanted in rows 25 to 30 feet apart.

Blossoms for a Hundred Years.

The tree first blossoms in its third year, and the nuts are borne in the fourth, if the tree is cultivated. If not cultivated, it may take ten years, this varying according to soil and other conditions. The cultivated trees attain their maximum yield at eight to fifteen years. The trees then blossom every month for 100 or more years, and the nuts follow all the year round, regardless of the seasons that control most domestic plant life.

It will thus be seen that every phase of growth may be found on one tree, the bud, the blossom, the forming and the ripened fruit, as well as the tender first sprout. Although each tree is commonly believed to produce a blossom for each day of the year, only about 75 merchantable nuts yearly come to maturity, at which time they fall from the tree or are hand-picked by natives, who can run up a tree with ease.

The outer covering or husk of the nut, which is about two inches thick, is difficult to the unskilled person to remove.

The shell must first be taken off without breaking the nut. The brown cover is then pared off and the nut is opened to let out the milk, and finally, after washing and sterilizing, it is evaporated to dryness.

An analysis of the nut made by a German chemist, showed about 46 per cent. water, 8 per cent. sugar, 35 per cent. crude oil, and the rest made up of other substances.

Source of Supplies.

Ceylon is represented as the largest cocoanut producing country in the world, with an annual production estimated at between five and six million nuts, over 400,000 of which are used for manufacturing oil used principally for soap making.

Cocoanuts for the Canadian trade come mainly from Jamaica, Cuba, and other West India islands. When shipped by steamer, they are placed in bags. As they cannot be held long, they can be imported economically only in large quantities.

There are a variety of uses for shredded cocoanut and if the value of cocoanuts as a food and the ease with which the shredded product may be prepared for the table was fully understood by the public generally, the sale of this product, extensive as it now is, would probably be still larger.

Cocoanut croquettes, cocoanut pudding, cocoanut macaroons and cocoanut balls are four of the table foods which may be prepared by the aid of this product, in all of which the other ingredients called for are simply milks, one or more eggs, and other articles of everyday use.

Blueberries on the Montreal Market — Declines in California Apricots, Plums and Pears—Canadian Cherries Take the Lead From Strawberries—Home Grown Tomatoes Putting in an Appearance—Old Potatoes Firm.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS. — Blueberries are now quoted, $1.10 being asked for 6 quart boxes. This price is rather high for good trading, but lower figures will rule as the supply increases. A few raspberries are being sold, but dealers are not quoting any prices yet. Strawberries are selling quite freely at low figures. Cantaloupes are arriving much more freely and quotations are lower. Lemons continue firm, but no startling advances have occurred. Oranges are good sellers this hot weather. California fruits are attracting as much attention as ever. Declines have occurred in apricots, plums and pears. Cherries are still on sale, but they are nearly finished.

VEGETABLES.—Local cucumbers are now on the market in quantity, and there has been a considerable slump in prices, as will be noticed. The best cucumbers are now obtainable at 30c a dozen, though some dealers are asking more than this. Local tomatoes will be quoted next week, those of hot house growth being offered in limited quanity at 20c lb. this week. Of course, the arrival of local cucumbers has brought a stop to importing in this line, and the same thing will happen in the case of tomatoes, when they begin to arrive from the surrounding country. All vegetables are selling satisfactorily. Potatoes are slightly firmer this week.

FISH.—A decline in Gaspe salmon this week is noticeable, receipts having increased perceptibly. Demand for this line has been quite satisfactory. Whitefish, which are in good supply, are asked for in all sections. Trout is scarce, and the price is firm. Warm weather has resulted in a scarcity of brook trout, which are consequently higher. Mackerel is a little easier. Perch is no longer quoted and will not again be offered for sale until September. Halibut is still a strong seller. Cod, as well as haddock are arriving freely, but, owing to the presence of dogfish on some of the banks, will soon be scarce. Meantime quotations have not been changed. Canadian lobster season is now closed, and these fish are not quoted. Smoked and prepared fish are quiet.

GREEN FRUITS.—The fruit market this week is a swarm of close buyers, and impatient sellers, with fruit and vegetables in abundance. The opposite extremes of buyer and seller are at no place more apparent than at a hustling fruit market. Each buyer wants to buy a little lower than his competitor, and in some instances he may be led to believe that he does, and he goes away pleased.

Cherries this week have the floor. The enormous crop of strawberries, which has been satisfactory in every respect, is drawing to a close. Those coming in now are inferior in quality. Raspberries have made their appearance, and it will remain to be seen what they will do in another week or ten days. It is supposed that they, too, will make a great showing this year. The cherry crop, which is now in full swing, is expected to be the largest we have had for years, and the quality also is very fine. We still have imported California pears, plums and peaches, but all these will soon be crowded out by Canadian productions.

VEGETABLES. — Although large quantities of tomatoes are still imported, Canadian grown are beginning to take a strong stand, and will soon be master of the situation. Old potatoes are firm and will command good prices until the new crop entirely monopolizes the market. There is no surplus on hand and they will be all cleaned up to make room for the new.

Cucumbers in fruit baskets take a bold position alongside of the American in hampers, and the former are picked up preferably. Several baskets of ripe onions grown in Burlington, quite unexpectedly surprised the Bermuda and the Texas which before had full possession of the market, and did not expect to be disturbed for some time.

FRUIT CROPS PROMISE WELL.

Government Issues Report Covering Prospects of the Dominion.

The Fruit Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has issued the second fruit crop report of the season.

It states that the weather of the past month has been favorable for fruit setting, though complaints of dryness are heard from some quarters.

The present prospects are for a large crop of apples in the counties along the north shore of Lake Ontario and in Prince Edward County where both fall and winter varieties show for a medium to full crop generally. Conditions point to a heavy crop of apples in the Annapolis Valley. Early and fall varieties are reported medium to full, and winter varieties a full crop. The Gravensteins are not as heavily laden, on the whole, as last year. Trees, generally, that bore heavily last year, are not heavily loaded this year. The Bellflowers (Bishop Pippin), Ribstons, Blenheim, Tolman Sweet and Stark are reported full crop. Ben Davis, Spy, Baldwin, Greening, King and Russets (Golden and Nonpariel) nearly full crop.

The crop in Prince Edward Island will be large. Nearly all varieties promise a full crop. Baldwins and Kings, however, are irregularly 'set.' Some trees are well loaded; others which bore heavily last season are light.

The apple prospects in British Columbia will hardly reach the average. The apple trees on the whole, came through the severe winter very well, but instances are noted where young trees and trees not in full vigor were injured severely by winter frosts.

In the commercial pear sections of Ontario there is a prospect of a medium crop of pears, though they did not 'set' so well in some localities as was expected.

In British Columbia the pear yield will be much below normal.

Plum prospects in the Niagara District are not as good as last month, particularly Japan varieties. Abundance and Burbank are reported light to medium. Lombards are showing for nearly a full crop, while Reine Claude, Gueii, Golden Drop and Grand Duke are medium to full crop. Plums everywhere are showing for at least an average crop except in British Columbia, where the crop is very irregular and will on the whole, be light. The Italian Prune makes the best showing.

The Peach Outlook.

"The peach prospects in southern Ontario vary from fair to good," says the report. "The majority of correspondents report early varieties generally to be a medium to full crop, and fall varieties medium. An average crop of peaches will likely be harvested in spite of the 'curl leaf,' though it is so prevalent in the Niagara District that it may alter the prospects if a heavy drop should result. The Elbertas, particularly, have suffered severely from the attack of the leaf curl fungus and give promise only of a light to medium crop. The Triumphs and nearly all other varieties are also affected where the trees were not sprayed with lime and sulphur, or in some cases where the spraying was delayed or where it was not thoroughly done.

"In the vicinity of Leamington in Essex, and of Queenston in Lincoln, the leaf curl is not quite so prevalent, and a full crop of peaches generally, is looked for.

"The crop of peaches in British Columbia will be practically a failure. The small peach orchards along the shores of Kootenay Lake were not seriously injured, except where the wood was not well ripened last fall."

FINE CANADIAN EXHIBIT.

Fruit From Canada Displayed at Seattle Exhibition Surpasses That from Other Places.

Writing from Germantown, Cal., W. H. Millman, commission merchant, who left Toronto some weeks ago on a pleasure trip, tells of his visit to the Seattle Exhibition.

Speaking of the Canadian building, he says that it, "need not take a back seat to any of them, and its contents in my way of thinking surpasses them in all the fruit exhibits. The Northwest wheat fields and animals are very fine and the lime light views and lectures on the Klondike is a great feature."

A GENTLE PROTEST.

Editor, Canadian Grocer—A few days ago, a stranger struck this city with a new scheme. The Grocers' Association, their rights for a "mess of pottage," and tumbled over each other to give their customers something for nothing, and at the same time put $100.00 in the bank to rest. Let us see what this scheme looks like, when it is properly analyzed.

This stranger made arrangements with the authorities of a park to bring them a certain crowd of people for a certain amount of money. He then got the unaware grocers for the sum of $100.00 in cash, to give away to their customers tickets that would admit them to the park free. In this way many a mother had to go with her children, pay the full car fare and in all probability spend several dollars more before she came out in order to utilize the ticket she received through the kindness of the innocent grocer.

One of the general complaints among grocers all over the city is that people are short of money, but here they have entered into a scheme that robs their customers out of hundreds of dollars without doing any good to the trade. To make a reasonable estimate it would work out something like the following:

To Street Railway	$100.00
" Grocers	100.00
" Promoter	200.00
" Park	400.00
	$800.00

Just that much less to pay for groceries.

Mail Order Competition Successfully Met

Grocery Firm Makes Assortments Of Their Own—Advertise Extensively and Exhibit Window Displays—Lot of Odds and Ends Cleared Out—Orders Come So Fast That Delivery Begins Day Before Sale.

The effective solution of how to meet the mail-order competition is of paramount advantage to the retail merchant. The problem must be solved if the inroads into the territory of the country, town and village merchant by the mail-order houses are to be checked.

Merchants as a rule are indifferent regarding this method of purchasing past them and take no interest in discovering what customers do this and why. They are too anxious about what their competitor on the next corner is doing.

The story of how one grocery firm is meeting the mail-order competition is interesting. It knows that the house send out baits in the form of bargains on one or two articles, one of them being sugar, in which there is not a great deal of profit at any time. They meet this competition by making assortments of their own. But they do not limit the customer to these assortments. The success of the first sale under this arrangement was so marked that half the items were sold out entirely the first day and two-thirds of the orders were for the entire assortment.

"We had the special sale for Saturday, but before Wednesday of that week, as a result of our advertisements, we had so many orders that we were compelled to start delivering on Friday, and did not finish until Monday noon," said one of the members of the firm.

The following is a list of the articles included in the assortment, on some of which the firm made a fair profit and secured such liberal patronage:—

10 lbs. granulated sugar	$0.50
3 cans solid pack tomatoes	.25
3 cans sifted or early June peas	.25
3 cans good corn	.25
3 full lb. packages seeded raisins	.25
3 cans Heinz's baked beans	.25
3 cans fancy mince-meat	.25
1 can soft pears in syrup	.15
1 can peaches	.15
4 lbs. prunes	.25
3 lbs. dried peaches	.25
1 package bird seed	.05
8 bars soap	.25
1 pan and 1 cup of onyx ware, 2 pieces	.25
Total	$3.35

One of the secrets of the success of this sale was the publicity given to it. The goods were promently displayed in the windows, and a large, attractive sign was painted to call attention to the window. Much publicity was also given through the local newspapers, a detailed list of the offerings being included in the advertisement.

In describing the arangements for the sale, a member of the firm said: "We selected a list of articles, as will be seen, all of good quality and all of which any family could use at once without over loading. We will not sell our customers a lot of stuff it will take a year to use up.

"Nor did we insist that to secure any one item on the list each customer must buy the entire list. We advertised freely that selections could be made of any items on the list. We made it a point that the public did not need to take anything it did not need.

"One week before the sale we displayed the goods on our tables. To show the quality of the the canned goods we empitied several cans into open dishes where they could be tasted. The package goods we placed on fancy dishes in the windows.

"We really did not expect to begin the sale before Saturday, but the pressure was so strong we consented to take advance orders to be delivered Saturday. Before Wednesday we had so many orders that we had to start delivering on Friday.

"Two-thirds of the orders were for everything on the list, and there was only one order for less than $2.

"During the sale we displayed with the canned goods on the table a lot of goods which had accumulated during the year. So when the customers came in to look at our special-order goods they could not help but see these goods. We sold two-thirds of all the odds and ends we displayed, which was a very good clean-up for one week.

"Then, the following week we held overflow meetings almost every day. A great many who had not been in during the sale heard about the bargains from their friends and came to the store to see if they could not buy an assortment. We had sold out entirely over half of the goods listed on our special order, but these late customers looked around to see what they could find, and during the few days after the special sale on Saturday we had sold practically all our odds and ends.

"We now have special sales on one Saturday of each month, to clean up odds and ends, and the success of this sale will be the best kind of advertising for the next one."

ENVELOPE STAMPING MACHINE.

A little device being placed on the market by the Drummond, Ludlow Co., New York City, weighing but one pound and a half, and about 6½x3 in., takes a roll of five hundred stamps placed in the magazine, and stamps these one by one on envelopes by action of the handle returning from the base plunger through an appurtenance underneath in a small tank containing water, with a wick about the length of a stamp (⅛ of an inch wide). All the operator has to do is to push down the machine on the envelope and a stamp is affixed, the wetting, cutting-off, and affixing being done with one pressure of the hand. This unique appliance saves the inconvenience of having to take off stamps single, and moisten them either by tongue or sponge, and it is claimed that stamps can be placed on mail ten times faster than by hand.

Upon these machines being submitted to the postal authorities, at Washington, the Government immediately authorized the issue of stamps in rolls of five hundred, so that business firms would be able to make use of the device. Negotiations are now on with the postal authorities at Ottawa, to have them do as the United States Government have done. The advent of this machine will naturally depend upon the Canadian Government putting up their stamps in rolls the same as the United States Government are now doing.

WATCH STOCK CAREFULLY.

It behooves the retail grocer to spare no effort to make every dollar of his play an active part in his business. Every dollar buried in surplus stock or otherwise permitted to be where it is not immediately available for purchasing power certainly does much toward weakening his forces.

Buy small and often, to the end that a given investment may cover the widest possible range of items. Never buy two dozen where one would do. Buy one dozen each of six articles rather than six dozen of one article. By so doing, he will please six times as many customers with the same investment. He may not save the small extra discount on the quantity purchase, but multiplying sales without increasing the investment will more than make up the lost discount.—The Retailers Journal.

Friends—Not Growlers

RISING SUN Stove Polish in Cakes never comes back to you with growls from the housekeeper. It is always made up to the same high standard maintained for forty years, and it is always just right. That's why we have the thousands upon thousands of grocers pushing it everywhere. Grocers don't wish to run the risk of losing a good customer by passing out an inferior stove polish, which is wrong more often than it is right. RISING SUN makes friends for you and for us in every household where you put it.

"CANADA'S PRIDE"

Canned Goods Still Leads

We would advise that we are now running heavy on Peas, packing a finer quality than we have ever turned out because of the excellent condition of the raw material, which with our careful handling, fine equipment and unequalled sanitary factory, enables us to far excel in quality any previous year.

These same conditions will apply to the full line of fruits and vegetables which we pack.

Don't be deceived by Brands and Trade Marks similar to ours which some packers are using, trying to place on the market inferior goods on our well-earned reputation.

CANADA'S PRIDE stands for CLEANLINESS and HIGH-GRADE QUALITY

One trial will make you a strong friend of "Canada's Pride."

Weed Out Your Flour-Patch, Mr.———!

DON'T CHOKE THE BIG SELLING BRAND

Take a look at your flour-patch, Mr. Grocer. Some mighty slow sellers in that patch—lines that have worn out their welcome long ago, yet mighty slow to depart, no matter how hard you push them. It's time to stick the price-pruning knife deeply into them and weed them out at any cost. They're only taking up space and choking out a more worthy line.

MAKE ROOM FOR THE BIG SELLER—

PURITY FLOUR

—the brand that is famous from Coast to Coast—famous for quality—famous for uniformity—famous as the highest grade of flour in the whole wide world.

While the margin of profit on PURITY may not be as large as on brands falling shy on quality, still PURITY earns larger dividends per year on account of the rapidity of the turn-overs. Besides, PURITY earns for you the "good will" of all who use it, while an inferior grade of flour earns very little for you beyond dissatisfaction.

Progressive merchants value "good will" more than margin of profit and therefore put their energy behind PURITY flour.

The Best Canned Goods

There are many kinds in the market all making claims of being the choicest and the highest in excellence, flavor and merit, but

The Queen Quality Leads

WHY?

Because our fruits and vegetables are fresh, palatable, and the finest specimens that can be secured in one of Canada's most fertile and progressive districts.

Because they are uniform in quality, as we supervise the growing of the raw products from seed time to harvest and our inspectors reject everything that is not strictly up to the highest standard.

Because we have the most sanitary and up-to-date process and machinery and no detail is overlooked. We attend to the practical side ourselves and make our own cans of the best tin plate that can be secured.

All progressive grocers stock them and all discriminating customers get in them

How to Follow the Progress of Business in the Store

The "Score-Book" and How it Shows the Sales and Payments That Keep the Proprietor Posted on the Conditions of Trade—A Perpetual Index to the Trade Relations With Every Customer—"Trouble-Book" to Guard Against Bad Accounts.

(By John T. Wolff.)

The next time you go to a baseball game, draw your attention away from the players and the contest for a moment and run your eyes over the men on the benches and in the stands. One, you will find, is indulging in the pure enjoyment of the game, applauding each sensational play, urging on to victory the team that claims his favor. Another, not so demonstrative possibly, in his enthusiasm, is watching the game with enjoyment too, but he is following each play graphically on a card before him. Every move a player makes finds record there, every hit that lands safe, every base gained, every run counted.

Which of these men follows the game more closely, which man knows best the significance of each play, which man knows the elements that contributed to victory or defeat? It is the man who keeps score.

And in the game of business as in the game on the diamond, it is the man who keeps score on the results, who follows most closely the progress and the profits of his work.

In business the salesman and the customers are the players — sales are the winning points. It is with these that the business man is most vitally concerned. And of co-ordinate importance are the payments made on purchases. Every moment of the business game the business man wants to know how these two elements stand. Of course, he can secure sum-total figures from his ledgers, merchandise accounts and records of profit and loss, but they do not show the personal factors that make up a business. Ordinary accounting books do not tell from day to day, how the business game is progressing. This is accomplished only through a customers' list—a record which gives an insight into the human phases of trade.

One of the most important records in our business is our "score book"—we call it that, for every man in the office recognizes its signficance. It stands as a perpetual index to our trade relation with every customer.

In size it resembles an ordinary trial balance book, but is provided with special rulings, each customer having one-third of the vertical space of a page devoted exclusively to his purchases and payments.

How the Score Book is Used.

Beneath the names and addresses are cross-ruled spaces for the twelve months of the year, and the totals at the bottom of each section. The year and months are printed on the left side of the sheets, the cross-rulings extending into the two sections to the right so that the printed months suffice for the three sections. To the right of the months are drawn two vertical lines, extending the length of the page and respectively headed "purchases" and "payments."

Each month, as statements are sent out the totals for each customer are entered with black ink in the purchase column opposite the month in which the purchase is made. As payments are received they are posted in red ink in the next column in the same manner.

White, for example, buys $175 worth of goods during the month of May. This amount is posted in the May section of the purchase column. Later in the month White pays $136 on account, and this amount is entered in red ink in the May division of the payment column directly opposite the entry of his purchase. Thus at a glance we note that in May, White has bought goods amounting to $175, upon which he has paid $136, leaving a balance due of $39.

In June White may buy $180 worth of goods and make a payment of $150. Both items are entered as in the preceding month. Still a glance at the book shows that White is $39 back on the May bill and $30 on the June bill, a total of $69. Knowing this, the house follows him up until the deficit is paid.

This score book serves both as a customers' list and a ready reference ledger. Duplicate copies of it go to heads of departments, who use it in watching the individual accounts, comparing sales, and in judging the work of men on the road.

To the sales manager, the score book is particularly important, for by running through its pages, he learns exactly how the month's sales and payments stand for each customer. If, by glancing down the column, he finds that White has not bought anything in the month of April, he writes the agent or traveling salesman in that locality to learn the reason why. Or, if he thinks White is buying too heavily, he has White's credit investigated. By comparing the record with the score book of the previous year, he is able to determine where sales are falling off and to learn the cause; to ginger up salesmen, whose records show a decline and likewise to give credit to those whose sales have increased.

The "Trouble Book" for Slow Pays.

When a customer has given trouble in his settlements, his name is entered in the "trouble book." This is an alphabetical list of names of such customers as have been slow in paying, with cross rulings to show the ratings, terms, credits and other information affecting them. The "trouble book" is protective in a way—it guards against selling to a man who is giving trouble.

Every order which comes into the office is carefully scrutinized. If the buyers name does not appear in the score book, his rating is looked up and, if satisfactory, he is sold. If his name is in the "trouble book" the order is watched closely.

While the store and trouble books were designed to fit the peculiar conditions of our own business, they may be readily used and adapted in any other. The score book, as a customers' list continually affords a perspective of your business, it enables you to watch carefully and intelligently the progress of the game.

BUSINESS IN A MINING TOWN.

Credit System A Great Hindrance Says A British Columbia Merchant.

By J. A. Schubert.

I am glad to have the opportunity of letting the readers of The Canadian Grocer know something about the mining town of Hedley, B.C., and business methods of some of the merchants.

Hedley is called after a mining engineer who was prominent in the opening up of Camp Hedley which is situated about five thousand feet above Hedley. The only direct means of reaching the mines is by gravity train lines and electrical train which are owned by the famous Nickel Plate Mining Co. The above company have a large boarding house for their men and a store to supply them with necessaries at the mines. If I have occasion to write you again I will give more details respecting this famous mine which in the short period of four years with a forty stamp concentrating mill has paid about two millions of dollars in dividends to the owners.

The stores in Hedley town, are nearly all "general" stores which means that you can buy in them, a complete outfit, for a home, or a mine.

We carry groceries, hardware, dry goods, crockery, furniture, boots and shoes and in fact everything one needs, to eat or wear. The freight charges are very high and to carry such a stock as is required it takes considerable capital. We find that we have many disadvantages that stores in larger places have not. The credit system is a great draw back, as many people here send their cash to Toronto department stores and owe grocery bills at home.

Toronto Grocers Forsake the Counter for Niagara

Throw Their Cares and Worries to the Winds and Voyage Over the Billows of Lake Ontario for a Day's Free Fellowship With One Another—Their Hospitality Weighed in the Balance and Not Found Wanting—Something Doing Every Minute of a Day of Pleasure—Contests Galore and Exciting Sports.

, Staff Correspondence.

Toronto, July 20.—"The best yet!" This was the unanimous opinion expressed by all who went with the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association on their 24th annual excursion on Wednesday of last week, July 14. The picnic and games were held in Queen Victoria Park, Niagara Falls, and there was amusement in plenty for the 1,500 grocers and admirers who were there.

The day was an ideal one, and the trip across the lake was just right. There was some fine sprinting done to catch the 7.30 boat, which had it been done later in the day would have won prizes; but Charley Kimpton got there with his cards just as the gang plank was pulled in.

The card sharks got busy right away, and hardly had the good ship "Cayuga" left Yonge Street dock before tables were being arranged in every corner of the lower deck, while the upper decks were given over to the ladies and children. By the time the fog horn at the Eastern Gap was passed some half dozen games were won and lost. Such classy players (to hear themselves tell it) as Jerry Burns, Jim Wright and Bob Stewart were sadly outclassed, and even Kimpton, with his own "marked" pack, was able to win but one game. There is this consolation for the losers, however; the winners later in the day paid a visit to Fort Erie, where they dropped everything that could be converted into cash, and they had nothing to crow about on the way home.

On the upper decks the officers of the association were making themselves busy distributing souvenirs donated by manufacturers and wholesalers. Tom Clark, Dan McLean and Bailey Snow had all they could do; but the palm must be awarded to Jack Beaumont, the energetic secretary, for his work in making the day and event such a success.

The Canadian Grocer representative was spotted talking with Herb. Moore, and in a minute he was labelled with tags, ribbons and pins, like a prize horse at the exhibition. Herb. was the happiest man on board. He has lately returned from a visit to the Old Land, and it was a real "comfort" to hear him relate his experiences. (Get him to talk about Blarney Castle when next you see him.)

A number of diversions in the shape of guessing contests were indulged in on board, and nearly every person made some kind of an estimate on the bag, soap and seed contests.

A few minutes' stop was made at Niagara-on-the-Lake, where S. E. Qua gave an exhibition of how quickly he could get ten boxes of orangeade off the boat onto the train and then himself get back on board without falling into the river. It was splendid work, Sam, and you deserve a medal.

A David and a Goliath.

Arrived at Queenston the picnickers found all the available electric cars of the International Railway waiting to take them to the Falls, but the "power was off," and it was some little time before the last car got away. It was done, however, with the help of Billy Redford, the Goliath policeman at King and Yonge, and Dave Bell. Dave kept out of sight on the way across the lake. Someone was cruel enough to suggest that he was seasick, but he livened up things on the way up being helped out by Sam. McGiffin.

Shortly before noon the last member of the party arrived at the park, which by the way, never looked prettier, and shortly thereafter family groups with picnic baskets dotted the sward.

A little after one o'clock the games began. There were races for boys and girls; old and young; married and single; heavy and light; and there were special events, such as three-legged races, potato races and egg races. Wholesalers, travelers and members entered the consolation events—they could not win any other way—but excitement ran high in the race for grocers' clerks and drivers. In fact all the events brought forth much excitement and plenty of fun.

Some of the Conquerors.

A partial list of the winners is here given. After receiving their winning stubs a number of successful competitors were swallowed up in the crowd before their names could be attained.

Boys under 14.—T. Adams, S. Dallimore; boys under 18.—J. Thornton, D. Fraser, O. Flett; girls under 12.—Misses Dalton and McLean; girls under 18.—B. Dalton, J. McLean; ladies' race.—Misses Miller, Banks and Morton; married ladies' race.—Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Morton; heavy men's race.—Fred. Thorn, Wm. Millan, W. J. Dean; travelers' race.—J. Wilkinson, J. Dean, A. King; wholesale merchants.—G. Smith; members' race—F. Thorn, B. Panter; three-legged race.—Thorn and Coniam, Panter and Davies, Bell and Clark; open race. — F. Thornton, J. Thornton, A King; clerks and drivers.—M. Loken, F. Thornton, J. Thornton; girls under seven.—Elsie Brown, A. Black; aged men's race.—B. Panter.

DAN. McLEAN, Vive-Pres., the only man who did not win a prize.

Tom Clark, Dave Clark; potato race.—Mrs. Morton; boys under 10.—W. Dallimore, B. Murphy, H. Smith. A consolation race for members who had not won a prize awarded presents to W. C. Miller and Dave Bell; and a still further consolation prize was awarded to Dan McLean, who was the only man left on the grounds, who hadn't previously gotten anything.

The afternoon's programme was brought to a conclusion by an indoor baseball game played outside by picked teams chosen from among the grocers and travelers present. This proved to be the event of the day. Needless to say the grocers won, the score being 27 to 3, but, of course, this is the grocers' version only. It really looked like a game of cricket, and in fact some of the players thought they were playing lacrosse, while others could not figure out exactly what it was. The members of the winning team were J. Hunter, Ralph Miller, Tom Clark, Fred Thorn, J. Kennedy, B. Panter, A. J. Coniam and Bob Davies and Herb Johnson, who formed the battery. The losers were Tudhope, Maxwell, Blackburn Sam. McGiffin, Frank Crowley, Wilson and Bone, with Jack Wright and Billy Graham in the points. The umpire was N. W. Bryson, and the travelers are still looking for him.

Giving Adulterated Prizes.

Those who returned on the early boat report seeing a crowd of grocers, who looked like Indians, standing outside a building at the upper bridge in charge of two officers. The building was labelled "POL—C—STA—I—ON." The charitable ones said the crowd was trying to supply the missing letters, but evidently from the song they were singing ("We're here because we're here") they could not get away. On closer investigation it was found that they could not get inside because the cells were already full. Tom Clark arranged their release in time to catch the late boat.

On the way home the "celestial choir" took possession of the hurricane deck and led by Tom Vance, sang such classical numbers as, "There's a Hole in the Bottom of the Sea," and "There are no Flies on Me," winding up with "The Mapul Eaf For Rever." By this time everybody but the singers were frightened away, and even some of the latter were left snoring on deck and did not get home before the next day. Charley Kimpton, the boy wonder, took the solos, and he was ably assisted by "Alick" Boyd and Alex. Hutchinson.

An interesting feature of the day's outing was the visit made to the Shredded Wheat Co.'s plant on the United States side of the river. In the absence of the president of the company, who was enjoying a holiday in the Eastern States, Clarence Wheeler, superintendent looked after the guests.

The officers and executive committee who looked after the welfare of their guests and made the affair such a success, were:—Dan McLean, chairman; Tom Clark, pres., R. B. Snow, treas.; J. C. Beaumont, sec.; and F. Sansom, Sam Gibbons, Dave Radcliffe, D. W. Clark, R. Davies, Dave Bell, Ben Panter, Dick Van Loan A. J. Coniam, Fred Thorn, Frank Johnson, W. C. Miller and N. White.

Souvenir Hand-Outs.

The yellow and black badges advertising "Fonner's Orangeade," were much sought after and worn "on all sides."

Lipton's tea-leaf lapel pins made neat little souvenirs.

E. W. Gillette Co., Ltd., gave magic fish to the children, cook books to the ladies, and canvas caps to the ball players.

The Cowan Co.'s, white caps proved an attraction for the boys and the horns were much sought after by the youngsters.

MacLarens Imperial Cheese Co. used cheese jar shaped cards for wearing in the hat, and Dalton's lemonade powder was advertised by button-hole hangers in the shape of a drinking glass. F. F. Dalley had a novel folded slip advertising "2 in 1" shoe polish.

A great many traveling salesmen took in the excursion and helped on the fun. Those noticed on the early boat included:—Alex Hutchinson, (Taylor's Soap Co.); Herb. Moore, (Comfort Soap Co.); Jack Wright, (MacLaren's Imp. Cheese Co.); "Alick" Boyd and N. W. Williams, (Red Rose Tea); J. Howitt, (P. McIntosh & Co.); T. Holman, Hy. Scully and Jas. Mortimer, (Christie, Brown & Co.); Bennie Cope, (Gunns Ltd.); E. B. Nettlefield, (Dalton Bros.); S. E. Qua, Chas. Newman and Robt. C. Blackburn, (Davidson & Hay); F. Anderson, (T. Kinnear & Co.); H. W. Cormack, (T. A. Lytle & Co.); Billy Spittle, (Pure Gold Co.); J. P. Balfour, (F. A. Shirriff & Son.); Jack Thom and V. E. Webber (E. W. Gillett Co., Ltd.); E. Raymond, (Sunlight Soap); C. Mitchell, (Tohunter, Mitchell & Co.); Chas. Rupert, (Taylor, Scott & Co.); Jas. Taylor, (Eby, Blain Ltd.); A. G. Hill and Geo. L. Scott, (H. P. Eckardt & Co.); F. Rupert and A. Richardson.

Among the fruitman noticed were Tom Vance, Chas. Kimpton, Sam. McGiffin, (McWilliam & Everist), and Harry Dawson.

Sprays From the Falls.

A. E. Knight, president of Lever Bros., Canadian company, was a distinguished guest aboard the "Cayuga." He spent the day at the Park and enjoyed the sports.

Sam. Gibbons moved about the boat as if he had lost something. What was wrong, Sam?

A greater number of grocers closed their stores all day than was the case in the past.

Dave Bell amused himself with the trolley gongs on the way up to the Falls.

The only event called off for lack of entries, was the race for grocers' wives. Wonder why? Aren't the grocers married, or did they leave their wives at home?

Red Rose Tea showed enterprize in getting out printed blotters announcing the result of their contest. These were distributed on the way back. The winners were Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Brown Mrs. Barret and Mrs. McGrath.

Alex Hutchinson looked after Taylor's borax soap weight contest. The winners were: Beatrice Dalton, Art. Davies, and John Marshall.

Brock's bird seed contest proved a keen one. Guesses were made all the way from 1873 grain in the package to FRED. THORN, ex-president, is by no means a has-been, when it comes to sprinting.

999,999. The winner was Mrs. Shinnick, who guessed 84,739, the number of seeds being 84,000.

A. J. Coniam remarked the large number of Hebrew grocers who attended the picnic. "I did not think there were so many Hebrews in business in Toronto," said he.

The bag holder contest was won by W. Dallimore, Mrs. Barrett and J. R. Riddell.

N. W. Bryson has invented a bag holder, which was exhibited on the boat cross the lake. It is intended for counter use and has four compartments for different sizes of bags. Mr. Bryson has formed a company for manufacturing this holder, and it is known as the Eureka Automatic Bag Holder Co. The present office of the company is 355 College Street, Toronto.

The prizes awarded for the races and in the various contests were valuable and useful. They included: two fancy vests, 2 boxes of cigars, traveling companion, bird and cage, tool kit, lantern, cases of tomatoes, corn and peas, chatelaine, parasol, scissors, 35 packages of tea, kodak, pearl brooch, gold locket, 100 lbs. flour, 20 lbs. sugar, a case of crystal sugar, leather hand bag, case of shredded wheat, coffee, case of loaf sugar, case of orangeade, 3 cases of starch, silver cup, case of condensed milk, chocolates, gold watch, baking powder, fountain pen, blacking outfits, case of Swiss Food, bag rolled oats, case of soap and umbrellas to the winners of the baseball game, including a gold-mounted one for the umpire, who sacrificed himself and was said to have cheated for the Grocers' gain.

Alex Hutchinson is walking lame these days as a result of the contest, bar of borax soap falling on his big toe.

Too bad those sample bottles of "Orangeade" did not turn up. Sam Qua went to a lot of bother to get them to the Falls, but they could not be located when the excursionists got to the park.

Silver Jubilee picnic next year. Begin now to get ready.

Everybody missed W. H. Seyler, who up to this year was a regular attendant.

Tom Vance cut quite a dash with his 12th of July suit minus the plug hat, but strange to say his costume did not help him in the 100-yard dash, he finishing a very bad second to Charley Kimpton, who came in 50 yards in the lead.

Harry Dawson covered himself with glory finishing third and beating out a young man whose "fust" name is Alfred.

When Dave Radcliffe and Charley Kimpton meet "Alick" Boyd and W. Williams, the Red Rose Tea team, again at cards there promises to be lively "doins."

Ask Bailey Snow, Tom Vance, Alex Hutchinson, Bob Blackburn and W. Miller about that ride over the bridge to the American side. They will have a wonderful story to relate.

The wholesale fruitmen are to hold a big excursion and picnic to Beaverton, on August 2, and Charley Kimpton is already looking for a euchre partner. Up to date he has had 23 refusals. It looks like 23 for Charley.

Did you see the fat men's race when H. G. McDonald, who should have finish-second fell and rolled in third. His wife blushed with disgust at his performance.

Bailey Snow disgusted his brother Charles when he finisher third in the three-legged race, coming in like one of those old-fashioned sugar hogsheads.

Bailey Snow was the ladies' man.

Dick Van Loan lost his ticket and had to "come again."

D. McLean helped catch the winners in the ladies' race.

D. W. Clark was an important entry in the 180-pound class.

Coniam and Thorne ran as one in the three-legged race and won.

"The 'Maid of the Mist'
Is on the 'black list.'"

(Poem by W. C. Miller.)

Tome Vance wore a new "2-piece" and made a "hit" at the "Tremont."

Frank Johnstone, the big chief and master of ceremonies, was left at the post in the fat men's race.

Herb Johnstone and W. C. Miller in the three-legged race made a good team, but were amongst the "also rans."

Dave Bell copped three prizes. Pretty good for an old man.

The "Cayuga" has a few cosy corners.

"A few went over the line
And managed just back in time,
A few bites to snatch,
The last boat to catch
To finish the picnic of 1909."

(Dropped from Tom Vance's note-book.)

(Heard on the hurricane deck—Time, 9.30 p.m.)

Little Boy—Mama are all the grocers' wives with them to-day?

Mother—Don't know, dear, why?

L.B.—'Cause I see Mr. —— hugging a lady over there.

Mother.—Nonsense.

A BUSINESS PRESIDENT.

Guelph Wholesale Grocer Takes Firm Hold of the Board of Trade Helm.

Guelph, July 21.—Ex-Alderman Robert Simpson, member of R. and J. H. Simpson, wholesale grocers, Guelph, is president of the Guelph Board of Trade.

Mr. Simpson in his important position as head of this body is infusing into it intelligent foresight and untiring energy. Until he was promoted to the president's chair the Board of Trade in Guelph was a sort of negative institution. Certainly it did no harm but at the same time many of the citizens were inclined to think that little good was accomplished by it. But the change which followed his promotion was indeed noticeable. He got out and worked himself, where other presidents, his predecessors, had depended upon fellow members to do it. He made a personal canvas of the business part of the city on more than one occasion and kept at the business men, merchants, and manufacturers, until they did turn out to the meetings, and then when he succeeded in getting them out he saw to it that it was made worth their while to be there. In order to do this he arranged with various influential business and professional men—all experts along their own lines—to give short interesting talks on subjects of vital interest to all the business interests of Guelph and to the citizens generally. The effect of this work on the part of the new president was that at the last meeting of the Board there was not a vacant seat in the council chamber. The room was packed to it's doors and among the addresses delivered was one by W. J. Bell which he had spent weeks in preparing and which has been quoted in part editorily in papers all over Canada, all of which was a very good advertisement for the city. The Board are having this address printed in pamphlet form. But this is by no means the enterprising president's biggest idea in connection with advertising his city. The scheme which he is taking up at the present time, and which is meeting with the hearty approval of most of the city's business men and has been taken up actively by the local dailies, is to have a special train from Guelph make a tour of the Canadian West, the entire train load to be comprised of Guelph business men and manufacturers who, getting off for a half day or so at any towns or cities of importance along their route to the Coast, would drum up business for their own concerns and advertise the city at the same time. There would, in all probability, be an official or two from the C. P. R. along with the excursion and a Publicity Commissioner to advertise it as they went along. The scheme is considered one of the brightest ideas in the way of an advertising scheme ever considered by the Board of Trade of any city, and that it will be carried out successfully is most likely, judging from the enthusiasm that is being evidenced by the Board and the general approval with which it is meeting.

Mr. Simpson is ever taking the initiative in any work that promises to further the interests of the city.

Keys Turn in Kingston Stores While Grocers Picnic

Annual Outing of the Associat ion in the Limestone City a Marked Success—All Kinds of Races on the Calendar Run—Baseball Game and a Marathon.

Kingston, July 20.—The men of the Limestone City, who hand out the necessities of life from behind the counter, proved themselves to be adepts when, it comes to entertaining a crowd.

The Retail Grocers' Association held their picnic on Wednesday, July 14, at the Fair Grounds, and the event was entirely successful. Providence smiled on the dispensers of the tea and the sugar in the matter of weather, and some 1,400 people congregated at the Grounds to enjoy the grocers' hospitality.

In order that all of those employed in the grocery trade would fully enjoy the fun all the stores closed at one o'clock, and everybody for m the proprietor of the store, down to the office boy, and including the cash lady, took a holiday and attended the gathering.

It was a regular bargain day as far as sports went. There were contests of every description for all tastes and all were satisfied that the grocers gave the full measure. There was no light weight. William Dalby, the secretary of the Grocers' Association, was kept busy handing out prizes on the spot as soon as they were won and incidentally he gave out free lunches of biscuits, ginger snaps, and wafers. The lacrosse match between Brockville and Kingston did not materialize on account of the Island City team defaulting.

There was an interesting baseball game between the clerks in the stores in the city north of Princess Street and those in the stores south of Princess Street. The men from the north side of the town trimmed their brethern from the south from the drop of the hat. "Old Bill" Dehaney was the umpire. The score was 35 runs to 15. The players were:—North Side—Saunders, p.; Haffner, c.; Cornelius, 1st b.; Vallier 2nd b.; Sheltz 3rd b.; Bennett, r.f.; Dick, c.f.; Pound l.f., and McCormack, s.s. South Side—Milne, c.; Buck, p.; Henderson, 1st b.; Marshall, 2nd b.; Baker, 3rd; Holland, s.s.; Dumphy, r.f.; Pickering, l.f., and Purdy, c.f.

Horse Race Events.

For the horse races M. Corkey was the starter, C. Litton, L. W. Murphy and Mayor Couper, judges, and C. Horne, timer.

The half mile running race for delivery horses was a lively contest. Suddard's horse and Redden's grey had a hot contest for first place. Joyce's horse was pocketed and before coming into the stretch Conway Bermingham, its rider, took to the grass and the horse fell, throwing the jockey violently, injuring him. The finish was: 1st, Suddard's bay; 2nd, Redden's grey.

The Farmers' Trot.

There were three entries in the farmers' half mile trot. There was some dispute about allowing John Theobald to drive his mare, "Miss Theobald" in the event, but "by a close shave," he was allowed in. Frank Trousdale and W. J. Reid thought that the barber looked much like farmers as they did. The other entries were "Sir Jim," owned by Frank Trousdale and "Blondie" by W. J. Reid, Blondie finished first; Sir Jim second, and Miss Theobald, third. Time, 1.27.

The driver of J. Redden's delivery horse showed that he had "considerable sand," by putting his horse in the half mile delivery horses' trot after contesting the delivery horses' run. Albert Glover finished easily ahead with Jas. Purdy's horse second, Jas. Redden's third; John Gilbert's horse which finished third was put fourth for running under the wire.

The half-mile farmers' run went to Doyle's horse first; Joyce's second and Kenny, third.

There were three horses in the three-minute class., 1-2 mile heats, which resulted as follows:—

"Kenneth E," J. Eves	1	1
"D.J.," Don Hayes	2	2
"Perfecto," J. Lalond	3	3

Time 1.20 and 1.18.

The 5-mile Marathon.

The Marathon race, over a course of five miles, was one of the best features of the afternoon sports, for the runners could be seen at all times Physical Director Thompson, of the Y.M.C.A., took charge of the event. The entries were: G. Woodrow, Y.M.C.A., O'Brien, Nelson and Clemmings, of Gananoque; Joe Steele, Parham; Halligan, Stinson, Nicholson and Hansen, Jackson and Somerville, Kingston; W. E. Cole, Deseronto. O'Brien, of Gananoque, was looked upon as the favorite, with Joe Steele, or Cole, second. In the tenth lap Cole sprinted and gained considerably on Steele, and won handily in 29 minutes, 45½ seconds; Joe Steele, was 2nd; Stinson 3rd; Neilson 4th; Jackson 5th; Cummings 6th.

More Exciting Contests.

There was also a half mile bicycle race, which was won as follows: 1st, Knott; 2nd, McIlroy; 3rd, McCullagh; 4th, Johnston; 5th, Stewart; 6th, Saunders. Time, 1.30.

The results of the other races were:

Sack race—1st, J. Gallivan; 2nd, W. Turcotte; 3rd, H. Quirt.

Ladies' Comfort Soap race—1st, F. Mullen; 2nd, Mrs. Hart; 3rd, D. Foden; 4th, Mrs. Green.

Half mile open race—1st, S. Sharp; 2nd, H. Nicholson; 3rd, Leo Linagh.

Taylor's Borax Soap race, contestants to have all the soap they picked up—1st, Mrs. Carey; 2nd, Mrs. Thornley; 3rd, Mrs. Green; 4th, Mrs. Cooling.

Red Rose Tea race, contestants to have all the packages of tea they picked up—1st, Mrs. Green; 2nd, Mrs. Hart; 3rd, Miss Muller.

Quarter mile employers' race—1st, A. Haffner; 2nd, C. Pickering; 3rd, — Smith.

One mile foot race—H. Nicholson, G. Woodrow, Stanley Shirk.

Taylor's Infant Delight races—boys, 4 and under—Walter Gallivan, — Lennox, E. Campbell, W. Clay, J. Pelow, J. Joyner.

12 and under—Robt. Ferguson, Fred Gallivan, Donald Douglas, Stuart Toland, Joseph Scanlin.

Girls—Six and under—Bertha Pelow, M. Blakeley, Eva Ada, May Baird, Daisy Compbell, Stella Hunter.

12 and under—Bertha Shaw, Ernestine Turcotte, B. Shane, Pearl Arniel, Margery Newall, P. Haffner.

In the race open to policemen, firemen and postmen, the police refused to run, because they contended that Callman H. Graham was not a regular fireman. The race was left to Chief Armstrong's boys and the men of letters. H. Graham won easily, with W. Roberts and M. Donnelly second and third almost in a dead heat.

A race for the police was arranged and was won by P. C. F.Davies; 2nd, P. C. Taylor; 3rd, P. C. Driscol; 4th P. C. Armstrong.

Fun for the Boys.

The bun-eating contest was greatly intrefered with by boys crowding the track. M. Nolan was first; Stewart 2nd; Gallivan 3rd. Ald. Robertson, who was one of the judges in the contest, was the centre of attraction of about 20 youngsters, all cal'ing that they were first. His grey suit was in danger of being smeared with molasses.

Soda biscuit contest—1st, Isabel Cooling; 2nd, Margarette Mitchell; 3rd, Mabel Holland.

Committee men's race, 50 yards forward and 50 yards back—1st, Bert Robertson; 2nd, A. McLean; 3rd, Phillip Haffner; 4th, W. Hopkinson.

During the afternoon the members of the 14th Band dispensed music of the highest order, which was greatly enjoyed.

The chief executive officers of the picnic were: W. H. Dyde, president; L. W. Murphy, vice-president; E. W. Mullen, 2nd vice-president; Mayor Couper, J. Gilbert, C. Litton, W. H. Dalby, secretary. In addition to these gentlemen, practically all the retail grocers in the city, by their united efforts, helped to make the affair the success it was.

Business Methods of Two Winnipeg Merchants

How W. H. Stone Built up a Splendid Retail Trade—Paid $40,000 for Store Property — Not Troubled With Bad Debts.

Winnipeg, July 19.—As early as 1885 the name of W. H. Stone was prominent on Main Street in Winnipeg. To-day, as a monument to the long business career of one who has experienced the ups and downs of the general business conditions of Winnipeg, there stands a handsome three-storey brick store with the old name, "The W. H. Stone Co., Grocers," carved indelibly on massive stone at the entrance. Associated with Mr. Stone in the early days, was the late John Bryson, of Bryson, Graham Co., Ottawa. Young Stone and Bryson clerked in the same store in this city, and at the ages of 21 and 20, respectively, they opened a retail store on Main Street. The partnership was of short duration, however, for Mr. Bryson withdrew from the business three years later and moved to Ottawa, where he was instrumental in building up the noted department store of Bryson & Graham.

Mr. Stone continued the business in the famous old Empire block, of this city, until two years ago when the present store was built. Mr. Stone paid $40,000 for the property he now occupies, and an additional $40,000 was paid for the building. It would have been impossible for Mr. Stone to have undertaken such larger expenditure had it not been for the success of the grocery business of previous years. Mr. Stone believes in his business, he believed in his customers, and he also believed that his location could not be improved. So through concentration of energy, he faced the succeeding fruitful years, with a heavy debt, but with facilities unexcelled in the city, and with a future ever growing brighter. Sufficient it is to say that Mr. Stone is not bothered with debts to-day, but he is bothered with orders for goods from a heavy custom among railway employes. Being near the C.P.R. line, the railway trade figures very large in the present business.

The store is 120 x 33 feet in dimensions, and consists of three storeys and a basement. The second storey is rented for office purposes, and the third is finely equipped with residental suites.

"Mr. P., how is it you have not called on me for my account?"

"Oh, I never asked a gentleman for money."

"Indeed! How, then, do you get on if he doesn't pay?"

"Why, after a certain time I conclude he is not a gentleman, and then I ask him."—Tit-Bits.

The Collins Grocery Sells For Cash—Neither Collector nor Book-keeper Necessary—Pays Cash to Wholesaler.

Winnipeg July 19.—One grocery store in St. Boniface a suburb of Winnipeg, has had a sign exposed to the public gaze since last March, which reads, "Collins C.O.D. store." Mr. Collins has been in the grocery business for 28 years in St. Boniface, and it was not without thorough knowledge of the trade that he took his stand for a cash trade. There was a time in the history of his business when such a step would have been impossible, and there are places in this Western country to-day where a cash trade could not be sustained, simply because people must have the supplies, nothwithstanding their impecunious circumstances. The fact is that the public have been educated to the point where credit for grocery goods is naturally expected. And it is not always the fault of the customer. Dealers have through course of time developed a laxity in this regard, which is taken advantage of by the only-to-willing consumer. It is therefore creditable for Mr. Collins to break away from precedent and face his wide-spread custom with the cold "C.O.D." affirmation.

It will be interesting to note how the trade in this particular store has been affected by the change in business methods. As Mr. Collins remarked, he has dispensed with a book-keeper and collector since the change has been made and this in itself decreases the expense account considerably. He is also in a position to meet the wholesale house on the same ground as the public meet him, and every retailer knows the value of being able to pay cash for goods.

The great benefit of the cash business is the simplicity of business operation, which is made possible. The chronic credit merchant is burdened with complications in his business which are quite unnecessary and should he become convinced that for his own progress and for the good of the custom generally, he should raise the sign "C.O.D."

It is true that the customer will be better satisfied with the cash business before a year's trade is completed. This is verified by remarks made to Mr. Collins almost daily, referring to the satisfaction of the cash system. Mr. Collins has developed a strong business since March last and 25 per cent. more regular customers deal with him at present than one year ago. He has little sympathy for the dealer who fears to lose a customer, if he greets him with the cash proposition.

WRITS CHARGE LIBEL.

The Retail Merchants' Association, Toronto, has renewed its fight against the Toronto Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Provision Association by causing to be issued several writs for libel against members of the latter. H. H. Dewart has been retained as counsel for the Merchants. The cases are all similar. The association is charged with having a blacklist upon which the names of retailers are placed who do not make settlements once every week. This list, it is charged, is circulated among the members of the Wholesalers' Association, and herein consists the libel. E. M. Trowern, secretary of the Retailers' Association, said that action had been taken against the following firms. Gunns, Limited, J. A. McLean Produce Company Morley Ewing, McWilliam & Everist, Rutherford, Marshall & Company, Ryan & Company, Stronach & Sons, White & Company, Willard & Company.

SPECIAL CALLS DEALT WITH.

How a Merchant Protects Himself In Stocking New Goods Asked For.

Often merchants are considerably annoyed with customers who call for goods which are not in stock and then refuse to take them when they do arrive. One grocer has devised an effective plan to overcome this and so as to be protected in stocking up new goods. He has secured a large blank book which he keeps on the counter. When goods which he does not keep in stock are called for he asks the customer to write her name in the book, together with the goods desired. At the top of each page is the following printed inscription: "It is understood that anyone registering their name on this page agrees to take a trial order of the goods opposite their name, should we have the goods in stock one week from the date the name was registered." He has found that the plan works well.

A WINNING DELIVERY WAGGON.

The delivery wagon of Geo. Maben, grocer, Elora, Ont., captured first prize in the Traders' procession on Dominion Day. It was dressed in gay attire. The canopy was constructed of bunting and flags attached to a temporary frame. Oranges three row deep were piled on the inside railing at the top while in the interior looking out were four negro boys looking very much at home with "big chunks of watermelon." Tissue-paper stars hung from the sides and the spokes of the wheels were decorated with the same material. The Grover regrets that the back-ground on which photographs were taken, was too light; otherwise a picture would have been reproduced.

NEW COMPANY FORMED.

The Larue et Cloutier, Limited, is a new company formed in Montreal, to do business as wholesale grocery and liquor merchants. The capital stock is $295,000.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY

THIS YEAR'S SALMON PACK.

Canners on the Pacific coast are still awaiting the incoming of the salmon. It is a peculiar fact that the runs each year are taking place later, and while the big run of four years ago started on the 6th or 7th, there are as yet only minor signs of the fish this year. The salmon has many peculiarities, and this is the latest to occupy the attention of the authorities.

Preparations this year are being made for a pack of 790,000 cases, which is 50,000 cases less than in 1905, when the last big run took place. The reason for this is that the Dominion Government has made the close season 42 hours, and has halved the length of the nets and reduced their depth from 90 to 60-mesh. The fish are hatched in Canadian institutions, and every care is taken on the Canadian side of the line to preserve and propagate them, and the "Americans" get the benefit. The close season over there is only 36 hours, and even without that they get first chance at the salmon. The pack by Americans is from 25 to 30 per cent. greater than by Canadians.

R. N. Venning, acting Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, is on the coast looking into matters pertaining to the industry, and these facts will be brought to his attention. Objection has already been sent to the Dominion Government, and when Hon. Wm. Templeman came through on his way home to Victoria he was personally apprised of the situation.

The price decided upon by the association is 12½ cents per fish during July, and 10 cents in August, but the fishermen are agitating for 15 cents for July and 12½ cents for August. Complaint has also been made by the canners operating in Skeena river waters, where the fishing ground has been much curtailed, with considerable trouble following as a consequence.

BETTER FRUIT JARS.

Last year The Canadian Grocer strongly protested against the poor quality of fruit jars being sold by the retail trade. This has evidently borne fruit. Correspondents say that both grocers and customers have observed a marked improvement in quality. Breakages are less frequent, probably due in part to the fact that the jars are much better packed than in other years. Not only this, but complaints in regard to the fitting of the covers are fewer. Housewives found in the past few years that after some jars had been used a short time it was practically impossible to screw them on tightly. This seems to have been remedied.

Manufacturers are, therefore, turning out a better jar than formerly, and this will be appreciated, not only by consumers, but by the retail trade, who are the people who have had to bear the brunt of all complaints.

A BAD PRACTICE.

Cutting prices in order to secure customers is not business building. It is business destroying. To think that by this method a strong and healthy business can be built is about as wise as to cut a length from the top of a blanket and add it to the bottom with the hope of making it longer.

To build up a strong business, strong methods must be employed. The details of the business must be mastered, the goods handled must have merit, the price at which they are sold must yield a fair profit, window displays and advertising must receive attention, and to cap it all, the business man must have personality. And personality is founded on character.

Honesty towards one's self is important, as well as honesty towards one's customer. He who cuts prices in order to build up a business is not honest towards himself.

AN ANNUAL PICNIC.

The season of the year has arrived when grocers' picnics are prevalent. These, however, appear to be confined to the large centres where associations exist. While such outings have a wonderful effect on the relations among the members, they would affect even a greater change among competitors in a village or town where there are no associations.

If, therefore, the grocers in smaller places could only arrange for a picnic or some sort of an outing once a year where they could mingle freely with each other and forget their antagonisms, the trade would soon be placed on a higher plane. Associations have done and are now doing splendid work to induce members to become more friendly with each other. Their picnics even do more than their associations in this respect and their examples might with profit be followed by grocers in other places. This would tend to create a better feeling, which in many cases is needed.

A joint educational trip to some commercial centre is another way to promote more congenial relations.

JAVA FROM ASSAM SEED.

Java tea has never been a serious contender in the world's tea trade. It has recently, however, been given new life due to the fact that it is now being grown from the Assam seed. This is the seed from which grows the tea in the Assam district, the original home of the tea trade of 1700 B. C. or thereabouts.

Up to one or two years ago Java tea was of a rather poor quality, but since it has been discovered that the Assam seed produces a good tea in Java, tea dealers have noticed a better demand. The plant begings to produce extensively at the age of three years.

NIGHT WINDOW DISPLAYS.

It is a good policy to keep the name of your store before the public as much as possible. While very often this may not result in any direct advantage, it all goes to produce a good-will for the business, the value of which may be unlimited

Some grocers are doing this through consistent advertising and store window displays. Among the latter are night displays, which are being utilized successfully by a few merchants. A more attractive window can be shown at night than in the day, because color effect can be better produced through artificial lights.

Everybody, too, has noticed what reflections do to many windows during the day. Unless a person gets his face close to the glass he cannot see the details of the display, whereas as night lights may be so arranged that the whole scheme may be taken in at a glance even from a distance. If a display is neatly arranged and shows any originality it cannot fail but attract attention, and there's where the merchant once again makes his name and business known to the consumers.

The night display aids his business while he sleeps.

SMALL EXPORT EGG TRADE.

The decline in the quantity of eggs exported from Canada to Great Britain since the season of 1901 has been remarkable. During the navigation season of 1908 only 18,400 cases were shipped, which shows a decrease of 213,134 cases in comparison with the season 1901. The cause of this has evidently been the increase in home consumption and to the fact that values have been high in Canada as compared with those existing in England. Better storage facilities has had a great deal to do with these conditions. No doubt there has also been a falling off in production.

The "Grocer," of London, England, in referring to the prices existing there says: The dearness of eggs which has been a characteristic feature of the present year, still continues, although in a modified degree as compared with the prices ruling a few months ago. Imports into the United Kingdom show a heavy deficiency compared with last year, comprising 5,376,121 great hundreds for the first five months of 1909 against 6,629,056 great hundreds in the corresponding period of 1908, and 6,304,498 great hundreds in 1907. The remarkably high prices which ruled for eggs during last winter are in a large measure responsible for the prevailing scarcity and dearness. Most buyers then were abnormally short of stock, and, being afraid of a repetition of that experience, are preparing themselves against possible contingencies in the coming winter. It is believed that contracts have been freely made to provide for future supplies, and for which buyers in this country are widely committed. Pickles have been freely contracted for, while large quantities of eggs have been sold and placed in cold store to be drawn upon next autumn and winter. The quantity in cold stores will have further increased before then. There is thus a certain speculative element introduced into the situation, which may ultimately be fraught with rather serious consequences. Last year it was generally thought that butter was to be very dear in the winter, and very large quantities were put away for emergencies. The slump which took place last fall, and the consequent very severe losses which subsequently ensued, are too recent to need recapitulation. The question, however, which arises is, will prices of eggs next autumn and winter keep up or collapse as did those of butter?

"On the continent buying has been active for some time past, and with large quantities placed aside the available supply has been below the normal. Prices have consequently been dearer than usual, and being driven too high, leave little or no profit to the importer. This week business has undergone a distinct change for the worse, there being more disinclination to buy than for some time past, while arrivals are much in excess of present requirements. Cheap fish and strawberries also interfere with the sale of eggs, which cannot easily be sold at a profit at present rates. The quality of Russian eggs has never been finer than this season, but recently there have been complaints where quality in some instances have been inferior. These complaints, however, are not general. Buyers will have to exercise caution in making purchases, as apart from Russians it is known that certain other descriptions have been below standard, but not more than is usual at this period of the year. During the next few weeks not much alteration is anticipated in quotations, but the market will be irregular with arrivals in excess of requirements, which are likely to be on a reduced scale. If importers continue to lose money a falling off in imports is probable."

HALF HOLIDAYS AND TRAVELERS.

Much inconvenience is caused among the traveling fraternity on account of the half holiday system in vogue in many towns aod cities. The merchants no doubt do the proper thing when they give themselves and employes an occasional half day off in hot weather, but they should not forget the men on the road as well as the wholesale houses, both of whom are part and parcel of their business.

Where a weekly half holiday is given it is only right and proper that houses who go to the expense of sending out travelers should know about it. It would be an act of courtesy on the part of the retailers which would certainly be appreciated by both travelers and wholesalers.

Failure to know about half holidays causes many enforced lay-overs, thereby incurring much additional expense. As far as possible, therefore, they should be made known to those who call frequently on the trade in any town or city, and the only way to do this seems to be through the retailers.

INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE.

Merchants in placing insurance on their building and stock must remember that they require protection from the outside as well as the inside. A fire may start in the store insured, a lamp may be used down cellar although it would cost little to run a gas pipe or electric light wire down. Or a fire may develop on the inside of the store for any one of a dozen reasons, but the danger too often overlooked is from the outside.

It is always advisable to protect the store by some simple fire equipment, a dry powder extinguisher, hand grenade or a portable reel and hose. The expense of equipment of this kind is small in comparison to the loss resulting from the interruption to business even though the stock is well insured and the insurance collected in full.

Keep the stock and building well insured but don't stop there. Have the premises as fire proof as possible and have equipment ready at hand to fight fires which develop in neighboring stores.

CULTIVATE THE TOURIST TRADE.

According to the figures given the total production of all the silver, copper and nickel mines in Ontario, including the Cobalt and Sudbury districts, was about $12,000,000. For this railways have been built and every effort made to develop the industry.

An even greater source of wealth, however, is the tourist trade, and a few thousand dollars spent by the government, coupled with some enterprise on the part of merchants, Boards of Trade, municipal councils and railway companies, should result in much greater gains to Ontario than secured from our rich mineral resources.

If the fish and game of Maine, for instance, cause tourists to spend $15,000,000 in that State annually, what could not Ontario do along similar lines if a comprehensive policy were adopted and persevered in? In the case of our mines wealth is taken and our natural resources are lessened to the extent that mineral is extracted. On the other hand the tourist trade results in no robbery of our natural heritage. Rather does it encourage a conservation of existing resources and a replacement of the fish and game which have been allowed to become scarce through poor management.

When a tourist brings $50 or $500 to spend on a vacation or hunting trip on the inland lakes or in the backwoods, they are after sport and they are willing to pay for it. It is fun, rather than food, they want, game fish, rather than ordinary fish. He is satisfied if he takes away a sunburned face and some fish stories and he doesn't much care what it cost him for his sporting equipment or his grub so long as he has smelled the pine trees, breathed the pure air and sampled the rushing waters of the forest streams.

Merchants should see to it that every encouragement is given the development of the tourist trade as, if he goes after it, he can secure much of the money spent by the city men from the United States who want to get next to nature in the backwoods of the various Canadian provinces.

The Ontario Government have acted wisely in appointing a commission to investigate the fish and game resources of Ontario, and Mr. Kelly Evans, the commissioner, should receive the cooperation of the receive.

LONDON.

July 21.—Wholesalers report an improvement in country trade, with payments good. Refined sugar is selling freely just now. Raws are firm, with an advancing tendency and an advance of one to two cents in Ceylon and India teas is reported. First crop Japans are pretty well sold out at high figures. There will be no quotations for medium and low-priced grades until about the end of the month. Coffees of all kinds are firm and high. Rice is advancing. Canned goods are very slow of sale, and there is sure to be a large quantity of last season's tomatoes left over. Canners' prices for new goods are out, and although they are lower, wholesalers are holding off.

Bread is now selling in London at five cents per pound—the highest price ever known—although flour has been dearer than it is to-day. There is a good deal of grumbling in consequence.

The dry weather is injuring the raspberry crop, which promised to be large. The berries sold at 15c per small box, on Saturday

The grocers' baseball team won their first game of the season in the Merchants' League on Wednesday afternoon, when they defeated the butchers by a score of 5 to 2. The feature was the three-base hit, when the bases were filled, of Harry Langford, of Scandrtt Bros., which won the game.

A. J. Denny, grocer, and his wife have returned from a trip to the coast. Mrs. Denny's many friends will regret to learn that her health is but little improved, as a result of the trip.

Charles Mountjoy, wholesale fruit dealer, is enjoying two weeks' holidays with his family at Grand Bend.

The picnic of the East End Merchants Association, which includes many grocers, in Queen's Park on Wednesday, was most enjoyable and successful. The crowd in attendance was estimated at ten thousand. The proceedings were opened by the Mayor with a short address, and a programme of forty events, including running races, jumping, a baby competition, etc., was carried out most satisfactorily.

TORONTO.

July 21.—W. E. Best who took over the Morgan Supply Co. after an experience of 13 years in the business, is making rapid strides towards prosperity.

If grocers would visit each others stores they could often pick up some ideas which would be well to follow. They would also see how carelessly and unbusiness like some keep their stock and could profit thereby. We can often see others' faults where we cannot see our own.

It shows a lack of business judgment to have the windows all plastered over with tea and other advertisements, and not have a sign showing the owner's name. No fault can be found with the tea men they know the value of advertising, but the merchant must be blind to his own interests if he does not try to bring his name prominently before the public.

Spence & Kelland, 887 Queen St., East, are building up their business, not by trying to undersell others, but by giving their customers the best goods, and the best service. This is the up-to-date idea of doing business.

J. W. Island, 262 Dundas St., who bought out Snyder, is making things lively. His business has increased so rapidly that he has had to employ more help. He has now three clerks who are all hustlers, and always on the jump for more business. They meet everybody with that smile which makes them feel at home immediately and that they are in good hands.

Mrs. N. Childs, 176 Bellwoods Ave., after a trial of 3 months is perfectly satisfied with her trade. She is building up a paying business.

W. J. Hosken, 87 Arthur St., is another of the young grocers who is bound to win. Merchants on Arthur St. are badly handicapped and are very much dissatisfied with the slow progress of the road work.

In some stores are still to be seen boxes partly full with prunes, apricots, raisins, etc., that look anything but attractive. As these are out of season and selling slowly, they should not be exposed to dust and flies. All these things should be put out of sight and kept free from dirt. Neatly arranged samples could be kept in show cases, from which customers could select what they want.

The old fashioned grocer is gradually but surely disappearing from his field of battle in Toronto. Instead of meeting grumblers who were dissatisfied with everybody in the trade, you now meet men cheerful and happy in their efforts to do their business on higher levels. The fight between competitors, in trying to put one another out of business is looked upon as foolish and unprofitable. Instead of boasting how they can undersell others they are now ashamed to be regarded as price cutters. Good service is the watch word.

The monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on the evening of July 19, in the Temple building. President Tom Clark was in the chair. Purely routine business was transacted. The committees having charge of the picnic at Scarboro Beach on July 7, and the excursion to the Falls on July 14, reported progress. Final reports are expected at the August meeting.

CHATHAM.

July 21.—Thursday, August 26 has been selected as the date for the Second Annual Merchants' Picnic, the preliminary arrangements for which were completed at the association meeting held on Tuesday evening. Strong though not overcrowded committees were selected to handle the various details. Cars will be run every half hour during the day, and an united effort will be made to have all the stores close at 12 o'clock sharp. Eddie Dore, of Hamilton, is taking a keen interest in the affair. Grocers are prominent on all the committees, the list comprising Wm. Potter on ways and means; Harry Northwood, music; W. E. Parrott, printing; Wm. Anderson, games and amusements; John McCorvie and Harry Andrew, prizes. A strong declaration in opposition to the canvassing of wholesalers for prizes was voiced by President A. D. Westman. "I don't think it is altogether in harmony with the spirit of the association," he remarked. "Prizes from the wholesalers, if they come, should come voluntarily." This, he added, was his personal opinion; but he thought that the prizes should be furnished by association members. Arrangements for co-operation between the Chatham and Wallaceburg collection departments were suggested, and Secretary Powers was authorized to communicate with Secretary Askunas, of Wallaceburg. Quite a number of former Chatham debtors reside in Wallaceburg, while, in return, Chatham has received a good many from the Sugar City. The local collection department has now some 780 accounts listed, ranging from 15c to $250. The committee appointed in reference to country collections submitted a draft letter, the first of a series designed to be sent to debtors outside the city. The initial letter will be sent by the individual merchant; this will be followed up by dunners from the association.

Christmas cards and calendars have been added to the association's black list upon which ticket purchasing and programme advertising also figure. This move follows a strong plea voiced at a recent meeting by Wm. Anderson, grocer, and last year's association presi-

The entire future of the raspberry crop in this section depends upon whether or not there is rain within the next day or two. Raspberries have been coming in very nicely, and are now retailing at 2 boxes for 25c, the wholesale price being $2.50 a crate. Growers state, however, that the dry weather of the last few days has already had a marked effect, and that two or three day more of this dry spell will fairly cut the season in two.

E. C. Gammage, the Queen St. grocer, left on Sunday for a visit to his son in Chicago.

J. D. Stark, grocer, St. Clair St., visited last week in Woodstock, Brantford and Paris.

E. W. Henneker, who recently resigned from the staff of E. J. Spackman's grocery at Blenheim, has resumed his old position under the new proprietors, Logan & Walker.

Arleigh Lee has taken a position in the grocery department of the J. S. Richardson store, Tilbury.

V. Carron, for the past five years in Ridgetown, has left for Port Arthur, where he will embark in business.

Paul Morand, manager of the Tecumseh and Stoney Point canning factories, states that this year's tomato crop will not be as large as last year's.

Miss Grace Seeley, daughter of C. H. Seeley, the Gray St. grocer, was last Tuesday united in marriage to Arthur Coleman, of Huff's dairy.

Attractive new black and gilt window signs now indicate the recent change whereby C. G. Moore acquired Major H. G. Reed's grocery on King St. The new proprietor is giving considerable attention to window dressing, with attractive results.

T. A. Smith, assignee of Jas. A. Thompson, fruit and confectionery dealer, advertises the stock for sale by auction on July 28.

BRACEBRIDGE.

July 21.—On Saturday in town homegrown strawberries, large and sound, were offered by numerous farmers and readily sold at 10c a box, which shows that even in Muskoka this queen of the early fruits can be grown at a profit equal to the fruit imported from the south and only a few weeks later.

Cherries are coming in freely, selling for $1.25 per basket. Red are bringing $1 to $1.15..

The first load of huckleberries arrived on Saturday from the marsh just east of the town. The sample was good and there is every indication of a large crop. This fruit is ahead of time this year, owing, no doubt, to the extreme hot weather.

The Ingersoll merchants are to be congratulated on the stand taken in refusing to be pestered with the ticket-selling nuisance. Why should not every town take up the same cry and learn to say no?

Eggs on Saturday advanced again, merchants selling the strictly fresh at 24c per dozen. Butter also advanced to 20c per pound. Tourists in this district are after the fresh eggs and good butter at all times, so the good article is always eagerly sought.

Home-grown tomatoes will make their appearance in Bracebridge soon in large quantities for the first time. This is no doubt due to the dry, hot weather, the non-appearance of frost and the hardy plant that was put on the market in May. One farmer states that he has over 1,200 plants out, with some of the green tomatoes already turning.

The early apple in Muskoka is always plentiful, although with the exception of one orchard, winter varieties are not grown here. This year we will see the usual good crop, with the Duchess variety greater than ever.

Merchants say that trade during June was far in advance of last year, and expect July, now in full swing, to be the banner month so far.

Peter Hutchison, of Hutchison Bros., spent Monday and Tuesday up the lakes inspecting the newly constructed telephone line. Mr. Hutchison is secretary of the company.

George Teem, fruit merchant, of this town, is doing business under difficulties, on account of the tearing up of the old sidewalk and the laying of the cement walk. But it's worth the trouble, and George will benefit in the end.

Andrew Gillespie, of Armstrong & Gillespie, grocers, is the new secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association. Andy is a hustler and the grocers did a wise thing to choose him.

There is some talk in town among the clerks of organizing a baseball team. They should not, however, get after the Toronto ball team and give it a trimming. That would not be fair.

OTTAWA.

July 21.—Bradstreet's Ottawa report says that conditions have changed but little during this week. Good rains have helped some crops, but they came too late to do much good to hay. The crop outlook, however, is fairly good, and prospects are for good fall business. Retail trade is moderately active and wholesalers report an excellent business in fall lines. Remittances are coming forward fairly well.

J. Wesley Hand, who dropped dead suddenly in Vancouver, B.C., was formerly in partnership with Alex Phillips, grocer, 802 Somerset Street. He left here for the west about six years ago.

Stephen S. Stratton, a member of the old retail grocery house of C. Stratton, died at his summer home, "Rose Villa," Westboro, July 17, after a lingering illness of five years' duration.

The Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association intends to put up a strong fight to have the authorities demand that all fowl brought to the market be dressed.

F. W. Forde and Mrs. Forde returned Saturday from their honeymoon spent in American cities, principally in Portland, Old Orchard and Boston.

P. Lamoureux was quietly married to Miss G. Madure, on July 5th, which makes the second retail grocer married "on the sly" within a week. Mr. Lamoureux spent his honeymoon along the St. Lawrence and when seen in Brockville by Chas. E. Bucklee, of Park Blackwell & Co., Toronto, was wearing a smile of bliss.

A bulletin has been issued by the Inland Revenue Department, Ottawa, showing the analysis of 225 samples of cream of tartar collected throughout Canada. Of this quantity 80 per cent. was genuine, 18.22 adulterated and 1.78 doubtful.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will shortly submit to the city authorities a resolution requesting that they raise the civic license fee to sell cigarettes from $1 to at least $25, if not $50.

The Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association have decided not to hold any picnic or excursion this summer but in all probability about 25 or 30 retailers will visit New York in a body in the autumn.

The business of Sugarman & Cohen, grocers, on York street, has been closed down for non-payment of rent. The goods will be sold by W. A. Cole by auction.

BRANTFORD.

July 21.—Delemere D. Butler, who has been connected with the Cash Bargain grocery for a couple of years, has resigned to go on the road for Red Rose Tea. He reported on Monday and is making his initial trip this week. His territory has not been definitely assigned yet. He has been interested in various circles in this city and his absence on the road will be regretted. For some time he has been local correspondent of The Canadian Grocer.

Following the usual custom, the grocers and butchers of the city are closing their places of business on Wedensday afternoons during July and August. This system has now been in practice in this city for a number of years and has given the most satisfactory results.

The Canadian Automatic Machine Telephone Company, which has been installing a system in this city for the past two years, is now ready for operations and canvassers are out for orders. The business men are inclined to hold back their subscriptions until the company gets a specified number of householders. This the company claims it will do and then the grocers and butchers may have to install automatic phones and put up with a dual system, as practically all are already using the Bell system.

The local co-operative store is still doing business at the old stand and frequently there are rumors of an extension of the lines that will be handled. Once a month or so the association issues a pamphlet which gives general and local information concerning the co-operative movement.

William Grierson, the wholesale and retail confectioner, has landed a good idea in the ice cream business, which, so far as Brantford is concerned, is distinctly original. He has secured a number of small carts, neatly fitted up and painted yellow, and just large enough to hold a large ice cream freezer, a box of ice cream cones and a lad to do the driving. The cart is pulled by a small pony. These vehicles cover the entire city, both afternoons and evenings, the driver proceeding slowly along the streets and tooting a horn. Ice cream cones are sold at 5 cents each. The outfits are so neat and attractive and the ice cream of so superior a quality that the idea has caught on to stay and a rushing business is being carried on.

GUELPH.

July 21.—The first raspberries of the season made their appearance on Saturday and sold well at 15 to 18c per box. The prospects for a good crop of this favorite fruit are excellent providing weather conditions remain favorable.

The strawberry still lingers in limited quantity, but for the end of the season several of the stores had some of excellent quality last week, the product of local growers.

Cherries are coming along slowly and the price remains firm at 90c to $1.00 per basket, and the old story, "I'll wait till they get a little cheaper," is heard repeatedly.

This is the time of year when the weary clerk and the employer as well looks forward to a short release from the daily grind and summer holidays are the order of the day.

Miss Dougherty, of the J. A. McCrea & Son office staff, is spending a couple of weeks at Fenelon Falls and A. J. Groom, the upper Wyndham St. grocer, with his family, is spending a quiet holiday at Puslinch lake.

Earnie Hicks, of the Paisley St. grocery, met with a nasty accident last week, by being knocked down by a bicyclist coasting down the pavement. The annoying part of it was that the offender was not gentleman enough to stop and see what damage he had done.

The annual picnic of the Salesmen's and Clerks' association will be held on Thursday afternoon to Hamilton. Tickets are having a good sale and all the boys and girls are looking forward to the best yet.

J. A. McCrea & Son are advertising a July crockery sale which from the reputation this firm has for doing things will be a success.

KINGSTON.

July 21.—Kingston grocers are unfortunate in not having a half-holiday each week during July and August, for the berry season makes a lot of work just at a time when one would like an outing. We must have it next year.

The grocers are all selling pure coffee, all grades, now, and if a customer wants chicory he must buy it separate. The city is full of spice men just now and each man claims to have the best goods.

Mr. Lowes is rusticating here with friends and enjoys Kingston's pure air and water.

Grant Pyke expects to have strawberries for ten days yet.

Travelers are more than anxious this year to sell canned goods ahead. Tomatoes, 75c; corn and peas, 70c; strawberries, $1.25; salmon, 90c to $1.70. Better let them keep the stock and buy as you go and save discounting notes.

Carelessness in credit still continues. A family can run credit from one store to another for years and not be found out. What we need is some one to go around and get a list of D.B.'s and put them in an index book and charge a small sum per year for protecting merchants. This is better than collecting. Prevention is better than cure.

PETERBORO.

July 21.—The grocers are running smoothly along into the busiest part of the preserving season, and are experiencing larger sales daily in the line of sugar preserving jars and other household equipment necessary to this important duty of the average woman's endless list. Cherries are still in season, and raspberries have made their first appearance during the past week. Sugar is generally quoted at 20 lbs. for a dollar. Cherries have been selling at from $1.00 to $1.40 a basket, and raspberries at from 15 to 18 cents a box.

Among the new vegetables that have been offered by the grocers, new potatoes have been disposed of at 50 cents a peck, with a fair demand at this price. Canadian grown tomatoes are from 10 to 12½ cents a pound.

H. A. Sisson is doing a good business since moving from Rubidge Street into the centre of the city. He is now on Charlotte Street, and is keeping up the standard of the stock which he opened with. He is up to the minute in the lines of fruit and vegetables, and is enjoying a fair share of business in a location which has never been used as a grocery store. His shop is neat and his goods are arranged in a pleasing manner, which will no doubt increase his patronage.

W. S. Cocks, father of J. L. Cocks, grocer, at the corner of George and Edinburgh Streets, died suddenly on Tuesday of heart disease.

R. C. Braund is the only grocer who has given his staff a half holiday this summer. The merchants who close their stores on Thursday afternoons do not include the grocers, but Mr. Braund is inclined to take things less seriously than his fellow grocers at times, and on Thursday of last week closed at one o'clock and invited his staff to spend the afternoon and evening with him at his camp on the Otonabee River. A pleasant time is reported to have been spent by his clerks.

Bottled waters is a specialty which some of the grocers are handling this summer, and apparently to a larger extent than before.

Saturday's market prices last week showed an inclination to steepness. Eggs were up to 22 cents and butter sold at 24.

Cape Breton Coal Strike Hurts Eastern Business—Meeting at Woodstock to Discuss Development of West Indian Trade—Early Closing By-law to be Enforced at Montreal.

MONTREAL.

July 22.—The city council has decided to enforce the early closing by-law passed three years ago, and in consequence, all stores will have to suspend business at 7 o'clock Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

P. P. Hawn, of the Diamond Cleanser Co., Ottawa, was in Montreal on Monday, visiting the firm's agents, Snowdon & Borland.

G. E. Carveth, of Corveth & Co., Montreal, left Tuesday for an extended trip to the west in the interests of the firm. Mr. Carveth will visit the different agents of the company in western centres, and will devote particular attention to the Langley ware business of the house while away.

HALIFAX.

July 17.—The strike in the Cape coal fields has a serious effect on the grocery business in Nova Scotia. In the eastern section of the province there is a marked falling off in trade, and the retail business is practically at a standstill. The wholesale trade is also feeling this stagnation as few good orders are coming in. With several thousand men idle there is not a free circulation of money in the mining towns of Cape Breton and as a result trade suffers to a large extent. The miners as a rule are good buyers, but the strike has very materially changed the conditions during the past two weeks. The wholesale dealers who supply the retailers in the mining districts will be compelled to extend the time of payments and make other concessions. The Cape Breton market is an exceptionally good one and the wholesalers are anxious to hold the trade. Outside of the strike districts trade is very good for the season of the year. Prices on the whole are considered pretty high in most lines. There is no indication of any weakening of the prices of pork, beek, and lard.

Quotations on these are very firm and will probably remain so. Clear pork has advanced one dollar per barrel and is now quoted at $25.00. Clear backs are selling at $26.00, an advance of one dollar. Roll bacon is selling at 14 cents. Sugar prices remain unchanged.

Fruit is in good supply and in good demand. The receipts of strawberries this week were heavy, and a ready sale was found for all the stock that was marketed. The price held firm at ten cents for the choicest fruit. As predicted in The Grocer some weeks ago the crop was short, and as a result there were less berries preserved than in past seasons. Sales of sugar in consequence show a falling off. Commission dealers report the fruit trade to be brisk. The market is well supplied with all seasonable fruit, and the demand is good. Bananas are selling very freely, and the stock now on the market is of excellent quality. They are quoted at $1.75 to $2.25 per bunch. Plums have dropped to $2.25 per crate, and peaches are $1.75 a crate. The first pears on the market are quoted at $4.25 per box. Nova Scotia cherries are now coming in and the first arrivals were in fine condition. They are retailing at ten cents per box. With the increased supply af tomatoes and cucumbers the prices are dropping, both showing a decline of fifty cents per box.

New carrots and beets are now offered for sale. American cabbage is quoted at $2.25 per barrel. The stocks of old potatoes are rapidly being cleaned up. There is only a fair demand so far for the new stock.

The steamer Boston arrived here this week from the West Indies and brought a large stock of sugar, bananas and cocoanuts. The steamer Dahome from the West Indes also landed a lot of sugar, fifteen hundreds bags of which were for shipment to Montreal.

ST. JOHN.

July 21.—The condition of the local markets last week presented little change in quotations. Very little country produce is reaching the city yet, except in the form of early vegetables. Eggs are dearer and butter remains unchanged. Blueberries are commencing to come in, but not in any great quantity. The season for strawberries is about over.

The date for the annual meeting of the Maritime Wholesale Grocers' Exchange is not known definitely yet, but it will probably be held here next week. L. Mortimer Smith, of Halifax, is president, and George E. Barbour, of this city and W. H. Aitken are vice-presidents.

The council of the St. John Board of Trade, at a meeting last week confirmed the appointment of W. F. Hathway, M. P.P., and James Pender, as delegates from the local Board to the seventh congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, to be held in Sydney, Australia, commencing September 14. Mr. Hathway will go via New York and San Francisco, and will make a tour of the world before returning, while Mr. Pender will leave by steamer, sailing from Vancouver.

The question of opening up and developing the Cuban and West Indian market for farmers of New Brunswick, particularly the market for hay and potatoes, will be considered at a meeting to be held in Woodstock on July 22. A committee of the local Government, consisting of the Provincial Secretary, Hon. J. K. Flemming and the Commissioner of Agriculture, Dr. Landry, has been appointed to confer with the dealers and ascertain what steps might be taken to promote this very necessary project. A meeting is to be held later in St. John, when dealers from all parts of the province can gather and the question of transportation, etc., will be gone into thoroughly.

J. E. Walsh, manager of the transportation department of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and R. E. Breaduer, manager of the tariff department, were in the city last week and met a number of the local members of the association to discuss matters relating to their departments. They had previously visited Fredericton and before leaving the Maritime Provinces, will visit Windsor, Truro, New Glasgow, Moncton and other central points.

Calgary and Regina Correspon dents Report Crops as Being in First-Class Condition—Lemon Prices Advance at the Coast—Want of Cold Storage Facilities Felt at Edmonton—A Deceptive Raspberry Box.

VANCOUVER.

July 20.—Lemons have taken a jump skywards, and while the price a week ago was $3.75 and $4 per crate, it is now $6.50 and $7, and quotations have gone as high as $7.50. Valencia oranges are also high at from $3 to $3.50.

Eastern select eggs are jobbed at 28½ cents and are edging toward 30 cents, locals going at 33 cents and 35 cents, retailing at 40 cents.

Butter is about as low as it will be this year, being 35 cents retail. It is hoped it would get down to 25 cents wholesale, but it is not likely that it will now. Eastern butter jobs at 26c in bricks and 25c solid.

The lowest apricots have got is $1.50 jobbing prices. These are the California article, the high price being the result of the prospect that there will be a shortage of that fruit in Washington and Oregon, because of the frosts last winter. California peaches are worth from $1.50 to $1.75 and plums $1.75 per crate.

A dealer showed The Grocer a raspberry box, which he classified as the limit. It was 5¼ inches square and a bare inch in depth. The ostensible depth was two two inches, but the bottom was run across the middle of the box. Apparently, it looked as if there were two inches deep of berries, but there was a bare three rows. Invariably the consumer complains in cases of this kind, and it is the dealer who has to bear the brunt.

S. W. Simons, of Glasgow, and G. H. Shuttleworth, of Liverpool, have been visiting differet towns in the Okanagan district during the past week, sizing up the fruit situation. They are of the firm of Simons & Shuttleworth, fruit exporters and importers of Glasgow and Liverpool, and this is their first visit out here, it being consequent upon the exhibits of British Columbia fruit sent to Great Britain.

By the steamship Erna this week, a shipment is being made of forty cases of B. C. salmon to Capetown, South Africa, by way of the Tehauntepec railway across Mexico. This is the first shipment over this route, which is thought to be shorter and cheaper than any other.

That wheat is steering this way is further shown by the announcement that A. E. Burnett will erect an elevator 48 feet square and 60 feet high on False Creek, the cost to be $10,000. Considerable interest was aroused in the grain trade by the statement made at the meeting of the Vancouver Board of Trade on Tuesday night by the secretary, that the C.P.R. would have something material to give out during the next week on this momentous question.

Alex. Lyon, of London, England, has returned from the north, where he went to get information to report to the fishermen of Grimsby and Hull on the possibilities of the industry on this coast. He said he was surprised at what he saw and learned, and is quite convinced that there are numerous opportunities for investment. He realizes that apart from the American and Canadian demand, a steady market could be secured for frozen fresh salmon, halibut, herring and cod, as well as the same articles in a cured or pickled state.

EDMONTON.

July 20.—Cold storage is just in its infancy in Edmonton, and the produce trade stands to suffer by it at all seasons of the year. At present the supply of butter is very plentiful, and as immediate demand regulates the price farmers are selling their product at a greatly reduced figure. If there was a cold storage warehouse, where the present surplus supply could be stored, the fluctuations in price would not be so heavy nor would the farmer receive such unequal returns for his labor. By next fall and winter, production will be decreased, and as there will be little or none of the product in cold storage, prices will again rise to the height at which they were during the past winter. With a good cold storage system local dealers could do much for the dairy farmers of Edmonton district. Prices now are: dairy butter 25 cents and creamery 30 cents.

The egg market presents the reverse side of the situation. During the season when eggs have been plentiful, prices fell and remained low during the period of great production. The supply is now much diminished by reason of the approach of the moulting and hatching season, with the result that egg prices are now at twenty-five cents per dozen and may reach 30 by the end of the week. If there were any competition in cold storage goods a good profit could be made by selling at a much lower price than is now ruling.

Potatoes on the retail market are still selling at one dollar per bushel. A few new potatoes have arrived, but not enough to call for quotations.

Other retail prices are: — Tomatoes, twenty-five cents per pound; plums, 25 per lb.; peaches, 25 per lb.; turnips, lettuce, spinach and carrots, 5 cents per bunch. Strawberries are about off the market, but are still selling at 20 cents per box.

Strawberries from the family garden is something which most people have thought would always be alien to the Edmonton district. The fruit which has been on sale by the Jasper Avenue merchants has been imported from British Columbia and other points and local production of this luscious berry has not been taken into consideration at all. Charles Gowan, on Frazer's flats, has proven to his own satisfaction, and to the envy of all passers-by, that strawberries can be grown successfully in his garden patch. Two years ago he secured 400 plants from the east, but 300 of them died the first year. The 100 or so that lived bore blossoms last year, but they were all plucked to enable the plants to become hardy before bearing fruit. This year the plants are loaded with delicious fruit, which Mr. Gowan says is far better than any of the imported berries that have been shown in this city. The fruit is just commencing to ripen, but Mrs. Gowan picked three quarts last week. By the end of the season the little patch is expected to yield considerably over a bushel of berries. Scarcely one of the berries is less than one inch in diameter, and of a number picked at random, nine placed side by side, measure twelve inches. Mr. Gowan says that people look at his strawberry patch as longingly as cows at a clover field. They would rather be on the inside looking out. It is his intention to plant a much larger patch of strawberries in the month of August as he is satisfied no finer berries can be grown anywhere.

The crops around Edmonton never looked better for this time of the season than they look now. Reports from the Clover Bar district, a rich farming country just east from this city, show that the crops are progressing favorably. The fall wheat fields which were such a pleasing prospect several weeks ago, are now fully headed out, and under continued good growing weather will be ready for the reapers about the first week in August. Barley is also gradually approaching maturity, and will give a good yield. Many of the oat fields were seeded rather late, and still require a liberal period of warm weather to bring them along as the farmers would like. Timothy hay is not the heavy crop that was expected, but when the reaper is turned into the fields within a week or so there will be found plenty to cut. Home farmers will find difficulty in getting their hay off before the grain harvest is at hand.

REGINA.

July 20.—J. Stubbings, of the grocery department of the Glasgow House, returned to his duties on Monday morning, after having spent a pleasant two weeks' holiday. Harry Boyle, also of the Glasgow House grocery department, is leaving for Brandon for a coup'e of weeks' holidays. He is going down to see the fair.

W. C. Reader, of Hanley, is negotiating for the sale of his confectionery establishment and is opening up a first-class general store at Glenside, with a full line of up-to-date goods.

Bennett & Brodie have opened a first-class general store at Rosetown, Sask. Mr. Brodie has for the last year or two been manager and buyer for Chas. Reid, Swift Current, and is thoroughly acquainted with the business, and as they are opening in a practically new part of the country should make things go nicely.

Reid & Haddock have vacated their premises on Eleventh Avenue, and moved into more commodious quarters on Scarth Street, where they handle an up-to-date line of fresh fish, fruit and canned goods.

Cameron & Heap, Ltd., have installed an electric elevator in their warehouse.

The heavy rains of the past week seem to have materially assisted the growing crops. Many people were of the opinion that we were getting too much rain, but from reports coming in from all lines everything seems to be shaping towards a good crop and a prosperous fall business. For the past couple of days we have had dry, hot weather, with a slight breeze blowing, which ought to help things considerably.

CALGARY.

July 20.—The Fair is over and the crowds have left the city. In the country farmers and ranchers are just commencing haying. The crop is an abundant one, and if favored with propitious weather a great deal of hay will be put up this season.

Grocery business is splendid, not a complaint to be heard. B. C. strawberries and raspberries are now in fairly good supply, although the strawberry crop is a light one and now almost over. New California apples are in, selling at 2 lb. for 25c. New potatoes from the Okanagan are now on this market; the retail price is 5c per lb. Old Ontarios and P. E. I. stock are being cleared out at from 90c to $1 per bushel.

A great many of the citizens are holidaying at the various points of interest, the greatest numbers finding Banff the most convenient and most suitable, and all who have been there are enthusiastic in its praise. Being convenient to Calgary the merchants here are in close touch with their customers who are on vacation, and supplies are forwarded by freight or express at intervals as required, notwithstanding the fact that there are several well equipped stores at Banff.

A. W. Ward, who for many years conducted a successful grocery business on Eighth Avenue between Centre and First Street East, has recently sold his property, consisting of 20 feet frontage, for $25,000. It is some three or four years since Mr. Ward relinquished the business and stand, during which time it has been occupied as a jewelery store. The building is a one story frame structure, which, it is expected, will shortly give way to a more pretentious building. Eighth Avenue property is now too high priced to get revenue out of one story buildings.

Crop prospects throughout the provinces are still quite satisfactory. During the past ten days rain has fallen copiously throughout the whole of Alberta and with a continuance of our usual favorable weather the harvest should prove a remunerative one for the farmer, and the result should be a stimulating effect on business generally throughout the whole year.

SASKATOON.

July 20.—Currie Bros. opened their new store on 20th street west. An orchestra was in attendance in the evening and patrons were given the privilege of inspecting the stock and premises.

Clare, Little & Co., recently received a car load shipment of biscuits.

The Saskatoon Milling and Elevator Co. closed their premises on the 17th for ten days' repairs.

Codville & Co., wholesale grocers, of Winnipeg, have purchased the business and premises of the Western Grocers Limited. The deal includes 100 feet frontage on First Ave., with the frame warehouse and premises thereon. The price was about $15,000. Kenneth Sinclair, formerly representative of the company in the west will have charge of the Saskatoon branch, while two or three travelers will be placed on the road.

Success Accompanies the Winnipeg Exhibition

Surpasses Everything Held In The Past In The Western Metropolis—British Columbia and Ontario Fruit Displays—Exhibits and Performances Superior To Those In Other Years.

Staff Correspondence.

Winnipeg, July 19.—Never before in the history of the City has the interest in the Winnipeg industrial exhibition been so keen as this year. The Fair opened on the morning of July 10, and from that day until the close on July 17, it continued to create unsurpassed interest and amusement. It was rather unfortunate that two days of the week were showery, which made it impossible to carry out the daily programmes, yet at the close it was found that in comparison to other years the number of visitors was far in excess, and finances were in a much better condition. This is a matter of great encouragement, since other years the matter of finances was one of considerable annoyance.

For some years past it was considered doubtful whether Winnipeg could compete with other cities in the West in holding exhibitions. The very thought of a weakness in this regard is certainly repulsive to the inhabitants of the Gateway City. It was this jealous feeling that stimulated the local management to do their utmost to put on a fair in 1909 that would far surpass any ever held in Western Canada, if not the Dominion of Canada. It is true that Brandon, Calgary and Edmonton have had more commendable fairs than Winnipeg in past years. And it is an extremely difficult thing to hold an entirely satisfactory fair in Winnipeg. The reason is that it is neither an exclusive agricultural or manufacturing centre. It is a metropolitan city sustaining within itself almost every industry known to Canada, and giving its support to all other industries and occupations which other towns and cities throughout the West claim in an exclusive sense. Of course the main industry of Western Canada is agriculture. Every fair must show dominant signs of this great feature of the West. It is absurd, however, that Winnipeg, which is at the present stage so intensely interested in every industrial pursuit, and through which passes all classes and conditions of people, should limit itself to an exhibition of grain and live stock. The very nature of the city demands something more, and the endeavor of the exhibition promoters to take on a more comprehensive aspect in past years has subjected it to the much-heard-of criticism, and has imperiled its future.

Winnipeg has been ambitious for some time to become known as a manufacturing centre. Consequently the manufacturing exhibits have been a feature of interest to the management. Local manufacturers, however, have been so few in numbers and so weak that they have been able to give but little acceleration to the movement. And not until this year did the manufacturers' exhibits excite any great attention. This is an evidence of the development of manufacturing within the city. The management have occasion to be proud of this fact, and it will undoubtedly ensure the future welfare of the fair generally.

The attempt to make the exhibition as general as possible, and to make each feature appeal to as many as possible has been quite successful. Last year as well as in previous years there were performances and exhibits which were not commendable and this year has shown a gratifying improvement in this regard.

American sportsmen have taken an interest in the exhibition as was evidenced from the number of entries made for race horses from various states of the union. There were also many local track horses entered, and each day race-horse excitement was in the air. Upon the event of a very exciting race between a group of United States trotters, a farmer who knew Winnipeg thirty years ago, was heard to remark, "there was nothing like that in the old days." Doubtless he was thinking of the fair in early times which consisted chiefly of Indian wigwams and ox carts.

Much credit is due to the various exhibitors in the manufacturers' buildings for the beautiful displays. No pains were spared to make the goods appear as attractive as possible. Crude articles were given the necessary setting in the booths in order that they might claim the attention of those who passed by.

Kootenay Exhibit.

The B. C. fruit men took advantage of the opportunity to represent their province which is so congenial to the production of a considerable variety of fruits.

The manager of the display was constantly being approached by visitors inquiring if they might purchase some of the luxlrious berries at the close of the fair. There is little doubt as to the quality being excellent, but the prices were rather discouraging. High banks of apples, cherries and strawberries filled the corner, and the appearance was such as to do great credit to the district from which they came, the exhibit was in charge of the Nelson Board of Trade.

Ontario Fruit.

That Winnipeg is to be an excellent market for Ontario or B. C. fruit or both, is well known to Canadian fruit growers. At present the tendency is to land the Ontario products. To compare the exhibits of B. C. and Ontario fruit, a casual observer would note the larger sized fruit from the western province. The opportunity was not given to compare the flavors of the fruits. But at a distance the fiavor "looked" good in each case. The Ontario apples from Lake Erie district were particularly fine, and the exhibit design was artistic. An excellent quality of tomatoes from Niagara were also displayed. It is possible that in future years more Ontario vegetables will come to the West.

Western Grown Grain.

As it was expected, the grain exhibit was quite extensive. A unique idea in grain display were the glass cases into which the grain was poured and examined through the glass. Not only was there the shelled grain but sheaves and bundles of grain on the straw decorated the walls in a handsome manner.

Fort William Exhibit.

As a manufacturing and shipping point, Fort William is perhaps unsurpassed in Canada, west of Montreal. The Board of Trade of that place, in representing the city in the exhibitors' gallery drew attention to the water front facilities by means of large views six feet long by two feet wide. In addition to the views handsome illustrated circulars were distrbuted among the passers-by.

MANITOBA MARKETS

Corrected by Telegraph.

Winnipeg, July 22, 1909.

Wholesale grocers in this city have learned long ago to be prepared for extra orders during exhibition week. The trade has been all that could be expected and retailers have not been so busy since Easter last. The trade ran heavily in fruit particularly and the general line was in great demand. At the exhibition grounds there were about thirty restaurant stands all doing good business, and all the grocers in the city were in some way affected by this trade alone. There is no change in prices, but next week there undoubtedly will be some exhausts reported.

Store Kinks Tried Out by Retail Merchants

Special Contests That Show To What Limits Some Go In Their Endeavor To Increase Sales—Western Merchant Offers an Automobile and Team of Horses To Winners In Guessing Competition.

It would appear that the capabilities of the enthusiastic merchant in concocting schemes for the benefit of his business are beyond comprehension. Like "the making of books" the number of original and effective sales ticklers seems "without end." Cairns, of Saskatoon, is entitled to rank among those who are continually introducing some new proposition to focus attention upon their stores. His latest one is a guessing contest. Every purchaser of one dollar's worth of goods between certain fixed dates has the right to guess the number of oats in a mysterious glass box containing about one bushel. The first prize is an automobile, the second a team of heavy draught horses; third, the choice of any costume in the ladies' wear department; fourth, the choice of any suit in the men's wear section; fifth, choice of any ladies' hat in the milinery section; sixth, choice of any pair of men's or ladies' shoes in stock; seventh, lacrosse outfit for a boy; eighth tennis racket and shoes for a girl. The box will be opened at 4 p.m., on August 6th and its contents counted by a disinterested person.

Largest Load of Women.

Here is another form of farmers' prize contest. A merchant in a town surrounded by a fine agricultural community issued the following announcement.

"We will give Three Merchandise Prizes aggregating $22.50 to the farmer hauling the largest four-horse load of women to the front door on Saturday morning, April 3rd, or by 3 p.m., for 1st Largest Load, $10.00 in Merchandise; for second Largest Load, $7.50 in Merchandise; for third Largest Load, $5.00 in Merchandise. The driver must be a farmer and Drive Four Horses. The passengers must be women over 18 years of age and reside in the country. Prizes will be paid in due bills that can be traded out at any time in whole or in part. Each lady passenger riding in one of these wagons—whether a prize winner or not—will be presented with a suitable souvenir of the occasion. We will set up the cigars to every driver whether a prize winner or not. Prize winners will be announced at the store at 3 p.m. Now, Boys! "Gid dap!" You may decorate your wagons if you wish. We will lend you the bunting for that purpose."

Concessions For Suggestions.

A North Dakota merchant gave his customers an opportunity to make bargain suggestions. Here is a paragraph from one of his ads:—"Every woman who brings this ad. to our advertising man with a suggestion of what you want us to put on sale Bargain Friday, will be entitled to a pair of 25-cent stockings for 5 cents. No other time will they be sold at this price. You must bring the ad. with your suggestion. You could not make 20 cents any easier. We do this to find out what you want us to sell at throw-away prices next Friday."

QUEBEC MARKETS

Montreal, July 22, 1909.

The situation in canned goods is no clearer this week. In fact it is more complex, if anything. The retailer hardly knows what to do. Strawberries are quoted higher by some houses. Other lines are somewhat lower. New salmon prices are quoted by jobbing houses, but business is not brisk. Sales of sugar continue most satisfactory, while prices are steady with little chance of there being any change in the immediate future.

Molasses is still selling freely. Beans and peas are firm. Peas are especially firm, being exceedingly scarce. Reports state that no more first crop teas are obtainable in Japan. Spot stocks are rapidly being cleaned up. Encouraging advices regarding California prunes are being received. Currants and raisins are unchanged. Some Australian raisins are expected in about two weeks.

Pork prices are unchanged this week.

Demand for this article is reported good, but packers are doing more business in hams and bacon. Butter is firmer, though prices have not changed. Eggs are higher this week.

French pastes, and French cherries are higher. Reports from France state also that peas are in very short supply. Bordeaux and Nantes great growing centres, will contribute nothing to the supply this year.

SUGAR.—Business in sugar continues very satisfactory, orders being frequent and large, with the advancing of the preserving season. The market rules steady with little prospect of a change.

TEA.—No more first crop teas are now obtainable in Japan, while it is impossible to match certain grades of second growth. Locally, stocks are not by any means large, and are rapidly being cleaned up. The primary market is reported as quite firm, hoped-for weakness not having materialized. Some advices continue to comment upon the rather poorer quality of second crop tea, as compared with 1908 second crop.

DRIED FRUITS.—California prunes are reported as looking fine. In some sections quantities are dropping from the trees, but, on the whole, the outlook is favorable. The quality is reported as being particularly excellent, while the size is above the average, in some districts the prunes running 20-30 to the pound. Of course, a great deal may happen between now and shipping time, in October. Other California fruits are slightly firmer, if anything. There are no new advices regarding crops. Currants are unchanged while there have been no developments in the Valencia raisin situation.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL.—Still lower prices are being quoted on canned goods this week by some of the wholesalers, while other jobbers continue to refrain from booking orders at given price. On the whole the situation is even more complex than it has been since 1909 pack was first quoted. The retailer does not know where he stands, nor can he figure out how he should proceed. Following are prices quoted by some jobbers:

Beans, doz	$ .72½	$ .80
Corn, doz	.72½	.80
Peas, doz (according to grade)	.72½	1.40
Tomatoes, doz. (Ontario and Quebec)	.75	.82½
Strawberries, doz	1.32½	1.37½

It will be noticed that strawberries are commanding more money this week. Some of the independent packers are reported as having booked orders direct with the retail trade at figures indentical with those they have asked of the wholesalers, who have bought thousands of cases.

New salmon prices are quoted by jobbers this week as follows:

Humpbacks, doz.	$ .95	$1.00
Cohoes, doz	1.35	1.40
Red Spring, doz.	1.50	1.55
Red Sockeye, doz.	1.55	1.65

A couple of staple brands are not yet quoted, for the reason that the packers have not furnished wholesalers with their lists yet, but it is generally understood that figures will run about 20c dozen less than 1908.

TORONTO.—Canned goods are at a complete standstill. Canners have almost entirely withdrawn from the market, refusing to sell at present prices. Further than this there is nothing special to report. There are, however, very unfavorable reports from British Columbia in reference to canned salmon. The catch so far is very disappointing and far below the expectations. According to this it might be good business for retailers to make some purchases.

ONTARIO MARKETS

Toronto, July 22, 1909.

The wholesale trade this week is unusually quiet. With the exception of sugar, orders are very light. Retail grocers seem to have picnics and holidays on their minds, and the farmers are too busy on their farms to do much buying. With the splendid reports of the crops all over, the wholesale men look to great things in the fall. "Prospects were never better," one of them remarked, "and everything is lovely." Prices are practically unchanged, though beans are up another 25 cents.

SUGAR—In spite of the enormous demand for sugar to take care of the abundance of our fruit crop, it should be satisfactory to know that prices have remained unshaken so long. The general opinion prevails that prices fluctuate according to the opportunity to sell. Prices continue the same with even a weaker feeling.

TEA.—Dealers report business as A1, with good demand and a firm feeling. Even the warm weather has no ill effects on its sale. Speculators, who, in expectation of the American tariff, bought enormous quantities of tea are beginning to unload, having lost hope of the duty coming their way.

COFFEE—The coffee market is exceptionally quiet. Immense quantities are held by American speculators who are looking, but likely in vain, for the tariff to do something for them.

BEANS—Beans are very scarce, and another 25c a bushel higher, being now quoted at $2.50 a bushel.

TOO MUCH AVERAGE MAN.

Did you ever look through a magnifying glass? Things look larger than they really are, don't they? Did you ever come to work in the morning and find work piled around your machine so you didn't know where to start? Or around your desk? You felt like sitting back and letting things take care of themselves, but it you start at one thing finished it and then started at the next and so on, what a difference it makes. The trouble is some people will not start. They are forever gazing at a molehill through a magnifying glass. The man who is above the average is the man who does things. They never acknowledge defeat. They never give up. The quitter is a failure. This is the law of life. The man who lets his work conquor him is a quitter.

There are men who have surprised their employers by a change of method, which is due to putting into practice things they have learned by keeping their eyes open. The merchant, traveler or clerk who gets in a rut will be numbered among the average men. You cannot change your course if you are in a rut; it allows no development or expansion. Progress requires changes occasionally. A "good enough" method isn't "good enough." What everyone wants is the best. You cannot develop a man with one food; neither can a man be a hundred point man by walking in a rut. If something works well, try again. You will find something that will work better. The whole development in the mechanical world has been because men who were above the average worked for something better.

The hundred point man may look like all other men or dress like them, or talk like them, but whatever position they hold they are true to their trust, they keep their word and are true to their company. Do your work and do it well. There are too many self-satisfied average men. Aim to be more than the average; be a one hundred point man.

PRACTICAL ADVICE

If the trade is rather backward
In the store;
Get a move on very sudden;
Ope your door.
If the goods are slow in moving
Shove them out;
Make a noise so all can hear you,
Loudly shout.
Wake the echoes of your section

PERSONAL NOTES.

J. Stanley Cook, secretary of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Exchange, has returned from Victoria, where the annual convention was held.

A. B. Bourne, general merchant, Grimsby, Ont., is the successor to A. F. Hawke. Mr. Bourne was formerly in business there. He has now a large store and reports business good and prospects excellent.

A wedding of interest to the wholesale trade was that of James Melville Lobb, representing Carter, Macey & Co.'s teas, in Toronto. He was married on July 14th to Miss Una Anson-Cartwright, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Anson-Cartwright, Toronto. The wedding was solemnized by Rev. Canon Spragge, in St. Peter's church, Cobourg.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Information supplied by sellers but for which the editors of The Grocer do not necessarily hold themselves responsible.

J. W. Falconer, of Poulton & Noel, Ltd., London, Eng., was in Montreal last week in the interests of his firm, and while there appointed Rose & Laflamme, Ltd., agents for the company. The latter will now be able to supply the trade with Poulton & Noel's table delicacies from spot stocks.

Frank O. Creed, representing the F. F. Dalley Co., Ltd., was a recent caller at the London office of The Canadian Grocer. Mr. Creed is the continental representative of the Dalley Co., and had made a hurried trip from Barcelona to London to meet Mr. Dalley. Reports indicate good sales of the Dalley blackings amongst the continental houses.

The McCaskey Register Company was organized in 1903, with a capital stock of $30,000. In June, 1909, it was $1,000,000. In the last twelve months they used nearly 1,900 tons (3,800,000 lbs.) of paper, 60 cars of lumber, 16 cars of refined sheet steel, 23 tons of aluminum castings, and about 25 tons of brass spring wire.

J. W. Lefebvre is now representing in Montreal and the east, Jas. D. McLaurin, New York, manufacturer of "I Bite, I Stick" bull dog sealers. These sealers are used for binding parcels, instead of the regulation twine and are obtainable in all colors and widths. The sealer is considered one of the latest things in modern time-saving and economical devices, and "J. W." says he is selling any quantity.

A Traveler's Idea on the Handling of Tea

How Flavor Becomes Lost In The Retail Store—Foreign Odors Deteriorates It—Lead or Tin Lined Canisters Preferable To Wooden Boxes—Careful Attention Increases Sales.

Travelers whose itineraries extend out through country districts are in a position to measure up the values of the various business methods of many retail merchants. They observe the up-to-date methods of the grocer who takes pains with his stock and its arrangement and they see the slovenly ways of others who are indifferent about the situation of their coal-oil tank, their butter, cheese and tea.

In respect to the latter commodity a tea traveller gives some valuable advice on how tea should be cared for in the store.

"Tea is so susceptible to odors that it very often loses its flavor before it reaches the customer," he said, "and every grocer should try to give the best value for the money. I have known tea to taste of coal-oil and to smell of lemon and the cause was simply the carelessness of the merchant.

"Bulk tea should be kept in cannisters lined with lead or tin in order that its flavor may be maintained as long as possible. Unless this is done the fact that it so easily absorbs the odor of a near-by substance, tea will often be allowed to leave the store with a foreign flavor.

"That, I believe, is the reason why customers are so hard to satisfy sometimes. You often hear one say that 'the last I got was not as good as usual,' and this should make the grocer think out the reason why Probably the tea had remained in paper bags so long that it had lost its natural odor and flavor; or it may have been affected by other things in the store.

Better Methods Being Used.

"I would advise grocers who sell tea to be careful how they handle it if they desire to increase their sales. It should not be exposed to the air only when a sale has been made. If a box of tea is left open during a night the quality cannot but deteriorate. The reason why lead or tin lined canisters is preferable is because tea rapidly takes on a woody flavor if left next to a wooden box. When lead or tin is used there is less likelihood of the flavor vanishing. In fact it is maintained that with such lining the flavor can be kept practically perfect for months."

The commercial-man further stated that he had noticed a vast change towards correct methods in recent years. Merchants are now as susceptible to newer and better methods as the tea is to take in other flavors. He finds them willing to learn and he often calls their attention to how, in his opinion, tea should be kept.

The same principles apply to many other articles in the store. Onions and butter do not make a good combination while coal-oil should be kept away from almost every foodstuff. As the traveler points out, a little care in this regard will profit a merchant. Perhaps the profit may not come directly but if the good-will of the store is enhanced it will bring indirect results which may eventually mean much to that merchant.

The Grocer's Encyclopedia From Week to Week

Increase In Canadian Consumption of the Cantaloupe—Where It Originated and where Our Sipply Comes From—How To Make Sure a Cantaloupe or Other Melon Has Ripened On The Vine.

CANTALOUPES.—A variety of melon which is now working its way rapidly onto the market is the cantaloupe. In the early part of the summer season it is imported into Canada from the southern states beginning at California and followed up by the Georgia fruit.

The original home of the cantaloupe is Cantalupo in Italy from which it derives its name. It is described as a small, round variety of muskmelon, globular in shape, and ribbed, of pale green or yellow color. It has a delicate flavor which makes it quite palatable and it is used principally as a breakfast food and for dessert.

The cantaloupe, like other melons, grows on vines practically in the same way as the musk-melon. It is only recently since it first began to enter Canada by the car-load and the quantity coming is increasing steadily from year to year.

Cantaloupes grow in various shades and with a variety of rinds. We have the round and oblong, plain and netted, scarlet and orange; some smooth some warty and others cracked in a net-like manner.

Often the young and delicate fruits are pickled in their rinds by using salt and vinegar or preserved with sugar and spices.

When ripe the fruit is eaten raw often with salt, sugar or pepper and particularly in hot weather.

When A Melon Is Ripe.

Law's Grocer's Manual gives some information on how to tell when a cantaloupe or other melon is ripe. The rinds, when the melons are left on the vines to maturity generally become hard and yellow and the pulp brittle. When, under pressure you can hear the inside crack or give way it may be regarded as a sure sign that it is ripe and has matured well on the vine.

If the melon remains on the ground until properly matured the side on the ground will be found to have changed from a white to a pale yellow and upon close examination numerous small pimples will be noticed on the surface particularly on the outer edge. These pimples never appear on those that are not ripe or have been prematurely pulled.

Sometimes the desirable pale yellow color is produced prematurely by turning this part of the melon to the sun for a day or two, but the yellow thus produced is of a much deeper shade. This in connection with the absence of pimples will readily tell the experienced eye how the color was produced.

If the skin will readily peel leaving a hard shelly appearance it is a good sign that the melon is ripe and also if it has a dull brown appearance. The whole of these signs are not always seen at the same time but the presence of any one is sufficient to indicate the ripeness of a melon.

SALMON RUN DELAYED.

Toronto, July 21.—According to a telegram received from Vancouver the delay in the arrival of the sockeye salmon on the Fraser river is causing anxiety. In four recent days only three or four hundred sockeyes were taken in the traps on the sound. Should another week go by without th sockeyes reaching the river in numbers there will be fears that the expected big pack will not materialize. The members of the British Columbia Canneries Ass'n. held a meeting a week ago, for the purpose of discussing the demand for higher prices for sockeye salmon made by the white and Japanese fishermen, but the decision has not as yet been made public.

When many flies come through the windows, customers leave by the score.

Store Equipment and Business Methods of Grocers

Importance Attached to Up-to-Date Store Fixtures—Good Use of Store Mottoes In London Grocery—Educating Customers to Mid-Week Half-Holiday by Kitchen Signs — Watching the Dead-Beats and Collecting Accounts.

Fernie, B.C., July 19.—Those merchants who recognize the necessity of catering to the aesthetic desires of customers, who appreciate the beautiful, as well as catering to them from the standpoint of service, have the better chance in the retail arena.

There are certain customers who regard cleanliness and attractiveness in the grocery above service and prices. When they enter a store for goods for use in the home, they want to see surroundings in keeping with the character and order of their homes. Where service and attractiveness are combined, that store has something more than a fighting chance.

An Interior View of the Grocery Store of W. J. Blundell, Fernie, B.C.

These are among the sentiments of W. J. Blundell, of Fernie. He looks well to cleanliness, equipment and beauty in the interior of his grocery.

The casual observer cannot fail to be impressed with these conditions and the Blundell store has reason to appreciate them. The bin-fixtures are of modern type; the shelving is finished in handsome style; show-cases are used for displaying bottled goods; china, crockery and glassware are shown in wall racks and the store is well lighted, and always kept clean. That these are valuable assets to any retail store cannot be denied.

BUNGALOW STORE FRONT.

Marmora, Ont., July 21.—Reconstructed on modern principles, since the fire, more than a year ago, the general store of Gladney, McDonnell & Co., has been launched out on a new career. The re-opening took place a few months ago, the men at the helm being. J. A. McDonnell and E. M. Gladney. The former conducted the business alone for 6 years prior to the fire, having bought out the late W. E. Gladney with whom he was a partner.

The store front presents a fine appearance. The plate glass windows are wide and low, in bungalow style. The door is set far back, giving the windows ample depth. The interior is finished in white, which forms a fine background for window display. Above the plate windows, running full across the store, are deep prism lights, which light the whole store splendidly even on darkest days. The main floor, besides being ample in size, is fitted out in convenient style, with low, deep shelving, sanitary counters, silent salesmen, tables and cabinets. Of course, the stock being comparatively new adds further to the handsome appearance of the interior. The office is at the rear and forms a landing at top of the first flight of stairs, yet it is low enough to give a commanding view of the store below.

Another new feature and the first introduction of it in Marmora is the cash carrier system. There are four stations which make it convenient for the whole staff of clerks.

The second floor is also well lighted. It is used for clothing, wall paper, carpets and general surplus stock. For lighting an acetylene plant has been installed. Mr. McDonnell is one of the men of Marmora who has always taken an important part in the general welfare of the town, and his public-spirit has won him many friends.

A LONDON BUSINESS GETTER.

London, Ont., July 20.—Among the younger generation of grocers in the Forest City is Harry Ranahan. He is also one of the progressive members of the trade, and gets business because he gets after it. Besides being treasurer of the Retail Grocers' Association, he is a valued member when there is other work to be done.

The Ranahan store as may be seen by the accompanying cut, is carried on systematically. Among the features are store mottoes that hang on either side. On these may be seen in attractive lettering: "Promptness of Delivery Guaranteed"; "Your Phone Orders have our Constant Care"; "You will Always Find Something Worth Considering in This Store," "If you Don't See What You Want, Ask for it," etc.

The interior equipment includes clean and attractive counters and show-cases while the comfort of customers is looked after by the provision of several chairs.

A great deal of business is done by telephone, and these orders are given the best attention.

PARTICULAR ABOUT TRADE.

St. Catharines, July 21.—"One might better do a smaller business than sell to people who are indifferent about paying," was a statement made to The Grocer by H. E. Cudney, manager of Andrew Foster's grocery store.

"We stick as closely to cash as possible," he said, "and we look carefully after those who pay the first, second and third times and then ask for credit."

By close attention to this phase of the business, the Foster store has lost little in the last six years on account of poor pays. Farm trade is catered to and a large portion of the business is done with farmers.

The ordinary order book is used in this store, the items being transferred onto the account slip with the balance carried over as well, so that the exact amount owing by any customer can be obtained in a moment. A duplicate is sent out at the proper time—weekly or monthly as the case may be—and when the account is paid the original is discarded.

SIGNS IN CUSTOMERS' KITCHENS.

St. Catharines, July 21. — Strict on closing and early closing at that, is a method of F. Wilson, one of the leading grocers of this city. The key turns in the door during the week at six o'clock sharp; on Saturday night at nine o'clock, and on Wednesday afternoons the store is closed.

"Have I any trouble with my customers? No; I got out a small card, cut out of card-board, and had the sign, "Remember early closing Wednesday afternoon." This I arranged to have tacked up in the kitchen of every customer so that they know exactly where they are at," explained Mr. Wilson. "No, we haven't had a bit of trouble on that account."

A new feature in the Wilson store, not noticed very often in a grocery is the presence of electric fans. These are placed there, not exactly for keeping things cool, but to circulate the air. They are kept going winter and summer.

Mr. Wilson does not believe in canvassing for orders.

Store Mottoes Among the Features in Harry Ranahan's Store, London, Ont.

A THING OF BEAUTY.

Palmerston, Ont., July 19.—As an example of decorative art in the grocery store, the establishment of George Nahrgang, Palmerston stands in the front rank. It is only a few months ago since it was over-hauled and remodelled into one of the finest grocery stores in the province.

A newspaper enthusiast in describing this store wrote the following words:—There is a charm and beauty to the whole establishment which captivates and beguiles the heart. Like the graceful desert mirage the vision breaks with the greatest pleasure upon the mind and heart of the beholder, but unlike the mirage it proves an actual living reality —"a thing of beauty and a joy forever." This store conclusively proves what a clever, capable business head can accomplish and sets the pace for the mercantile interests of the town.

While this in the "early stages" may be somewhat overdone, it has a truthful vein all the way through. The relief work on the cove, moulding and frieze finished in gold, gives the metallic ceiling a fine appearance. The graining throughout the store adds greatly to its attractiveness. Elaborate furnishings—of solid oak—including shelving, glass front display bins glass biscuit cases, combination silent salesmen and display bins, spice cases, with bevelled plate mirrors, are among the features. Meat counters, cash register, computing scales, cheese cutters are also to be found in this store.

Practical experience, fair methods combined with such splendid facilities for doing business is attracting to the Nahrgang store its share of the trade.

THIS GROCER SPREADS OUT.

St. Catharines, July 20.—Among the aggressive business men in this city is Geo. B. Darker. He has a splendid bright grocery on the main street and on the 4th of June last, took over the business formerly carried on by E. Gander, in another part of the business section. He is the only grocer with two stores here, and his progress will be followed with interest. He is also a recruit so far as the grocery business in St. Catharines is concerned, as he has only occupied the former store a few months.

Mr. Darker supervises both businesses, and of course does the buying for both.

WHY NOT FLETCHERIZE.

Once a man with poor digestion
Ate some cork and carpet tacks,
Ate two lobsters without question,
Ate some tripe and sealing wax;
Ate of pickles by the quart, sir;
Ate of crabs an even score,
And when all supplies ran short, sir,
Still was clamorous for more.
Did it hurt him? No, it cured him;
You may do as he did, too;
Mr. Fletcher had assured him
Of the virtue in a chew.
Chew the oysters, chew the chowder,
Chew the fish and chew the meat.
Chew the smallest crumb to powder,
Chew up everything you eat;
Chew boiled rice and chew the curry,
Chew the pudding, chew the sauce,
Chew them slowly, never hurry;
Chew, for time is only dross.
Chewing's good for what may ail you;
Cures rheumatics, cures the gout;
Chew, and health will never fail you
While your jaws and teeth hold out.

BRINGS BACK PLEASANT MEMORIES.

The Toronto office of The Grocer is in receipt of a letter from an old friend, who a few years ago made his headquarters in the Ontario capital and who was one of the merry army of knights of the grip accustomed to "take to the country" every Monday morning. He encloses a card addressed to the Editor of The Canadian Grocer which he has carried for nearly three years—a luck-card we believe it was—all of which he explains in the following letter written when in a reminiscent mood:

"Looking through my grip I found the enclosed card which I have carried since leaving Toronto, over two years ago, and which set me thinking. I was then with Red Rose Tea but have since traveled through Maine for Union Blend Tea. I have also a number of copies of The Grocer with my children's photos at home. Maine has been good to me but it has not smothered up some memories of Toronto which I hope to see again and take another run out on the 7.30 Monday morning.

Success to The Grocer and staff.

Disadvantages of Carrying Poor Assortments

Western Canada Minister Compelled To Send To Mail Order House Because Home Merchants Could Not Fill His Order—Not Enough Specializing Done—Prospects For Crops Bright In Prairie Provinces.

By John McDowell.

The country surrounding Dauphin, Gilbert Plains and Grandview is one of the best in the Great West. Its industries are a nice combination. Lots of the richest and most productive farm land under the sun, and the timber of this district is famous all over the Dominion. The farmyard and the saw mill are the twin institutions of this locality.

Your correspondent has been making firsthand investigations for The Canadian Grocer as to crop prospects for 1909. Everything looks better than it did a year ago, and yet it still hangs in the balance whether there is going to be a good harvest or not. Prospects may continue bright for weeks and months and all at once—in a night all the fair outlook may be overcast.

Experience teaches, and one of the results of this uncertainty is the growing inclination of farmers right along this line, to turn to barley and oats instead of or as well as wheat, these being safer cereals as a rule. The prices for oats has been an additional encouragement for them. Prospects? Well they are splendid and if the frost keeps away long enough we will have one of the best seasons that ever smiled on the West.

Cultivating Strawberries.

I am not a prophet but I will venture one prediction and that is that in 10 years there will be a new industry in this locality fighting for the first place ahead of lumbering and a head of farming—I refer to fruit growing. The writer gathered some beautiful wild strawberries and on making inquiries as to why the domesticated variety could not be grown, was informed by Boniface that they are grown in increasing quantities. He said he was buying them in pailfuls from one of his neighbors.

We saw gooseberries and currants—magnificent crops in a number of places round here in sheltered gardens.

While there are risks connected with fruit growing in a climate like this yet when we think of the market for it in these growing prairie towns and the prices obtainable for it surely we may expect that in ten years we will be shipping strawberries to Winnipeg.

In these country towns there are few business houses confined to trading in one line of goods. They are mostly general stores where a little of everything is carried and not a big stock of anything. Calico and marmalade, shoes and maple syrup, nails and coffee in promiscuous variety are found under one roof and within the narrow compass of a store 30 x 12. It has its advantages in a village just beginning to have a big range of different items but as towns grow the dealers ought to specialize. In conversation with the minister of one of the churches in a town in the northwest he said: "There are four stores in this town selling boots and not one of them could fit my little boy with a pair of shoes; they have so many different lines of merchandise that they cannot afford to carry a full line of anything. I must send to Eaton's for the shoes."

If there is one thing more than another that is noticeable in hundreds of our general stores in the west it is the way little bunches of crockery in oddlots and sets are stowed away in a corner not easily discovered by the intending purchaser and seldom dusted by the goal keeper clerk. One is not surprised to hear the remark "Oh I'm going out of the china business, it does not pay." No wonder! would any other line pay if treated in the same way?

Now for an illustration showing the more excellent way. R. Burns, of Grandview, took over recently the business formerly carried on by Swain and Clark. He is a progressive man, is Burns, and is running as fine an up-to-date store as you will see anywhere. He has set apart one side of his upstairs flat for his china business, where he has a well assorted stock of dinner and toilet ware and fancy china. He has it well displayed and it is removed from the dust of the store and street where it does not need so much cleaning. Mr. Burns knows and says that it pays as well as nine out of every ten lines he carries.

Then there is a neighbor of his, Brownridge, who has a beautiful set of bin and shelf fixtures, and they certainly enhance the appearance of his grocery section, which is a model of neatness and cleanliness.

If storekeepers were to grasp this department store idea correctly, keep their different classes of goods tidy and clean, we would not hear so much of the ravages of the mail order "bug". Still one would like to see the grocery business a separate and distinct one from the others, but we do not see it except in a few in the cities. Stores like Dowling's in Brandon are few and far between.

An Education to Counteract Ordering by Mail

Arguments Merchants May Use To Protect Business In The Home Town—To The Interest Of Consumers To Purchase From Stores In Their Own Community.

By M. Moyer.

In defending the rights of the retail merchants against the encroachments of the unfair competition of the mail order houses, peddlers, etc. I take the ground that the only possible system to give the needed service to the people all over the world is through the wholesale houses and the retail stores. There is no other system that can give a service so satisfactory and so cheaply. If this is true people are not acting wisely and in their own interests if they support any institution which interferes with this system. That they are, however, doing otherwise to a large extent is only too true, and the question naturally arises "why do they do it?" The answer must be that either the merchants are not giving the desired service, or else the people are influenced and misled through unsound and false representation.

It cannot be admitted that the retail service generally is not adequate, because after all, the large majority of people are served to their satisfaction through the ordinary, regular and natural retail store system. The only reason for supporting these large stores is the belief that goods can be bought cheaper. While some things which are held out as baits, are frequently bought below their regular value, it is quite safe in making the statement, without fear of contradiction that no one, on the whole, has saved any money by supporting the mail-order houses instead of dealing at home. Even if they did buy certain articles a trifle cheaper that does not prove that they have saved anything. There are so many things that have to be considered, in order to arrive at a fair conclusion, and when this is done, and the circumstances are well understood the advantage of dealing away from home entirely disappears.

Proper education alone will save the situation. Honest representation of the facts counteract the incessant advertising of bargains, regardless of the principle of fair dealing between man and man. It is not all profit that appears so on the surface. For instance if a farmer sells a certain quantity of milk and receives $1.00 for it, or he makes that same milk into butter for which he receives only 75c, that does not prove that he made 25c more by selling the milk. A part of the milk in making the butter was turned into pork and again back into the soil as plant food, so that on the whole all things being considered it paid the farmer better to make the butter.

Enhances Property Value.

Dealing at home works out the same way. Even if you did buy a little cheaper by sending your money away from home, you would lose the value of that money from circulating among your people at home in the shape of improving your roads, schools and in increasing the value of your property. A good live town has much to do with the value of all kinds of property, and if the town is allowed to go down, because the people give the cream of their purcheses to the large city stores, the property in the entire neighborhood will suffer.

This, however, is not all. Where is anybody to be found who would like to have the conviences of the local stores taken away from them? Would it be possible for the department stores to give the people the service they need? Are they, in any way, an improvement on the regular retail methods? Certainly not. Is it, then, fair, is it honest, is it decent to expect the local stores to keep full lines of goods in stock for the convenience of the people if they do not give them the necessary support to keep them in a thriving condition? Where is the man or woman who would not feel a certain amount of guilt, and blush in shame to go into the local store for an article he or she needed but for which they would send to the city if they had time.

Would any lady, a resident in any town where her husband is earning her living, boast about doing her shopping in the city if she understood proper and fair trade conditions.

Too Many Bargain Hunters.

The education of our people on trading has been all one sided and the drift of it is for supposed bargains, while the true spirit of trading is lost sight of. If we expect to see our country prosper we must keep our trading conditions in harmony with the best intents of our people. Bargain hunting became respectable and fashionable, but it will only remain so till the people understand the true system of trading. To send money away to mail order houses, to make millionaires and impoverish their own property and interests at home is "penny wise and pound foolish" and it is for the merchants all over the country to see that something is done to counteract the misleading influences, and inaugurate a campaign not only in the interests of the merchants and towns but for the entire community.

ITS ERIN-GO-SNACK.

Those in charge of the Drummers' Snack Club outing on July 30th and 31st, have practically completed their plans. The programmes are now in the hands of the printers and the comedians who are putting on the School-Day Skit are rehearsing regularly. The concert committee have secured the services of Bert Harvey, comedian, and Jack Howard, banjoist. Erin is also preparing for the great day.

W. J. Parks, one of the Toronto travelers for Todhunter, Mitchell & Co., has gone with his wife and family to Windermere, Muskoka for a holiday.

S. T. Nishimura & Co., Montreal, recently renovated their offices and are now in possession of up-to-date quarters on St. Francois Xavier Street. The reproduction herewith of a photograph of one section of the office gives one an idea as to its convenience. At the left will be noticed the regulation revolving tea table, behind which are seen T. Kusanobu, Mr. Nishimura's manager, who is sampling tea, and beside him W. H. Halford, who is watching, with a great deal of interest, the testing process. John A. Moir, one of best known brokers in eastern Canada, is sitting in a chair critically examining some Japan tea. A section of the shelves used for keeping samples is seen behind Mr. Moir. The bookkeeping and business section of the office is not shown.

Produce and Provision Situation of the World

Hog Prices Still Climbing—Interest Centring on Report of Commission to Denmark—Butter Situation Improving — Less Coloring Being Used in Cheese.

It was supposed that the highest point in the price of hogs had been reached months ago, but lately it has been pushed up higher from week to week until now it has reached $8.00 per 100 lb. live weight f.o.b. at country points. Montreal markets are still higher. Buyers are so keen to get hogs that they buy up everything in sight, giving the farmers no chance to get any quantity ahead. It was suggested not long ago, that buyers should not be allowed to buy more than a certain percentage of the female hogs for a certain length of time. This might at first glance look unreasonable, but at the same time it would greatly help the hog situation. In the meantime interest will centre on what the commission to Denmark will bring forth.

The butter situation has much improved through the recent rains, which have wonderfully helped the pasture, and, consequently, the production of butter.

Since the decline of ¼ to ½ cent on cheese, a great many factories have effected sales. Buyers felt all along that prices were too high compared with the English market, to take chances. To effect sales, which some factories had to do, a slight drop took place and business resulted. A noticeable feature in cheese, is the fact that a large percentage of that product, especially in the eastern parts, is made without coloring. This looks like a move in the right direction, and people may learn that the yellow color in cheese is artificial and not, as so many think, the natural richness of the cheese. They evidently know this better in the east than in Toronto and western Ontario generally, where buyers still think that white cheese is made from skim milk and, therefore, minus that rich flavor they admire in cheese.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Bacon and hams are selling very freely at unchanged prices. Demand from all sections is very satisfactory. Pork continues to be a good seller, despite recent advances which have made prices a good deal higher than they usually rule. Lard, both pure and compound, has not been selling in any quantity during the past couple of weeks.

BUTTER—Prices in the country last Saturday were quite stiff, one or two buyers desiring butter and forcing the price, so that other purchasers had to come up or do without. As a result, quotations this week, while not any higher locally, are very firm. As much as 22c and 22¼c was asked in the country, while it was generally felt that purchases should have been made under 22c. Receipts of butter last week amounted to 17,763 packages, against 23,772 packages same week 1908. Receipts so far this season amount to 158,218 packages, against 172,212 packages same period last year. Exports last week were 326 packages, bringing the total exports for the season up to 1,690 packages, against 37,284 packages shipped during the same time last year. These figures illustrate the export situation very aptly. Prices have ruled altogether too high to permit of any export trade to speak of.

CHEESE—No change worth mentioning has occurred in the cheese market. Prices continue to rule steady. Receipts last week were 91,110 boxes, against 102,034 boxes same week a year ago. Total receipts amount to 674,540 boxes, as against 678,030 boxes same period 1908. Exports last week were 100,257 boxes, against 73,362 boxes same week last year. EGGS—Hot weather is affecting the quality and quantity of fresh eggs, and, as a result higher prices rule, in the country and in the city. In the country 17½c and 18c have been the ruling figures. Selects and No. 1 have advanced 1c since last week. Receipts of eggs last week amounted to 4,884 cases, against 4,041 cases same week last year. This makes total receipts 110,295 cases, against 114,923 cases for the same period 1908.

PROVISIONS—Slowly but surely prices are climbing higher and higher, with a quarter of a cent here and a half a cent there almost unnoticed, yet it means much to the entire consuming public in the year's expense of living. It will be noticed that again this week a number of lines are put a trifle higher. This is owing to the fact that hogs are again about 25c per 100 lbs. higher.

BUTTER—The recent rains relieved the anxiety and saved the situation of the butter market. The drought was becoming serious, which threatened the production of butter, and caused some feeling of anxiety to lay in stock, as a supply for the "lean" days, but the improved pasture has removed that, and the feeling is settled and the market has lost its keenness. Creamery in quantities can be bought a little cheaper, and about 2c to 3c lower than last year at this time.

CHEESE—Old cheese is nearly all sold, and what is left is held firmly at the highest point. This does not, however, come in competition with the new cheese, as some customers always will have old cheese at any price. New cheese, on the whole, is from ¼c to ½c lower, and a considerable quantity has changed hands.

EGGS—Eggs are scarce, with hardly enough coming in to supply the everyday wants. This, however, is a usual thing at this time of the year, and the reason is that a good many farmers pen up their hens to keep them from destroying the grains around the buildings. After harvest they will again have the freedom they demand in order to do their best work.

POULTRY—The poultry trade is quiet, and somewhat between seasons. Spring chickens and ducks are coming in, but the class of people who are able to buy them are largely away from the city. Only the best hotels and the high-class customers buy them.

HONEY—New honey begins to move, but there is no settled price arrived at yet. The yield this year is supposed to be above the average. The quality also is said to be good. The price will likely be from 9c to 10c for lots.

A cheese has recently been shipped from Utica, N.Y., to Chicago, weighing 1,950 pounds and it is supposed to be the largest ever made. It took about 10 tons of milk to produce it.

Evolution of Present Indian Trading Methods

Merchant of Hartford, Ont., Tells of Past and Present Systems of Buying By The Taciturn Race—Ready Spenders of Their Money—Use Better Quality of Foods Than Formerly—Trading Used To Be Done In Wood, Barrels and Baskets.

By R. J. Thomas.

The first question from an outsider is, "You don't trust them do you?" Well that depends a lot on tthe Indian; some of them are good for ten dollars, and some we make the limit ten cents. Sometimes it depends on how you feel yourself. Often times we have them come in and ask for credit, and when we refuse, they pull out the money and go on trading. Now and then we find one that makes a business of getting credit, and then refusing to pay. But here nearly all that receive credit are hard up and are not working, because they can't get the work.

As customers they are a good people near whom to have a store. With us they give a big half of the turnover, and we cater to their trade as much as we do the whites.

When our store was first opened about 50 years ago, money was scarce with them, and their trading was done with stove wood, cord wood, staves for barrels, baskets of all kinds, corn mats, straw hats, etc. Some of them made maple syrup too, and it was the old fashioned kind, with the woody flavor.

Since then the timber has nearly all been cleared off and for the baskets that are made now, logs have to be procured from the whites. The straw hats has been superceded by the factory hat, of which they are large buyers.

Are Rapid Spenders.

In the early days the men were in good demand from the whites to cut wood, and in the summer to work in the harvest. This gave them some ready money, of which they were ready spenders.

The wood cutting they get now is generally from a distance, sometimes as far as 50 or 60 miles away. They also go away for a long time during the summer to work at berry picking and later on in the canning factories.

These trips one would think would have its effect on our business, but they are great people to come home often, and of course they bring some money. Often the men go away working and send the money home to the family, and as this is their post office, we have the paying of the postal notes, etc., and we generally get a share of the money before they leave.

When trading at the store, they are never in a hurry, and we can wait on two or three at once. They like to sit down and visit with one another, and talk over the prospect of the big money (Grand River Navigation Co.) coming as well as the chances of doing away with the chiefs and putting in an elective council.

There are also good farmers among them now, and to take a drive through the reserve, you would find just as nice farms and buildings as there are on the land of the whites. They have good schools and in all the families there are some who can read. We are now sending our advertising to about 200 families who are our customers.

In years past the dry goods trade with them was mostly in blankets, high colors in dress goods, shawls and cheap "winceys". In groceries, it was tobacco, pork and flour. The clerks had to have a smattering of their languages to deal with them, and that meant to know a little of Mohawk, Tuscarora and Cayuga. Now it is doubtful if one can find an Indian who cannot talk or understand English.

They are being educated in other ways as well as in learning. The going away to other towns, working in the canning factories, and observing the dress and customs of people help them in their education. We can notice this very much when they come back. It is also making a difference in the stock we carry, and we have to watch the trend of dress and keep up with the changes.

They are frequent buyers of groceries, as they cannot buy a large amount at a time as they have no place to keep it. But even this is being overcome, as they are building new houses with cellar equipments.

Goods They are Buying.

The land they occupy consists of 49,696 acres and the population is 5,060 according to their pay list.

The groceries they buy largely are flour and pork. They are not very fond of beef, but at the high prices that prevail for pork at present they are using beef more than usual. Canned goods is one of the articles that is a good seller, as well as jams, salmon. Patent medicines come in too for a big share of the trade. There is a great deal of sickness among them and this makes the demand.

Our shoe trade is one of our good departments, as they are very particular about their feet in some ways. Like the Chinese they want them to look small.

They draw their annuities or interest money twice a year—in April and in October—and this is a special 'draw' for us as well. We always make special arrangements for this time and try and have the stock as full as possible. It comes in the right time too as then we are getting the seasonable things on.

In earlier times the call was all for cheap goods, the cheaper the better. Now the Indians want as good as any-

FRAUDS IN THE GROCERY TRADE.

Beneath the term "trade customs" there lie frauds which appear to be growing at a rate which has drifted into a condition of absolute dishonesty in the grocery business. Starting in a mild way these customs have grown until there seems to be no limit as to where they will end and they have been used to such an extent as to completely demoralize the business in more ways than one.

Calling a spade a spade may be somewhat unpleasant to some folks, but they need to have the truth told them to bring them to a realization of their misdeeds.

Billing a package of mackerel as containing a certain number of fish and then putting in 20 p.c. less and laying it to "trade custom" and saying "nobody expects full count" is bad business and leads to temptation to increase the shortage, soothing the conscience by telling yourself that it is just what the others do.

Such practices cover a great many articles in the grocery trade and are directly responsible for the demand on the part of those interested in pure food laws that the net contents be labeled on the package.—New York Journal of Commerce.

ANNUAL COMPLIMENTARY PICNIC.

Prospect Park, Oshawa, Ont., was the stamping ground for the employees and their families of E. W. Gillette Co., Limited, Toronto, on Friday of last week. The Grand Trunk ran a special which consisted of some five coaches, and from Oshawa Junction the picnickers were carried out to the park by electric cars. Wm. Dobie, president of the company, was present and kept an eye on the various movements of the crowd. He presented the prizes to the winners in the baseball match and in the sports. The Office and Factory turned out the opposing teams in the ball game and with the former winners by the score of 6 to 5. The victory on the banner of the Office nine was due principally to the brilliancy of George Hepburn, the captain, who held down third sack. Dinner and supper were served in the pavillion by an Oshawa caterer and a Toronto orchestra supplied music during the day.

It was the annual complimentary excursion from company to employees and it was among the best.

Millers Awaiting More Definite Information On Crops Before Making Their Calculations—Cereal Market Easier With Decline In Montreal—Confectionery Selling Well.

With the present high price of wheat, with the prospects of a great crop in sight and with the anticipations of lower prices, millers are all working down their stocks as low as possible, which almost approaches a standstill. If nothing happens to the crop, wheat will be in abundance and prices will likely drop and perhaps the bakers will again let us have our pies and pastry at the old prices.

Ontario fall wheat is said to be an exceptionally heavy crop, which is so far advanced, that it is almost assured. It is the general opinion, that farmers will rush their wheat on the market as soon as they have it ready which all has something to do with millers making their calculations in reducing their stocks. Oats also are about 5 cents lower and the market is generally easier in cereals.

Reports indicate that the trade is doing an exceptionally good business in confectionery, due to the improved system of handling it. The show-case has done considerable to bring this about.

FLOUR—The flour market is inactive. While there is a much easier feeling, prices however, have not changed. The business is from hand to mouth. Millers, as a rule, are trying to do as little as possible until they can base their calculation with greater certainty on the new crop. In the meantime, grocers, for their own interests, should buy lightly and carry small stocks in their stores.

TOOK A DAY OFF.

The annual outing of the Quaker Oats Co.'s employes, Peterboro, Ont., was held at South Beach Park, Clear Lake, on Saturday, July 10. In spite of rain the day was enjoyably spent and included a lengthy programme of sports on land and water. About 450 were in attendance, and few smiles were worn off.

THE TRUE SERVICE.

By Elbert Hubard.

If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him. If he pays wages that supply you your bread and butter, work for him, speak well of him, think well of him, stand by him, and stand by the institution he represents. I think if I worked for a man I would work for him. I would not work for him a part of his time, but all of his time. I would give an undivided service or none. If put to the pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you must vilify, condemn and eternally disparage, why, resign your position, and when you are outside, damn to your heart's content. But, I pray you, so long as you are a part of an institution, do not condemn it. Not that you will injure the institution—not that—but when you disparage the concern of which you are a part, you disparage yourself. And don't forget—"I forgot" won't do in business.

Some Facts About Milk that Grocers Should Know

Lecturer On The Meat Industry In The Agricultural College, Edinburgh, Points Out Effects Of Pasteurization And What It Means—Percentage Of That Produced In United Kingdom Used For Butter And Cheese.

Edinburg, Scotland, July 17.—A lecture on the subject of the milk supply was delivered at Catlin's Arcadia, Scarborough, by London M. Douglas, of Edinburgh.

The lecture was illustrated by means of a large number of lantern slides, illustrating various aspects of the question and an interesting demonstration was also given of the contents of the milk, each constituent being shown in a separate bottle, which is a graphic way of demonstrating how the lactic fluid is built up.

The lecturer pointed out how important the milk supply was as a factor in the health of the nation and how the intimate study of the question had only begun within the last quarter of a century. During that period, however, a large literature had grown up in connection with the subject in all civilized countries and many difficult problems had presented themselves in connection with the original researches which had been made. Although at the present day, we know a good deal about milk, there were yet many things which were unexplained. The article which was spoken of in connection with the milk supply was cows milk and it was estimated that 1,723 million gallons were produced in the United Kingdom, of which 620 million gallons were consumed as milk, the remainder being utilized for butter and cheese. The consumption worked out to 15 gallons per head of the population, which however, was behind the United States of America, where 25½ gallons per head of the population were consumed. In order to get this quantity, we required a stock of a little over 4½ million cows and these were valued at £40,000,000 sterling, showing how gigantic an industry dairying was in the United Kingdom.

The lecturer proceeded to describe the physical properties of milk and mentioned that one single drop contained many millions of the fine fatty globules which constituted cream and those globules were so finely divided that it was stated that if a person attempted to count them, it would take him ten years, provided he counted 100 per minute and worked for six days in every week.

The various breeds of cows were touched upon and it was shown that the Dutch breed had so far excelled all others in producing, a cow which gave for one year a total of 2,743 gallons, which is rather more than six times the quantity given by the average cow in the United Kingdom. The sensitiveness of milk to odors and germs of disease, was then touched upon and the necessity for cleanliness and hygienic conditions was urged. Cleanly conditions were absolutely necessary to a wholesome milk supply. Tuberculosis was the principal disease which had to be dreaded in milk, and it was shown how this microorganism could be injected into the system in a very simple way, through the milk supply, and it was one of the principal objects of the Milk and Dairies Bill, which had been recently issued, to try and prevent the spread of disease from tuberculosis. All diseases which could be milk-borne could, however, be controlled by means of heat and this was called pasteurization. It meant the total destruction of pathogenic or disease producing germs in the milk. The average temperature used in pasteurization or heating the milk, was 176 degrees F. at which figure, tuberculous germs were totally destroyed, and all of the ordinary disease germs also.

The apparatus in connection with the application of pasteurization was extremely ingenious and was fully illustrated and described. It had now become universal throughout the dairying industry, and it was therefore a splendid thing for the milk consumers, that they could rely upon the milk which they took, being thus rendered wholesome and free from any hidden danger. It had been said that the pasteurizing process was disadvantageous, as it produced carelessness on the farm and also that it affected the digestive proporties in the milk, but these objections were only of a minor character. The only real objection was that the pasteurizing process increased the cost.

COMPETITION AND COMPARISON

Price competition, you say?

Why, the good salesman courts that sort of competition, because it means comparison before the sale---contrast.

Knowing FIVE ROSES as you can know it—if you want, you can show up prominently the exclusive selling features of good flour in sharp contrast with the "other fellow's" goods milled on a price basis alone.

Competition means comparison, and nothing is truly valuable except by comparison.

Then it is that your customer sees the vital difference and wants FIVE ROSES more than she wants the money which the price represents; no longer sees price alone—but beyond price, results.

Having in her mind's eye the golden dome of crisp, well-piled loaves, the FIVE ROSES aroma from the oven, the hungry faces around the board, the palatable pastries unfailing, —which gets her order, cheap flour or FIVE ROSES? Draw your own conclusion—we have ours.

Lay it down as a maxim that in flour milling, as elsewhere, quality varies in the same ratio as price—the lower the price the lower the quality.

The FIVE ROSES customers are good customers—you are selling so as to sell again, to please her and attract her friends.

You gain trebly: the Immediate Profit—the Future Profit—the better strength for to-morrow.

You are building a FIVE ROSES quality market, a cumulative market which no salesman can take away from you when he goes into business for himself or is lured away by the "store across the street."

Remember, it is necessary above all other things that the excellency of your goods be at least equal to that of your competitor's, and if you wish to corner the good trade, do not let competition defeat you in the race for supremacy by handling the successful article while you struggle along with the disappointing makeshift.

Business is going to be awfully poor—if you make it so. You are the public's buyer. Serve them well and they will increase your earnings by increased business. FIVE ROSES means right service—why not FIVE ROSES?

WHAT OTHERS ARE DOING.

Nearly all the grocers in England belong to grocers' associations and as they meet regularly a wide range of subjects are handled.

The Newport Grocers' Association at its last meeting took up the question of curtailment of credits. In reporting the meeting the Grocers' Journal of London says: A communication was read from the Bristol Provision Traders' Association, and the South Wales and Cardiff Provisions Traders' Association, suggesting that a circular should be issued by the wholesale firms to the retailers with a view to the curtailment of credit, should, unfortunately, the coal strike in South Wales become a reality. The members of these associations were anxious to have the views of retailers on the point.—Mr. T. Cordey was of opinion that the circular would assist the smaller men in the trade, as they would be able to show it to their customers, and it would be an excuse for them not to give credit. He saw no reason why they, as retailers' associations, should not support the movement.—The chairman, however, questioned whether the association would be justified in shortening the credit of members of that association, as, while the coal strike would affect grocers in the dock district, it would not affect to such a great extent those traders who lived in other parts of the town. —Mr. Joseph Watkins did not see why they, as retailers, should suggest anything which would be in the character of a whip for their own backs. The wholesale merchants, it seemed to him, were endeavoring to evade their own responsibility by putting the risk on the shoulders of the retailers. If they supported the project they would only be playing into the hands of the co-operative stores, and would thus be putting another nail into the coffin of the private trader.—Mr. Cordey said the object of the wholesale firms was to protect those who were not in a position to help themselves. It would prove a great help to hundreds of small grocers in South Wales and Monmouthshire to be able to show the circular to their customers. It would, however, not affect men in a larger way of business. With regard to himself, he should adopt exactly the same plan as he did on the occasion of the last coal strike, as he found it to work satisfactorily. But the circular would prevent small grocers giving away earnings of perhaps ten or fifteen years, as the result of giving credit during a strike.—Mr. A. Jenkins disagreed with the last speaker. If the suggestion was adopted the only effect would be to crush scores of small traders in the event of a strike, because the terms of credit made all the difference to them.—Mr. Watkins remarked that he did not know there was any sentiment about wholesalers, who were quite capable of looking after their own interests. There was a desire to reduce the terms of credit from two months to 14 days.—Mr. E. Matthews thought the circular might help smaller traders in the giving of credit. The chairman pointed out that the association must be careful in a matter of that kind. They could not very well tie the hands of absent members.—Mr. Cordey said it would be quite optional for individual traders, even if they supported the wholesalers.—Eventually, a proposition that the association allow the communication to lie on the table was carried by seven votes to two, in favor of an amendment that the movement be supported.

The Ashton-Under-Lyne and District Grocers' Association, England, evidently has trouble with millers selling to others than the retail trade. At a session held recently the secretary reported that at the last meeting some complaints were lodged regarding a certain firm of millers, whom he had since written, and had received a reply to the effect that the statement, which was made with regard to their supplying one sack and half-sacks of flour was entirely untrue, as they only supplied shopkeepers.—The president pointed out that the firm did not deny the statement that they supplied the very small shopkeepers. That was the point in dispute, and therefore the letter did not alter the facts of the case.

The Nottingham Grocers' Association, England, has a benevolent fund to which it gives considerable attention. At the last meeting it resolved to bring the claims of the fund to the notice of the trade with more urgency and frequency than in the past. The president remarked that he thought the association ought, and could, do a great deal more for the benevolent fund, and he hoped that such would be the case.

Fixing the market price of butter and eggs was a problem before the Willingborough and District Grocers' Association. A lengthy discussion took place and eventually it was decided that the emergency committee should confer each week on the evening preceding the market as to the prices of eggs and butter.—On the motion, it was carried that the retail of best fresh butter should be 2d. per lb. over the market price.

Cherries and Raspberries The Important Fresh Fruits This Week—Good Crops and Quality is Good—New Potatoes Coming Freely on the Market—Fish Market Keeping Up to the Front.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—An easier feeling is noticeable in oranges this week, prices being lower for California navels. Mexican and Messina. Sales are very satisfactory, although a spell of cool weather did not increase demand for this line, nor for lemons. The price of the latter has not changed, the market being firm, but steady. Florida pineapples are selling at higher figures. Pears are more plentiful and are lower than they were a week ago. Californian fruits still claim the greatest amount of attention. All varieties are now beginning to arrive in quantity. Blueberries and raspberries are on the market, supplies being larger every day. A few gooseberries are seen this week, too. The latter two lines are not generally quoted, being too high as yet, owing to scant supplies, to interest the trade very much.

VEGETABLES—New potatoes are beginning to come in freely now, and lower prices are being quoted every day or two. Good, large bunches of beets are on sale this week, being of much better size than has previously been offered. American beans are done, Canadian now holding the interest of the trade. Prices are reasonable. No more cabbage is received from the south, local being plentiful. Hot-house tomatoes are offered to grocers having a select trade, at 20c a lb. No other dealers are able to touch them at such a price. Jersey tomatoes are obtainable at $2.25 a crate. More local tomatoes are expected within ten days. Prices will drop when they make their appearance.

FISH—Bluefish is quoted this week, dealers asking 12c lb. for the line. Mackerel is becoming more and more scarce, and another advance has occurred. Grass pike, too, is higher. Salmon is in small supply, receipts showing a falling off almost daily. Lake trout are in good demand at old figures, while considerable trade is passing in whitefish. Sales of halibut are frequent. Frozen stock is obtainable in place of several lines of fresh fish which are scarce. Other lines than fresh and frozen fish are dull.

GREEN FRUITS—Still a few strawberries are seen here and there, and in a few days more, they will be a thing of the past for this year. Raspberries and cherries are at their best and the market is loaded with them. All fruit is exceptionally good, especially the cherries. Not for many years has the quality been so excellent, as almost every cherry is perfect. The cool weather with frequent rains has also had a good effect on the raspberries, which are fine. The first lot of blueberries arrived, but they are on the green side.

VEGETABLES — Week after week some new lines of Canadian vegetables make their appearance, which without any excuse crowd the imported goods out of the market. New potatoes, tomatoes, cabbage and cucumbers are making a bold fight but they have to settle down to the established prices before they will gain preference with the buyers. Large quantities of Delaware tomatoes in bushel boxes are on the market which bring $3.00. Imported new potatoes are $3.35 a barrel, and Canadians are close after them at 50c a basket which is about $4.00 for an "American" barrel. Canadian farmers deserve credit, for their successful efforts in producing vegetables earlier from year to year. They are certainly up to date .

FACE FACTIONAL FIGHT.

"Manufacturing" and "Legitimate" Jobbers Have Numerous Points of Difference.

New York, July 19.—The fact that there is friction between the manufacturing jobber and the "legitimate" jobber is one of the issues that the new presiding officer of the National Wholesale Grocers' Association has taken over and there are some members, outside the pale of official activity who believe a split between the manufacturing jobbers and the jobbers who do not manufacture goods is inevitable. It was pointed out at a conference here that one of the factors outside are association anxious to see the wholesalers' organization out from under the domination of the manufacturing jobber, is the membership in the American Specialty Manufacturing Association. There have been evidences that the New York manufacturing jobbers have found the yoke that has bound them to the policy of the legitimate jobber with reference to the manufacturing producer a bit irksome. In fact, it is said that one of the manufacturing jobbers, not a 100 miles from Duane Street, has been in open revolt. There are those in the western sections who have perdicted a split between the manufacturing jobbers and the legitimate jobbers. The latter section of the association's membership comprises fully 85 per cent.

It looks as if Ottawa grocers were all morality inspectors. They have submitted a proposition to the authorities asking them to demand that fowl which is not dressed be not admitted to the market.

VALUE OF DISPLAYS.

With the manufacturers offering attractive and costly displays without charge there is no excuse nowadays for a grocer not having his windows neatly dressed.

Attractive windows certainly increase sales. They bring in a class that have been trading at the other store. There is a druggist in an Illinois town who put in a very attractive window display of a line of hot-water bags and fountain syringes, using little cards on which he told of their health-giving value. He sold more in one week than he had in the previous year. And no doubt it pays big in other lines of trade.—Tea and Coffee Trade Journal.

"Ice Castle" Brand Lobsters and the Packer's Guarantee

Lots of people will sell you a gold-brick. They wrap it up in tissue paper, but they do not leave their name in a conspicious place.

The best way to judge a manufacturer or packer for his sincerity is to request of him a guarantee of his goods when he sells you a bill. If he is willing to stand behind his line, take it. It's all to the good.

We have always stood behind ICE CASTLE BRAND LOBSTERS, the brand that has been for years regarded as the standard by which all other lobsters have been judged. We will back you when you tell your particular customer that the ICE CASTLE BRAND stands for the highest quality, one time, twice, thrice and all the time. The firm, whole, delicious meat; white, tempting—always the same.

Not the least risk do you run in stocking this reliable old brand.

The Point in a Nutshell

¶ The difference between the vinegar we make and the others you're sometimes asked to buy lies in the brewing. An honest attempt to produce a good article is not always rewarded with success, but—

¶ Since 1849 we have been renowned for the excellence of our plant and the perfection of our product.

System is Everything

Modern business success is built upon System. The house that is ahead is the one that is best systematized in every detail—especially in the selling end.

THE Allison COUPON BOOK SYSTEM

is the most important phase of selling system so far as the grocer is concerned. You can get along without them, but not nearly as well as you can WITH them.

How They Work

A man wants credit. You think he is good. Give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book. Have him sign the receipt or note form in the front of the book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10 — No trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10 and gets another book. No pass books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

The Canadian Grocer,

Dear Sirs:

We have been advertising in the Canadian Grocer for a number of years but never realized the good work you are doing until last Fall when the writer took a business trip through the North West and British Columbia.

Your journal seemed to be well thought of by the retail grocers, and many of them, especially in Vancouver and Victoria, took the trouble to mention that they had seen our ad in the Grocer.

This was appreciated by us as it is rather difficult to know just what class of advertising is giving us results. However we are now satisfied that your journal is an excellent medium for any manufacturer to use who wants to talk business to the wholesale or retail grocer of Canada.

Yours truly,

WARNING!

Crescent BM&Co. TRADE MARK Brand

SODA CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.

"Canada's Pride"

Canned Goods Still Leads

We would advise that we are now running heavy on Peas, packing a finer quality than we have ever turned out because of the excellent condition of the raw material, which with our careful handling, fine equipment and unequalled sanitary factory, enables us to far excel in quality any previous year.

These same conditions will apply to the full line of fruits and vegetables which we pack.

Don't be deceived by Brands and Trade Marks similar to ours which some packers are using, trying to place on the market inferior goods on our well-earned reputation.

Canada's Pride stands for Cleanliness and High-Grade Quality

The Best Canned Goods

There are many kinds in the market all making claims of being the choicest and the highest in excellence, flavor and merit, but

The Queen Quality Leads

WHY?

Because our fruits and vegetables are fresh, palatable, and the finest specimens that can be secured in one of Canada's most fertile and progressive districts.

Because they are uniform in quality, as we supervise the growing of the raw products from seed time to harvest and our inspectors reject everything that is not strictly up to the highest standard.

Because we have the most sanitary and up-to-date process and machinery and no detail is overlooked. We attend to the practical side ourselves and make our own cans of the best tin plate that can be secured.

All progressive grocers stock them and all discriminating customers get in them

Seven Thousand People Answer Call of the Cataract

Crowds Busy as Bees Swarm Queen Victoria Park on Occasion of the Eighth Annual Hamilton and Brantford Grocers' Picnic—Contrary Aerial Conditions Could not Keep Them at Home—Many Humorous Events During an Eventful Day—Ball Game and Foot Races on Slippery Grass Should Materially Increase Sale of Soap—Some of the Things That Happened.

Staff Correspondence.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 27.—When the immortal Shakespeare penned the lines:—

Lay aside life-harming heaviness,
And entertain a cheerful disposition;

he evidently had in mind the Hamilton Grocers' and the Brantford Grocers' and Butchers' picnic of nineteen hundred and nine. At any rate that's what the good folk—admirers of the men who supply life's necessities—of those two cities did on Wednesday, July 21, on the occasion of the big annual exit to the cataract.

They came from Hamilton six-thousanl strong, while the Telephone City added its coterie of some fifteen hundred souls.

This in the face of the fact that the weather man early in the morning threatened to turn on the tap and later did so, makes the picnic all the more remarkable. President (Ald.) John Forth, of the Association in the Mountain City claims that their picnic is the largest in Ontario of any annual event. At any rate he came 'forth' followed by a retinue the size of which a Caesar might well have been proud. John Carpenter, chairman of the picnic committee builded better than he anticipated although towards the close of the day he was heard to mourn the fact that he had entirely forgotten to tip the man who attends to the aerial conditions. Otherwise he thought there would have been more people there.

But the wise ones knew better. The truth of the matter was that everybody came who had made up their minds to do so and everyone who had previously determined to get away had the necessary seventy-five in their jeans and came. The crowd from Hamilton was bigger than ever. Both the Grand Trunk and T. H. & B. lines were chartered for the occasion, each running five special trains comprising in all about 90 coaches.

To use an oft repeated observation: "The ardor of the excursionists was not dampened by the damp weather." The reason is apparent. Jack Carpenter and his stalwart committee had arranged for such a programme of events that could not be well resisted.

Once the crowd arrived on the scene and had enjoyed an early morning bath beneath the spray from the waterfall, some event happened every minute of the eventful day. It wasn't possible to keep a line on them all.

Brantfordites were there in hundreds and when it came to the sports they were well up to the front too. Their chief, Art Coulbeck, president of the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association unfortunately had to content himself with looking on the ball-game from the bleachers—there was no grandstand or he would have been there. There were however, some grand-stand players in the teams. The trouble was all over an injured hand. The Brantford ball tossers missed Arthur from their ranks but the loss to them was gain to the fans.

A Versatile Secretary.

If anyone had trouble in keeping busy, that party might have followed Bay Hill about the grounds. Musicians are often described as being versatile. That's Bay Hill. He was apparently everywhere at the same time and certainly lived up to the requirements placed upon him by virtue of his office as secretary of the Hamilton association. He is a past-master in the art when it comes to leading a band whether it be rube or the Highland Pipers.

JOHN FORTH,

President of The Hamilton Association, Who Was as Busy as a Circus Manager.

"Sousa never had nothing on him," was the meditation of an admirer who once saw the famed leader wield his baton.

As an elocutionist he stands at the head. To this John Forth will testify when he heard, "There's something in the parting hour——." More than the president wept. That he will be an inventor of renown before another year rolls round is practically assured.

To augment the already large assembly on the Queen Victoria Park grounds, London sent over a few score who joined in with the crowd and made the day the success it was, in spite of the elongated rain.

The fireworks opened by the exploding of Hand's aerial artillery. The sounds of these while they lasted faded away the roaring of the big cataract. It was claimed the report went off on a ten mile journey—which did not at all seem unlikely.

Had the Kellyites and Casey's men observed the ball game which begun about 11.30, they would have walked off the map with shame. Hamilton won out but not without a big struggle. Then you should have seen the features that decorated their faces as well as those of their admirers. Their smiles, one would think, would have melted the paint on the band stand in the park. Brantford, although defeated, was not disgraced. The game in the early stages looked like a walk-away for Simmer's men who scored three in the first and made it an even half dozen in the second—the same as had been made by Joe Kelley's nine in the second innings on the previous day. Brantford rallied in the third and took a quartette from Cann.

At this stage of the game Fred Harp, R. S. Vanstone and Art Coulbeck, all good Brantford grocers, who were rooting vigorously outside the ropes were seen to bet heavily on their favorites. But Cann was stingy with his hits. He certainly did not earn the epithets thrown at him such as 'rusty' and 'dinged' and so the hard earned dollars of the above named trio were wasted.

The game, which by the way was indoor ball played outdoors, was finally taken by the Hamilton sugar dispensers by the close score of 17 to 12. Some said it was 17 to 14.

"More like a rugby tally," remarked one of the real sports on the side, the disgust on whose countenance showed plainly that he had come to see better ball.

The Brantford battery was composed of two individuals known as Woodley and Minnes, the former doing the twirling. He was touched freely in the first two innings when Simmer's nine scored nine runs. This was due to the fact that he was given no opportunity to get his wing in shape and after that was accomplished—well to make a long story short, Casey wants to sign him for the Montreal Royals. Struthers was in uniform with the losers and played mighty good ball. When he held out his basket very few of the high-fliers touched terra firma. Harp played a tune every time Woodley struck out a man. Needless to say the music was as scarce as credit buyers in a departmental store. McCallum held down second and there was no light-weight about his playing. The real good measure, however, stood on first-base for the Mountain City boys, as when the game was over the sack was found to be completely sunk into the earth.

When the smoke of battle cleared away, 'My Lady Nicotine' got in her work, each of the winners being the proud possessor of a box of cigars.

The winners handed in their names to the official scorer as follows:

Cann, p; Smith, r.s.s.; Hobson, c; Williamson, 1b; Lavis, 2b; Simmers, 3b; Cummings, l.s.s.; Clendenning, r.f.; Lampman, l.f.

Jack Foley called the strikes and balls and informed each side when there was a change of innings. He was the umpire and there were few kicks against his decisions.

The Baby as King.

A few thousand people did homage to a circle of individuals of the infant kingdom when the baby contest was announced by John Forth. It was held on the band-stand and everybody had to give 'way to the young lords and ladies. Some thirty mothers entered their offspring in the competition and when the critical eyes of Mayor McLaren, of Hamilton, and John Forth ran around the circle the winners were named as follows:

1st—Teddy Darington.
2nd—Beatrice Learmont.
3rd—Russell Culm.

A special prize donated by Geo. E. Bristol & Co., for the fattest baby boy was won by Georgie Henderson, while a lassie named Passmore took the special in the fattest baby girl contest.

There was also a competition for aged ladies, the prize to be donated to the oldest on the grounds. Five entered, the winner being Mrs. Decatur who has reached her 84th birthday. She resides at 255 Queen St., South, Hamilton. H. Cave, 342 Catherine St., North, Hamilton, with the following of eight, won the prize for the largest family on the grounds.

Some Speeding Events.

The running races presented some fine amusement. Despite the fact that the rain came down incessantly but not heavily, the ropes surrounding the sprinting field were lined seven and eight deep. Others more particular about their clothing looked on from the vantage ground on the side of the hill.

But the latter missed the fine finishes in many of the races. To see the young ladies slide across the line and win by a toe-length is something that does not come within everybody's observation every day. It would have made even the famed base ball base-stealers green with envy. The grass was of course wet and other things were green as well and may have needed more than one application of some of the varieties of soap advertised on the grounds.

The events for girls, young ladies married ladies and fat ladies were extra well filled up. In fact the grounds were scarcely wide enough and especially was this the case, when Announcer John Forth called for entries in the event "fat ladies under one ton."

Some fell in almost all the feminine events and those not quite so fleet of foot went over them which made things exciting for the onlookers.

The only event which could not claim an entry was the Association Race open only to Brantford and Hamilton members of their respective associations. Why this was the case is hard to fathom because they all looked like sprinters.

When it came to the Chicken Catching

JAS. MAIN, one of the Workers Who Helped Make the Affair Successful.

Contest there was considerable fun. Live chickens were liberated and chased by girls under the ages of sixteen.

Those who won prizes in the running events were as follows and in the order mentioned:

Shoe Race.—D. Slattery, J. A. Carmichael, Geo. Reid.

Girls' Three-Legged Race.—Misses M. Young and E. Atwell; Misses M. Ronald and J. Hunter; Misses A. Hill and A. Johnston.

Single Ladies' Race.—Miss E. Hasselfelt, Miss E. Lewis, Miss A. Smith.

Hundred Yards Race, open.—J. Manewell.

Chicken Catching Contest.—A. Lyons, A. Johnston, L. Hasselfelt.

Red Rose Tea Race.—Misses L. Hasselfelt, G. Stewart, E. Lyon, Mrs. Milburn.

Owing to the condition of the weather the day fireworks was not completed. Several shells, however, were sent aloft filled with coupons for shoe polish, blue, soap, jello, ammonia, starch, etc. There was considerable scrambling done particularly among the youths and several thousand coupons gathered up.

The joint associations served tea, coffee and milk free to everybody. All that was necessary to have were coupons which were handed out to every person on the trains. Connected with this was a guessing contest for prizes donated by Comfort Soap, the prizes going to the first six who came nearest to the number who would be supplied with tea, coffee, milk and lemonade for dinner and tea.

Programmes By The Bands.

There was no dearth of music. The associations brought with them the 91st Highlanders Band, of Hamilton, and under the leadership of Bandmaster Stares presented a high-class programme of marches, overtures, cornet solos, etc.

The rube band was one of the special features particularly when Bay Hill had the handling of its members. The 'music' from the balcony of the New Park Mansion House would float out over the lawns and among the rustling tree-leaves; alternating with this impressive softness, brilliancy and inspiring force would be given to the stormy and strenuous passages, according as Bay Hill interpreted the succeeding notes. As an artistic interpreter he commands the respect of all. This rube band was composed of one or two represetatives from Dundas, one from Sousa's following but the rest were not labelled, due it was said, to some oversight on the part of the band-master.

One of the chief reasons why the joint picnics were successful was the fact that they were well advertised. Both associations had published an abundance of literature telling all about the events that were to be. The programmes were attractive and neatly arranged so that everybody was apprised of what would happen before they had their minds made up to attend. The workers in both associations talked the picnics up; not only that—they worked. Therefore in spite of the rain the crowd was larger than ever before.

Director of Ceremonies.

Officers of the Brantford association are: A. Coulbeck, president; Norman Willits, secretary and A. L. Vanstone, treasurer. The ticket committee was Jas. Burns and A. L. Vanstone, and the printing committee, Fred Harp and Phil. Truss.

The officers of the Hamilton Association are: John Forth, president, George Cann, 1st vice-president, Ed. Hazel, 2nd vice-president; James Main, treasurer; M. R. Hill, secretary; Executive Committee.—John O. Carpenter, Chairman; A. Lavis, J. M. Semmens, A. G. Bain, W. Smye, jr.

Committees in charge of the picnic were: Transportation— J. Kirkpatriek, A. G. Bain, J. O. Carpenter, W. Smye, jr., J. Main.

Printing—W. Smye, jr., E. Hazel, J. O. Carpenter, J. Main.

Refreshments—A. G. Bain, E. Hazel, J. Main, G. Cann, W. Smye, jr.

Amusement—J. A. McIntosh, H. Taylor, G. Dawson, B. Crysler, G. Cann, J. A. McIntosh, M. R. Hill, J. Forth.

Music—H. Taylor, Jas. Main, J. A. McIntosh, Geo. Cann.

Games—J. M. Semmens, A. Lavis, E. H. Young, J. Forth.

Reception Committee—C. H. Peebles, J. Kirkpatrick.

Heard Between the Drops.

There was a committee to look after all babies on the grounds. It consisted of the men here named, Bay Hill, Jim Main, Jack Forth, Billy Smye, and Andy Bain. By special request the name of Jack Carpenter was added.

Everybody saw Fluffy Ruffies slide across the line for second place in one of the races and even then she was not caught. You could tell her by her white stockings which were quickly turned to green.

The judges at the finishing post in the foot-race events were Alex Fraser, of Balfour Smye & Co., Hamilton; Wm. Jackson, of Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton; and Jas. Price, of Geo. E. Bristol and Co. They were very fond of allowing Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in the ladies' races take refuge in the circle of their arms.

The clerk of the course was John L. Brown who cast envious eyes at times at the judges when the girls were crossing the tape.

J. M. Semmens, chairman of the games committee, spoiled a new hat purchased for the occasion.

Early in the morning some fast pigeons were released, which with more than human instinct winged their lofty flight back to their homes beneath the mountain.

Had Arthur Coulbeck's hand been in shape there would have been a different story to tell about the baseball game.

The races were keenly contested but a friendly spirit at all times prevailed. "Where's the man that beat me?" asked one 100-yard sprinter and when the 'goods' was produced warmly shook him by the hand. One came from Hamilton and the other was a Brantford turf coverer.

White-duck trousers for stealing bases on a rainy day are not exactly what they are cracked up to be.

"Did you win?" "No! I fell."

A. Lavis, Wm. Jackson, jr., and Geo. Morton occupied the treasurer's tent from where orders for prizes were issued. It was beseiged by crowds all afternoon, yet the trio affirmed that it was 'dry' inside.

John Forth didn't remin long on the grand-stand when the baby show was over—evidently he knows the danger of an argument with a woman.

Woodley's wing did not round into shape soon enough for the Brantford ball team, but he made a strong finish.

The treasurer of the Hamilton association was one of the the 'Main'-stays of the day. N. B.—This is positively a new joke.

Jack Carpenter should have been one, if he can build houses as well as picnic-plans.

Bay Hill said unto the president: Come Forth, and Forth came forth with a megaphone.

Talk about Harry Lauder—but when it comes to the Scotch sword-dance, bet on Adam Ballantyne.

"Betting on ball-games is as bad as selling groceries to a dead-beat," was one of Fred. Harp's mental observations.

"There must be no further speeches until the band plays," was the after-dinner speech of C. H. Peebles.

C. H. Peebles, by the way, is a band leader too. When Bay Hill was called upon for his address the former captained the band.

Assistant Supt. Pue, of Queen Victoria Park promises the fatted calf to the Hamilton and Brantford grocers every year.

One who does not believe in talking while he eats is Andy Bain—but that made no difference to the 'table-round.'

Geo. E. Bristol, Hamilton, was one of the interested guests at the picnic.

All the ball players were presented with Magic Baking Powder caps prior to the game.

Notwithstanding the fact that the band players drank orangeade during the day—handed out freely by Sam Qua —there were no Twelfth-of-July tunes heard.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Soap sales in Hamilton and Brantford during the week have been remarkable.

"There's something in the parting hour
"Will kill the warmest heart."

Steam and electrically driven trains will be a thing of the past when next year's picnic comes around. The Hamilton secretary has under consideration the invention of a magnet that will pull a train from Hamilton to Niagara once it is let loose at the former station. There will be smoke-balls to denote danger and a syringe on the compressed air plan to draw the coaches from the mouth of peril back to a place of safety. The invention will of course be patented.

Geo. McKenzie, represented Minto Bros. at the picnic. One of the prizes was a ten pound package of Melagama Tea.

It was the eighth annual picnic and the first rainy day.

Among other prize donators were The MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., and The Imperial Cocoa and Spice Co.

The crowd from Brantford was proportionately as large as that from Hamilton.

A STEP UP THE LADDER.

Brantford Grocery Clerk Forsakes the Counter for the Road—He will Sell Tea.

Brantford, July 27.—Grocers in a number of Western Ontario towns and cities will soon be greeted by a new traveler selling Red Rose Tea. L. Pratt, who has been on the selling staff for the above named company for the past 13 years, is leaving the road. His beat will henceforth be taken by Delmere D. Butler, a young man who has as a grocery clerk

"been weighed in the balance and not found wanting."

Mr. Butler has made himself a salesman by his tact and energy. He has spent eleven years serving the public behind the counter, three in Simcoe and eight in Brantford. While here he was employed for four years by F. C. Harp, who will testify to his ability as an efficient painstaking clerk, and who predicts a successful future for the young traveling salesman. Mr. Butler has literary tastes and besides acting as regular correspondent for The Canadian Grocer here for some time, he also contributed several articles in Salesmanship, which have been favorably commented on by many readers of that journal in many places.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY

FEATURES OF THE MARKET.

A glimpse over the columns showing market prices of various commodities in different sections of Canada, provides some interesting and profitable reading. It will show that in most cases purely local conditions have much to do with prices while in other cases they depend on generalities.

The sugar market is somewhat changed with prices on the upward incline, but for how long is difficult to tell. Two brands advancing during the week to retailers and two Canadian refineries have hung their prices higher on all their products. The cause is attributed to the advances in raws.

Canned goods for future delivery are yet difficult commodities to fathom, but it looks as if the opening prices on at least strawberries and peas would have been the most favorable to retail buyers. Both have advanced since, due to the short season and backward crops, respectively. Salmon prices are out, as will be seen by quotations in the canned goods market section. Prices are lower than they were a year ago, but in some cases not very much.

The Halifax market indicates that flour will relax some in anticipation of the new wheat crops and stock. Strawberries from New Brunswick are selling there at 15c per box.

In Winnipeg evaporated apples have advanced a cent a pound recently, while prices on new pack canned strawberries and peas are stiffening.

Calgary market shows new potatoes selling at 6 lbs. for 25 cents, while in Brantford they are 35 cents per peck, and in Galt 40 cents.

A feature in the Vancouver market is lard, which has recently gone away up in price, while in St. John, N. B., oatmeal declines 40c per barrel.

Western crops are spelendid and if not marred by August frosts, as they were last year, the west will be as buoyant as it was during the years of prosperity before the recent depression.

HOLIDAYS FOR CLERKS.

Give clerks their holidays. It will pay to do this, even on the principle that it pays to take care of a machine. Holidays certainly tend to improve the efficiency of a clerk. The better the health the better the efficiency of the average man, and holidays tend to improve the health.

Every clerk is perhaps not worth being given a holiday, but clerks that are not worth being given a holiday are not worth keeping in the store.

A well spent holiday makes a healthier, brighter, and more efficient all round man behind the counter.

If you have not already tried this do it now.

EFFECT OF INEXPERIENCE.

Recent correspondence in The Grocer from an Ontario city, told of a retail grocer giving up his business and going "back to the farm."

This is worthy of more attention than at first might appear. If the merchant were making a success of the grocery business, it is not likely he would give it up.

Competent men are needed in the grocery trade as well as in any other. Here is where too many are led astray. Whenever times become dull, we see, particularly in the outskirts of a town or city several small corner groceries spring up in the front rooms of small residences. The new proprietors have little or no knowledge of how the business should be conducted; they forget that it costs something to do business—to maintain fixtures, to provide for fuel and light and for the general wear and tear of things. They give time to all-comers, so anxious are they to obtain trade, and undersell their competitors.

All these things tend to work out their ruin, and go to show that incompetency in business is not by any means a qualification of the successful merchant.

MERITS OF CONDENSED MILK.

The present is an opportune time for the display and advertising of condensed milk. A great deal is just now being heard about investigations into and conferences on the purity of milk supplies so that with guaranteed products such as are produced by Canadian factories, grocers have a splendid talking point.

Condensed milk is one of those commodities that has merited a large sale throughout Canada. It is pure and wholesome and just what was required on the market. There can be little or no question as to its purity and grocers should take advantage, and especially now, of this fact. They should experience little difficulty in selling condensed milk if the proper method is taken.

Another strong talking point in the grocer's favor is the existence of the camping season. A can of condensed milk dispells the worries of the morning sleeper in rising in time to catch the milkman. Campers need condensed milk but they should be given a gentle reminder by the grocer that they do need it. One would be surprised to find how quickly it sells when its merits are known.

IMPORTANCE OF BRANDS.

Most goods which now leave the grocery store for the consuming public may be named under a particular brand. The importance of brands has, of course, been long ago recognized and rightly so. The consumer knows exactly what he wants, once he has tested and found a particular variety of food-stuff to his living. He asks for that brand every time.

If on the other hand he purchases goods which are known by no particular name and which have been purchased by the retailer with no particular method of manufacture in view, the consumer is not liable to get what he wants every time. The quality and flavor on some occasions are bound to vary.

The result is that the consumer loses faith in all such goods, which obviously depreciates the quantity sold and depreciates it according to the number of consumers who become displeased.

On the other hand branded goods are manufactured by the same methods at all times so that there is less chance in varying from the straight and narrow path when it comes to quality, density and flavor. The retailer is placed in such a position that he knows the desires of his customers. A demand is created and he can supply that demand because he knows exactly what the requirements are.

Of course in many cases the consumer does not ask for a particular brand but it is always good policy on the part of the retailer to study the tastes of those who are specific in their demands. When customers are offered the "just as good" variety they usually go elsewhere to get what they desire.

A Day of Pleasure for the Montreal Retail Grocers

Journey Out To Maple Grove Park And Forget Their Counters, Scales And Things — Races, Ball-Games, Boating, And The Tripping Of The Light Fantastic Among The Day's Enjoyments.

(Staff Correspondence.)

Montreal, July 27.—An engine drawing twelve loaded passenger coaches rumbled slowly into the Windsor Station, Montreal, last Wednesday evening, and a thousand tired, play-weary, rest-seeking individuals stepped or jumped off and started on the shortest route for home.

SECRETARY SARRAZIN,

It was the twenty-ninth time the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association and friends of members of that body had returned from the association picnic, an annual event looked forward to with keenest pleasure by all.

This year Maple Grove was the place chosen for the holding of the picnic, and a more ideal spot would have been difficult to find.

Only fifty minutes' run from Montreal, Chateauguay direction, by train, it was not a tiresome trip to the grounds, but just of sufficient length to give the boys an opportunity of meeting one another.

Once the grounds were reached, no time was lost in starting the games, which were continued till mid-afternoon.

Not a minute was lost. As many as half a dozen different attractions claimed attention at once. It beat the old-time, three-ring circus, but, somehow or other, everybody seemed to be able to keep track of all that was going on.

This was probably because those who were running the picnic were so efficient. Take Fred Hodge, for instance. While he admits himself that he cannot sell coffee to two grocers at one and the same time, he was, nevertheless, able, in his capacity as a judge, to do three things at once. These three things were: to waltz most beautifully in the dancing pavilion; to catch the winner in the fat mens' race, and to give out orders for prizes to the winners of various events. To use the slang expression, is not this "going some?" And the other officials were equally energetic.

There was quite a nice banquet at half past twelve, and, as usual, everybody had a good time.

Two baseball games, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, livened up proceedings considerably, and attracted and held the attention of the baseball fans.

Many found considerable amusement in the boating, which was very good in the neighborhood. One large party of grocers went off in a gasoline launch as soon as the train arrived—and got back in time to catch the cars for home.

There was a fine floor for dancing, and a good orchestra, and not a few spent considerable time thus passing the day.

Caught on the Fly.

Phanuef won the $5 all right. Someone said it was more than he could have made had he worked the day in the store. How ridiculous!

Ed MacDonald was right there when it came to races.

They say Joe Murphy turned down an offer to play second base on the Montreal ball team. Joe is too good for Jimmy Casey's aggregation. His specialty is "grass cutters."

Where was Walter Gaden? (Ans.—Selling insurance). We missed you, Walter.

Our old friend Tamilkande was there with a sunny smile and a glad hand.

Fred Hodge was not the only "two at the same time" performer. Billy Murray was responsible for the distribution of those fantastic Magic Baking Powder caps, but what else was he doing.

Walter Snowdon firmly vows that he would rather play second base than umpire a ball game any day.

Harry Taylor can look after a score card just as well as he can sell brooms.

As usual, friend Beaudry looked after everyone.

Did anyone find out what secretary Seguin carried in that great, big grip? Lots of people were anxious to know.

Charlie Woods put his knee in front of a fast ball. Now he's sorry he did. Too bad. But it did not spoil his good time.

Did the kid get the quarter?

Where were the wholesalers? We missed several faces.

The ladies were mighty pleased with those "Bordo" fans. We can see friend Hodgson's hand here.

"Always on Top" was the inscription on the ballon sent up by the Ogilvie Flour Mills Company.

Armand Malo has a masterful voice which proved very useful behind a megaphone.

President Dore was kept busy all the way through. He had a ready smile for everybody.

"Five Roses" was not lost sight of by any means.

First Vice-president E. Boileau is some hustler all right.

Some of the travelers noticed present were: Messrs. Charland, Grenier and Rousseau, (Hudon, Hebert & Co.); Fred Hodge (Chase & Sanborn); Sullivan, Drouin and Carrignan (Laporte, Martin & Co.); Trepannier, (Matthews, Fortier & Monette); Bell, (Lang Mfg. Co.); Geoffrion, Lamarche and Hardy (Chaput Fils & Cie.); Brais (Jodoin, Maloney & Lawrence); Alarie and Gagnier (Montreal Biscuit Company); Langlois (Viau Frere); Langlois (Gunn, Langlois & Co.); Middleton, (Tamilkande Tea Co.); Levesque, d'Orsennes, Labreche, (Hudon & Orsali); Woods, (D. S. Perrin & Co.).

Placide Daoust had his picture taken seventeen times—more or less.

Everybody was home by eight o'clock.

That farmer's horse was drawing a great load.

Treasurer Laniel had the time of his life getting some of those races started.

"A Leader For Over Fifty Years." What?

The Hoxie team, in their neat uniforms, attracted considerable attention.

Who was it got off at Caughnawaga by mistake?

Notes from the Maritime Provinces and Quebec

Grocery Trade Changes in Sherbrooke—Strike Has Bad Effect on Trade—Move to Widen New Brunswick Potato Markets.

HALIFAX.

July 27.—All the wholesale grocers are complaining of the serious effect of the strike in the coal fields of Cape Breton. Few orders of any consequence are being placed as the store-keepers are not over confident of the situation. All the dealers agree that business has received a serious setback as a result of this labor war. There is no prospect of a settlement in sight, and therefore business cannot go ahead at the present stage.

The dealers report trade in other parts of the province good, and the outlook is most favorable for a busy season. Reports continue to come in of bright crop prospects in various parts of the province, and there is a fairly good demand for fish at the advanced prices. The market is abundantly supplied with fruit, and prices are fairly reasonable for the quality of the stock offered.

W. J. Mooney, president of the Mooney Biscuit and Candy Co., of Stratford, Ont., accompanied by his wife, were in the city this week. This was Mr. Mooney's first visit to Nova Scotia. He expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the province. He is combining business with pleasure, and while here he appointed C. E. Choat, as the Halifax representative of his firm. He also leased a warehouse on Water Street. After completing his business in the city, Mr. and Mrs Mooney left for Hubbard's Cove, a summer resort near Halifax, on a short visit.

W. B. Wood, a former mayor of Brantford, Ont., was in Cape Breton this week in the interests of the Brant-Wood Flour Mills, of Brantford. Mr. Wood is the president of the company.

ST. JOHN.

July 27.—A finely attended and representative meeting of the Produce Shippers' Association of New Brunswick was held in Woodstock last Thursday, when the question of opening new markets for the shipment of potatoes, hay, etc., was discussed. F. E. Williams, F. E. Low and O. B. Akerley, of St. John were present as representatives of steamship companies and Hon. J. K. Fleming, provincial secretary; Hon. Dr. Landry, commissioner of agriculture and W. W. Hubbard, represented the provincial goverment.

Hon. Dr. Landry said that the government was willing to do anything it could to secure new markets for the potato and other crops, and thought it might be well to send a man to see if it were possible to secure a foothold in the Cuban market. The government would pay the expenses of the commissioner and let the association name the man. Last year there were 3,000,000 bushels of potatoes raised in this province—more than the previous year—and the increase would be equally large this year, hence the necessity for more markets.

There has been little change in the local markets during the past week. Oatmeal has declined 40 cents a barrel for both roller and standard. Flours and sugars are unchanged.

New potatoes are coming in freely and are selling at $1 to $1.20 a bushel. New green peas and beans are quite plentiful.

SHERBROOKE.

July 27.—The grocery trade in this city has made rapid strides since the beginning of the year, each one of the twenty-five stores reporting a brisk and highly satisfactory business, not one being affected to any extent by the financial crisis of last winter. Three changes have been made in ownership, one in partnership and one new store has been opened since the first of January.

The grocery store on Montreal Street, for the past two years successfully carried on by A. A. Thornton, has been taken over by Frank A. Hovey, who is carrying on the business under the name of the Montreal Street Provision Company, with a full line of groceries, fruits, confectionery, vegetables and meat. Mr.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—

Advance in sugar.

Salmon prices all out.

Strength of peas and strawberries (canned).

Montreal, July 29, 1909.

Sugar was advanced on Monday of this week, 5c all along the line, by one refinery in Montreal. Previously the lower grades had been advanced 10c a barrel by both. Demand for sugar has been heavy, owing to the berry season being in full swing. Canned goods continue to attract as much attention as ever. The situation has cleared up but little. Salmon prices are all out now, and some orders are being booked. Teas are moving satisfactorily. Peas continue scarce, while fair trade in beans is reported. No new advices of interest have been received from California regarding the situation in dried fruits. No foreign advices on a similar subject have been received either.

Business, on the whole, is slack this week.

SUGAR.—Imperial and Beaver granulated sugar were both advanced 10c last Saturday, while on Monday Imperial was advanced another 5c. One of the refiners advanced 5c all along the line, the same day, but the other house did not put up prices at the same moment. Prices are firm. The advances locally are due largelwy to the higher market in New York. In the trade, some think that the lower grades were advanced because of the extremely strong demand there has been for them during the past few weeks. Business is brisk, although the advance caused a temporary falling off in orders, but not noticeably so. Only the advance in the two lower grades mentioned, 15c on the former, and 10c on the latter, are shown below.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.—A few local houses imported a little more molasses than they now feel they can use themselves, and they are offering their surplus for sale to other jobbers not so well supplied, but the figures they ask are firm. Outside of this there has not been any development in the local situation in molasses. Syrups are moving satisfactorily.

DRIED FRUITS.—Demand for Californian dried fruits this week has not been particularly brisk. Buyers locally have most of them arranged for their early supplies, and are now holding off and awaiting developments. Some are expecting lower prices for prunes and raisins, owing to rather large stocks carried over this season. Peaches and apricots are steady. Currants are unchanged this week, while there have been no interesting reports from Spain regarding Valencia raisins.

TEA.—Locally tea dealers are being kept busy with second crop Japans, which are selling freely now. First crop teas are almost nil in first hands in Japan, as previously reported. Demand from the trade is satisfactory.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL. — The higher prices which are being asked for peas form the feature of the market this week. Owing to the probable scarcity figures have been put up to last year's list prices, which are as follows:—

Peas, standards, doz.	$ .82½	$ .87½
Peas, early June, doz.	.87½	.92½
Peas, sweet wrinkled, doz.	.97½	1.02½
Peas, extra sifted, doz.	1.42½	1.47½
Peas, gallons,	3.77½	3.82½

On the other hand there are those among the wholesalers who are quoting at the same figures as were given in these columns last week, as below.

Beans, doz	$ .72½	$ .80
Corn, doz.	.72½	.80
Peas, doz (according to grade)	.72½	1.40
Tomatoes, doz. (Ontario and Quebec)	.75	.82½
Strawberries, doz.	1.32½	1.37½

Some of the other wholesalers will not quote beans, peas or tomatoes under 80c. Fair sales are reported.

Clover Leaf and Horse brands salmon are quoted this week.

Prices are as follows:—

1 lb. talls, per doz.	$1.72½
½lb. flats, per doz.	1.15
1 lb. flats, per doz.	1.87½

Last year's prices were:—

1 lb. talls, per doz.	$2.00
½ lb. flats, per doz.	1.20
1 lb. flats, per doz.	2.15

Meantime other salmon prices remain as last quoted:—

Humpbacks, doz.	$ .95	$1.00
Cohoes, doz.	1.35	1.40
Red Spring, doz.	1.50	1.55
Red Sockeye, doz.	1.55	1.65

TORONTO. — Canners, or at least a number of them, and wholesalers scarcely know where they are at when it comes to prices on canned goods. Some packers are not quoting at all, awaiting to see what others intend to do. Others are booking a limited number of orders, but as a general rule they do not care to sell at prices named. The partial cause of this unsettled condition of affairs is the crop prospects, and until they are definitely known, the market will remain unsettled.

Peas are firmer than they were as the crops have shown a backward tendency due to the dry weather of some time ago. They are now practically up to last year's list prices. Strawberries are also dearer. Some of the local jobbers are quoting the following prices for future deliverey:—

Beans,	$ .75	$ .80
Corn	.75	.80
Peas (according to grade)	.80	1.40
Tomatoes	77½	.80
Strawberries	1.32½	1.37½

Raspberries have not yet been quoted to the retailer. at least not generally.

Clover Leaf and Horseshoe brands of salmon are quoted as follows:—

1 lb. talls, per doz.	$1.72½
½ lb. flats, per doz.	1.15
1 lb. flats, per doz.	1.87½

These prices are about 25, 5, and 30 cents lower than last year's. Other salmon is not generally quoted here yet, that is, Humpbacks, Cohoes, Red Springs and Red Sockeye.

The salmon run in British Columbia began this week and first reports told of immense quantities of the fish having been caught. Whether the season will average up to what it was four years ago is not yet known.

Just at the time of going to press a despatch was received from Montreal stating that St. Lawrence sugar advanced five cents following Monday's advance on other sugars.. This affects the retailer both so far as the Montreal and Toronto markets are concerned.

ONTARIO MARKETS

POINTERS—

Sugar—Advance in a few cases.

Shelled Almonds—Primary market higher.

Beans—Good demand but no beans.

Toronto, July 29, 1909.

Jobbers have no complaints with regard to the quantity of trade during the past week. Sugar for preserving is selling freely on a firmer market than existed a week ago. In fact prices have advanced on a couple of grades and a couple of refineries have also put up prices 5c on all their sugars to the distributors, but this has not increased the retailers' price up to the present. The cause is the healthier state of the raw market with the closing of the Cuban season.

Beans and evaporated apples are wanted, but stocks are not big enough to supply the calls on account of unattractive prices, particularly in the case of beans. Canned goods are moving fairly well, but on the whole retailers are backward about buying.

While collections are only fair, business is in a healthy condition generally.

SUGAR—The sugar market presents some slight changes this week, prices on Beaver granulated and Imperial granulated advancing 10 and 15 cents respectively. This is due to a healthier condition in the raw market where advances have recently occurred. The Cuban crop has nearly closed, after which no new sugars will be ready before October and November. The beet sugar market is also up. Two Canadian refineries have made an advance of 5c on their sugars, but this has not yet affected the distributor's price to retailer. On account of the preserving season being here local demand is stimulated.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES—Trade is slim with these goods just now with no new features to mark the situation.

TEA—Demand for Ceylon tea on the London market has been good and prices in consequence showed a higher tendency. Flavory sorts were particularly well sought after. Although new season's Indian tea is on offer rather earlier than last year, advices still report a backward season and quantities shipped to the London market were appreciably less than a year ago. Heavy Ceylon shipments made up for this however. The market for Javas is also strong with harder prices.

COFFEE—Quietness reigns yet in the coffee market although, as was reported last week, there is good demand for cheaper grades.

DRIED FRUITS—While there is not much attention being paid in Ontario to dried fruits, the primary markets are interesting. Prunes and raisins, according to California reports are inclined to stand a little easier. Apricots have not the strength they recently had. This crop is said to be not up to expectations.

NUTS—It's almost out of place to talk about nuts at this season of the year, as little business is occurring. The primary market in shelled almonds and shelled walnuts is up, the opening price on the former being from 7 to 8 cents per pound higher than a year ago. Spain and France are the homes of these. The cause is attributed to damp weather and frosts.

BEANS—Another demand-wave comes from construction and mining camp districts for beans, but the prices are so high and the article so scarce that business is small. There is not likely to be any change for lower prices until the harvesting of the new crop.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Prices on these goods remain high and steady with not much stock in sight. Sales are being made to the retail around 7½c, but this is considered to be rather low.

Salmon Run at the Coast Not Delayed More Than Usual—Weather Good for Prairie Crops—Manitoba Merchants Want Better Roads.

VANCOUVER.

July 27.—The first of the early Crawford peaches from California are being sold at $1.30 per crate, and wholesalers are trying to persuade housekeepers to preserve now if they intend to, as the supply is said to be limited, and the price may go up. Ordinarily it is not known what is the cause, as sometimes this cry is made for the purpose of getting rid of large stocks at good prices. Later on, it may be as stated, and it may be the other way. In this instance, it looks as if the announcement is correct, as all along this season the report has been that the peach crop in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, was much affected by last winter's frosts. The same announcement was made in regard to apricots, and now the price of this fruit is such as to prohibit preserving, the figure being $2. Very few apricots from the States immediately south of this province have come on the market, and it looks as if the supply will be short.

Lard is quite dear, being jobbed at 15½ cents for compound and 16½ for pure in threes and fives, while it is ½ cent lower in the larger tins. The former price was 13½ cents. The increase is only three cents, but it gives a bigger margin to the grocer, as it retails at 20 cents, as compared with the former 15 cents.

A canneryman from the Fraser River told The Grocer that the rumor that the salmon were unusually late is unfounded. The big run is not really due until the full moon of August 1, brings in the high tides. It is expected that large catches will obtain that week and after. Four years ago, the run did not start until July 27 or 28, while 1901 there was no signs of fish until July 27, so that the season is not late yet.

The Vancouver Grain Milling Co., which has shipped flour and grain to Europe on previous occasions, is making this week its first shipment of flour via the Suez canal to England. The Blue Funnel liner Teucer will carry 75 tons. Five hundred tons were sent by way of the Horn during the winter.

Victoria wholesale fruit dealers are discussing the advisibility of taking some action to prevent the shipment from the south of badly infected fruit. A large quantity has been arriving during the immediate past from San Francisco, and where dealers have not bought "subject to inspection," the loss has been considerable. Much fruit has been condemned. The local regulations while strict are not drastic, the intention being to prevent orchards in British Columbia from becoming infected with the pests, which have worked such havoc in the South. To drive the local man against the Government, some of the shippers in the South refuse to ship, while others charge a higher price. The result is that some of the dealers charge that the inspection is too severe. It is not probable though that the Government will relax, as it is found if any loophole is given the worst kind of fruit is piled in from the South.

The Kelowna Canning Company, at Kelowna, B.C., started operations this week. Beans is the first vegetable to be prepared.

PRINCE RUPERT.

July 26.—There is a general "move" on the part of the people who have been doing business in what is known as Knoxville. This is caused by the railway company requiring the land for piling the rails which are expected to arrive here in about two months. Owing to this general move the Prince Rupert Grocery Co. are advertising their stock at cost. They are the only firm in Prince Rupert that are doing a grocery business exclusively.

J. A. Kirkpatrick, who has been doing a grocery and gents' furnishing business, has decided to in future handle the latter line only, so has cleared out his grocery stock.

J. E. Merryfield, who has been carrying on a general business, has decided to confine himself to groceries only, so that in about a month's time he will remove his general stock to a branch that he is opening up on the Skeena River, about 100 miles north.

Clark & Iver are opening a wholesale produce and general commission business on 3rd Ave. between 7th and 8th Sts.

C. F. Swain, confectioner and tobacconist, has sold to D. Miln, late of Calgary.

MERCHANTS PAY $5 EACH.

This is to Settle the Debts Contracted by Retail Merchants of Western Canada.

Winnipeg, July 27.—The National Trust Company have received an order from the court to impose a levy of five dollars upon each of the members of the old organization of Retail Merchants of Western Canada. This levy is made in order that the debts contracted by the association, under the alleged manipulation of the defaulting secretary, and for which each member becomes liable, might be paid. It is estimated that the levy will be sufficient to pay off about $2,500,—the amount for which the association is directly liable. The merchants do not complain about the situation, but express satisfaction with the way in which the court and National Trust Company have dealt with their affairs. It is expected that a meeting will be held in the near future at which the retail merchants will endorse the action of the court, and proceed to act upon it. At this meeting also, officers will be elected for a permanent organization of the local retail merchants. It is understood that the grocers, butchers and druggists will organize distinct sections, but as yet no steps have been taken by these sections. Local grocers are more anxious to form a distinct organization than to enter into a general retail merchants' association. The fact that the various sections have distinct interests to serve would seem to warrant the development of separate organization. At the present time, however, it is to be regretted that the grocers particularly show little enthusiasm toward an organization of any kind.

REGINA.

July 27.—S. C. Burton, local manager for Cameron & Heap, Ltd., returned on Friday morning from a month's holidays spent in Kenora, Fort William, Hamilton and Toronto.

Business generally is good and is improving all the time. The wholesale fruit houses both report business as being brisk. Raspberries, peaches, plums and apples are probably the best sellers, along with tomatoes, cucumbers, etc. The blueberry season will probably open about the middle of next week and most of the merchants here have orders booked for regular daily shipments.

The Regina Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition opened on Tuesday, the 27th inst.

The summer trade is keeping up well in the general line. There was a slight reaction following the Xmas-like trade of exhibition week, but at present the trade is not dull in either the wholesale or retail business. Grocers in the towns and cities throughout the country are laying in stocks preparatory to the heavy harvest and fall trade.

Produce and Provision Situation of the World

Live Hogs Still the Centre of Interest—Scarce Supplies Cause Partial Closing Down of Packing House — Butter and Cheese Situation Slightly Better Than in Early July—Eggs Declining in Offerings.

Live hogs continue to be the uppermost topic discussed by produce and provision men. The high prices of a week ago are still advancing, and while no actual market quotation is given in advance of last week's figures, ($8 per hundredweight), still not a single sale is recorded at anything below that quotation, and even higher prices have been asked. Packers say the whole subject is one of politics, with the farmer reaping the benefit and holding the whip hand. Supplies are very scarce, so much so that many packing houses are operating but three days a week, and some only two. The prospect of a large new packing house at Toronto does not seem to make those in the trade any better pleased.

Butter has seen better trading this week, and supplies a little more plentiful, though none too great for present demands. Eggs are more scarce, both in Ontario and Quebec, and the supplies arriving on the larger markets have to be carefully candled.

The cheese situation is not much changed since last week. Supplies are low, but demand is little also. On the whole the make is increasing, but there is not so much for export as was the case a year ago.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Very little business is being done this week. Hams and bacon are selling in small lots, while there is more or less demand for pork and lard, but, on the whole, trade has been slack. Prices continue unchanged.

BUTTER—A slightly easier feeling was noticeable in the butter market this week. In Cowansville, on Saturday 22c and 22½c was paid, while in St. Hyacinthe 22c was the highest. Locally, buyers are pretty well filled up, and are not inclined to purchase anyway heavily. This had something to do with the less independent stand holders made on the markets. Receipts continue heavy. Last week 18,523 packages were received, against 16,901 packages same week in 1908. Total receipts since May 1 amount to 176,634 packages, against 189,113 packages same period last year. Exports continue to be practically nil, only 714 packages going out last week, against 9,060 packages same week 1908. Total exports amount to but 2,404 packages, against 46,344 packages same period last year.

CHEESE—An easier feeling in cheese this week has not resulted in any actual change in quotations. Receipts continue good, while export business is quite satisfactory. Receipts during the last week amounted to 102,415 boxes, against 90,511 same week a year ago. This brings total receipts for the season up to 776,973 boxes, against 768,561 packages for the same period 1908. The exports last week were 56,344 boxes, against 73,700 same week last year. EGGS—Eggs are not so plentiful this week. Supplies are being brought to the city by express, freight being too slow this warm weather. This has something to do with the shortage. Quality is fairly satisfactory. Receipts last week were 3,749 cases, against 3,623 cases same week last year. Total receipts for the season amount to 113,745 cases, against 118,813 cases same period 1908.

PROVISIONS—With the exception of pea meal backs, which have gone up ½c a pound, there is no change in the price schedule of pork products or lard. Hog supplies are even scarcer than last week however, and the market is very firm. Good business has been done during the early part of the week, commencing with the first dry day, and the prospects are that it will so continue. Stocks while fair are none too large in face of the present demand, though no great anxiety is felt by traders.

BUTTER—The past few days have seen larger quantities of butter brought into the market. While supplies are greater than this day last week, there has been no lowering of the prices, so great is the demand. Quite large quantities are being stocked for future use, though dealers and farmers are not getting the high prices prevailing last year.

EGGS—Eggs have gone up a cent over last week and are scarce at the new figure. Supplies are being rushed on the market, but no large single lots are offering. Demand is fine, but by far the larger number are being candled and packed.

POULTRY—All poultry lines with the exception of spring ducks are firmer. Spring chickens, especially, are high and hard to obtain. Live poultry are the wanted lines, though some few dressed hens are asked for. On the whole the trading situation is only fair with supplies low.

TRADE NOTES.

C. W. Ouellette, with Hudon, Hebert & Co., Montreal, is taking his holidays next week.

Mr. Ward, of J. L. Mott & Co., Halifax, was in Montreal this week visiting the trade with J. A. Taylor, of J. M. Douglas & Co., their agents.

C. S. McGillivray, Picton, Ont., has been appointed inspector of fruit and vegetable canning factories under the Meat and Canned Goods Act. This position was held by the late F. E. N. Boulter who died recently in Detroit.

Armand Chaput, of L. Chaput Fils & Cie., Montreal, has returned from the west. Mr. Chaput attended the convention of the Canada Wholesale Grocers' Exchange, and made the trip the occasion of a little holiday. He came back by boat.

Some Interesting Ontario Grocery Correspondence

Brantford Co-operative Society Not Cutting an Extra Big Swath—Picnics Galore in London — Rain Deferred Galt Merchants Excursion—Dry Weather Around Chatham Interferes With Raspberry Crop.

BRANTFORD.

July 28.—The general run of grocery trade in this city has not been affected by the co-operative movement. It cannot be said that the new concern has cut into custom or prices. The local grocers have made no efforts to counteract the promised effects of the movement—effects which, have not yet materialized. The field is practically the same as formerly. One feature that may be noted is that the local grocers generally speaking, make very little use of the newspapers in booming their lines. On Saturday in one of the leading local dailies there were only five grocers represented in the advertising columns. Their ads. were good, all well gotten up and timely, but it does seem that the proportion is somewhat meagre as compared with the large number of grocers who are doing business here. Judicious advertising, no matter what the line, always pays.

About 1,600 Brantfordites took in the grocers' excursion to the Falls and Buffalo last week. The local committee were highly complimented on the success of the outing.

LONDON.

July 28.—Wholesale trade showed improvement the past week. Teas of all kinds are firm; no quotations are yet to hand for low-grade Japans. Coffees are firm. Sugar keeps dealers guessing. The price of raws is higher proportionately than refined, which are steady and firm. Reports have been received as to California fruit crop prospects, which are good for all kinds except apricots, which will be a short crop.

Last week was one of picnics among the food-providing trades. On Wednesday afternoon the Retail Grocers' Association held their promised excursion to Port Stanley, with a moonlight trip on Lake Erie in the evening. Close on two thousand people took in the event. The steamer Lakeside was filled to its utmost capacity, and even then there were a great many who were unable to secure accommodation. The ride proved to be a most enjoyable one, and the party also had a splendid trip home via the Pere Marquette and Traction Company lines.

On the same day the annual grocers' excursion to Niagara Falls was held and was patronized by about a thousand people. The trip was made via the M.C.R. On arriving at the Falls, the picnickers, whose number had been augmented by many from St. Thomas, found contingents from Hamilton, Brantford, Aylmer, Springfield and Tillsonburg already on the ground. A very delightful day was spent, which, fortunately, was not marred by any accident, even of the most trivial nature. There were three or four bands in atendance, which helped to make the day more enjoyable. The time was spent in seeing the sights and in a series of sports. The return trip was somewhat delayed through a heated axle on one of the coaches, which necesitated the coach being left behind. But despite this the party reached London about 11.30, and everyone voted the outing a complete success.

On Saturday the employes of the two big local biscuit and candy works, Perrin's and McCormick's, picnicked at Port Stanley. The crowd was immense in size, and the day passed most pleasantly. Each party had its own programme of sports, including a baseball match, and all thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

BRACEBRIDGE.

July 28.—The "broken glass" window shown in The Grocer a couple of weeks ago, has been used as the basis for a display in the window of Hutchison Bros., and it is attracting a good deal of attention. The broken glass effect is certainly a good idea, all of which goes to show that The Grocer is a journal that we all can take lessons from.

Wet weather made trade rather dull last week, but we needed the rain, and it will bring the merchant good results later on.

Local merchants are endeavoring to put a stop to the ticket selling nuisance such as the Ingersoll merchants have done. This shows the value of friendship and co-operation among the trade — another point in favor of The Grocer, which has always been keen to arrange a better feeling among merchants in all towns and cities.

Considerable fruit was shown on Saturday last, but owing to the heavy rain little was sold. The fruit is arriving in splendid shape.

The Montmorency cherry this season is the one that is readily bought up. The sample is large and sound and prices within reach of all.

CHATHAM.

July 28.—The raspberry season will probably see its end this week. Owing to dry weather, raspberries this year have been practically little more than half a crop, what rain there was in this section last week coming too late to help them. The wholesale price, from $2.50 to $3.00 per crate, has been almost a prohibitive one, so far as canning purposes are concerned. In Essex and along the Lake Erie shore heavy rains are reported, which will help the crop there.

Wallaceburg bakers have, following the Chatham precedent, cut the 5c loaf

It will show you that the claim we always make of having chemically pure goods is correct.

Gillett's Cream Tartar

You need not take our word for it—see what the Chemists employed by the Government say on the question. There is possibly no article adulterated and tampered with as much as Cream of Tartar. The Government Chemists report that many samples examined did not contain any Cream Tartar at all, but were composed of a mixture of phosphate and alum.

GILLETT'S CREAM TARTAR is the only brand reported in the Bulletin as being 100% pure.

The grocery trade know that the greatly increased cost of beans compels an increase all round in the cost of pork and beans.

They know further that

CLARK'S

The public will gladly pay the slightly increased cost, understanding the reason and knowing that CLARK'S means all that is good and all that is possible in Pork and Beans.

is invaluable in the kitchen in the summer

It saves time, labor and fuel and also provides many nourishing and appetising dishes.

A one pound bottle is a nice addition to an order and a timely suggestion will often secure it. Bovril is especially useful in the country house, the camp, picnics, etc.

In order to ensure ample supplies of prime beef for our needs we have just acquired 9,261,400 acres of pasture land in the northern territory of South and Western Australia and 438,076 acres in the Argentine Republic. We have now over 200,000 head of horned cattle on these estates and that number will be largely increased.

The estates are more than half the size of Nova Scotia.

D. F. Bezaire of Amherstburg, has decided to give up the grocery business, owing to his wife's failing health. He intends disposing of his stock in about three weeks.

G. C. Crawford, grocer and general merchant, of Highgate, has a novel version of an old scheme to draw trade. Every parcel handed out is stamped with the picture of a dog, and the person bringing in the most dogs (ie. dog pictures) on Aug. 23 wins the best pair of boots or shoes in the store.

GALT.

July 28.—The Retail Merchants' Picnic was held as per arrangements on Thursday afternoon last. The fact that it rained hard all afternoon didn't prevent more than six hundred people getting aboard the special train for Waterloo Park. The rain, however, prevented the pulling off of any of the sports. The party remained for luncheon, and a short dance was held in the pavilion the special returning at eight o'clock. The committee with that promptness and energy which characterizes Galtonians generally, met in the train on the way home and decided to have the real picnic in Victoria Park, Galt, on Thursday afternoon, July 29, and arrangements are already completed for this big outing, which will be bigger and better than the picnic originally intended. A feature of the picnic on Thursday last was a rube band, composed of merchants who played real music. This band will again be out on Thursday afternoon next. All the merchants will close their stores for the occasion.

W. W. Mullett, the enterprising Bond street grocer, has decided to branch out. He has leased the fine store on Main street formerly occupied by Chapple the stationer, and will open a down town branch about the first of August. Mr. Mullett has many friends in the down town section and his new venture will doubtless prove successful.

Miss Lottie Viola Smith, of the office staff of Sloan's grocery, has returned from a pleasant holiday in Chatham.

The Galt market grows by leaps and bounds. On Saturday the building was too small to hold the crowd. The purchasers were so numerous that many were disappointed. Butter advanced to 23 cents per lb. and eggs remained stationary at 22 cents dozen. New potatoes were 40 cents a peck and raspberries two boxes for a quarter.

T. L. Philip, who recently purchased the grocery business of T. G. Robinson on Brant Road, announces the business for sale. The death of the proprietor's wife is responsible for Mr. Philip's giving up.

W. A. Gay, who was recently on the subscription staff of the MacLean Publishing Co., in British Columbia, is no longer authorized to transact any business for that company.

TRAVELERS' VACATION TIME.

During Next Two Weeks None Will be Calling on Retail Trade Representing Houses Named Below.

Many Ontario wholesale houses have decided to allow their travelers a two weeks' vacation beginning with the first of August, so that from that time until the 14th none of the salesmen from these houses will be out calling upon the trade.

The following agreement explains itself:—

"Whereas, at a meeting of the Wholesale Grocers held in Toronto, May 17, 1904, it was unanimously agreed by those present that travellers' summer holidays are necessary and desirable and whereas, for the purpose of properly acquainting every firm with the particulars as to territory and date and thus avoid misunderstanding, it is proper that an agreement should be signed (in duplicate) agreeing to same.

Now this agreement witnesseth that we the undersigned agree that we will withdraw all our travellers (in the district west of, but not including Toronto, as far north as, but not including North Bay, and as far west and including Windsor) for a period of two weeks dating from as near as possible first two weeks in August and that during that time we will not send out a substitute to cover such territory, or solicit business by peronal or telephone canvass. We also agree that each succeeding year we will withdraw all travellers for a holiday season of two weeks commencing from the early part of August of each year, the exact date to be fixed at each Annual Meeting. The date fixed for 1909, is July Thirty-first to August, Fourteenth, inclusive.

In witness whereof we hereby set our hands this first day of June, 1909:

Flour, Cereals and Confectionery Department

Western Grain Markets Decline But Flour and Cereal Prices Remains The Same—Wheat Crops Promise Well — Ontario Oats Backward—A Good Confectionery Season.

The western grain market shows a decline due chiefly to the excellent crop prospects. This, however, has had little or no effect on the flour and cereal market prices which remain in practically the same places as a week ago. Reports from Western Canada state that the wheat crop never looked brighter and if the month of August during which is the frost zone is favorably passed, the harvest will be a bountiful one.

Those grocers who are fortunate in having a confectionery department, carefully operated, are making good money these days. The summer time always brings with it a demand for confections, pastry, soft drinks, etc., and this season is no departure from those of the past. When attention is paid to this department and proper care exercised it is found to be a particularly profitable one.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—No change of note has occurred since last week. Hand-to-mouth business is reported by millers. A little more export business is materializing each week.

FEED—A heavy demand for feed is reported by dealers, with supplies scant, and difficult to replace, once cleaned up. The scarcity of all kinds of feed is making it difficult for millers to fill orders, which are arriving more quickly than for some time past, everybody wanting feed now that it is so hard to secure.

ROLLED OATS—Prices are steady this week, but a decline would not be a surprise. Speculators in oats have not been able to piece out the situation to their entire satisfaction, the tide turning against them, so that theirs is almost a case of the biter being bitten. With sentiment in favor of a decline, and prospect of new crop oats in a short time to accentuate the downward tendency of the market, it would not be unreasonable to expect an easier feeling in rolled oats—the manufactured product.

TORONTO

FLOUR—The fact that prospects are splendid for a good wheat crop in the west is responsible for an easier tone to the flour market. Prices show little change however, from last week. The Ontario wheat crop is being harvested and from all reports it is a good one, some farmers realizing as much as 35 bushels to the acre. One in Niagara district claims that he will have 50 but if he does it will be due to the scientific use of fertilizers. The wheat market shows a decline.

CEREALS—There is not much movement in the cereal market just now. The prospective harvesting of the new crops is providing all the interest. Ontario oats are backward and reports from various sources indicate that the crops will not be anything extra. While cereal markets are easier this is only expected to be temporary. At any rate changes before the first of October are not anticipated here.

Why Not Cash Big Dividends Daily?

Consider awhile the stock investor.
Not the dabbler, nor "fly by night" speculator—
The prudent investor, Mr. Retailer.

Out gunning for dividends with safe-guarded capital.
Wants profits, Immediate and Future —"even as you and I."
Studies the proposition from every angle; the past, present and future of it; consults "the man who owns one"; advantages or disadvantages; no delusions about values; knows what he buys—buys what he knows.
For, he uses analytical buying judgment.
That, Mr. Retailer, is the real article —buying genius.

Likewise in buying flour to sell again. Consider the past of FIVE ROSES —pleasing trade a quarter century— trade increasing for maker and seller —both of us.
The present—three mammoth mills built on that solid foundation.
The future—what you make it, for your future is ours.
FIVE ROSES oldest retailers are FIVE ROSES most enthusiastic sellers.

The quality-flour, the thing itself, is what you're after—call it whatever name you please. We call it FIVE ROSES.
You are an ambitious salesman, else you wouldn't read The Grocer; you want the good points of good flour, else you wouldn't read about FIVE ROSES.
And to the real, ambitious salesman, FIVE ROSES bristles with characteristics.

Not selling FIVE ROSES in the past, haven't you overlooked the one best bet—big paying investment?
And it costs you NOTHING—
For every sale nets cost plus your profit; you get back your capital and cash your dividends every day.

That's why Immediate Action means Increased Dividends.
Why, every day YOU delay loses you money—FIVE ROSES dividends.
Any other flour won't do as well—won't insure re-orders—won't build a quality bulwark against mere price competition.

The Manufacture of Oleomargarine and How It is Often Substituted For Butter—Made From Beef Suet and Vegetable Oils—Not Allowed to be Sold in Canada.

MARGARINE — A commodity well known by reputation but not frequently used in Canada is oleomargarine. Even those people who have been for years habitually, if unwittingly, consuming it have but a vague idea of what this substance really is.

If the question, "What is margarine?" were put to a hundred people, it is safe to say that over 90 per cent. would be unable to vouchsafe an answer except in the most indefinite terms. The general notion is that it is a mysterious concoction to be avoided as far as possible. Yet it has been on the market in some places for a considerable time. As far back as 1871 it is said to have been sold by at least one firm under the name of "butterine." "Margarine" was subsequently substituted for this name by Act of parliament.

The trade in margarine, especially in the populous manufacturing areas of Great Britain, has increased enormously of recent years, and is still growing, says the Irish Independent.

How It Is Made.

A proper mixture of beef suet, with certain vegetable oils will produce a substance that approximates to the fat found in cream. Of course there is a considerable difference. The one, as everyone knows, is drawn from the milk of the cow, whereas the other is primarily a blend of the fatty substances obtained from the slaughtered beast. Perhaps it is only natural for margarine manufacturers to contend that the resultant product in each case is practically the same, and that their method is more economical than that of the cow-keeper. This, however, is not the general impression.

Just as is the case with butter, of which it is avowedly an imitation, margarine is of various grades. In the higher class article unskimmed milk is mixed with refined beef suet (from which the insoluble stearine has been extracted), a proportion of specially prepared vegetable oils being added. The whole is churned into a substance which, when properly colored, so closely resembles butter, even in taste, that few experts, except by analysis, can detect the difference. As for the cheaper brands, the ingredients are in general of vastly inferior quality, and skimmed milk is substituted for the unskimmed.

For anyone to whom opportunity offers a visit to an up-to-date margarine factory will prove of immense interest. There he will see that, as the first process, the milk and fatty substances are thoroughly churned. The mixture is then discharged into troughs and thence conveyed below to the vats. Iced water which causes the fatty matter to rise to the surface, is then poured in. This is skimmed in exactly the same way that butter is taken from the milk after churning. Kneading then follows, and for the first class trade the substance, during the various processes, scarcely comes in contact with the hand at all, the kneading and mixing being done by machinery. After kneading, the margarine, if so required, is mechanically weighed into pounds and half-pounds and packed in wrappers, still without being touched by hand. It is then ready for the market.

In the case of the higher priced brands of margarine it is quite common for a percentage of butter to be added. Not many months ago a trader in Dublin, Ireland, was prosecuted by the corporation for selling margarine containing butter in excess of the maximum percentage allowed. A conviction was obtained and a fine imposed.

Substitute For Butter.

Margarine is, unfortunately, commonly sold as butter, and in the British markets Irish butter has suffered very keenly from this form of illegitimate competition. In fact it was recently admitted that of 115 samples of Irish butter purchased by officers of the department in Liverpool and London, England, no less than 93 proved on analysis to be margarine.

A good story is told of a large butter retailer who found his premises unexpectedly visited by a food inspector. He had no butter, but succeeded in delaying the inspector until he got a satisfactory answer to an urgent message to a confrere. Here's the message: "Send me one pound of butter by bearer. Inspector has called and I have nothing but margarine."

Oleomargarine is not allowed to be sold in Canada and food inspectors are constantly on the look out for it.

Canadian Fruit, Vegetable and Fish Markets

Plenty of New Fruit on the Market — California Pears and Peaches Commanding Attention— Raspberries Plentiful and Blueberries Coming on—New Vegetables Become Cheaper—Fair Trade in Fish.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS.—Berries are arriving much more freely this week, and prices are lower. Toward the end of this week and the beginning of next, raspberries are anticipated as being quite plentiful, in fact early next week will likely see the beginning of the end of the season for these berries. Blueberries are arriving in larger boxes now, and are going into consumption rapidly, at prices which are fairly attractive. Gooseberries, selling in baskets, are rather slow at the moment. Strawberries are finished. Cantaloupes and lemons are higher this week. Late Valencia oranges are strong sellers at practically unchanged prices. Some few Valencias are held in storage, but not any great quantity. Watermelons are lower, the supply being larger. California apricots are finished, while pears are more plentiful and easier. Peaches have been advanced. Grape fruit has advanced since last week. On the whole, dealers report satisfactory trade in mostly all lines.

Apples are of but little interest at this period.

VEGETABLES.—Tomatoes are selling this week at $1.25 a bushel crate, at which figure dealers claim there is no money in them. Buyers of ten and fifteen case lots can shade this price down to $1, owing to the fact that the market of late has been glutted. Competition has been of a cut-throat nature. This, of course, favors the buyer, but the dealer gets little out of his business. American celery is finished, and some few odd lots of locally grown stuff have appeared on the market, but as these shipments are composed of lots pulled too early the quality is not the choicest. Next week better stock will be coming in. Mushrooms are about done. Cucumbers are slightly firmer this week, on Saturday last having been as high as 50c. A few thin parsnips are quoted this week, and will be in better supply next. Old parsnips are about done. New potatoes are coming in freely and are lower again, both Canadian and American. Old potatoes are very scarce, and prices for all kinds are firmer. Parsley is much cheaper, as are cauliflower and lettuce.

FISH.—The salmon season is nearly over, and supplies are beginning to dwindle, each successive shipment being smaller. In consequence, it is not surprising to note that prices are higher. An advance of 2c has occurred since last week. Whitefish, also, is higher than it was a week ago. Receipts of lake fish, such as trout and dore, have been smaller than usual, owing to storms. Haddock and cod are arriving freely and a fair amount are being sold. Mackerel are in doubtful supply. Halibut is coming in freely. Demand for all lines of fresh fish is normal. In pickled fish, there is some movement in new Labrador sea trout in barrels, and new Labrador herring. In smoked, new haddies are selling satisfactorily.

GREEN FRUITS.—The fine weather following on the heels of last week's rain has greatly stimulated buying this week. California fruit holds the centre of interest. Peaches, plums and pears of fine quality are on the market in plenty. Georgia Elberta peaches hold the palm for quality, however, and keep the price stiff. Some splendid California plums are shown, egg, blue and purple, the latter of the Burbank variety are packed with the sheen still showing on the skin. Certainly California fruit growers know how to pack attractively, all the boxes of fruit opening fresh and sound. Pears are coming in more plentifully, and they are rolled individually in paper.

A few late strawberries from the Oakville district were offered at three times the price of a fortnight ago. Apples are off, except for an add basket of new greens. Raspberries, cherries, gooseberries and currants in the small fruits class are fairly free, and watermelons and cantaloupes are opening their season well. Late Valencia oranges are the best keepers in the fruit line just now. Prices are much the same as last week, except in the case of lines getting scarce, which are going up.

VEGETABLES.—Potatoes are scarce this week, but two houses have old Ontarios, and the new local "spuds" are anything but good looking. Howveer, with the exception of imported potatoes, which are slightly easier, all the Canadian potatoes are at the old quotations. Green onions are coming in fairly well and ousting the dried varieties. Tomatoes are a little lower in price, and Canadian red tomatoes are increasing in supply. Cabbage is easier, and in fact so are all the native early vegetables and greens. The range of lines offering is enlarged this week by the coming in of beets and spinach.

ONTARIO'S FRUIT GARDEN.

Large Shipments Being Made From the Niagara District.

Niagara District has long been known as the "fruit-garden" of Ontario, and from the reports as to the quantities of fruit being sent out from there regularly, it justly deserves the name. Up to Thursday of last week it was estimated that the average number of crates, which include strawberries, raspberries, blackberries and currants, that have found their way out of the district, comprising the Jordon, Beamsville, Grimsby and Winona localities, have been from 3,000 to 6,000 per day. The average number of baskets going hinges around 4,000. These include tomatoes, beans, peas, currants, cherries and peaches.

This fruit has been distributed in all directions from Toronto to the sea, and as far west as Wninipeg.

MAGI WATER

That we are advertising Magi Water very extensively you know. That we shall continue to advertise it goes without saying. The results we have obtained in persuading the public to drink Magi and the dealer to push Magi have convinced us that a meritorious article, well advertised, is the only proper combination in successful merchandising.

Put Magi Water in stock—display signs (we will furnish them) saying that you handle Magi Water and you will build up a family trade that will be satisfactory and highly profitable to you.

And remember that while Magi is recommended by physicians for Gout, Rheumatism and similar ailments arising from disordered kidneys it is further the most delicious water you can persuade your customers to put on their tables purely as a beverage. Try it yourself.

THE CALEDONIA SPRINGS CO., Limited
Caledonia Springs, Ont.

Prices altogether have been rather firm, and if anything a little stiffer for the grower than last season. There is a fair probability of their remaining so in all lines.

Growers are now well advanced on the raspberry crop, which promises a good yield. The big end of the tomatoes comes next, along with the Lawton berries, and the first peaches, pears and harvest apples.

The oat crop, however, is rather disappointing both as regards to straw length and the grains.

BEAVERTON EXCURSION.

The members of the Toronto Fruit and Produce Association will hold their first excursion and picnic on Monday next, Aug. 2, to Victoria Park, Beaverton, going by special C. N. O. train. An orchestra for dancing will go along and a programme of races and games has been arranged, including baseball matches between the fruit and produce men and between the married and single fruit merchants. A water polo match will be the novelty. All kinds of fruit will be supplied free. W. B. Stringer is secretary of the committee looking after the excursion.

OBJECT TO FRUIT GROWERS' METHODS.

Fruit dealers are complaining about the way growers are packing and shipping fruit in crates and baskets. Those in the Grimsby district have been getting wrathy about the condition of boxes, baskets, etc., and recently held a meeting to discuss the situation. They have had so many 'kicks' from customers that they decided to attempt to change the existing conditions as regards the packing, quality of contents and poor measure.

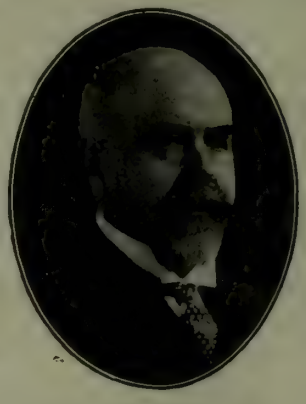
At the meeting they decided that if complaints continue they would appeal to the Agricultural Department for an inspector.

If the growers do not pay more attention to the packing of fruit there is evidently going to be some vigorous protesting from dealers and retailers who handle it.

TO CARRY OUT CONTRACTS.

Currant Shippers Form Association To Promote Their Own And Customers' Interests.

Watt, Scott & Goodman have received a circular letter from Patras signed by a number of prominent shippers of currants in which is expressed the desire of these houses to promote and safeguard the joint interests of shippers and their customers, and to protect the honor of their calling.



To this end the signers of the circular have constituted themselves by legal act into a friendly society to be managed by a committee of five elected by the members. The firms forming the society are Hanburger & Co., P. A. Burlumi, Greek Currant Co., Hancock & Wood, J. Caramandani & Co., D. Pasqua, N. C. Raftopulo & Co., Meyer & Co., Ltd., Cremidi Bros., A. T. Zini, D. Ciclitira, N. G. Cremidi, A. D. Cremidi, D. Parthenopulo and Ag. Cremidi.

In the act of incorporation it is provided that the contracting parties bind themselves, each of them to all the others and to one another, to fulfill their engagements to their foreign customers and to ship to them the quantity and quality of currants contracted for. In the event of its being legally proved that any one of the members has failed to carry out his engagements the remaining members are empowered to hold a meeting and by a majority of votes at such meeting to expel such member from the society. The offending member shall have no right to vote upon the resolution for his expulsion. The passing of the resolution constitutes for the offending member a breach of this agreement on his part, which breach renders him liable to damages, but gives him no right to such damages against the society or its members for his expulsion. The resolution of expulsion may be revoked if the expelled member shall fulfill his broken engagements abroad within a month of his expulsion and shall produce a certificate of his aggrieved foreign customer that the debt to him has been paid.

The contribution of the members to the common fund, for defraying the expenses of administration has been fixed at three drachmas (under 3d per cwt.) per thousand Venetian pounds of currants exported by each such member. There is no other obligation on the part of the members to the society and their freedom of action in the conduct of their business remains unfettered.

from Port Arthur to the Pacific Coast, is again about to look after the wholesale trade in the Queen City. No doubt many of his old time Toronto friends will be pleased to hear of this change. He has been with the same firm for thirty years.

FRUIT NOTES.

Fire swept the whole cranberry-growing district for a radius of three miles, near Mount Holly, N. J. As a consequence fruit may be scarce and high in price.

The banana business is practically demoralized so far as prices are concerned, according to John B. Cefueil, president of the Southern Steamship Co., New Orleans, which has contracted for fruit produced along a part of the coast of Spanish Honduras. He says the season has been too good, and it is impossible to find a market in Canada and the United States for all the bananas that were grown.

BEAN PROSPECTS IN KENT.

Authority States Crop Will Aggregate About 900,000 Bushels—Moist Weather Needed.

Chatham, July 26.—"With good rains, the bean crop in Kent this year will aggregate close upon 900,000 bushels."

The foregoing was the prediction voiced this afternoon by N. H. Stevens, president and general manager of the Canada Flour Mills Company, Limited, Mr. Stevens is one of the extensive dealers in beans in this section of the country, takes frequent trips over the territory, and may be looked upon as closely in touch with the bean situation.

The need of good rains seems to be the crux of the situation, though Mr. Stevens states that even with the present dry spell, the beans are making good progress.

"The old beans have been practically all shipped out," remarked Mr. Stevens. "Some two months ago it was predicted that Canada would experience a shortage of beans unless she imported, and this prediction is now being realized. Some foreign beans are now coming into the country. It will be approximately 50 days yet before we will get the first new beans.

"The acreage this year is larger by 20 per cent. than it has been any year since 1903, and the growing conditions are favorable. The plant needs rain, but is making remarkably good progress as it is, with what little showers we have had.

"On the whole, we may look for a very good average crop of beans; and for considerably more than an average crop if we eget showers within a few days.

"The price to-day for old beans is $2 for ordinary primes. But with the favorable reports of the bean crop in the state of Michigan, it is likely that new beans will come on the market at a much lower price.

"The estimated crop last year was about 600,000 bushels. In 1903 it was nearly 900,000 bushels. And we ought to have 900,000 bushels this year, provided we get some showers.

"There is a good acreage. There is quite a short acreage of wheat, owing to land being too dry to put in wheat last fall, and considerable of this ground has been put into beans. Again, owing to the wet season this spring, many fields that would have been sown in barley and oats have gone into beans also. Ground which did not get into condition in time for other crops has been put into beans."

Modern business success is built upon System. The house that is ahead is the one that is best systematized in every detail—especially in the selling end.

THE Allison COUPON BOOK SYSTEM

is the most important phase of selling system so far as the grocer is concerned. You can get along without them, but not nearly as well as you can WITH them.

How They Work

A man wants credit. You think he is good. Give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book. Have him sign the receipt or note form in the front of the book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10. No trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10 and gets another book. No pass books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

"Enterprise" Economy

An Enterprising grocer, who does things right, uses an "Enterprise" Electrically-Driven Coffee Mill.

The right way is also the cheapest way in the end. It always pays. Take the experience of the Philadelphia grocer who grinds 15,000 pounds of coffee a month with an "Enterprise" Mill electrically-driven at a cost for current of $3.00.

He bought the Mill as a great convenience—a time and labor saver, and an up-to-date attraction for his store. Its economy astonished him.

Look through our catalogue and you will find Mills of any capacity, any power required, for direct or alternating current. Your local power supply company will co-operate with advice and assistance.

The Mill illustrated here is No. 08712, fitted with ½ horse power motor for alternating current. Capacity of each iron hopper, 6 pounds of coffee. One Mill is fitted with grinders for granulating, the other for pulverizing. Granulates 2 pounds of coffee per minute, and can be regulated for fine or coarse grinding while mill is running. If you haven't the catalogue showing all our Mills, write for a copy to-day.

BUSINESS FOR YOU AND FOR US.

SUN PASTE Stove Polish in Tins goes so much farther on the stove than the so-called liquids (which are always settling out) that the up-to-date housekeeper is bound to be far better pleased when you sell her SUN PASTE.

It is always ready to use, no separation of the ingredients and, as a result, she uses it oftener and comes back to you for more. That's business. Good for you and good for us.

Always the Same

2-in-1

On damp days, cold days, wet days and hot days this celebrated polish is all the same. It never soils the clothes, injures the leather or lessens the life of a shoe.

There are more persons to-day using 2-in-1 polish than there ever were before. Moral: if you are not handling it you are losing a good profit and a good trade as well.

The Point in a Nutshell

¶ The difference between the vinegar we make and the others you're sometimes asked to buy lies in the brewing. An honest attempt to produce a good article is not always rewarded with success, but—

¶ Since 1849 we have been renowned for the excellence of our plant and the perfection of our product.

¶ During that time our trade has developed and extended to all parts of the world.

What Are You In Business For?

Well, you naturally reply, to make a living, keep employed and earn a few dollars beside. Many things combine to contribute to a man's success. One of the most potent is the quality and character of the goods he sells and the reputation he has of providing only the best.

Old Homestead Brand
Canned Fruits and Vegetables

is a name that stands for something. It brings to mind the place on the old farm and the fruit and vegetables that mother was accustomed to place before us. This is one reason why grocers find our goods so easy to dispose of.

Combined with their quality, flavor and purity there is no better selling or better known brand offered to the trade.

Jams and Jellies

Stand for Purity and Health

They are packed in sterilized air-tight receptacles and contain nothing but pure fruit and granulated sugar.

Whenever you see jams or jellies packed in non-air-tight jars suspect that the products are impure. Very likely they contain chemical preservatives.

Mr. Grocer—insist on having the E.D.S. brand, because it is pure.

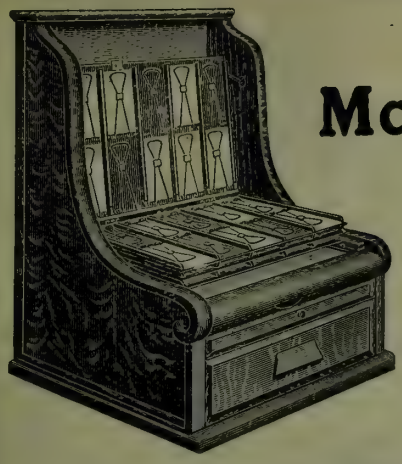
"Canada's Pride"
Canned Goods Still Leads

We would advise that we are now running heavy on Peas, packing a finer quality than we have ever turned out because of the excellent condition of the raw material, which with our careful handling, fine equipment and unequalled sanitary factory, enables us to far excel in quality any previous year.

These same conditions will apply to the full line of fruits and vegetables which we pack.

Don't be deceived by Brands and Trade Marks similar to ours which some packers are using, trying to place on the market inferior goods on our well-earned reputation.

Canada's Pride stands for Cleanliness and High-Grade Quality



One trial will make you a strong friend of "Canada's Pride."

The Best Canned Goods

There are many kinds in the market all making claims of being the choicest and the highest in excellence, flavor and merit, but

The Queen Quality Leads

WHY?

Because our fruits and vegetables are fresh, palatable, and the finest specimens that can be secured in one of Canada's most fertile and progressive districts.

Because they are uniform in quality, as we supervise the growing of the raw products from seed time to harvest and our inspectors reject everything that is not strictly up to the highest standard.

Because we have the most sanitary and up-to-date process and machinery and no detail is overlooked. We attend to the practical side ourselves and make our own cans of the best tin plate that can be secured.

All progressive grocers stock them and all discriminating customers get in them

Nine out of every ten people when troubled with a cough or cold call for Mathieu's Syrup.

Hence there is no time wasted in selling it. It almost sells itself. This is the result of its exceptional curative properties in all chest and throat complaints — backed up by good advertising.

This advertising consists of

1. Our newspaper campaign.

2. One person recommending it to another, and probably telling him that he got it at your store.

3. Dealers who know a good article when they see it and gladly recommend it to their customers and friends.

Drummers Bid Care Begone; Celebrate Like Princes

Annual Outing at Erin This Year an Event to be Long Remembered—More Successful Than Ever—The Old Become Youthful in Tendency and the Young Join in With the Old—Funny Happenings of a Night and Day Confined to Fun and Pleasure.

Staff Correspondence.

Erin, Ont., August 2.—It was pleasure unconfined. For an evening, night and day this pretty little village was handed over to the men of the Drummers' Snack Club composed of Central and Western Ontario knights of the grip. For seventeen years past, ever since the club first saw the light of the day, the members had hied themselves to Alton hamlet where dwelleth William Algie, founder of this august body. 'Algieville' was their original stamping ground; but in the Year of Our Lord, 1909, Erin nestling serenely on the banks of the Credit was the Mecca for the drummers and host of admiring friends.

As intimated above there was no cover to the cap of joy. It was boundless. There were no counterfeits there and no room for them. All did homage to the Prince of Pleasure and the consequence was the Drummers' Snack Club outing of nineteen hundred and nine will pass down into history as the king of snacks in the first eighteen years of the club's existence.

Travelers are good fellows, and when good fellows get together there is bound to be something doing—as the old song implies. Yet, while fun and frolic marked every scene succeeding the drawing of the curtain as the C.P.R. rumbled into the Erin station on Friday evening, there could have been no more orderly fun. And if visitors at the outing for the first time, had ever entertained from hearsay a doubt as to the quality of the sport, that doubt took its winged flight when the final curtain was ringed down behind the departing 'princes.'

A Word For Erin.

The outing had always before been held at Alton where the good folk were ever willing to help on with the fun. Circumstances, however, bring about changes, and this year the committee in charge sought out Erin as the place, July 30th and 31st as the time, and as for the girls—well each individual was responsible for that.

Some 500 inhabitants dwelleth in Erin. It is one of those picturesque and peaceful little hamlets which we would all desire to see when we 'cross the Jordan.' Stanley Park is there and within its boundaries a beautiful miniature lake formed by the back water in that particular portion of the Credit. In a word the location was an ideal one.

Erin folk are said to be nearly all of Scotch descent. This became evident when their hearts were captured by the rousing strains of the Alton band and the kilt-like costumes of the knights of the grip who invariably were 'follering the band.'

Robert Asher was president of the club until the annual meeting held beneath the big circus tent on Saturday morning. He is distinguished among the past-presidents by being the youngest of them all. "Bob" is naturally a good fellow to which the citizens of Erin can bear testimony. Whether as a school boy pondering over his books and obeying the commands of the master or as the good angel bringing peace and dresses and stockings into the Grundy home; whether he plays short stop or attempts to umpire even an indoor baseball game amid the scoffings of enraged fans, he wears that smile that won't vacate the premises. Suffice it to say that he with his energetic staff of lieutenants had with clock-work diligence attended to everything possible to bring to a successful culmination the memorable outing of the current year.

To enjoy such fun as was provided by these Ontario Mark Twains, one must needs have been on the spot. Written words necessarily treat of the subject inadequately—the expressions, the pictures, the inflections are wanting.

A Concert Fit For a King.

When the mere incident of obtaining supper on Friday evening had occurred after the last train had arrived with the crowd, there was a big noise as if a show of some description was not far distant.

All doubt was dispelled when the resonant voice of 'Mike' Morrison was heard from the foot bridge that carried one beyond the Credit. 'Mike' reminded one very much of those 'brave days of old' when Horatius kept the bridge against the Tuscan foe. But Michael's foe although a formidable one was conquerable. How could it have been otherwise when those musical notes: "Secure your tickets for the great and only—musical, humorous, literary, etc." the final words being lost as they floated so gently over the ripples of the Credit lake.

So a big crowd went to the big show. The tent had apparently been built on the circus-canvas plan and even then the sides bulged out with humanity. The great Barnum would have been proud to have seen such a following. It was estimated that more than 2,000 souls stood or sat beneath the canopy sheltered from the fast falling dew.

Finally, President Asher touched the match to the fireworks and the fun had begun in real earnest. Talk about accomplished artists! But don't bet on the best until you see Jack Wildfong, Sol Walters, Billy Meen, Johnny and Billy Charles, Harry Ritchie, Willie Reilly, Georgie Campbell, Bobby Asher, Bobby Algie and a few of the rest of them. Then there are some high class artists from the Mountain City including H. Eckstein, Billy Dore, J. B. Mundie, Sam Male, Geo. Smye, etcetera, who are certainly past masters in the amusement art whether on or off the stage.

Space does not permit a deep research into the individual merits of the different performers. There were all, however, of the A 1 variety.

The president threw out his chest like a pompous army officer when he stepped on the platform and surveyed with keen satisfaction the vast throng. He told them all how welcome and how good looking they were and how if they became homesick that Ross Cameron would 'cash their cheques of disappointment' when the Union Bank opened in the morning.

He said: "The Snack Club was born in 1892 at Alton; Wm. Algie was the founder; it was nursed by Robt. Algie, treated by Dr. Algie and fed by Miss Aggie Algie."

Geniality, affability and felicity were necessary characteristics of a membership in the club; sociability was the first requisite.

Bob said a great deal more which was appreciated as the cries of "good boy, Bob," that come from all corners of the canvas indicated.

Dr. Hamilton, an Erin citizen assured the assemblage that there was no bacteria in the Erin water and hoped they would all enjoy themselves. The former precaution, one would think would scarcely be necessary, but nevertheless it was really surprising to see how often and how long the good pump worked during the night and day.

Studies in Blue.

Then they ringed up the curtain once again and "Two Little Girls in Blue" thrust their graceful figures and features on the unsuspecting audience. The duet was composed of Johnny Wildfong, a fat boy, and Willie Reilly, his antipodes in breadth. It was actually pathetic in parts when it came to 'hollering down the rain-barrel' and 'playing in our yard.' The ribbons and embroidery in the usual places were interesting features of the costumes which held spellbound the fascinated auditorium.

Sol Walters fairly hypnotized his listeners. Mouths were open 'from ear to ear' through his entire Irish monologue which would have done justice to any theatre-stage in the Dominion. He certainly passed out some original ones that have not yet appeared in the columns of the Ladies' Home Journal. Sol was irresistible and was not allowed to retake his seat in the dressing room without presenting that classic ballad "The Kank-Kee-Kee or the Ko-Ko-Moe."

Harry Lauder was even out-laudered by Willie Dore, a Hamilton soloist who told the boys all about what happened "When Highland Mary drank her first Scotch-High-Ball." He wore the kilts too and at once gained the affections of the lassies of Erin settlement.

In The Olden, Golden Days.

The Toronto drummers 'put on' a School-Day Skit which had the times of Tom Brown faded into a mere shadow. J. H. Wildfong was the school-master and one would judge from the size of his 'wing' and the Teddy Rooseveldt stick he wielded, that several of his little boys would be unable to sit down in comfort for several days. Especially did Bobby Asher and Johnny Charles have reason to remember its sting.

ROBT. ASHER.

Past President of The Club and a Prince of Good Fellows.

When it came to recitations and answering questions the school children excelled themselves.

For instance:

Teacher—What goes round the 'sun'?

Pupil—Pants, teacher.

Teacher—Who was the first female swearer?

Pupil—Eve; she said, "I don't care A-dam if you do."

Mary and her lamb came in for their usual share of comment, among the new ones being:

Mary had a little lamb
With which she used to tussle;
She pulled the wool all off its back
And rammed it in her bustle.

The play included a visit from Phineas McIntosh, the J. L. Hughes of the school section. Although nothing was issued for publication at the time, it was intimated among the 'inside ones' that Pedagogy Wildfong would be recommended to take hold of some occupation about which he knew at least a little. However true this may be, James L. could have secured several pointers for his staff on how punishment should be properly administered.

Once when the curtain was rolled up a bunch of Hamilton drummers made their little bows prior to the presentation of "Schnitzelbank" from a map on the wall. This was decidedly German in tone, and was conducted by a leader, one Eckstein by name, who looked as if he were the twin brother of a small baloon erected on the top of two inflated pillow-cases.

Another individual had converted one of his wife's crazy quilts into a pair of trousers, illustrating the different colors of the rainbow and many others besides. Pyjamas and some unmentionables were observed among the other costumes providing you had secured a seat not too distant from the platform. At a distance you would scarcely care to venture what they were.

"Our Bitterest Foe" was the subject of an interesting drama by M. Cleworth, his wife and W. H. Pringle. Things began to look serious during its recitation for the fugitive French officer and a deep sigh of relief arose from the feminine portion of the audience when like the 'good' novels everything turned out all right and they got married and they lived happily forever afterwards. The same two gentlemen, with Miss M. Cleworth, also figured in a domestic sketch known as "The Salt Cellar," which showed the troubles of a newly-made household and which was also conspicuous from its felicitous ending.

Other performers were Miss Frances Wright, a Toronto contralto, who was presented with a handsome bouquet of flowers; Master Wilfrid Morrison, the boy soprano, who soon will begin a world tour; his brother Master Milton Morrison, a juvenile just turned five; Bert Harvey, whose reputation as a humorist needs no comment here, and the Georgina Quartette composed of Manley Sherris, Geo. Ross, Bartley Brown and R. L. Collins. E. R. Bowles took the accompanist role. These are all real artists in their particular line and the program they presented was equal to any high-class New York musical entertainment. The Alton brass band was there and played its best during intervals.

Around the Banquet Board.

Although the Erin clocks had tolled off the midnight hour, that was no reason why the Drummers should seek their downy couches. Nor did they. After the concert came the banquet in the park pavilion where a wholesome menu, fit for a king, was spread and where the appetites of the guests silently testified to the health of Erin as well as to the excellence of the repast. Drummers brought their wives and several others came with sweethearts. Especially did the latter seem to grasp at each fleeting minute and to stretch it into two; but time would not wait and soon the post-prandial speeches began. President Asher occupied the chair. Bouquets were thrown from one to another, but the best went to Wm. Algie, the club's founder and his aimable wife. In an enthusiastic speech, Wm. Colville paid some splendid compliments to Mr. Algie, humorously remarking that he was the only traveler who had ever returned from across the great divide. (In refering to the Snack Club outing, a Toronto evening paper had referred to him as the late Wm. Algie.) The name of 'Algie' was an honored one among the toilers of the road, and one which would always be looked up to by those who had ever came in contact with the father of the club.

Mr. Algie was then presented with a gold-headed cane, and Mrs. Algie with a gold-headed silk umbrella, directoire style, by Bay Hill.

When he rose to reply, Mr. Algie was greeted with a fusilade of cheers. He supposed he had returned to earth to answer for his misdeeds, but, he added, that "if one thing more than another can arouse me from my last long sleep it will be an invitation to attend the outing of the Drummers' Snack Club." (Applause.)

"If I am father of the Snack Club, I am proud of my family," was another of his observations, and he meant it too.

He gave some good advice to his listeners, when he said: "Enjoy yourself while you live, for you'll be a long time dead," and his advice was undoubtedly taken the following day at least.

Among the distinguished guests in attendance was John Gibson, president of the C.T.A. He spoke at the banquet and gave, on behalf of the association he represented, the hearty approval of the outing. Significant among his facts were that there were 9,000 members of the Canadian Travelers' Association in Ontario, and 24,000 in the Dominion.

Reeve Carrol and Dr. Hamilton replied to the toast to Erin, to which everybody drained their glasses. Of course, there were songs galore as : "See him Smiling," "For he's a jolly Good Fellow," and "We won't go Home till Morning."

The latter was evidently sung in earnest, for few did go home—at least not till morning—but nevertheless the lights were out and gone were all the guests when the hour of two was struck. Then the good folk of Erin, like the good Samaritan of old, took in those who had not found a place on which to rest their weary heads. But how many found rest in the arms of Morpheus! Some slept; perhaps they dreamed—but none overslept, and when the sun rose up from the underground in the morning, Erin was a regular bee-hive of life.

Election of Officers.

There were two events of importance in the morning—the annual session held in the big tent and the Hamilton-Toronto ball game on the diamond.

Without here going into the details of the election the result was:

Past Pres.—Robt. Asher, Toronto.

Vice-Pres.—J. H. Wildfong, Toronto.
Sec.-Treas.—Robt. Algie, Toronto.

Toronto Executive—W. Madill, Geo. Campbell, C. A. Colwell, W. Scott, C. Silver, T. Gloster, W. Riley, W. H. Cross, Sol. Walters, W. J. Mill, Bert Groskurth, and Earl Maltby.

Home Executive—Dr. Gear, J. Gibson, G. F. Scott, Dr. Hamilton, A. J. Thompson, M. Carrol, J. H. Matthews, and W. Hull.

Honorary Members—J. Gibson, president C. T. A.; Bert Harvey, Toronto;

Martin Clewworth, and Master Milton Morrison.

Fun on the Diamond.

It was not necessary for anybody to ask: "Take me out to the ball game." No school kept and no office duties hampered anyone, so that when Umpire Francis sounded the notes, PLAY BALL and C. C. Weese echoed it through a megaphone that rivaled him in breadth, all were on hand. It was all about a silver cup—the P. W. Ellis trophy—and Hamilton carried away the scalps, the victors by 4 runs to 3.

The players were:

Hamilton—Simons c., Kirkpatrick p., Wilson 3b., Mills 2b., Dore 1b., Smye s.s., Male l.f., Eckstein r.f., and Pringle c.f.

Toronto—Maltby c., Gloster 1b., Asher s.s., Riley c.f., Irving 3b., Collins 2b., Groskurth r.f., Oakley l.f., and Leigh p.

The Hamilton slab artist at first looked easy to the hungry leather eaters on the opposing team. Maltby hit the first crack out of the box and stole second. Gloster, who by the way had his eye on a dark spot in the woods beyond the Credit where he intended to place the ball, merely struck out but Asher, while waiting for the good ones was given a complimentary ticket to first—seeing he was the president. Both these on bases hit the trail for home and arrived there safely aided by a comedy of errors. Riley, like the famous Casey of old, struck out, but the Rev. G. O. Black had chalked down 2 runs for Toronto before the side was retired.

Kirkpatrick, however was the real goods and only allowed one more run in the third when Leigh accepted a nice line of goods from the man with the double name. He stole both second and third and even then was not arrested. Somebody sang "Oh, theres no Place Like Home," and Leigh came galloping in when Bobby Asher knocked a grounder to short stop and got out himself at first. Riley, conscientiously spared the ball again and the side was retired. In this innings Wilson tried to kill the umpire but the latter's head was evidently made of something firmer than was reckoned on and he lived.

But every good pitcher has his bad innings and Leigh got his'n in the fourth. Kirkpatrick was an easy out from short to first and Wilson also took the low road to Gloster unassisted. Then lucky Mill secured the big stick and although he got his finger pinched by a pitched ball he stayed with the game sending out one with red-hot stuff on it which burned Asher's fingers. He arrived at first in good time and witnout the aid of the Erin 'bus. He stole second and third and trotted home on third baseman's error.

Willie Dore—who it will be remembered had presented the story of Highland Mary drinking her first Scotch high-ball the evening before also took pity on the ball but he went to first on errors. He stole second and third and while there gently disabled Irving who was forced to leave the game with a twist in his knee.

One Toronto fan was mean enough to remark that so few Hamilton players reached third that he got a cramp waiting. Sol Walters was the substitute and of course the others moved to the opposite side of the field. It would merely have been a case of redundancy had anybody else occupied the half-field in which Sol was located.

Dore stole home and Smye was passed. Stout Sam Male touched Leigh for a three bagger and strange to relate his knee went wrong on the third sack also.

When the kink was straightened out he went home as the catcher let one go between his legs. Eckstein retired the side, Leigh to Gloster. But it was too late then, for Hamilton had notched 4 runs and Toronto failed to tally in the fifth. The game was five innings in length.

Treat For The Erinites.

Great events followed in quick succession throughout the entire day. The next was the big parade, in costume, from Erin business centre to Stanley Park. Chief Bay Hill arranged his retinue in line and headed by the Alton band took the high road to the ball diamond. Jack Wildfong smoked incessantly on the line of march, a few others were inclined to converse with the fair sex rather frequently but outside of that the procession was a grand one. Erin school boys joined in to swell the numbers.

When the bridge was reached there sat Michael Morrison. He had kept the bridge all night. But nevertheless he has every Sunday school secretary in the land faded away when it comes to selling tickets. Folks at the Cataract Junction heard him and came down to see the possessor of the voice. The drummers vote him the best ticket agent on the road and his occupation will be permanent.

The indoor-outdoor baseball game followed on the heels of the parade. The teams were:

No. 1.—Jack Charles, Harry Ritchie, pensey, Billy Meen, Wilder, Ross, Cameron, Arthur, Smith, Silver.

No. 2.—Geo. Smye, C. Weese, R. Algie, J. B. Mundie, W. Charles, Col. Jno. Stoneman, Sol Walters, W. Scott, M. Malone.

It was a great game. No. 2 team won by 18 to 17 runs and at that an extra innings had to be played, the winners notching 2 to their enemy's 1. R. Asher took his life in his hands by consenting to umpire but he emerged from the fray with only a few unkind verbal missives being hurled his way. For instance, Jack Charles remarked that all the ump. had for his side was a smile. Sol Walters concluded the sentence by adding, "and a prayer." Both Charles the first, and Charles the second caught for their respective teams and the way they corralled the ball in their mits would have been enough to have saved a whole family of Charles' from the execution block. On one occasion Ross Cameron hit such a terrific liner to Weese on third that he almost knocked him off the bag. Mike Malone played short-stop and hung within two feet of the home plate all the time. He was one of the main coachers. The picnic was held on the wrong day of the week for Mundie, who found it a difficult proposition to get his eye on the ball. Billy Meen is another 'Casey at the bat,' and Col. Stoneman had no difficulty in holding down second base. But he had such a long way to reach, that several easy grounders passed safely between his legs. At any rate No. 2 team above mentioned won the Wildfong trophy.

Foot-Races and Things.

While the ball game was in progress several other events were happening—it all reminded one of the three ring circus. The married ladies won the Melagama Tea tug-ofwar from those who have not yet tasted the joys or otherwise of the connubial life. The Comfort Soap race was entered by some thirty or more of the feminine sex and the scramble that ensued was worth while seeing. Several slid for the tape with the result that the soap became absolutely necessary if the same hosiery and whitewear has to be worn again.

Milton Morrison with Wilfrid, his brother second, won in the artists race. The single ladies defeated the married in the Blue Ribbon Tea Broom Hockey match which proved a feature of the sports. Geo. F. Campbell gave the winners each a pound of tea.

In the three-headed race for travelers, the conquerers were: 1st.—Morris, Maltby, Groskurth; 2nd.—Gloster, Dare Scott; 3rd.—Simons, Cross, Kirkpatrick. W. Charles captured the sack speeding event with P. Smith a close second; J. W. Mill, J. Charles, S. Male were the good ones in the fat man's event.

When it come to walking Billy Dore knows a lot. He won with Morris and Groskurth 2nd and 3rd. The Erin citizens' race was taken by R. M. Bell, Ross Cameron and G. T. Scott in the order mentioned, while in the Erin merchants' event it was Bell, Scott and E. C. Russell.

As Billy Meen had not up till that time won anything, he took in the Consolation event and was actually first. Strange to say W. B. Scott and C. C. Weese came second and third. The Visitors' Race was won by N. Foster; W. Foster and B. Huston respectively. At catching chickens, the best four were W. Meen, Mrs. W. Meen, W. Scott, and Jos. German. Nora Wildfong, May McKinnon, and Mary McGivern were one, two and three in the Red Rose Tea picking-up-packages sprint. Then there were other races including The Farmers' Trot which all helped to pass away a pleasant time. W. Colville was a valuable assistant in the foot races, and arranged and started many of them.

Through The Megaphone.

Eighteen annual Snack Club picnics have been held with not a rainy day.

Take off your hats to the new president, Bay Hill.

While Billy Meen may be no use on a hundred yards dash, just let him loose in a barn-yard among a flock of chickens and see what he can do.

"See the human hairpin"—was one of Drummer Weese's remarks as he pointed to Billy Dore on first base.

Bouquets were freely handed to Bob Asher, past president, on the occasion of the annual meeting.

It is understood that an enquiry will be made into the identity of the Toronto men who slept in the Erin 'bus on Friday night. They did this in order to get a five o'clock start at the trout fishing in the morning when with the young lady guides they captured 14 trout and 7 frogs.

Once during the ball game when Collins went to bat, the man with the megaphone wanted to know if there were any lemons in that Collins.

If a man became nervous about his hands in the indoor ball game all he had to do was to put his arms around the ball.

Billy Cross had to purchase a fine tooth comb to get the hayseeds from his hair—he slept in a hay-mow.

Bay Hill would sooner be president of the Snack Club than Governor General. It was rather hot weather anyway.

Jack Wildfong got giddy once and drew two ladies around the grounds in a gig.

Dr. Algie was missed from the gathering this year.

Somebody handed a drummer a glass of "ginger" ale with considerable foam on top. Naturally he blew it off. This called forth an unpleasant remark from an Erin farmer. It was: "Blowin' your own horn, eh!"

Mike Malone was an unofficial policeman at the ball game.

Billy Charles cracked a joke in the third. Somebody hit a ball out which was delayed in its progress by a lady's parasol—"a shady play", he remarked.

Concert receipts amounted to $237.80; button receipts $146 and programme advertising $150.

J. H. Wildfong won first prize in the button sale contest, with 70 to his credit; W. Colville was next with 30 and Sol Walters third with 12. The prizes were of cut glass.

Mrs. Meen was given a handsome silk petticoat for winning the travelers' wives race. Some of those who took part in the Comfort Soap event and who slid several feet will have to get new ones also.

In the MacLaren Imperial Cheese race it was—What you get you hold.

The Erin Chief of Police was a study in brown and straw hat. Some person went to throw him off the ball grounds when he said: "Can't you see my badge?"

C. Weese offered a dollar to the first man who hit Sol Walters in the bay-window with the baseball. The price went up quickly to two.

Robt. Algie didn't want to accept the secretaryship of the club for the next year; but when Jack Wildfong growled, "Sit down and don't sas your teacher", he passively obeyed.

Sam Male brought a tin hat to serve the dual purpose of head-gear and drinking cup.

W. Hull of the Erin Advocate showed the "Power of the Press" when he helped keep back the crowds on the ball grounds. He had a "hull" of a time at times.

Wille Riley was very particular about hitting the ball—or rather not hitting it.

Sol Walters' jokes in his monologue stunt would have made George Ade, Bill Nye, etc., travel off the map had they heard them.

Jack Charles' smile in the school-day skit only wore off when the slab-artist exercised his muscular powers.

What about 1910! The boys captained by Bay Hill are already making preparations and there is nothing more to be said.

The travelers' wives who came one, two and three in their race were Mrs. W. Meen, Mrs. J. Charles and Mrs. Campbell.

Kirkpatrick, Groskurth and Dore showed their heels to the rest in the married travelers' race.

Capt. Sol Walters and his tug-of-war team lost to J. W. Mill's eight.

Halifax Grocers Fined for Selling Adulterated Coffee — Good Prospects for Nova Scotia Apples—Drop in Prices of Ontario Flour in St. John.

ST. JOHN.

Aug. 3.—There has been a sharp drop in the price of Ontario flour. The price went down 40 cents last week, which makes a drop of 70 cents from the highest point. Ontarios are now selling at $6.70 retail and Manitobas are steady at $7.40. The drop in Ontarios is due to the milling of new wheat. Oatmeal which declined 40 cents about a week ago is expected to decline again within a short time. Dry cod has advanced about 25 cents a hundred pounds. Beans are lower and yellow-eyes are out.

Countrymen report that the general outlook for crops this year is good with the sole exception of hay. It is generally agreed that hay will be lighter than for many years, owing to the cold, dry weather. Had it not been for warm rains latterly, the crop would have been an entire failure.

The oat crop is reported as showing rust in some sections but it is not expected to have much effect. Wheat, buckwheat and barley as well as garden stuff are all reported as satisfactory and butter and eggs are expected to be cheaper than last year.

HALIFAX.

August 3.—The first prosecution in Halifax in ten years for a violation of the pure food act took place in the police court yesterday when, under the provisions of chapter 133 of the revised statutes of Canada, five retail grocers were fined the minimum penalty, five dollars and costs each. Those convicted were Asapah Knock, Phillip Nicolls, William Moore, Henry Hallett and John P. Bucley. They were charged with having "on or about the 22nd of October, 1908, in the said city of Halifax, unlawfully expose for sale an adulterated article of food, to wit, coffee, in which was substituted a cheaper substance, to wit, starch, in part for said coffee." The proceedings were taken by the Dominion inspector here on instruction from the Government.

"I expect that the apple crop in Nova Scotia will this year exceed three quarters of a million barrels," said G. H. Vroom, chief fruit inspector, who was in Halifax this week. "From reports I have received," said Mr. Vroom, "this year will be a record one for apples. The dry weather this summer has been most beneficial to the apple crop and with one or two exceptions every district heard from reports that the crop will be very large." Mr. Vroom is now in the city for the purpose of inspecting the small fruit packages, viz., strawberry boxes, etc. The Fruit Marks Act requires that the boxes shall contain at least 55 cubic inches or be marked as short. Yesterday Mr. Vroom visited a number of stores and found quite a number of boxes that were from two to four inches short. The dealers however, told him there had been no complaint about the size as far as strawberries were concerned, but the baskets of plums were a little short weight. The Department have issued orders that the Act respecting the grading and packing of fruit and the size of fruit packages will be strictly enforced. Importers of foreign fruit will be held responsible for the packing and marking of the fruit which they sell as well as for the size of the packages.

The plum and pear crop this year will be an average one and the present prospects for a large cranberry crop are good.

FOOD ADULTERATION.

A recent bulletin issued from the laboratory of the Inland Revenue Department of the Dominion government showed that food adulteration is still in existence in Canada. The report dealt with the inspection of 225 samples of cream of tartar and while 180 were found to be genuine, yet 41 were adulterated and 4 doubtful. In other words 80 per cent. were pure, 18.22 per cent. adulterated and 1.78 per cent. doubtful.

This, however, shows an improvement over 1905 when only 72.2 per cent. were genuine. A fact worthy of notice is that New Brunswick, Kingston, Windsor, Manitoba and Calgary show no adulteration of the product, while Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, London, Vancouver and Victoria had only one case each.

While the improvement is gratifying, there is considerable room for more improvement. If cream of tartar can be manufactured without adulterants, or impurities then it should be done. The analyst's report shows that some manufacturers are turning out a genuine product—then why shouldn't all?

This illustrates the necessity for the inauguration of a national pure food law to counteract the tendency in many cases to manufacturing and selling adulterated goods. The retailer who aims to sell nothing but quality goods receives unfair treatment when he is sold adulterated food products without his knowledge. In some cases the retailer is to blame, but it stands to reason that if adulterated foods are not manufactured they cannot be sold to the public.

The establishing of a pure food law, and more particularly the enforcing of it, would do much to mitigate the evils of dumping goods on the market which are other than what buyers are led to believe they are.

SPAIN'S SUPPLY OF GROCERIES.

Should the unsettled state of political affairs in Spain develop into actual civil war, and the possibility of this is grave, its effect would be felt by the grocery trade in all quarters of the globe. Canada would be no exception.

From Spain we get figs, raisins, currants, nuts, grapes, preserved fruits and preserved fish.

In some of these our importations are small and their loss would not materially influence the market, but in others, and notably raisins and nuts, the effect would be disturbing should the supply from Spain be cut off. Over a third of our supply of raisins comes from Spain and nearly half of our imported nuts.

Our imports of all kinds from Spain run between eight and nine hundred thousand dollars, while our exports to Spain are insignificant. In fact among the important nations she is our poorest customer. She ranks even below her neighbor, Portugal.

It is to be hoped that by the time the nut-cracking season is on Spain will have settled her internal troubles.

THE CO-OPERATIVE MOVEMENT.

A twelve-month has slipped by since the Brantford Co-operative Society was organized. As yet no outstanding success has accompanied the movement in that city, and this has been freely admitted in an editorial in the Brantford Co-operative News—the organ of the society.

It bemoans the fact that the movement was begun in the midst of a time of depression and concludes a paragraph with the bitter-sweet assertion: "The co-operative store still survives although up to the present it has not paid a dividend."

Not only that, but it charges disloyalty on the part of members to the movement and this, of course, is an unpardonable sin in connection with any business. It takes condolence from the fact that since it was established many an individual merchant has gone "to the wall."

The Grocer has before pointed out the disadvantages to the successful carrying on of a store along co-operative lines. It has also published the failures of some four or five such stores occurring within a short space of time, which, when the total number doing business is considered, does not speak well for the new movement in Canada.

WHY TRADE PAPERS SHOULD BE READ.

Frequently the cry is heard from members of the retail trade that they haven't time to read their trade paper. Why this is the case is rather difficult to understand, when it has been proven time after time that merchants have saved money and have increased their business from the pointers and information they have received from their trade paper. This has been admitted by scores whose unsolicited declarations as to the value of the trade press cannot be belittled.

It is a fact that many retail merchants have not yet learned how to read their trade paper. Possibly this may be because they are not apprised of its object.

That object is the laying before the trade of all information concerning events which are of vital interest to that trade, business or profession to which the subscribers of a trade paper belong. Many subscribers to such a paper see an item concerning the predicted failure of a manufacturer of some product. Now the average article manufactured depends upon advertising for its success. If a firm is about to fail and has not the money with which to carry on an advertising campaign, it's a pretty sure thing that the product manufactured by that firm is going to have a rough road. It's advertising that is the life of trade to-day. So, if an item tells of troublesome times for a firm, and the chances seem to be that this firm will go out of business, you don't want to carry an extra large stock of such a firm's goods.

Legislation affecting a particular trade is another item which should be closely watched by all its members. The news columns have often occasion to point out the exact nature of some law that is about to go into effect. The daily press seldom sees the reason why it should go into particulars. The trade is warned and as a result trouble is oftimes escaped. These are but a few reasons why the trade paper should be read.

The subscriber to the trade paper should read it and read every news item and advertisement contained between its covers. They should not be read in haste, as there is not an article in it which does not have some significance for the merchant and his clerks. The valuable trade papers are worth several times more each issue than the price paid for fifty-two.

QUEBEC MARKETS

Montreal, Aug. 6, 1909.

Strawberries (canned) are firmer this week, prices having advanced. Other lines of canned goods are moving out fairly satisfactorily, though not so quickly as might be desired. Sugar is firm at last week's advances, demand being good at the higher figures. Teas are very firm. Beans are easier in feeling, though there has been no actual change in prices. Reports indicate a large crop of Valencia raisins. Sultana raisins are easier, as are fancy seeded. Advices from Patras are not encouraging. Californian dried fruits are steady at unchanged prices. Reports from Spain continue to dwell upon the shortness of the crop.

DRIED FRUITS—Regarding Valencia raisins, everything points to a large crop. Cosmelli & Co., Denia and London, writing to their agent, Andrew Watson, state that the crop is progressing very favorably. Reports to them say that there will be 20 p.c. to 25 p.c. more of a yield this year than in 1908, and it would appear as if the coming crop would total 30,000 tons, when harvested. Continuing they advise buyers to hold off, at least until the end of the month, as they predict low prices, particularly toward the opening of the season, owing to the large supply anticipated. There is a great deal in the suggestion that buyers wait a little time before placing their orders, for it is foolish to rush in and order when first quotations are made, especially under the circumstances as they exist this year. Later on prices are likely to decline, and the poor broker is severely called down for not having protected his customer. Sultana raisins are somewhat easier in price, a reduction of ½c having been made by wholesalers. Fancy seeded raisins are lower, the same amount. The former are selling from 7½c to 8c lb. now, while the latter run about the same price. Hallowee dates, old crop, of course, are easier by ½c, selling at present for 4c to 5c lb. Cable advices from Patras are not satisfactory. One wire received this week stated: "Weather very unfavorable; crop damage increasing; damage is severe". This report led to further buying for future delivery. Californian dried fruits are steady at last week's prices. Almonds show an advancing tendency, shippers asking 6d. per cwt. more for new crop Tarragonas. Marbot walnuts have advanced 1c and are now worth 12c to 13c. Pure Mayette Grenoble walnuts are selling 14c to 15c.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL.—Grocers are not buying freely by any means, but orders of fair size are being placed here and there. It seems to be the general opinion that f.o.b. factory prices are not nearly as satisfactory as quotations of a more definite nature, and some wholesalers find it very difficult to do business with their customers on this basis to their mutual satisfaction. TORONTO.—Many orders are being filled by jobbers for future canned goods and last year's stock in tomatoes, corn,

ONTARIO MARKETS

Toronto, Auglst 5, 1909.

This is the first week of travelers' vacation and as a result the wholesale houses are pretty busy attending to letter and telephone orders. To make it worse, they are shorthanded, due to the holiday season, and besides, business is good.

Few changes in prices are noticed from last week's quotations. Sugar is firm at the five-cent advance mentioned last week, while several commodities are higher on the primary markets. Teas are very firm and evaporated apples on account of low stocks have advanced.

SUGAR—The advance of five cents announced last week still holds good. Sugar is not moving at a rate satisfactory to wholesalers, orders being small.

TEA—The tea market in general is strong. Ceylons are firm with Indians more so. A few shipments of New Japans have arrived with prices higher than a year ago. Prices on Indian teas have been kept up on account of the London market buying freely. This is because so much has been shipped to the United States during the recent tariff talk.

DRIED FRUITS—There is yet a good sale in prunes. This seems to be the case all over Canada. Apricots are moving slowly, while figs are, and have been practically, off the market for some time. Not enough were imported to satisfy the demand. Currants are firm in price but no changes have occurred to the retail trade.

HAMILTON.

Aug. 4.—Grocery travelers have disappeared as if the earth had opened out and swallowed them up. The grocers will have a rest from the blandishments of the guileless traveler. But the "Hello Girl" will be working full time. The grocers hope they will have a good time, and come back with good, broad smiles.

Wholesale houses report July business large, with collections good, and profits in better shape.

As an aftermath of the annual picnic, the grocers gave an exhibition in Dundurn Park on Wednesday of last week, of daylight fireworks—the first time shown in Ontario. These were taken to the Falls to use at the picnic, but the wet weather would not permit their ascendancy. The event was witnessed by about 15,000 people. After the exhibition the grocers treated the children to ice cream and candies, and of course, were voted to be good fellows.

There was great rejoicing here on Saturday, when a wireless message informed Hamilton, that our own and only Bay Hill had been elected president of the Drummers' Snack Club. It has long been known that Bay was looking for Snacks, but to get right up to the top in the Drummers' Club was more than the people here were prepared for.

PETERBORO.

August 4.—Harry Bradshaw, since opening his store at the corner of Charlotte and Downie Streets, has been doing a successful business. His experience has been broad and this combined with enthusiasm and clear judgment are factors in extending his business.

White & Gillespie have an interesting window this week expressive of summer and one of its greatest pleasures—camping. Walter Fitzgerald has effected a pronounced realism in his idea. The scene represents a camp beside a stream with trees around and the inevitable basket with its dainty outing lunch—an absolute necessity after four or five hours in the healthy free air. The window has attracted favorable attention and after dark the effect is enhanced by a colored light carefully hid but illuminating the scene with a soft hue.

Grocers are presenting their customers with a wider range of preserve jars. The variety is very marked this year and the gem jar or sealer is meeting with keen competition. Peter Connal & Son, recently had a window display of preserve jars of the several kinds now on the market and the variation in design was quite noticeable.

Peterboro grocers, generally speaking, are not heavy users of printer's ink. E. F. Mann Co., J. R. Bell, White & Gillespie, and R. A. Dutton are the most consistent advertizers.

W. J. Byers, who conducts a grocery store outside the city limits at what is known as Byersville, reports a successful business since he opened his place to the public a little more than a year ago. He has had occasion to enlarge his first premises and has now a large list of customers. His motto he states is to handle only the best in every line and thus provide against complaints against the quality of his goods. "There can be no two prices following such lines and satisfaction is guaranteed. The average buyer demands good quality and if they begin to feel that you have only the best on your shelves, they will be inclined to come back, whereas a poorer quality would probably deprive you of a good customer." Mr. Byers states that he will endeavor to follow up this principle, as so far it has proved a good one from every standpoint.

LONDON.

Aug. 4. — Business continues fair throughout Western Ontario. Travelers entered on their annual holidays on Monday. For two weeks wholesalers' trade will be confined to filling mail, telephone and telegraph orders.

The feature of the week in the grocery trade was the advance of five cents per hundredweight in all refined sugars. Raws continue very firm, and the expectation is they will advance. All classes of teas are very firm.

According to a statement made by the manager of the Canadian Packing Company, pork prices are higher at present than ever before known in Canada, having within the last few months advanced fully 25 per cent. Many factories are running short time owing to their inability to secure the necessary hogs. "Farmers are not raising them," he told an interviewer.

A. J. McGuffin, the north end grocer, is just now displaying in his store a magnificient piece of silverware, which he and three other Londoners are justly proud of. How it comes in its present quarters is worth explaining. "Mac" is an enthusiastic bowler and member of the Thistle Club. The rink for which he plays lead, entered the contest for the Labatt trophy. Enough said. "Joe" wears his honors modestly enough, and gives all the credit to the other three meen. J. D. Tytler, grocery broker and agent for Frederick Dane, Toronto, won first in the doubles. Jim McDougall, another grocery man, and thrice-winner of the trophy, failed, probably owing to advancing years, to give his customary good account of himself.

President Ed. Ryan of the Retail Grocers' Association, is an unusually busy man just now. He is president of the Irish Benevolent Society, famous for its big annual picnics, and, besides, his usual business duties, is devoting considerable time to make this year's outing, which is to be held on Aug. 12, as big a success as any of its predecessors. Ed. is equal to the occasion.

M. J. Lahey, grocer, corner Richmond and Kent Streets, has made an assignment. He has been in business less than a year.

A. J. Lyons, grocer, Hamilton Road, is selling out. F. L. Ross, who formerly conducted the business, is understood to be the purchaser.

CHATHAM.

August 4.—Arangements for the Merchants' Picnic, to be held on Aug. 26, are progressing splendidly. The various committees are actively at work, and both merchants and clerks are working unitedly for the success of the big outing. With the possible exception of some of the dry goods stores, every establishment in the city will close at noon on Picnic Day.

Raspberries are still hanging on, and the price is lower than when local berries were most plentiful. Though the local season was cut short by drought, the Lake Erie shore region got plenty of rain at the critical moment, and berries from that section are still coming in. The price is 10c a box, $2.25 a crate.

Butter at 25c and eggs at 20c, were features of Saturday's market, and grocer's prices for the former on Saturday eventually went up to the market figure. On the contrary, the tendency of meat prices is slightly downward, though live hogs last week sold as high as $8.25 per cwt. A drop of 25c to 50c in hogs is predicted by local dealers.

Wilfred McCorvie, of John McCorvie & Son, writes home from Seattle, under date of July 25, that he has had an enjoyable trip through the west, and is delighted with the Exposition.

Herbert Malcolmson, of H. Malcolmson's grocery, is spending three or four weeks in Montreal and vicinity.

Early apples, "of a kind," are commencing to come in, and, despite their defects, sell rapidly at from 20c to 40c a peck, 30c being the ruling price.

According to Magistrate Houston, in his judgment on the case brought against Gaspare Favata for purchasing on the market before 10 o'clock, a fruit merchant is not a grocer, and hence fruit merchants cannot be excluded from public markets. The statute expressly names grocers, butchers, hucksters and runners as within the scope of municipal by-laws; and the prosecution in the recent case tried, but without avail, to bring Favata within the by-law by citing him as a "grocer." Favata also pleaded, and his plea was upheld, that he had purchased only for his own household. The magistrate's finding on the first plea may be of interest in other municipalities where similar by-laws have been enacted.

There has been a considerable growth in the number of grocer advertisers in this city during the past two years. In 1907 there were but five grocers who used newspaper space. Not only are all five of them still using it, but there are several additions. The list now includes H. Malcolmson, W. Anderson, Bradley & Son, John McConnell, the King Edward Grocery (these are the original five), and D. J. O'Keeffe, Burnie & Co., J. H. Kadwell, Jas. A. Mackness, H. A. Andrew, John McCorvie & Son and R. Reaume. Mr. Malcolmson, who is the pioneer advertiser, declares frankly that he would not like to try the experiment of doing without it. "While it is hard to trace sales to advertising, the people undoubtedly read our ads," he remarked the other day, adding that he advertised for the simple reason that it paid.

The announcement that Bracebridge merchants are endeavoring to put a stop to the ticket selling and kindred nuisances in that town will be received with a sympathetic fellow feeling locally, where a similar anti-ticket-selling campaign on the part of the merchants has been crowned with a good measure of success.

W. Bell, one of the members of the town fire brigade, who was seriously injured some months ago while attending a fire, can be found back behind the counter again in A. L. Campbell's grocery store. His many friends and the large number of customers are pleased to see him shaking the sugar once more.

Another Co-Operative Association Fails—Chilliwack Merchant Establishes Cash System—Important Markets in Edmonton.

VANCOUVER, B.C.

Aug. 3.—With a good and constant market offering, the wonder has been why someone did not start before to raise hothouse vegetables for spring and early summer use. The Royal Greenhouses, of this city, are now in the field, and in putting tomatoes on the market this week have brought down the price very materially. The Victoria tomatoes have held place so far, the price starting at $4.50, and latterly was down to $3.75 for a box of 20 pounds. The Royal Greenhouses, which are supplying the trade direct, quoted $2. A reduction to $3.25 was made to meet this, and now it is announced that the $2 price will be met. The Royal Greenhouses state that they are making money even at this figure, and that they will be producing not only tomatoes, but lettuce, cucumbers, etc., next winter. The hothouses are located at Magee, on the Lulu Island electric line in the suburbs of the city.

Reliable information concerning the crops was given The Grocer by Thos. Cunningham, inspector of fruit pests, who has returned from a week's business trip to the Chilliwack Valley. Oats, hay, potatoes and root crops are all very good, in fact the best he has seen. Apples, however, will be lighter than for many years; pears will be two-thirds of a crop, the Bartletts being better than other varieties; Italian prunes, full crop. Mr. Cunningham says he is particularly interested in this fruit, since he introduced it into British Columbia. It has been found to be a certain bearer and profitable.

While this season has been backward and rain has come more frequently than in former years, a beneficial peculiarity is noticed in that several of the pestiferous insects are decidedly in the minority. For instance, mosquitos, usually very numerous in rural sections, are few, and caterpillars, which last year were a pest in some portions of the province, all died young. They were attacked by a fungus disease and also by the tynid parasite. But the best of all is the absence of the hop flea beetle. This destructive pest last year did $150,000 damage to the hops in Chilliwack and Agassiz districts, and few of the standard insecticides were found to have any effect. This year, however, there are none to be found, and Mr. Parker, who came up from the agricultural college, of Berkely, California, to study the beetle, cannot find enough to experiment with. The crop of hops will be large this year.

Eighteen carloads of Virginia leaf tobacco, put up in huge casks, are here and will be shipped to Japan by the American Tobacco Trust. Previously, large consignments of American cigarettes were shipped to Japan, but the import duty was raised so high that now the Japanese merchants are importing the leaf, and manufacturing the cigarettes in their own country.

The Moyie, B.C., Rochdale Co-operative Association has been obliged to close its doors, as it has not been found to be a paying venture. It was opened in February, 1908, and supported by the workingmen of that town.

W. G. Lillie, of Chilliwack, B.C., announces that on and after August 1, he will conduct his business on a strictly cash basis. He says: "To make this unqualified announcement in a community where credit has been so indiscriminately granted for so long a time requires no small amount of courage, and I realize that for a time at least sales may fall off. I have studied the whole situation carefully, and I am positive that the saving effected by cash buying will more than convince the most prejudiced credit man in favor of the new system."

EDMONTON.

August 3.—The carpenters' strike, one of the chief reasons for the quietness in business in general in the city for the last six weeks or so, is at last settled.

There is every indication of a bumper crop this year in this section of the west, which makes everybody happy. If the almost ideal conditions of the past three weeks continues harvest will be under way within a period of five or six weeks and another wave of exceptional prosperity will be experienced in Western Canada.

Good offerings of cattle and hogs are reported from the packing houses. Grass fed steers are not yet on the market so no prime beeves are available. Hogs are steady at the the quotations which have been ruling for several weeks showing that a steady market is being maintained.

Old potatoes are about off the market. New potatoes are selling at 5 cents per lb., 6 lbs. for 25 cents. New green peas are selling at four pounds for a quarter, beets and carrots 5 cents a bunch, new onions, three bunches for 10 cents.

Chas. Hall is in his new store, a brick building built on the site of his old premises. He has a nicely furnished ice cream parlor in connection with his grocery, fruit and confectionery business.

Murray & Macdougall, who have for the last year or so, been conducting a grocery business on the corner of 6th and Athabasca Ave., have dissolved partnership. The business is to continue under the name of A. Macdougall.

On Monday, July 26th, B.C. granulated and Raymond beet sugars advanced 5 cents per cwt.

WINNIPEG.

Aug. 3.—The secretary of the Board of Control for the city is calling for tenders for the supply of groceries to the Isolation hospital from July 27, 1909 until April 30, 1910. Each tender must be accompanied by a cheque or cash deposit for a sum equal to 5 per cent. of total amount of tender.

Local grocers are interested in the agitation which has recently been inaugurated regarding the improvement of rural roads in Manitoba. A daily paper, published in this province, recently stated that there are not fifteeen miles of real good roads in Manitoba. This may be slightly over-drawn, but the fact remains that those who live in rural districts find it difficult to maintain a regular trade with the merchants owing to the bad condition of the public highways. The grocers in the towns and cities of the province are much in need of farm produce, such as eggs and vegetables which the farmers do not take pains to supply owing to the lack of facilities. In Ontario farmers are not seriously inconvenienced in driving twenty miles in order to land their produce, because the roads are in a comparatively good condition.

Charles H. Webster, secretary of the Calgary Board of Trade, was in Winnipeg a few days ago, in order that he might add the prestige of the Calgary board to the idea of a world's fair in this city in 1912. He said Calgary always benefited by Winnipeg's development.

R. B. Scott, who for twenty-eight years conducted a general store in Dominion City, Manitoba, died in that town on July 20. Mr. Scott was known in Winnipeg, and highly respected as a business man.

G. W. Robertson, who for the past two years has been a clerk in the store of J. G. Hargrave & Co., left on the first of August to manage the grocery business of A. MacDonald, on Portage avenue.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5, 1909.

Wholesale houses report good business done by travelers throughout the country. At this season of the year the prices are usually in an unsettled condition, due largely to the increasing income of new fruits. In order to keep stocks of other goods under control prices are often reduced, each jobber setting his own price. This is the condition at present. In speaking to a traveler who has spent three weeks in southern Manitoba, the writer was amazed at the extensive orders taken for prunes alone. Merchants are stocking this popular commodity in extra large quantities, preparatory for the increased trade when harvestiog and threshing begins. Merchants are buying freely in many lines, being influenced to do so by the unsurpassed prospect for an abundant wheat yield.

The local retail trade is active but limited more or less to a few lines, the fresh fruits being the best line of trade. Many customers are out of the city and efforts are being made to attract the transient trade. On the whole the grocery business in the west is in a much better condition than one year ago. Buying is freer and collections are heavier. It is also noticed that each year sees the retailer in the more remote parts of the country, ordering an increased variety of goods.

SUGAR—Sales have been very heavy. Domestic preserving has been much more extensive than last year, which indicates that fruits have had a better market than formerly. The following prices are firm at present.

The Toronto Fruit and Produce Men Make Merry

First Picnic a Huge Success—Fruit Galore—Exciting Baseball and Polo Games—Some Representative Grocers Present — Dancing and Boating for the Grown-ups; Candies and Games for the Youngsters—Glad to Be Home Again.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—The families and friends of the members of the Toronto Fruit and Produce Assn. to the number of nearly 700 went by special train to Beaverton on Civic Holiday, Monday, Aug. 2, where a picnic was held in Victoria Park, on the shore of Lake Simcoe. From the moment the train left the station here until its arrival back in the evening, there was "something doing."

Every firm in the association was represented at the excursion and all had donated something either in the way of prizes or for the comfort and convenience of the picnickers. Fruit was freely distributed on the way up and back, and at Beaverton station there was a big representation of the native small boy to help carry Art. McBride's watermelons, and incidentally help himself when nobody was looking. J. J. Ryan was glowingly telling a group of grocers what fine potatoes were grown in the country they were to visit, as the train sped through the Don Valley.

Tom Vance acted as advance guard. He went up on Saturday to see that things were arranged properly, and he certainly had things looking fine when the crowd reached the town. Dave Spence acted as policeman on the way up, and prevented the children falling off the car platforms. J. J. McCabe and Herb. Peters smiled on everyone, and even on the holiday were looking for business.

Arrived at the picnic grounds tables were set in the grove and soon there was a clatter of dishes and a disappearance of eatables set to the music of a good orchestra. A baseball game between the married and single fruit men opened proceedings in the afternoon, and this was followed by a series of races for ladies, boys, girls and smaller children, every one of whom won a prize.

Baseball Contests.

The baseball games (there was a second one between the fruit and produce men) excited the curiosity of the natives and stirred up the enthusiasm of the excursionists. The married men badly beat the bachelors by 8 to 2, in spite of Fred Kimpton's boast, which induced his father to put up six bucks on the losers. Much of the success of the benedicts is due to the "rooting" of Art. McBride. The second game went to the produce men—7 to 4. J. W. Sanderson umpired both games. It is said he left on the Cobalt train afterwards, and is now roaming the wilds of northern Ontario. Anyway he didn't come back with the excursionists. A feature of this game was the splendid catch of a fly made by Charlie Dawson, who performed a double play on the trick. He is herewith recommended to Manager Kelly of the Toronto team as a centre fielder.

Another interesting event was the water polo match played about a mile out in the lake between Charlie Kimpton's eight and Tom Vance's double quartette. Tom won, but we haven't heard the score. Charlie says some assassin struck him a foul blow below the belt thus spoiling his chances to win. He is looking for the would-be murderer, and also for the ball which was lost in the melee. He will make another trip to Beaverton to search for it. Of course it need hardly be said the players were all expert swimmers—standing on good soil. However, it is well they played out so far as some of the bathing suits looked a trifle above sea level. Each of the polo players was presented with a necktie for amusing the crowd, and the winners had a pair of suspenders thrown in Charlie intends tieing up to land sports in future.

The races were hotly contested and much fun was evoked by the coat race in which the runners had to pick a young lady to turn the coat inside out and then button it up the back of the victim, but who was the winner, Mr. Thorpe ? and did Geo. Stronach have the race run over again ?

The Wily Editor.

The grocers' deputation consisting of Billy Snow, Frank Johnston, Dave Radcliffe and Tom Scott walked into the town to see the sights and while there called on the editor of the Beaverton Bugle. "Could I have a glass of ice water," said one of the quartette, who forbids the publication of his name. "You could not," drawled the editor as he lit his pipe. "And why not ?" "Well, because there don't happen to be any ice water here. Last week I read that ice water stopped circulation and I ain't running any chances."

Supper brought relief to a number of the tired competitors, and dancing gave enjoyment to the young people. After that came the distribution of prizes (and peanuts) and then the usual race for the train by those who made sure nothing was left behind. Among the latter was Dave Spence, who tried hard to hold the train until 9 o'clock, although Charlie Kimpton and the great majority said 8 was late enough.

The train made a quick run in and everybody was "home and in peaceful sleep" as per program by 11 o'clock. Not a single accident or untoward incident spoiled the day, and already next year's outing is being talked about.

Small Fruit.

J. J. McCabe said Herb. Peters was the candy kid ; and he really looked the part for the girls were giving him plenty of taffy.

Tom Vance, Charlie Kimpton, Geo. Stronach and Art. McBride looked after the games, and they looked after them well.

Most of the success of the picnic is due to H. W. Thorpe, chairman, and W. B. Stringer, secretary of the excursion committee.

Umbrellas, cardigan jackets, suspenders and neckties for the men ; parasols and handkerchiefs for the ladies ; and games, guns, balls and bats for the youngsters, were the prizes.

Every member of the Association was on one or other of the committees.

Charlie Kimpton reports that Johnnie McBride has not yet got to car 8 with the fruit.

Frank Everist took great interest in the ball games. His sons were the battery in both contests.

Fred Kimpton and Lou Everist tied for second place in the 200 yard race. Both said they could have won, but deferred out of respect to the other's feelings.

Gene McMillan did some professional stunts as catcher in the first game.

BISCUIT CO.'S ANNUAL PICNIC.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—The annual picnic of The Montreal Biscuit Co. was held on Saturday last, at Hudson-on-the-Lake. A special train of six cars left Windsor station, Montreal, at 9 a.m., arriving at the beautiful grove on the bank of Lake of Two Mountains an hour later. The employees and families, some 300 in number were met on their arrival by members of the committee, who had everything arranged for the comfort of the visitors. Hot tea and lemonade was provided for all. A first class orchestra supplied music. After an enjoyable day, and before leaving the ground, Jno. Farquharson was given the honors of the day, by a good bouncing, which was much enjoyed by the onlookers, and after three rousing cheers for Mrs. Farquharson, the picnicers wended their way to the train in waiting, and arrived home at 8.30 p.m. The following committee had the arrangements in hand: John Farquharson, president; F. J. Hodgson, E. Hart, Robt. Wilbur, T. J. Potter, M. Farquharson, Miss M. Cherry, treasurer, and J. E. Gagnier, secretary.

A REGRETTED DEMISE.

F. S. Joy, who for some two years was with the MacLean Publishing Co. on subscription work in Ontario and Quebec, passed away last Saturday night at his home in Toronto. Death was due to meningitis. Mr. Joy was a successful and energetic salesman until his health failed him, his work being very commendable. He was a young man, having scarcely passed beyond his teens, and his death at so early an age is much regretted by his many friends.

In the list of wholesale houses whose travelers are on vacation, which appeared in last week's issue of The Grocer, the name of Lumsden Bros. was inadvertently omitted.

Produce and Provision Situation of the World

Bacon Situation in England—Hogs Still too Scarce to Suit Packers—English Cheese Market Lower — The Honey Prospects.

Scarcity of hogs is the great feature in the provisions situation. The trade has been quiet in England during the past week, due to recent advances, which prevented much purchasing. The end of last week saw stocks disappear on the London market, and prices advanced making Canadian bacon reach its highest point for the year. These high prices will only remain so long as the good summer weather stays. A check in consumption in the old country would likely affect prices.

News from England indicates that butter is firm in places and weak in others. The fact apparently is that supplies are more than ample for requirements and only speculative buying is holding the market up.

Cheese prices on the English market are lower, the drop being the result of lower cables from Canada.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Fair demand for bacon and other smoked meats is reported. Business is not nearly so good as it should be, the high prices quoted on all lines having eventually resulted in a falling off in orders. Lard is easier in feeling, but no actual changes in prices have to be recorded. Pork is quiet.

BUTTER—Most of the butter being produced these days is going into storage. There is a fair demand for immediate consumption, but absolutely none for export, owing to the high prices ruling. It is thought in some quarters that figures may be brought down to an export basis in the near future, but there appears to be little ground for the hope. In the country 21¾c. to 22c. has been paid. Production is large. Little Ontario creamery is now arriving as it is as high as Eastern Townships butter, and is not regarded so favorably here. Dairy is not in large supply, receipts being smaller than last year. There is little demand for it at present. Prices are the same as they were last week.

Creamery, solids, lb	0 23
Creamery prints	0 23½
Dairy, tubs, lb	0 17 0 18

CHEESE—Export sales continue very satisfactory, little or no cheese which is being received these days going into storage. In the country prices keep steady, showing little tendency to either advance or decline. Cheese will not be stored here until September, anyway.

EGGS—Prices are abnormally high at present, due to the fact that there is a continued demand of surprisingly large proportion, while receipts are by no means as large as they should be, due, no doubt, to the fact that the hens in the country are shut up during harvest time. Owing to further warm weather the quality of eggs arriving is not in every instance as good as might be desired. Offerings will likely be larger in the course of two or three weeks. Demand locally is brisk, especially for best quality. Prices in the country rule from 18c. to 19c.

HONEY—In local sections the crop of clover honey is reported rather light than otherwise, while letters from other districts tell of a yield which will prove above the average. On the whole the crop this year will be satisfactory. The quality will be up to usual. A large crop of buckwheat honey is expected, prospects being good.

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS—Practically unchanged conditions prevail this week in the local market situation. There is not a price change, and the scarcity of live hogs still holds up operations in the packing houses. Towards the end of last week there was a big demand for breakfast bacon and hams, but with the holiday over the early part of this week saw an unusual quietness in trading. As the week progressed business resumed normal lines, and, generally, the situation is much as it was ten days ago.

BUTTER—Prices hold firm, though unchanged. Supplies dropped off some early in the week and demand kept up, which greatly strengthened the tone of the market. At present conditions are slightly better in that supplies are a little freer.

Farmers' separator butter	0 20 0 21
Dairy prints, choice	0 17 0 18

CHEESE—Freer arrivals of cheese are helping to get prices to an easier plane. Old cheese is off the local market, and this fact has induced better trading in new large and twin cheese.

Cheese, new, large	0 12¼ 0 12½
" " twins	0 12¼ 0 12¾

EGGS—While still quoting eggs at last week's price there is a firmer tendency to the present situation and the prospect of higher figures soon. Packing continues, and all supplies are candled on receipt. Demand is good and supplies are fair. The continued hot weather is having its effect on the eggs reaching this point both in quantity received and in quality.

Fresh eggs	0 22

POULTRY—Demand for poultry lines just now is confined principally to the hotels, restaurants and hospitals. Supplies are fully equal to any demand, but that is not saying big trading is being done. Prices are easier, with declines on spring chickens, spring ducks and old ducks. Yearling chickens are off, the farmers having none to sell.

HONEY—Early honey continues to come in in sample lots with the likely price about 10 cents. There is no demand as yet and dealers are but feeling their way.

NOTES FROM BRACEBRIDGE.

August 4.—W. H. Seyler, of The Canadian Grocer spent Monday in town the guest of your correspondent. Mr. Seyler who only had a few hours in town, spent most of the time among the business men. We congratulate him on his recovery from his recent illness and know that the sojourn in Muskoka will do him good.

On Tuesday evening the Board of Trade met in the town hall to discuss the question soon to be submitted to the ratepayers, namely the power question. Among the many business men present were several grocers, who spoke on the necessity of this growing town increasing the present water power to enable the manufacturer to locate here.

The arrangements regarding the dead beat is working smoothly among the grocers. Such people are practically cut out of the books and while not doing a strictly cash business, the grocers feel that carrying only reliable customers at two weeks' time is almost as good as cash.

The blueberry, a native of Muskoka, will in the course of a week or two make its appearance in quantities large enough for shipping. The quality this year is good.

Manitoba Merchants Watching School Book Contract

Definite Steps Towards Reorganization of Retail Merchants' Association—Members From Ontario Address Meeting in Reference to Mail-Order Houses Getting Contract for Supplying the School Books—A Live Subject in Manitoba.

Staff Correspondence.

Winnipeg, Aug. 3.—At a meeting of retail merchants in Winnipeg on July 27, definite steps were taken to organize a retail merchants' association of Western Canada. It will be evident that the matter of organization will necessarily be proceeded with in a careful manner owing to the recent difficulties of the old organization.

There was a general feeling that an organization was absolutely necessary, yet the past failure had the tendency to create suspicion among the various merchants who were involuntarily involved in the old organization. On account of this lack of confidence, which prevailed, it was difficult to assemble a large representation at the meeting called on July 27. Those who were present, however, were extremely enthusiastic in their endeavor to organize, and before the meeting was concluded it was resolved that every effort would be put forth to interest every merchant in Western Canada in an association.

The chairman, W. R. Milton, called for an expression of opinion, regarding the matter of organization and the best methods of procedeure. In response to this, John Dyke, a local grocer, who has always been interested in the association, said, that by all means the merchants should organize for the protection of their interests. Notwithstanding the burdens which were thrown upon the old association, owing to the action of the secretary, the association had benefited vastly more than it will cost them to straighten out the affairs.

Nominations for the office of President were called for and resulted in the names of Horace Chevier, A. T. Connell, W. R. Milton and W. T. Delvin, being submitted. Upon motion it was decided not to elect officers until the next meeting, when an attempt will be made to have more merchants present.

It was further moved and seconded and finally carried, that the nominee who received the second highest number of votes would be elected vice-president. Acting Secretary, J. C. Clark was instructed to receive applications for the position of secretary-treasurer, and to report the list of the same at the next meeting.

At this point of the meeting B. W. Zieman, Preston, Ont., president of the R. M. A., and M. Moyer, of Toronto, the treasurer, were introduced to the merchants.

Mr. Zieman stated that the reason he was present was to urge upon the retail merchants of Winnipeg and Manitoba, particularly to join in with the merchants of Ontario and Quebec in forming a Dominion Association. In outlining the great necessity of a general association, he said that there were questions which come up in various local centres, which are of importance to the merchants of the Dominion as a whole, and which were not thoroughly investigated on account of the lack of prestige in a small organization.

School Book Contract.

He then refered to the school book question in Manatoba as one which needed the co-operative support of all merchants in Canada, irrespective of their line of trade. The Government of Ontario had given the contract to furnish school books to a firm which had tendered for the same at what has been considered less than cost, but they were making up the loss by advantageous advertising. This company, which had been carrying on a departmental and mail order business for years, much to the detriment of the retail trade of Canada, were by this contract given increased impetus to dominate the wholesale and retail business of the Dominion. The fact that this company intended to give a 20 per cent discount to every individual purchaser for cash was an outrage upon the retail bookstore trade of Ontario, where these books could be purchased only at the same price. The speaker then surprised the members present by stating that tenders for the supply of school books in Manitoba were to open on August 2, and that it behoved the retailers of Western Canada to petition the Government not to award the contract to any corporation which would use the privelege solely to develop a stronger mail-order business, depriving the retail bookseller of a legitimate profit, and encouraging customers from every part of the province to purchase every article required in the home through the mails.

Mr. Zieman's remarks were so clear and forcible that every merchant present appreciated the serious situation of the retail trade should the Eaton Company be allowed to supply school books to the schools of Manitoba.

Warning to Western Merchants.

Mr. Moyer followed Mr. Zieman and at once introduced the question of school books. He said, that as a member of the Retail Merchants' Association of Ontario, he came to warn the merchants of Western Canada against the encroachment of such concerns as the large mail-order houses. The T. Eaton Co. had tendered for the school books of Ontario at a lower figure than they cost them, their only object being to educate the people to the system of ordering by mail, and for this purpose their name would be imprinted on every book. Every wholesale house in Canada should become alarmed at the possibility of additional contracts being awarded to this company since the maintenance and development of the retail business meant the maintenance and development of the wholesale business. That the Government should give the contract to a concern which kills the businesses of those men who make the Government is an outrage.

Mr. Moyer said that the Government could not be expected to know the wishes of the people, but that the people should approach the Government. For, it would seem, that the members of parliament would not take such an action if they clearly understood the situation. As an instance of what the Retail Merchants' Association could do, Mr. Moyer cited the instance of the co-operative society bill, which was introduced in the House of Commons and allowed to pass on the grounds that the people were supporting such a bill.

Mr. Moyer was warmly applauded at the conclusion of his address.

W. R. Milton was called away from the meeting, and E. B. Nixon, past president of the Grocers' section of the association, took the chair for the remainder of the evening. In rising to speak in his enthusiastic and forceful way he said, "Gentlemen we have been slow in getting down to business, and the reason for it has been that we have not had clearly outlined before us the needs of an association. These gentlemen of Ontario have just told us that an organization is of dire necessity in order to save the retail business life of this province. We can stop the Government from passing any legislation which will be hurtful to the retail trade. We can stop it by confering with our own members, and if they will not obey us we will get others at the next election. We must at once incoporate, and the nucleus of the association will be the subject of this evening's discussion, viz., the retail trade vs. the catalogue house. The retail merchants of Manitoba and Western Canada must join hands and become one harmonious whole, that our common interests might be preserved."

It was decided to hold the next meeting on August 4, and an attempt will be made to interest every retail merchant in the province.

Premier Petitioned.

In the meantime, also, the following petition is being circulated among, and signed by merchants throughout the province:—

To the Hon. R. P. Roblin, premier, and members of the Executive for the Province of Manitoba:

Your petitioners humbly show: That the retail business all over the province is convenient and essential to the welfare of the people of Manitoba.

That the retail business is a necessary and legitimate branch of trade.

That during a considerable portion of the year a large section of the people depend on the retail merchants for their support, furnishing them with necessary supplies of every description, frequently on much needed terms of credit, inseparable from the conditions of a new country.

That the departmental store is a development of an unnatural excrescence on the retail business.

That unless this development is stopped, controlled or regulated it will ruin the legitimate retail trade and destroy the business fabric on which the people so largely depend.

That departmental stores pay no taxes outside of the municipality in which they are located.

That the Dominion Government's postal system affords facilities altogether too favorable to the building up of departmental stores.

That a Government contract to supply school books to the children of Manitoba, if given to a departmental store, would be a discrimination in its favor, and against the legitimate retail business; vicious in principle, and destructive to the established channels of trade.

That such a contract would place advertising material and books bearing the imprint of the departmental store in every home in the province where children attend the public schools, and would be an immensely valuable franchise to the departmental store, and correspondingly injurious to the local retail merchants in every branch of business.

That, if for lack of legitimate profit in handling school books, the retail trade throughout the country are forced to give up handling them, and the pupils are unable to procure their books locally, it will upset the whole educational programme at the commencement of the school term.

That the retail trade pays a large share of the taxes of every municipality, and are entitled to protection against unfair competition.

That the influence of the retail trade is substantial and far reaching.

That the retail trade looks to the Government of Manitoba to do it justice, and refuse to consider tenders from departmental stores in awarding the contract for the supply of books for the schools of the province.

And your petitioners will ever pray.

Yet we would hesitate to compete with the high standard English manufacturer on his own ground. Because we know that a long sea voyage would not add anything to the flavor of Christie Biscuits.

There's no doubt about the high Quality of the rare European Fancy Biscuits on the other side of the Atlantic. But when they are shipped over here there's a difference. Grocers, mindful of their reputation, would as soon hand out counterfeit change as stale biscuits to their customers. Tendency Towards Lower Prices in Flour—Decline in Cereal Market Due to Low Prices of Grains — Heavy Demand For Feed.

Business in flour at the present time is not extensive, due to the prospects of lower prices with the arrival of new wheat. Buyers are not taking much, merely enough to supply present demands. Millers are booking some heavy orders for export in October and November flour but present exports are not large. Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland constitute a good market for Ontario flour and some substantial shipments are being made there.

Oats have also eased off in price with new crops prospects, resulting in a lower cereal market. Rolled oats have declined 25 cents per bag. It is estimated that the visible supply of oats is more than sufficient to meet demands until new grain arrives.

FEED—Abnormal demand for feed of all kinds continues to exist. Millers are in a quandary to fill, or even partially fill, orders and yet they are receiving new demands every day. Feed flour is just as scarce as feed, and in as strong demand. Needless to say, prices are very firm.

ROLLED OATS—The weakness in oats is demonstrated by the decline which has taken place during the week. Rolled oats is now obtainable at $5.55 a barrel. Oatmeal is also 25c lower. Visible supplies of oats amount to two millions of bushels, and it is generally admitted that this amount will not be used up before the new crop is on the market. The fact that the oats crop promises favorably will likely result in the quotations on old oats being still further reduced, and it is improbable that the old will command, this year, the usual premium over the new, when the latter comes on the market.

TORONTO.

FLOUR—Anticipation of the arrival of the new wheat has produced an easier feeling in the flour market although no material price changes can be announced. Business is being done on a small scale, buyers only taking what they need for present purposes on account of the new wheat being expected, which will likely produce lower prices.

TWICE IN SUCCESSION.

It is one of the absent-minded Professor Rounder's fads to keep himself within certain limits of avoirdupois, and at stated intervals (when he did not forget) he calls at the village store, tries the scales and notes carefully whether he is going "over" or "under" the permitted two hundred and twenty pounds.

On one occasion he was astonished to observe the machine register two hundred and thirty-three pounds. "Tut, tut! Dear me! This will never do," he frowned. Then a happy smile twinkled in his eyes as he reflected: "Of course. Last week I wore no overcoat."

Removing his outer garment, he threw it over one arm and again consulted the figures. Two hundred and thirty-three pounds!

With a look of scholarly perplexity Professor Rounder walked out into the cold street, still carrying the overcoat over his arm and muttering, "Tut, tut! Dear me! Then I am gaining. This is very serious."

Policy in Giving Assistance to Competitors

Cut-throat Methods Belong to a Past Which Should be Forgotten—How an Irishman and Dutchman Were Led to a Friendly and Successful Business Life From One of Intense Hatred—As Enemies They Lost While as Friends They Gained.

By M. Moyer.

Not only in Toronto, but in cities and towns all over, there are decided evidences of improvement in the methods of storekeeping, but at the same time there are still some of the old fogies laboring in the same old ruts and don't know how to get out of them. They know that something is wrong, they know that they are losing ground in the race for business, but instead of finding the trouble in themselves they are hating their neighbors because they set the pace too fast for them.

The retail trade is waking up to the fact that it must give the service the people demand. This they cannot do by watching and finding fault with their neighbors, and by trying to undersell them. All up-to-date merchants want fair play; they are trying to work on higher planes, are not struggling to put one another out of business, and are even not doing business on the principle of "live and let live," but "live and help others to live." Stores are kept cleaner, goods are in better shape and the service is more cheerful and more obliging.

Experience and practice has proven the fact that early closing and even Wednesday afternoon holidays are means of increasing trade instead of losing it. Clerks enjoy their work better, take more interest in the business. Even the "boss" himself wears a more cheerful get-up and the customers are treated better.

Many Exceptions Yet.

While all this is happily going on there are still a few little bunches of grocers here and there to be found, who deserve the pity of the community. They are still of the old school, and are rivalling each other to an extent that it should attract the attention of the humane society. They are watching each other and wishing the other fellow would quit, but neither of them has the moral courage to take a manly stand. There are cases in Toronto where rival grocers get up at 5 o'clock in the morning and never close before 10 o'clock at night; and this is done just because the other fellow does it. They are injuring their healths by overwork, and injuring their trade through this ridiculous slavery, which nobody respects, and they themselves dislike. But they are too bitter to be decent and neighborly to each other.

Should not such cases fall under the care of the humane society; if a few boys have a scrap, kind hearted people at once interfere and save them from being hurt, but here are grown up men, men of standing engaged in a fight to wear one another out, and even trying to hinder each other in business, and nobody comes to their assistance. They are not members of an association; they are too disgusted with their competitor to read their own trade paper. They simply stand in the way of each other and are powerless to help themselves out of it.

Religion in an Association.

A very interesting and a true story is told of two merchants who were rivalling each other for a long time. The one was a Dutchman and the other an Irishman. They were cutting and slashing and keeping open to all hours, and they didn't even speak to each other. They carried this on until the Irishman was nearly used up and could not get any more goods on credit. The Dutchman this time got the best of it. However neither were making money. By this time the merchants of the town organized an association, for the betterment of the retail trade, and they took special pains to get these two bitter rivals to attend their meetings and to become members. Here at the first meeting they met and for the first time in their lives they spoke to each other. One of the speakers that night showed the absurdity of trying to ruin each other by cutting prices. Having made the acquaintance of his Irish rival, and found him not such a bad fellow after all he went over to his store the next morning and found that he was so nearly used up that he had very little stock, and no credit to buy any more. They were both convinced of the folly of their past conduct, and agreed to be friends, and live and help others to live.

The Dutchman advanced him money to buy stock, which he did, and after that they were always close friends, and both made money.

After years of business as neighbors, during which time they were a great help and benefit to each other, the Irishman took sick, and the Dutchman was his best friend and the last one at his bedside when he died.

Where is there a better religion than that which was taught at that retail merchants' association meeting?

TOBACCO AREA REDUCED

Seed Plots Not Successful—Experimental Stations Being Installed.

The Dominion Government reports that the installation of the experimental stations in the counties of Essex, Ontario, and of Montcalm and Rouville, Quebec, is progressing rapidly. These stations include a farm of 25 acres situated at Harrow in Essex and intended for the study of the tobaccos generally cultivated in Ontario, viz., Burleys, and also that of a type newly introduced into this part of Canada, viz., Virginia, the drying of which is done by the special flue curing process. Two special drying rooms have been built for this purpose. In spite of the somewhat unfavorable spring nine acres have been planted with different varieties of tobacco; the plants took well and the crop has now a fine appearance.

The Quebec stations, St. Jacques l'Achigan, Mont., and St. Cesaire, are devoted more particularly to the study of pipe and cigar tobaccos. The seed plots have been successful and the experimental fields are in a favorable condition in spite of some damage from insects and delays of planting caused by a rather too rainy spring.

Independently of the study of the respective varieties cultivated in each district, the stations undertake ordinary cultivation experiments, comprising the trial of different kinds of manure used in tobacco cultivation and of rotations from which a better yield is hoped for than that which is obtained in certain sections where continuous and exhaustive cultivation has sometimes led to the impoverishment of the soil.

As to the general area planted with tobacco in Canada this, owing to the ill success of the seed plots, will have been reduced by about one-quarter in the province of Quebec. In Ontario a large number of growers intended to plant the same areas with tobacco that they had cultivated two years ago, but these areas have also been reduced owing to the failure of the seedlings.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There has crept into usage recently, in several large firms, a system of drawing up their checks in typewriting. This is a very dangerous procedure, for it will be readily understood, inasmuch as typewritten words and figures may be erased, with what ease a check could be raised or altered.—Bankers' Magazine.

GUIDE-POSTS TO PEACE.

To be glad of life because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars.

To be satisfied with your possessions but not content with yourself until you have made the best of them. To despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness, and to fear nothing but cowardice. To be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgusts, to covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manner. To think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends, and every day of Heaven, and to spend as much time as you can, with body and spirit, in God's out-of-doors. These are little guide-posts on the footpaths to peace.

—Henry Van Dyke.

Early Apples Make Their Appearance—All Fruits Selling Well —Old Potatoes Disappearing—Watermelons and Cantaloupes Good Stock—Lobsters Scarce and High in Price.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Early apples are selling by the basket this week, 50c. being asked. Currants, red and black, are now obtainable, though prices asked are rather high. Cherries are nearly through. Pears and peaches, California, are in good demand at lower prices. Plums are easier, while raspberries are slightly lower, too. Dealers report excellent demand all along the line, with sales of oranges and lemons increasing with the coming of very warm weather.

VEGETABLES—All kinds of farm garden truck are arriving in large quantity and sales are frequent. With receipts so large it is not surprising that prices have tumbled all along the line, practically. New potatoes are called for in most every order sent in these days. They are selling by the barrel and by the basket, prices being the same as last week. Old potatoes are done. Old carrots are finished, too. Tomatoes, Montreal, are arriving freely and sales are frequent at 80c. to $1 a gin box. Cucumbers are plentiful, and selling from 15c to 20c. a dozen. There are plenty of cabbage and prices are easier. String beans are much cheaper. On the whole business is very satisfactory.

FISH—Gaspe salmon is no longer arriving, the season being over. Orders are now being filled from stocks of frozen salmon. There have been advances in several lines of fresh fish since last week, namely, in halibut, 1c.; haddock, 1c.; steak cod, 1c.; mackerel, 2c.; Gaspe salmon, 2c.; brook trout, 3c. Lake fish are very scarce, dore being especially so. Supplies of lake trout and whitefish are fairly satisfactory. Mackerel are not arriving freely, and dealers are never sure of having the fish in stock when wanted. Lobsters are very scarce, and high. Smoked, prepared and pickled fish are quiet.

GREEN FRUITS—All kinds of fruit are arriving in large quantities this week, though trading is not so brisk as was expected. California pears and plums are the choice lines, and some fair peaches are also coming forward from that State. Native peaches, too, have made their appearance, though they are offered at purchaser's risk. In berries, red raspberries are yet the favorite, with a big demand for Lawton berries. Blueberries are coming in firmer and more plentiful, and red currants and gooseberries are going off. Late Valencias hold the orange market for quality, and they are still coming in in car lots. Lemons are firmer and scarce. Bananas, though plentiful enough in other markets are not yet a drug here. Watermelons and cantaloupes are now good stock. Domestic fruit generally is opening well. Prices are slightly changed.

VEGETABLES—Old Ontario potatoes are about done. Very few of the dealers have any in stock, and the number of bags available in Toronto could easily be counted at the present time. In fact all kinds of old potatoes are nearly off. Imported lines are still coming in, but within ten days the native early lines will supplant them. Red tomatoes are arriving freely just now, those from Kent and Essex commanding higher prices by about 15 cents than other Ontario lines. Early native vegetables are of better quality than at any time this season. Some splendid cucumbers were shown early this week. Prices are easing off slightly, and will be very reasonable in a month's time.

FISH—Fresh fish supplies are expected to show a big decline this week. With the arrival of August, fresh water fish take to the deep water and no amount of coaxing will get them to bite, and at the same time to net them is equally difficult. Prices on the whole are easier than a week ago. Finnan haddie may yet be obtained, but dealers say they have no holding-up qualities at this season, and are withdrawing quotations though they will obtain supplies for customers wanting that line.

PARCEL POST FOR BAHAMAS.

A convention between the Post Office of Canada and the post Office of the Bahamas for the direct exchange of close parcels by mail came into force on the first day of July 1909.

The parcel mails from Canada are made up at the Halifax Post Office, and parcels addressed to the Bahamas should, therefore, be forwarded promptly to Halifax under registration.

The rate of postage on parcels for the Bahamas is twelve cents for each pound or fraction of a pound; the limit of weight is seven pounds, and the maximum dimensions two feet in length by one foot in width or depth.

STATEMENTS ABOUT STARCH.

An authority on starch says:

There is a good deal of powdered or pulverized starch used in various branches of manufacture. Bakers, confectioners, ice cream and candy makers require a finely powdered, thoroughly dried article, free of moisture, with a high degree of absorptiveness, and employ this grade of goods for moulding, as well as manufacture of gum drops, lozenges, chocolate creams, etc. Laundry and edible starch is made from precisely the same stock, the raw material being identical. The process is a little different at some stages of manufacture, more especially in respect to the length of time the stock is kept in the kilns drying. Lump or laundry starch takes longer to dry than powdered. Lump starch of the best quality takes about twelve days to dry out thoroughly, while the powdered or pearl only takes relatively two days, which accounts in a measure for the difference in price.

PERTH CORRESPONDENCE

Aug. 4—The Inspector of Weights and Measures visited town last week and we hear the usual complaints in connection with his charges. Grocers in most cases paid from 75c up to be simply told their scales were correct. The Inspector would spend 10 minutes probably, collect his dues with 10c additional for cartage and then move on.

Quite a number of pails of wild raspberries and blueberries from the hill district west of here have been shipped in. They found ready sale last week at $1 each.

A number of stores are this year handling beans by the pound instead of quart and taken all around it seems fairer.

C. A. Farmer & Son have added a 10 foot counter refrigerator to their store fixtures. This keeps fruit, meats, etc., in first class shape. It can be used as a counter and shows goods in the refrigerator to the best advantage.

With the exception of hay, crops in this section are in first class shape. Good crops will mean solid autumn business.

Last Monday was Perth's civic holiday. Travelers always lose quite a little time through civic holidays coming on different days in different places. Would it not be a good thing if one civic holiday common all over the province could be arranged.

Travelers are booking orders for salmon for fall delivery; $1.70 is being asked for best grade of "talls."

System is Everything

Modern business success is built upon System. The house that is ahead is the one that is best systematized in every detail—especially in the selling end.

THE Allison COUPON BOOK SYSTEM

is the most important phase of selling system so far as the grocer is concerned You can get along without them, but not nearly as well as you can WITH them.

How They Work

A man wants credit. You think he is good. Give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book. Have him sign the receipt or note form in the front of the book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10 — No trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10 and gets another book. No pass books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

Keep Your Gasolene Outdoors

Store it in a Bowser Outdoor Cabinet

The Bowser will keep your property absolutely safe from gasolene fires and explosions because it keeps explosive gases from forming.

It will increase your profit on gasolene because it stops the usual loss of from 15 to 50 per cent., through evaporation, leakage and waste. It draws new trade because it is placed in front of the store where it continually advertises the fact to automobilists and others that you sell gasolene.

The Bowser costs you nothing because it pays for itself by its own saving of gasolene. Ask us to send Gasolene Catalog 5045. It's free.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S GOOD EXAMPLE

By A. B. LEVER

PRESIDENT TAFT of the United States believes in trade newspapers. He is such a thorough believer that when he wanted to make an announcement of particular interest to business men of the United States he selected a business man's paper as his medium. It was one of the first acts of his administration.

This is the era of the trade newspaper. At any rate it is the dawn of the era.

Business men the world over are gradually coming to recognize the fact that if they want to reach firms in their own particular line of business the best and most direct method is through the columns of the trade newspaper devoted to their particular interests.

Manufacturers and wholesalers who do not recognize this fact are obviously behind the times. Those who do not catch up are likely to be overtaken and lapped by their more progressive competitors.

This is an age of progressive business methods and those who are not progressive in advertising are like those who prefer to travel by the old fashioned ox team instead of by the swiftly moving express.

Surely if Mr. Taft from his presidential chair is awake to the importance of addressing business men through the columns of a trade publication, manufacturers and wholesalers should not be less awake to their opportunities.

Just as a well aimed rifle carries the bullet to the bull's eye, so the trade newspaper carries the announcement of the manufacturer and wholesaler direct to the customer whom they desire to reach.

No manufacturer or wholesaler can carry on an effective advertising campaign that does not include the use of the trade newspaper.

A strong combination-

¶ An extensive garden of three thousand acres in the heart of Prince Edward County, Ontario; a canning factory without a peer in the completeness of its modern sanitary and mechanical equipment, and the cleanliness and skill of its employees; that is the combination which produces "Farmer Brand" Canned Fruits and Vegetables.

¶ Consequently every can of Farmer Brand is pure in quality and perfect in flavor. Farmer Brand brings and retains for you the quality customers —people who want the very best and are willing to pay a fair price to get it.

The Flavor is Preserved

Some canners preserve the fruit or vegetables only and when you open a tin you would not recognize the taste. It is either insipid, vapid or foreign to what nature imparted. You will never have any cause to complain in the

Old Homestead Brand
Canned Fruits and Vegetables

The contents of every can have the full natural flavor. We claim that our processing methods are up-to-date in every respect. The flavor of Old Homestead products proves it—proves that we have the facilities and "knack" to cook and preserve an article without diminishing its flavor.

"Canada's Pride"

Canned Goods Still Leads

We would advise that we are now running heavy on Peas, packing a finer quality than we have ever turned out because of the excellent condition of the raw material, which with our careful handling, fine equipment and unequalled sanitary factory, enables us to far excel in quality any previous year.

These same conditions will apply to the full line of fruits and vegetables which we pack.

Don't be deceived by Brands and Trade Marks similar to ours which some packers are using, trying to place on the market inferior goods on our well-earned reputation.

Canada's Pride stands for Cleanliness and High-Grade Quality

One trial will make you a strong friend of "Canada's Pride."

To be had of the following wholesale representatives: Wm. Galbraith & Son Montreal, Que.; Fenwick, Hendry & Co., Kingston, Ont.; Medland Bros., Toronto, Ont.

PROFIT OR LOSS ?

The Best Canned Goods

There are many kinds in the market all making claims of being the choicest and the highest in excellence, flavor and merit, but

The Queen Quality Leads

WHY?

Because our fruits and vegetables are fresh, palatable, and the finest specimens that can be secured in one of Canada's most fertile and progressive districts.

Because they are uniform in quality, as we supervise the growing of the raw products from seed time to harvest and our inspectors reject everything that is not strictly up to the highest standard.

Because we have the most sanitary and up-to-date process and machinery and no detail is overlooked. We attend to the practical side ourselves and make our own cans of the best tin plate that can be secured.

All progressive grocers stock them and all discriminating customers get in them

About Marmalade

You cannot turn out a high quality marmalade in a month, any more than you can turn out an architect.

Experience always counts. The marmalade maker must learn by experience. The architect must learn by much study, and some experience.

JOHN GRAY & CO., LTD., Glasgow, Scot., have been turning out high-class marmalade for many, many years.

That's why you can count on their goods.

TOO MUCH TEA

is carried in stock by the average grocer. He has many different kinds of packet tea on his shelves and if he sells bulk tea his stock is of necessity still larger. There is a lot of dead stock on hand—non-profit producing tea that is continually depreciating in value and quality.

The real, live, up-to-date grocer recognizing the folly of carrying a heavy stock selects as a tea that he knows will satisfy his customers. A tea of undoubted superiority, a quick and sure seller with a record of eighteen years reliable service back of it. It pays to cut out the dead lines and concentrate. Then you get quick returns out of every dollar invested.

The Policy of Plain Speech as a Business Method

How it Works Out in Every Day Relations With Travelers and Customers—Straight Talk Does Not Imply either Discourtesy or Distrust — The Business Community Attaches No Permanent Value to the Name or Standing of a Citizen Who is all Things to all Men—How the Bearer of a Tale Will Always Carry One as Well.

By G. B. VanBlaricom.

"Oh ! I am a plain speaking man and I tell people just what I think. I do not beat about the bush. I would not say behind a man's back anything that I would not just as leave tell him to his face."

You have heard business men and others talk like this. Of course, a man at all times can say exactly what he thinks and in whatever way he pleases if he does not care whether he has any friends. The man who really speaks as forcibly and pointedly as he at times feels and who lives up to all the verbal bluster about what he is going to do and say, is, however, about as extinct a specimen in the human race as the mastodon is in the animal kingdom.

There are many things to remember, and one of them is important. It is to the effect that a man, who carries a tale will also bear one. If a traveler comes into your place of business and tells you how much he sold Kennedy up the street, and imparts other information to you in strict confidence that "Kennedy is in pretty low water," or "has had some domestic difficulties," that self same representative is going to tell the next merchant he meets something about you. You, perhaps, think not, but the man who will come up and make a special exception in your case and glibly remark in a low voice : "Well, I will tell you, but you must keep the thing under your hat as I secured the information in confidence," is going to do the same thing with any private or personal news that you may give him.

The best way in the world to practise secretiveness regarding any project or undertaking of which, you do not wish the public to learn, is never let anything pass your lips and then you are sure that nothing will leak out. Few men, no matter how honorable in other respects, can or will keep information confidential. They may not reveal facts intentionally or with any malice, but the tongue often slips and the lips are not always locked. I am speaking strictly of business associates and organizations—not fraternal societies where secret obligations are never broken. You, who belong, know why, and you, who do not belong, might join and find out.

Ordinarily when ten or twelve men are gathered together to transact the business of a municipality—if the sederunt is a secret one—you can easily find one or two members who will talk or tell things on the quiet. The newspaper reporters know this. The alderman or councillor may not tell a scribe direct but he is almost sure to convey some information to a friend or associate and thus the recondite intelligence leaks out.

Both Varieties Illustrated.

There is a merchant in the town of Goderich who will not listen to anything secret or confidential. He is not communicative by nature and he does not want to burden his mind with any information that he is not at liberty to tell if he desires. When a traveler starts to tell him something and remarks casually, "Now you had better not let anybody know about this," the reply will come : "I do not want to hear about it. I have no secrets myself and I do not want to carry any. You need not tell me anything that you do not desire repeated." That man is a plain man and he can be trusted for he will not assume any obligations under false pretences. There is a grocer in Fort William who invariably imparts information with the remark : "Now please don't say anything about what I have just told you." The next man that drops in will probably secure the same information accompanied by the identical admonition of "Don't tell that please." One day an acquaintance entered his store and heard the proprietor telling another man exactly the same thing as he had spoken to the caller about a few hours previously, and the business man wound up with the instruction not to mention the thing

"Oh !" said his unexpected caller, "that is what you were telling me a few hours ago, and here I find you going over the same matter with this man. I thought the whole affair was confidential. I guess you are like the old lady who always asked her friends not to repeat to others anything they heard from her. She wanted the supreme and sole pleasure of telling others herself. She did not want her acquaintances to get ahead of her in purveying any gossip of the community."

The business man, who is really busy, who is anxious to get ahead, who attends strictly to his own affairs, has little or no time for listening to confidential yarns or nasty financial rumors about others. The less attention he pays to silly stories and often unfounded reports the better he will get on himself. A good rule to follow is do not be the means of spreading anything that will tend to injure the credit or standing of your competitor. It may some day have a boomerang effect. Stray reports are very much like chickens—they have the instinctive characteristic of coming home to roost. As Schiller says : "the truly excellent character is made up of strictness towards oneself and mildness towards others."

What does strictness toward oneself mean ? It means that frankness, directness and honesty pay. A traveler calls on you. You are tied up with another house, you do not like his goods, the last wares were not up to the mark or you think that you can do better elsewhere. Do you tell him so ? Oh, no, you say that would be folly. It would be poor policy, short-sighted or unwise. Would it ? Do not be too sure of your footing when you assume this attitude. You seek refuge behind generalities that trade is bad, that you are stocked up to the limit in his line, that you are going out of that class of goods, that you are very busy now, or that you will give him an order the next time. If you have some fault to find with him or his goods tell him so freely and fearlessly. No sensible man resents criticism or remonstrance if it is given without malice, in a spirit of fair play and in accordance with the facts. If a kick is justified—and not made on general principles or force of habit—it will receive attention. Don't resort to all the miserable subterfuges or excuses possible when you know that you need goods or are not going out of a certain line. If you would prefer to buy from another man or another house, why not tell the representative who calls. You have not the backbone, the virility or the fortitude. The hardest word in the English language to pronounce and stick to its meaning is "No." That is the reason you have so many dollars of useless and worthless accounts on your books at the present day. You cannot tell a customer the same thing in a general all round manner as you do a traveler. You cannot so misrepresent your attitude or position, as those around you every day know differently; therefore, you grant credit. It is the thin edge of the wedge, and now the rift of bad debts is large enough to sink the whole barque. What you lacked was a little plain speech ability. Remember frank, honest statements need not be discourteous or even crisp.

Regular Day for Travelers.

There is a dry goods merchant in St. Thomas who sees any and every traveler at an appointed hour each day. He does not seek to dodge them, to slip out of the back door, tell them to call around in the afternoon and then conveniently be out, that he will give them an order next time and so forth. He is straightforward and direct in all his relations and dealings with them. At a certain time he will meet all on hand and look at samples. To No. 1 he will say, "No, I do not want anything in your line. Your house did not live up to its agreement last time and I do not intend to deal with you any more." To No. 2 he will remark, "Your goods were not up to sample last time or they were not shipped when promised and I will not do anything with you this time. Good-day, sir." To No. 3 the statement may be made, "I can do better with a house in Hamilton than I can with your firm and their wares are not only, in my opinion, better in quality and weave, but they take with my customers better. I intend sticking by the concern whose products give me every satisfaction." To No. 4 he will add : "All right, I will take a couple of dozen of those on the same terms as last time. I find they are up to the mark and they please the public." To No. 5 he will observe : "You may send me so many yards. I will give your goods a trial. I have never carried them, but I am willing to take a chance to see what they amount to."

All useless discussion and faultfinding are eliminated and the man's "no" or "yes" means something. He says exactly what he means and means precisely what he says. While pointed and attentive, he wastes no words. He will listen to any reasonable explanation, but no suavity, jollying or persuasiveness will change his attitude once his mind is made up. He knows pretty nearly what he wants and has the faculty of decisiveness. The most difficult individual to sell to is the one who does not know what he wants, has no definite idea and cannot make up his mind.

Some years ago a member of the Dominion Parliament was elected to represent a certain city constituency when there was a change of government at Ottawa. Naturally the new member was besieged on all sides for positions by office seekers. He grew tired of the incessant pestering to which he was subjected and to nearly all that called he would tell them straight off the bat that he could do nothing. He would not hold out a single false promise or plea that he might do something. If he said "no" he meant it. He perhaps was a little blunt at times, but his brusqueness was one of manliness and honesty. If he informed an applicant that he thought he could do something for him, the applicant could rely on this assurance. If the M. P. said, "No, all the jobs in that department are filled and I have others on my list whom I think have better claims than you," he probably lost the vote of the fellow at the next election. Now after many years the plain-speaking representative is looked upon as one of the best friends that the city and citizens ever had. He did not get the nomination of his party next time because they said he was too abrupt in manner and speech. A suave, smooth, plausible lawyer secured it the next term and was elected. He could not say "no" directly to anybody, and he kept hundreds in suspense about what he was going to do for them. He really did nothing and the applicants, growing tired of his indefiniteness and equivocation, turned him out. The party next sought the man, who had lacked tact and diplomacy so they said a few years ago, but he would not have anything to do with the proposal to be a candidate again. The election was lost to political opponents. To-day the former blunt and straightforward ex-M. P. is regarded as one of the best representatives that ever sat as the champion of the people in the legislative chamber. He was not appreciated at the time, but he is spoken of now as a rare example of an honest man, and is regarded with more favor and honor than if he held a cabinet position. The man who sticks to his word, who will not quibble, hold out false hopes and promises may be down to-day, but in the end, whether he is in business, politics, trade or commerce, he wins the most lasting gratitude. The fellow, who trims his sails to catch every passing breeze of approval, who cannot refuse anything for fear of giving offence and who resorts to all sorts of evasions and shifting to escape responsibility, condemnation or criticism, in the end is looked upon as a jelly fish or a willow. His place is not one of commanding respect or implicit confidence. He is not that strong type who earns enduring favor and lasting gratitude.

The man who is of the most value in any calling or community is the one who knows the advisability of adopting firm attitude and changing not until he has a good reason or sees new light. He is a man who, if he makes a mistake, is not afraid to own up to it or offers an apology if necessary. You always know where to find some men. They are the solid, progressive and independent members of any town or city. They are worth more to the stability and public spirit of a place than any other factor. The ship that is always slipping from her moorings is apt to drift on the rocks and the rudder that permits the boat to veer from her path, in time of stress or storm, causes disaster.

One of the best safeguards and equipments that the man in business can have is a mind of his own, an ability to say "no," the courage to stand a little criticism and to pursue a course that he has outlined. This truth may be old and homely in its application, but ask any traveler whom he would rather do business with—the man who speaks out and tells what he thinks or the one who goes around the corner, says one thing, then comes back and says something else. Honesty is a broader term than simply meeting your obligation promptly and fully. It includes the wider interpretation of being honest with yourself, your opponents, your employes, your convictions and your speech.

Form "B" differs from form "A" above in that " 'straight' bill of lading" is substituted for " 'order' bill of lading" in the reading, and the second paragraph is omitted. There is this difference, too, while the "order" bill is negotiable, the "straight" bill is not.

of lading of the railway companies. The Manufacturers' Association was supported by the Bankers' Association and various boards of trade.

Counsel representing the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern and Michigan Central railways were present, and the sitting was presided over by Hon. J. P. Mabee, Chief Commissioner. He was assisted by Commissioners D'Arcy Scott, Hon. M. E. Bernier and S. J. McLean.

The commission heard the complaint and after considering the draft forms of the bills of lading, agreed upon by the committee of shippers and railway representatives to overcome the difficulties, alleged and acknowledged, set their approval by ordering that the two forms of bill of lading for use in Canada be approved, and that they take effect on October 1 next.

The differences between the carrying companies of the Dominion and the manufacturers and shippers of the country are of long duration, and the culminating point may be said to have been reached a year ago, when at the suggestion of Chairman Mabee that the shipper and carriers should get together a number of semi-public bodies, decided to take action. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association took up the matter, and at a meeting of board of trade representatives held at Toronto a committee of shippers was appointed to try to remedy the existing state of affairs by striving for the enactment of a simple and uniform bill of lading for the whole Dominion. The railway companies were not averse to discussing the question, and a number of conferences were held. The work of the committee throughout was of a harmonious character, and all parties worked for a shipping bill which would meet the approval of both the railway companies and the shippers. The text of the forms was agreed upon months ago, but only now has the Railway Commission set its seal of approval upon it.

From the Shippers' Standpoint.

The new bill differs from the old forms in that the latter, according to the shippers, was made by the carriers for the carriers, while the former is devised by the carriers for the shippers. The new bill is simple, containing but 11 sections as against 27 in the old bill. The two forms are worded almost alike, one being for consignments "to order," and the other for "straight" consignments. The shippers gain an important point in that the new bill makes the railways responsible for loss or damage through negligence in transport or delivery. It also makes the initial carrier responsible for shipments of goods to destination, even though the consignments have to pass over other roads in Canada, or over United States or other foreign roads with which there is a joint tariff arrangement. There are as well some minor additional obligations placed on the carrying companies.

The new bill compares favorably with the uniform bill of lading approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States on June 27, 1908, in that the carrier there is responsible for goods while in transit over its own line only. There are ten sections in the U. S. uniform bill of lading. In general the Canadian bill is based on the form used in the United States.

How the new bill will be received by shippers generally it is yet too early to conjecture, but the various members of the committee interviewed on the subject, stated emphatically that they were well pleased. Much of the credit for the putting through of the bill is due to Jas. E. Walsh, transportation manager, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Peleg Howland (of H. S. Howland, Sons & Co.,) chairman, and C. B. Watts, President Dominion Millers' Association, vice-chairman, transportation committee of Toronto Board of Trade, F. G. Morley, secretary Toronto Board of Trade, Hugh Blain, of Eby Blain Co., and the other members of the committee.

Wind-Mill Tea Window in a St. Thomas Grocery

T. S. Poole, a Successful Grocer Who Left The Teaching Profession—Pays Careful Attention To Appearance of the Store Front—Butcher Shop Recently Added.

T. S. Poole, of St. Thomas, is one of the men who have come into the grocery business from the profession of teaching and have made good. The accompanying photograph of his store shows one of the most attractive store fronts in the thriving city of St. Thomas. Mr. Poole is located not on the main business street but in a residential district. He entered business eight years ago and despite difficulties that would have turned aside less persevering men and in the face of strong opposition has done well and established himself firmly in the trade.

Last autumn, Mr. Poole put in this handsome store front, refitted his store and added a butcher department with fresh, cured and cooked meats. Each of the windows is 12 feet wide and one of them is given up to meats and the other to groceries and both are always attractive.

The store which is 40 x 42 feet is filled with patented pivotal bins, a number of silent salesmen and other thoroughly modern grocery fixtures. Mr. Poole employs five clerks and has two delivery wagons.

He is not one of the grocers who is just "making wages" in business—he is fast making for himself a competency.

The window reproduced here is an example of the interest he and his clerks pay to display. The windmill idea is neatly worked out and presents an attractive picture.

WASHING STORE WINDOWS.

Strange as it may seem, says the Sydney Storekeeper, there is a right and wrong way to wash windows, and as this operation is usually dreaded, the following method will doubtless be appreciated, as it saves both time and labor. Choose a dull day, or at least a time when the sun is not shining on the windows, for when the sun shines on the window it causes it to be dry streaked, no matter how much it is rubbed. Take a painter's brush and dust them inside and out, washing all the woodwork inside before touching the glass. The latter must be washed slowly in warm water diluted with ammonia—do not use soap. Use a small cloth with a pointed stick to get the dust out of the corners; wipe dry with a soft piece of cotton cloth—do not use linen, as it makes the glass linty when dry. Polish with tissue paper or old newspaper. You will find that this can be done in half the time taken where soap is used, and the result will be brighter windows.

Merchants Organize for Better Protection

Western Business Men See the Necessity to Jointly Cope with Obstacles of the Present Day—Manitoba Premier's Promise Regarding School Book Contract — Deputation Calls to See Him.

Staff Correspondence.

Winnipeg, Aug. 9.—The retail merchants of Winnipeg met on the evening of August 4th and practically completed the organization which has been under way for some time. The election of officers proved an onerous task due largely to the fact that many merchants did not clearly understand the situation and were wont to discuss question after question which incidentally came to their attention. It cannot be said that the business meetings were well managed, But it cannot be laid to the charge of the management.

The merchants were bound to proceed cautiously, and master thoroughly every detail of business connected with the organization. This tendency, together with the lack of knowledge of parliamentary discipline, which was in evidence seriously impeded the progress of business and made the various proceedings rather tedious.

The main thing, however, is that the purpose of the merchants has been accomp'ished. They needed to be convinced that an association was necessary for the welfare of all concerned. Arguments in favor of an association have been sounded far and wide, and there are few who have not responded by expressing a willingness to form the association. And now that it is formed, the only thing that remains is that they will continue to abide by their conviction, by standing firmly as a body in order to benefit in a legitimate way the general retail business of the west.

There was one particular issue which was brought to the attention of the merchants by M. Moyer, of Toronto, which greatly accelerated the formation of a strong organization. The merchants were urged by him to approach the Government as a body and request that the retail trade, as well as the wholesale, be protected by the school book contract, which is to be awarded soon. The merchants in western Canada have had a just cause of complaint in the past, on account of the favor shown mail order houses. The Government mail regulations are such as to be extremely detrimental to the retail trade of the country, and when a Government will go much farther and award such a contract as has been awarded to a mail order house in Toronto, it is an incentive to the retail merchants to rise in a body and make legitimate claims for their protection.

Waited on the Premier.

The merchants of Winnipeg and the west were not slow to respond to that appeal. At the last meeting a deputation, consisting of five retailers, was appointed to approach the Government as representatives of the association, requesting that special deliberation be taken in the matter of awarding the school-book contract.

The Premier of the province has notified the retail merchants that the contract will not be awarded until he has met the deputation in company with the Minister of Education.

The merchants elected by acclamation W. R. Milton as president of the association. Mr. Milton has had considerable executive experience, being head of the manufacturing, wholesale and retailing confectionery business which bears his name. He is also president of the Caterers' Association of Winnipeg, and alderman for Ward Four. He is supported by W. T. Devlin as vice-president. An executive board consisting of five was elected to act in conjunction with the president, vice-president and secretary in managing the affairs of the association. This consists of A. T. Connell, druggist; John Dyke, grocer; Horace Chevrier, clothier; Norman Lindsay, music dealer, and G. J. Hyndman, clothier. The matter of entrance fees was discussed at some length, it finally being decided that the executive should look into the matter and report at the next meeting. The merchants seemed to be favorable to the sum of $10 as sufficient membership fee, and it is expected that the executive will recommend this amount.

After a Good Secretary.

The appointing of a permanent secretary was left to the executive committee. The reason for doing this was on account of the prevailing opinion that it is the most responsible position in the organization, and also because of the cautiousness, which was intensified by the recent difficulties of the old association. At present J. S. Clark is acting as secretary, and has been for some weeks. He is an applicant for the position of secretary, and in any case will receive wages pro-rata of the salary offered to the permanent secretary.

Mr. Clark's chances of appointment depend largely upon the manner in which he fulfils his present duties. There are several applications filed for the office, but few of the applicants are widely known. That Mr. Clark is eligible is evident from the fact that in the past he has filled offices of considerable trust

WEEKLY MARKET FEATURES.

A resume of the grocery markets from the Atlantic to the Pacific displays some interesting conditions. In Halifax hams and bacon have reached the highest points in years. The same market indicates a cut in condensed milk prices of about a dollar a case. Flour prices have declined there, as well as in Quebec and Toronto.

The syrup market is higher in Winnipeg and evaporated apples are also up a quarter of a cent. The latter are also dearer in Montreal and Toronto, the cause being the depletion of stocks. Both rolled oats and cornmeal quotations are higher in Winnipeg as well.

There is always one week in the year during which it is practically impossible for dealers to obtain fresh fish. The present week is peculiar in this respect.

Following a lemon famine of a week or ten days ago, there was plenty of this fruit offered for sale this week and prices declined. Although sales were splendid during the hot days, some quantities were put in cold storage for the time being.

Canadian vegetables of almost all varieties are arriving on our markets and prices are becoming easier.

IN A PROGRESSIVE AGE.

Conservatism is truly making a rapid flight from the business arena. It is being supplanted everywhere by modern methods, which shows that this old world, from a business standpoint at least, is developing along the proper lines.

Where a manufacturing concern considers it part and parcel of its annual programme to set apart a week for the education of its salesmen, it is worthy of more than a passing consideration.

This is what the A. J. Deer Co., Hornell, N. Y., is doing. This year a big convention was held at which all the company's salesmen were present and every department of the institution studied. This undoubtedly fits the men for accomplishing better work than they have been doing in the past and makes them feel that their employers are taking an interest in them other than from the mere fact that they sell the company's goods.

The A. J. Deer Co. expended a considerable sum of money entertaining these salesmen, both socially and by showing them exactly what there is in the company's establishment and what it can turn out. That this is valuable to the concern as well as to the commercial men cannot be contradicted.

The idea is not entirely a new one, but it certainly belongs to modern times and it is progressive. This company is to be commended for its enterprize and liberalism ; and it all goes to show the truth of the old proverb that when we help others we help ourselves.

SALMON RUN AT THE COAST.

The salmon run on the Pacific Coast is up to the normal on the United States side for a big year, but from reports received at the beginning of the week has been going slowly in the Fraser river. The fish pass through United States waters first and accordingly the catches in the traps are large. The averages from the cannery boats, however, are much better, the catches being from 50 to 160 on the average.

Reports from the Skeena give no sign of improvement, though on the Naas the run is satisfactory. The prediction that the big run would start with August 1st, as previously pointed out in these columns, has proved correct, and shows that there was little reason to believe that the run was late or that it was not to take place.

The surplus catch on the United States side is being shipped to Canadian canneries and the manufactured product will be returned, thus securing a refund of 99 per cent. of the import duty. This course will be pursued until the Canadian canneries can get all the fish they want in their own waters.

Prof. David Starr Jordan and Prof. E. E. Prince, comprising the international fishery commission, returned to Vancouver this week from the north. They made the statement that the proposed regulations relating to fisheries in international waters contiguous to the Dominion and the United States would not go into effect until the season of 1911. They will be published, however, next December, so that canners will be enabled to familiarize themselves with them. While in the north, the discovery was made that the salmon in the Naas and Skeena rivers are of a totally different tribe than those in southern waters, and are surprised that the find was not made before. This week, the commissioners are studying the salmon among the islands in the Gulf of Georgia.

VISIT OTHER TOWNS.

An exchange suggests that merchants should take a day off occasionally and go to some strange town where they can study windows and store interiors, unbiased by the prejudices and preferences that always warp our judgment in the midst of our own business acquaintances. Besides, whole towns sometimes get into a single rut; and then again, whole towns not far away may be most wondrously enterprising or may release their surplus energy along channels new to us.

In the home town we can never get quite away from the tradesman's end of the telescope. In a strange place we are only one of the gazing crowd and we see things from a different point of view.

The comments of these passing strangers, too, will do us good. A casual criticism may point out a fault in window construction that we have been guilty of a hundred times and never noticed. If one of our neighbors dared to call attention to it we would say to ourselves, "Oh, well, that is only old Mossback's judgment; what does he know about window dressing? He never dressed a window in his life." The criticism of a stranger forces us to realize that this is the way our window looks to some of the public, and we profit by the suggestion

An occasional day spent away from familiar scenes is a good thing in any case, though we are too apt to spend it in some big city, where, we mistakenly believe, all good ideas originate. Sometimes we could learn more of practical value in our every-day business by spending the time in some town similar to our own, where the people are no more metropolitan in their tastes, and where their natural limitations are more in harmony with ours.

A country town of 4,000 people may learn much from a city many times its size, but much of it will be little suited to rural conditions. The small town needs some of its lessons from progressive members of a similar class.

THE ADULTERATION OF FOODS IN CANADA

Recent analyses of Canadian foods as reported by the Department of Inland Revenue of the Dominion government, indicate that food adulteration in Canada is fairly common. This is a matter which deserves every consideration of the officials of the government who have the health and best interests of the consuming public at heart.

There is of course, another phase of the question affecting the grocery trade in general, which is often lost sight of by the men at the helm. It is the injustice done to honest manufacturers by those who adulterate foods and do not comply with the adulteration act.

It stands to reason that every manufacturer who produces an inferior article because he adulterates it, can sell that article to the trade cheaper than the manufacturer who turns out absolutely pure goods. The law plainly states that if an article is adulterated the fact must be made known on the label by use of a word or phrase indicating that it is a "compound."

But here is just where the trouble has been. Manufacturers have sent out adulterated goods and sold them as pure. They have therefore not only broken the law, but have injured their honest competitors who declined to follow their examples.

The other day a dealer stated to The Canadian Grocer that the sales of his firm in cream of tartar alone had fallen off one-half this year so far, when compared with the same period of a year ago. He was positive that it was the adulteration of cream of tartar by some of his competitors that was the cause of it. Alum is the chief adulterant used in cream of tartar and with the cost of this placed at about 1½ cents per pound compared with cream of tartar at from 20 to 25 cents per pound, it can easily be seen why the manufacturer who adulterates his goods can sell cheaper. Necessarily, if he is not checked in the ways, his honest competitor must lose.

This is not as it should be. It is not a square deal and should not be tolerated by any government.

Coffee is another food which comes in for a considerable share of abuse. The chief adulterant is chicory, a root somewhat similar to the parship. In Canada, however, chicory, is used extensively because a portion of the trade demands a good 'drink' at a comparitively low price. One dealer stated that he believed 90 per cent. of the coffee used in this country contains chicory. Another stated that not more than 50 per cent. was adulterated and that this was done to supply the demand principally of large lumber and construction camps who wanted a good drink, but who did not care to pay a high figure. The average retailer, he claimed, bought pure coffee, and many added the chicory in their own stores providing customers desired it. Some of the houses who use it neglect to state on the label that a "compound" article is being offered for sale.

As to whether chicory deteriorates the quality of the coffee is a debatable question. One broker stated that "it puts body in it," and he preferred its use. Another said: "The best houses never use it."

It is claimed by some that if chicory were not used, the sales of coffee in Canada would not be large. In the United States coffee is probably the national drink and prices, being highly competitive, are low. In this country if only pure coffee were used, the dealer declared that consumption would decline as higher prices would prevail. He stated, however, that a cheap coffee could be offered, but this would be much inferior in quality to the mixture of chicory with pure coffee, while the difference in price would be little. In view of such conditions he maintained that the compound article was in greater demand than the cheaper coffees.

Government records show that adulteration has been going on in peppers, cloves, jams, wines, etc., but they indicate that in some cases at least it has not been so prevalent of late. However, the question is one that should be gone into thoroughly, principally for the protection of those manufacturers, distributors and retailers, who want to be honest with their customers and who represent their goods to be exactly what they are.

WEIGHT OF BREAD.

TORONTO WORLD.

Much misapprehension seems to have spread about the terms of the Bread Act, passed by the legislature in 1908. Some people even argue that there is no control over the weight of bread, and that there is no standard loaf. The standard loaf, according to the act, weighs three pounds. This is the large loaf. The small loaf is half the size. Sub-section (1) of section 1 of the act (chapter 56, O. S., 1908) makes this clear:

> No person shall make bread for sale, or offer bread for sale outside of the municipality wherein the same was made, other than fancy bread, except in loaves weighing either one and one-half pounds, or three pounds avoirdupois.

Loaves of fancy bread similarly must be of the weight of either 16 or 20 ounces avoirdupois.

Inspection is provided for, by the act, in the factory in which the bread is made, for all bread. Bread sold outside the municipality in which it is baked may be inspected for weight where it is offered for sale. Toronto bread offered in Hamilton can be inspected in Hamilton. Hamilton bread offered in Toronto can be inspected in Toronto at the store where it is being sold.

NEW BILL OF LADING.

An announcement which will be hailed with delight by the manufacturing and business community of Canada is one made this week by the Canadian Board of Railway Commissioners to the effect that they have approved of the two forms of the new bill of lading. The text of the bill was agreed upon some months ago by a committee representing the manufacturing, railroading and shipping interests. Many conferences were held before an agreement was reached, but the final draft was considered the best for all parties.

The new bill is simple. It contains only 11 sections as compared with 21 in the old bill. An important point is this: That it imposes on the carrying companies additional obligations; making them responsible for negligence in transport or delivery; and it also makes the initial carrier responsible for a consignment of goods to destination, even though the goods pass over other lines in Canada; or the goods are handled by U. S. or other foreign companies with which there is a joint traffic arrangement. This is a great gain for shippers, because the old bill was made by the carriers for the carriers; while the new bill is practically made by the carriers for the shippers. Instead of the carrier when answering a charge of negligence simply stating that it had done its duty, it must now under the new bill prove that the loss was through no fault of the carrier or its agents. The bill comes into force on Oct. 1.

LEARN DETAILS OF BUSINESS.

The young man who hopes to have charge of a business some day, should never lose sight of the fact that it pays to learn every detail of the business. Every day some little thing comes up, though a mere incident and possibly passed over without digging down to the bottom of it, should be treated differently by the young man who would make a success of life.

Never allow these little details to pass without making yourself thoroughly familiar with them, for they are business lessons, and the more of them absorbed while working for another, the fewer of them will be stumbling-blocks when it comes time to manage the business yourself.

Ingersoll Grocery Plans to Have Public Shop Early — Cutting Gem Jar Prices in Ottawa—Progress of Collection System in Guelph, Brantford and Wallaceburg — London Grocers to Hold a Donnybrook Picnic—Merchants in Kingston Talk About Cash System.

INGERSOLL.

August 11.—A plan worthy of commendation is being followed each week by F. McDougall. He has inaugurated Friday specials, doing extensive advertising, in which a complete line of all seasonable articles are mentioned. The object of the plan is to induce the people to do extra purchasing on Fridays and thus lessen the volume of business on Saturdays, which never ceases until a late hour. This policy seems worthy of consideration and the pity is that all merchants cannot arrive at an understanding and close their stores at a stated hour. This would surely bring about a greater uniformity of purchasing, and the merchants and their staffs would enjoy many leisure hours that are now spent behind the counter. In the larger cities among the largest mercantile firms, the early movement seems to be growing and when the question is pondered on there seems no valid reason why merchants should have to keep their stores open until the midnight hour on Saturday nights. What the people want is systematic education along the line of early buying. It is a well-known fact that many people will go "down town" on a Saturday night and promenade for several hours before turning their thoughts to their purchases. Then at the last moment they will drop in on the butcher or the grocer and invariably want immediate attention and their orders "sent up." A special inducement, if it is really necessary, to get the people to shop early is certainly a move in the right direction, and there is no day to which it applies with greater force than Friday. The plan inaugurated by Mr. McDougall is undoubtedly a good one and one by which merchants in general should benefit in time if it proves a success.

OTTAWA.

August 11.—There was a large supply of every variety of vegetables on the Ottawa market on Saturday morning, and the attendance was large. Prices seemed fairly low, except in the case of eggs. An aeroplane does not seem to be in the same class with the hen fruit for upward flights these days and it was selling in the majority of cases at 30c a dozen. The lowest figure at which eggs retailed was 28c. Butter, however, was about the same price as usual. Potatoes were cheaper and new ones could be purchased for $1 a bag.

Grocers in Ottawa seem to be buying their fruit on a much better system this year than in previous years. They purchase through brokers, who give the price of the fruit for the following day. The merchant gives his order before noon and the following morning at 6 o'clock his goods are at the express office. In this way the grocer has all afternoon to quote prices to his customers on the fruit for the following day.

The deal by which A. E. Rea & Co., Toronto, secure from Thomas Lindsay his controlling interest in the big Ottawa departmental store firm of T. Lindsay, Limited, was completed last Friday by a cash payment of an amount in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars.

Chas. E. Bucklee, of Park, Blackwell Co., called on the trade this week.

H. D. Marshall, formerly with the F. J. Castle Co., wholesale grocers, of this city, has opened an office and is carrying on business as a manufacturers' agent and broker.

Tommy Reynolds, of the Quaker Oats Co., spent last week in the city in the interests of his firm.

W. A. Rae, the "sour" man for the vinegar firm of Wilson, Lytle, Badgerow Co., has been calling on the trade here.

F. W. Huband, for over 25 years with Bate & Co., has severed his connection with that firm, and is now in the brokerage business for himself.

The "Old Dutchman" has been in the city for the past two weeks and about every third grocer has an old Dutch window display.

The departmental stores are again cutting into the gem jar business and advertise jars at from 10c to 15c per dozen cheaper than the grocers can sell them.

Collections are slow, owing to the fact that persons owing bills go off on a holiday and think the grocer can wait for his money. He gets his goods for nothing and his profits are large. Yes, of course!

GUELPH.

August 11.—J. A. McCrae is at present holidaying in Muskoka, but is expected home in a few days.

W. H. Lillie, of the staff of A. J. Groom's, Upper Wyndham Street, grocery left the first of this week for two weeks' vacation which will be spent with friends near Fergus.

Miss MacGee, accountant in the office of R. & J. H. Simpson, wholesale grocers, of this city, is spending her summer holidays in Muskoka.

"Bob" Robinson, clerk in Hadden's grocery store, Quebec Street, who is an active worker in the Clerksj and Salesmen's Association, being secretary, informed your correspondent that in order to get themselves out of debt, the association was contemplating holding another Annual Clerks' Day at Exhibition Park. They will have races and games in the afternoon, with a band concert at night. The date will likely be the 26th of this month.

Roy MacDonald of Beaton, Walter Grindlay of Guelph, and Mr. Snell, all travelers for the firm of R. & J. H. Simpson, are taking their summer holidays. Mr. Snell is visiting friends in Toronto and contemplates a trip through the Thousand Islands, while Albert Simpson, son of J. H. Simpson, another traveler, is spending a pleasant month touring around the country in his fine red auto.

Thursday, August 12th is the date set apart for the annual picnic of J. A. McCrae's employees. Extensive arrangements have been made this year to make the picnic a great success. The picnicking grounds will be at Elora. About fifty dollars in prizes will be distributed among the winners of the races and other events.

D. A. Scroggie, the official collector of the Retail Merchants' Association, pursues the even tenor of his way with enthusiasm and persistence that is bound to bring results. He keeps on making the dead-beats unhappy and the merchants happy. The first quarter of his current year has just been completed and as a result the money collected directly by him has amounted to $900. This is only what he has collected directly. There have been more bad accounts paid in by the blacklisted ones to the merchants to whom they owe, but the extent of these settlements is not and cannot be known, until they are totalled up at the end of the year. Compared with the splendid showing for his first year as collector, when in the twelve months he raked in $2,300, the results of Mr. Scroggie's labors for this year are gratifying indeed.

BRANTFORD.

August 11.—The system of collecting bad debts through the agency of a paid collector appears to be giving satisfactory results in this city. Norman Willitts, the collector, is well satisfied with his efforts thus far, and the merchants, on the other hand, are loud in their praise of the possibilities which the system offers. A careful estimate on the part of the collector shows that about $14,000 is outstanding on the books of the merchants who are in the organization and whose interests so far as bad debts are concerned, will now be in the hands of the collector. It is expected that considerable of this amount will be secured through the medium of the agency, while much more will be paid promptly in the future by reason of the lists which the collector will maintain, showing all customers who are owing debts. In this respect Brantford, in the past, has had quite a record. Not very long ago a local merchant, in retiring from business, offered to sell $3,000 worth of accounts for $100. This merely serves to show the extent to which the credit system prevailed and the disastrous results which attended it. Great things are expected of the new system.

Mr. Costin has sold his grocery business on Marlboro Street and will move to the outskirts of the city. He formerly conducted a business in the country and on two or three changes recently has made handsome profits.

The soap works, on Clarence Street, have been closed up on order of the board of health and city council. In addition, the owner was fined $200 for failing to obey the order of the court to cease manufacture. The whole trouble arose over the company coming into the city and commencing the manufacture of soap in a residential district without a license. The residents made protests and the works were declared a menace. The manufacture will be continued in the county.

The Barnum & Bailey circus will be in Brantford next Saturday. Other points in Ontario will also be visited. The circus carries 1,400 people and there is a good chance for a quick turnover by grocers, butchers and bakers in catering to the wants of the aggregation.

One fad which has taken hold in Brantford is the issuing of monthly papers by business men. The idea has considerable to commend it for the cost of paper, printing and distribution is very slight. Through this means the dealer, once a month, can get personal attention in practically every home in the city, and if he has the right kind of material to offer is certain to reap considerable surplus trade. Besides, it advertises his name. The paper need not be a large affair. The style being used here is merely a leaflet of four pages, or one sheet of paper folded. The folded page is probably about 6x8 inches. It is a new and very attractive form of advertising.

J. Church has taken the position at the Cash Bargain Grocery left vacant by D. D. Butler.

Frank Main has been recently engaged as clerk at E. Kitchen's North Ward store.

BRACEBRIDGE.

August 11.—Saturday the streets of our town were lined with shoppers from the lakes. This trade is growing year by year and our merchants are alive to meet it.

Kirk Bros. have a pretty window of breakfast cereals. It suggests easy housekeeping during hot weather.

We are having a rest for two weeks from the continual rush of travelers. Not that the merchant does not like to see them, but a rest in that line always gives them a better reception after the two weeks are over. It is only too bad the grocers and clerks could not do the same.

Speaking about travelers, they certainly are up against it during the summer months. Running into towns that have a civic holiday and summer half-holidays at different times is not pleasant. Something might be done forcing all towns and cities to observe a civic holiday at one time.

Alfred E. Munday, a former Bracebridge grocer, now of Toronto, is in town renewing old acquaintances. "Alf" still has a warm spot in his heart for old Bracebridge.

Your correspondent visited Parry Sound on August 4th. He had the pleasure of visiting several grocery stores, and found them up-to-date, especially the store owned by Perks & Son.

On Saturday our grocery windows were decorated with a bountiful supply of all kinds of fruit and vegetables. Joe Meyers, Melville Ross, L. A. Lacey, Kirk Bros., Armstrong & Gillespie, R. A. Lawson and Hutchison Bros. were all showing up-to-date window displays.

TORONTO.

August 11.—Vegetable growers declare that there will this year be a shortage in the onion crop in this district, and the tomato crop is also predicted to be on the short side. This was the conclusion arrived at at the regular monthly meeting of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, Toronto branch, on Saturday night, over which President Thos. Delworth, Weston, presided. The growers report a none too favorable vegetable outlook for York and Peel. The cold spring, with its consequent late seeding, was the first setback, and now the drouth, following on a period of rain, threatens to wither up a large part of the crop. This is especially true of onions, and general indications also are for a shortage in tomatoes. Cabbage, cauliflower and celery, which have a longer season of growth, stand a better chance. Late seeding does not affect them so much as it does onions and tomatoes, which should mature by the end of August. The potato crop looks promising all over the country, and in the Dixie district is above the average.

The bread question in Toronto is attracting considerable comment. City Solicitor W. C. Chisholm has reported to Mayor Oliver that the city has no power to control the weight of loaves of bread made and sold in Toronto, except in the case of fancy bread, which must have a label on it showing that it is fancy bread and stating the correct weight. Bread made outside the city and sold within must be standard loaves of either 1½ or 3 lbs. weight, or, if fancy bread, 1 oz. or 20 oz. weight.

LONDON.

Aug. 11.—With all the travelers off the road, wholesale trade was quiet last week, and it will likely remain so until after the men with the samples get back to their duties again, on Monday next.

Both raw and refined sugars remain firm and the prices of teas of all kinds keep up. There is little change in coffees. From reports received by local brokers, Valencia raisins are going to be a good crop. No quotations have yet been received.

Seasonable holiday quietness prevails in the local retail trade, and dealers are taking advantage of it to arrange outings. Members of the Retail Grocers' Association have decided to hold what is known as a "Donnybrook" picnic, at Dorchester, on Wednesday afternoon of next week, and that there will be a lively time goes without saying.

A change has taken place in the Gorman-Eckert firm. R. C. Eckert, whose health of late has not been all that could be desired, is withdrawing his active interest in the big spice manufacturing and canning concern. It is understood that Charles W. Nicholls, traveler for A. M. Smith & Co., who has a financial interest in the Gorman-Eckert Co., will quit the road and devote his time and energies to the interest of the latter firm.

Wholesale grocers here are expecting an advance of fully 25 per cent. in the prices of canned peas shortly, owing to the shortness of the crop. The canners, it is stated, are finding it impossible to get enough peas to meet the demand.

Every fourth year is supposed to be a big year for salmon, and as this is a fourth year a big catch was expected. According to reports received by brokers, however, the catch will not be what was anticipated.

CHATHAM.

Aug. 11. — Monday was Chatham's civic holiday, a circumstance which rather foreshortens the week for business concerns, all the stores being closed.

M. Muire has opened a grocery and shoe repairing shop—a novel combination—at the corner of Murray and Prince Streets, where W. J. Radley formerly carried on business. Mr. Muire is starting out well by making use of some advertising space.

An important business change took place last week at Thamesville, when Smith & Climie disposed of their large stock of groceries, dry goods, etc., to Robinson & McGuire, of Strathroy.

Harold Little, of the Star Grocery, Ridgetown, is spending a month's holidays at Terrace Beach.

The pickle factory at Leamington is a busy place just now, about 60 hands being employed, and this number will shortly be increased. B. W. Cox, a Leamington merchant, who grows vegetables as a sideline, was among the first to deliver cucumbers. It was thought that the pickle crop would be short, owing to drouth, but recent rains will probably prove beneficial.

Leamington vegetable growers recently took advantage of the Dominion Government's offer and shipped a carload of tomatoes on a cold storage car to Winnipeg. The cost of shipment was 11 cents per basket, a government employe accompanying the shipment to supervise distribution. The growers are carefully watching the results of the experiment, which, if successful, will be followed up.

D. W. Newcombe last week celebrated the completion of his thirtieth year in business in Thamesville, he now holding the distinction of being the only man in the village who has carried on business continuously at the same stand during that length of time.

The collection scheme recently inaugurated by the Wallaceburg merchants' association is working well. Mr. Askunas, the official collector, returned $505.80 collections for the month of July alone, which is a very substantiol record, considering that the system is still practically in its inception.

The King Edward grocery is out with a handsome new delivery outfit, both horse and rig. The outfit has come in for quite a few favorable comments.

Soft drinks are much in evidence in grocery windows, and grocers who have been handling this line steadily for several years report that there is a fairly good family trade. It has to be developed, however. The business involved quite a bit of work for the grocer, owing to the fact that the bottles are charged to him, credit being allowed for returned empties; which means that every order involves two trips, one to deliver the bottles and one to secure them after the customer is through. Carefully kept track of, however, the business pays.

A scheme for keeping track of gross receipts from the sale of different lines of goods which could be easily adapted to a grocery or general business not large enough to be regularly "departmentized" is being employed by S. F. Park & Co., druggists. The firm's cash register has an attachment for recording sales by each member of the staff, sales being distinguished by the letters A., B., C. and D. Instead of following the original intention, the letters are apportioned to various classes of goods, such as, A., drugs; B., pipes and tobaccos; C., candy and stationery; D., sundries. Frequently a merchant wishes to keep tab on the sales of competitive lines, and the use of cash register keys in this fashion would facilitate the work.

KINGSTON.

August 11.—Kingston is getting more like New York every day, since August set in with 90 to 99 degrees in the shade and blisters on the sun. Yes, it was a trial Saturday for the farmers' wives and daughters sitting on the rigs selling roasters and broilers with their mouths wide open gasping for air. The hot rays of "Sol" had a softening effect on farmers Smith, Jones, Brown and Maclean—not a hot raise but a hot drop in prices. The grocers had things their own way and bought up bargains galore. "I never saw farmers," said Jim the grocer, "haul so much money out of their pockets to make change. The jingle of silver in their pockets reminded one of winter sleigh bells."

Stanley Sharp, son of Major Sharp, and a clerk in Crawford's grocery, met with a sudden death recently by falling off an iron bar supporting a swing at Ontario Park.

After all debts were paid, the treasurer of the grocers' picnic declared a dividend. This added to the bank account will come in handy for a rainy day.

Travelers say there is a short crop of peas and advise the buying of futures in canned goods as they are sure to go up. All bosh! No one can tell yet. Who can foretell the price of sugar? Oftimes raws go up in New York and our sugars go down 5 and 10c. No one knows why. "Buy as you need," a wise wholesaler told me once, but we will not profit by experience; we do like to gamble a little.

Leading grocers and drygoodsmen are quietly talking of the feasibility of driving a few spikes through their ledgers and putting their business on cash basis. The shoe dealers took this stand three years ago and are delighted. There are no worried faces and wrinkled foreheads now. Is the millenium coming?

Flour Prices Decline in Halifax—Montreal Grocers' Association Watching Sunday Sellers—Business Conditions in Sherbrooke.

MONTREAL.

August 10—The Retail Grocers' Association is carrying on a vigorous warfare against Sunday vendors in Montreal and during the week three were fined. The Association seems determined to check illegal Sunday selling claiming that to them it is an injustice. Those who appeared before the Magistrate were:—Bessie Weinster, 336 Visitation street; Dominico Maschette, 527 St. Timothee street, and Lewis Rodler Spicer, of 11 Dorchester street east. They pleaded guilty and each was fined $5 and costs. The Grocers' Association is keeping a rigid watch out for any further violation of the law in this regard.

HALIFAX.

Aug. 10.—The wholesale grocers report trade in fairly good volume. The travelers now on the road are sending in satisfactory orders, and as a whole, business shows considerable improvement, outside of the mining districts in Cape Breton. The effects of the strike are being severely felt in the eastern part of the Province. With this exception, the outlook for a good fall trade appears to be excellent. The fruit and farm crops generally are very promising, fishing is good, and altogether, conditions are encouraging. Pork of all kinds is very scarce, and the price quoted is high. The few barrels now on the market are selling at $25.50 to $26.50. Hams and bacon have also advanced, the prices now quoted being higher than for many years. Hams are selling at 16¾ to 17 cents, and roll bacon in barrel lots at 15 cents. New Valencia onions are now on the market, and are selling at 3¼ cents per pound. There has been a cut in the prices of condensed milk and cream. The former selling price was $4.80 per case; it is now being offered to the trade at $3.75 per case.

There has been a change in the price of sugars. Standard granulated is quoted at $4.75; bright yellow at $4.55, and Austrian at $4.55. Large shipments of sugar continue to come along from the West Indies for the local refineries. Fruit is in good supply, and prices are easing off some for such stock as pears and peaches. The quality of the former is only fair, no first-class fruit being on sale yet.

Butter is steady and firm, and no immediate change in the price is looked for. Small tubs of fresh dairy butter continue to come along and it finds a ready sale. There is a heavy falling off in the receipts of eggs and the supply of fresh laid stock offering is very small. Fresh eggs at retail are selling at 25 cents per dozen. There is only a very light demand for case eggs.

The prices of flour have declined about 20 cents per barrel. The Halifax market, however, is fairly firm and stocks are barely sufficient to carry dealers over until they can receive lower priced goods. The mills have been offering at various prices for shipment—all the way from the 10th to the end of August and the further off the shipment, the lower the quotations. One wholesale dealer says: "This weakening on the part of the Ontario millers is always epidemic at this particular season, and after the fit has passed, they usually awake to the fact that they have been offering to purchasers at less than cost, and this, it is thought, will be felt more pronounced this year than in some former seasons, as the European market is willing to make contracts at better prices than are being quoted to the Maritime Provinces. It is the opinion of the trade that prices will settle down about $1.00 under the highest price reached, and taking the season of 1908-09 as a criterion of the wheat crop of the world, it is only reasonable to expect $7.00 flour after the first of January next." Quotations are:—

SHERBROOKE.

August 10.—A new store was opened recently on Belvidere Street, by Edmond Hebert, assistant tax collector, of this city. It is Mr. Hebert's intention to carry a line of such groceries, tobacco and confectionery as will meet the demands of that neighborhood.

Wm. Murray, the oldest grocer of this city, is convalescing, after a severe attack of paralysis.

May & Houlahan have installed a modern type of cash register in their grocery store on Dufferin Avenue. This register was expensive, but the results obtained from it in time will more than balance the amount expended on it. A complete record is kept of each clerk's daily transactions, showing the amount of his cash sales, charges and expenditures, also the time of his arrival at and departure from the store.

The marriage took place at Ulverton, Que., recently of Miss Ethel Cross to Frank A. Hovey, grocer and provision dealer, of this city.

An auction sale of dry goods, boots and shoes, clothing and groceries, the contents of the general store belonging to D. H. Simons, of East Angus, a short distance from here, was held on Wednesday, August 4.

Some Effects of Advance in Biscuit Prices — Barley Being Cut Around Edmonton—Damage to Crops by Hail—Many Whales Being Captured Off Coast of British Columbia—Grocery Trade Markets in Vancouver, Edmonton and Calgary.

VANCOUVER.

August 10.—Competition has been the factor in reducing the price of hot-house tomatoes still further in this city. Last week it was noted that the Royal Nnrseries and Floral Company, of Vancouver, has placed its product on the market, where the monopoly had hitherto been enjoyed by Victoria growers. This brought the price down from over $3 to $2 per crate of 20 pounds. Now the price is down still further, the quotation being $1.50 for the local and $1.75 for those from Victoria. The quality is good. Watermelons are cheap this season, going at 1½c per pound.

The raising of prices of soda biscuits, consequent on the high prices of flour, may affect some dealers more than others. One firm, for instance, has been jobbing at 25c, retailing at 30c, but now with the increase in the wholesale price to 27½c, the retailer is forced to sell at 35c to make anything at all, for with the absence of copper coinage here, there is nothing left but to make a nickel jump. Another biscuit was jobbed at 24c, and it is quoted to raise to 26c, but at this figure the tin can be retailed at 30c. On the other hand, to meet the necessity without raising the price, a Vancouver manufacturing house some time ago reduced the size of its tin, adhering to the 25c price, and now the representative of a local firm states that that firm may follow the same course.

A. R. Shewan, commercial traveler, representing Bowin, Wilson & Co., of Montreal, who has come to the coast for many years, is in the city. He was taken ill in Cranbrook, B.C., a couple of weeks ago, and was looked after by his son, who is a doctor at Trail, B.C. It is his intention to retire from the road shortly.

The Vancouver Milling & Grain Co. is making a special effort to introduce its flour. It gives coupons, and ten are drawn each month, the lucky holders receiving each a 109-piece dinner set.

The health department of this city has received from Ottawa a report on the quality of samples of cream of tartar purchased iat Vancouver stores. Fourteen groceries were visited and of the samples obtained only one was found to be adulterated, this having a quantity of alum.

Reporting on the fruit crop in the Kootenay district, Fred Adie, assistant provincial fruit inspector, states that there will be a remarkably good pear crop, and while apples will be below the usual average in quantity, they will be above the average in quality. The crops of peaches and plums would be fair. Strawberries in that district had been exceptionally good in quality this season, and while not quite as plentiful as last, the prices were much better. Mr. Adie says. "This season has proved that the fruit growing industry of the Kootenay has now been placed on a stable business basis and will from now on be one of the most important of the district's numerous assets."

Because of local conditions, the cannery of the Thompson Valley Canning Co., at Kamloops may not be operated this year. The machinery has been received, but has not been installed. The directors complain that they have experienced considerable difficulty in promoting their enterprise because of "knocking" of local factions. They claim that business men in Kamloops have quietly advised growers not to bring products this year, as the outlook for canning was too uncertain. The result has been that very few, if any, contracts have been received by the canneryman. The latter say it is because of the immense trade done in eastern canned goods by the local merchants.

Market gardening is now beginning to occupy the attention of the smaller landholders, and many hope that this will ultimately mean the ousting of the Chinaman. In Chilliwack, a Mr. Copeland, from Ontario, started growing celery and with such success that he and others associated with him have 60 acres planted out this season, in celery, cauliflower and onions. He ships the celery all the way from Lake Superior to Victoria, and finds the demand active. The quality is superior to that of the imported article, and the same can be said of the onions. The expansion of this industry will mean the retention in the province of large sums of money, which are now sent to California.

EDMONTON.

Aug. 10.—The month of July was not permitted to close before the sound of the binder was heard at several points throughout the province. Beardless barley has been cut along the C.N.R. line and other barley fields will receive attention this week. With warm weather the other grains are ripening fast, and with a continuance of growing temperatures the predictions of a general harvest by the 20th of August will be well within the mark.

New potatoes that were selling for $1.50 per bushel last week are now quoted at 75 cents to 85 cents per bushel. The offerings seem to be unlimited, and the local supply being so large, outside growers have no great opportunity to dispose of their surplus product.

Few loads of oats have been offered during the week, and prices have held firm. Oats are retailing now at 50 cents per bushel. Barley chop is worth 55 cents per bushel; oat chop $1.65 per bushel and bran per cwt. $1.35. No shorts and middlings are available, owing to the scarcity of wheat.

Splendid wild raspberries, which are beginning to appear on the market, were sold on Saturday at $1.00 per gallon.

Corn meal has advanced from $2.90 for bale of 10-10's, to $3.20; the 2-50 from $2.65 to $2.95, wholesale.

A. L. Vandrick, who for the last four months has been conducting a grocery and hardware business at 2062 Namayo Avenue in the northerly part of the city has sold to J. S. Samis.

Alberta creameries last winter turned out twice the amount of butter made during the preceding winter, and the prospects for the present seasons are that the output will equal the record make of 1908. Still the price of butter during the winter was good, from the maker's standpoint, and has been generally good during the summer—much better than it was before the creamery industry was put on its feet by Government assistance. Considering that railway enterprise is now about to open up the central and northern portions of our neighboring province to population, industry and trade it would seem wise to push forward the work of the establishment of creameries with a view of having the goods when the market calls for them.

On August 16th The Alberta Grain Co. will take over all the elevators of the Brackman-Ker Milling Co., in northern Alberta, with the exceptions of the storage structure at Strathcona and Edmonton. These include the elevators in nine centres. Wetaskiwin, Leduc, Hobberna, Ellersli, Stoney Plain, St. Albert, Bittern Lake, Fort Saskatchewan and Lamont. The company intends to devote its attention entirely to the extension of their milling interests in the City of Strathcona, especially the manufacture of rolled oats and cereals.

CALGARY.

August 10.—Another week of seasonable weather has brought the crops on fast, and should similar climatic conditions continue for two weeks longer a large proportion of the grain will be harvested. Business in all lines is active. The outward shipments from Calgary have never been so heavy as at present. Markets in most lines are holding firm. The local flour milling companies are preparing for stock-taking, which event takes place annually at the end of the present month.

Good milling wheat is becoming scarce. Flour in consequence is being held at comparatively high prices.

VICTORIA.

August 10.—The principal topic on the street is the big run of salmon in the straits off Victoria. It is not credible to those who have not seen a salmon run, when they are told that for miles the sea is solid with fish, more than three miles of fish being in one lot—thousands leaping from the sea, a dazzling sight with the sun shining on their silvery sides. The tug Sadie, which brought a full laden scow of sockeyes and spring salmon to the inner harbor, at one time, landed ten tons of fine large spring salmon at the curing house. She reported that 10,000 sockeyes were taken from the traps of one firm at once, and within half an hour of the lift being made at Coal Creek, the watchman reported that over 5,000 had entered the traps.

There have been heavy catches of spring salmon this season. The curing companies have shipped more than $100,000 worth to Germany.

The steamers on the western coast of Vancouver Island have had much success in capturing whales this season. One of the Blue Funnel line is taking 3,500 barrels of whale oil to Liverpool early in August. The price of this oil has dropped considerably, and so affected the stock of the company, but there is still a good return made on the investment. At Sechert this season the whalers have captured 187 whales.

The Wholesale and Retail grocers, with the Fruit Dealers, have decided on getting up a picnic. Committees are busy with various details; transportation, refreshments, sports, etc. They are going some twenty miles by rail to Sidney, where on the sea shore among groups of splendid trees, sunshine or shade can be found, with splendid grounds for the sports. There are large buildings with tables, etc., and means of getting hot water. It is proposed to have August 12th for the day, and all are looking forward to a good time.

REGINA.

August 10.—A great deal of disappointment was experienced by the Regina people generally and the merchants in particular on account of the wet weather which prevailed here the first three days of last week and threatened to spoil the fair altogether. The rain made the track so bad that it was impossible to hold any horse races before Friday, and even then it was far from satisfactory to the horsemen. Even under the adverse conditions the town was crowded with visitors from the oltside, and had the weather been favorable it would have been the most successful fair ever held in Regina. All the merchants say that considering the conditions business was satisfactory.

At present the one important topic of conversation to all is the crop. During the week several reports of damage by hail at different points have been received, and the Leader estimates at least a million dollars' damage has been done by hail so far. In the districts which have escaped, the crop never looked better and prospects are that in two weeks cutting will be general.

A good many of the merchants are complaining that the heavy rains of last week did more or less damage to their cellars by flooding, and several complaints have been made to the council.

All provision jobbers report a fair movement of goods and fair future orders. They are looking forward to large orders as soon as the crop is assured. No changes of importance in price have taken place lately. Preserving peaches are now in and are retailing for $1.90 per crate. Blueberries and canteloupes are seen on the market. The first shipment of B. C. celery arrived on Wednesday and is excellent stuff.

G. F. Donaldson, who is to have charge of Tees & Persse, Regina branch, arrived here this week and is now busily engaged preparing for the arrival of their stock. They have taken part of Wilkinson's warehouse, on the corner of Rose and Dewdney Streets. They are handling several additional lines here to those they handle in Winnipeg.

M. K. Heap, head of Cameron & Heap, Ltd., spent several days here last week.

H. J. Smith, local manager of Campbell Bros. & Wilson, is spending a couple of weeks' vacation at Qu Appelle.

A. Mallinson, manager of Stockton & Mallinson, wholesale fruiters, has left for Toronto, where he will be married on the 18th inst.

Advertisers Cannot be Overlooked

BEING in the background of a merchant's mind, at a moment which decides the direction business shall take, may mean serious losses. When you advertise you cannot be overlooked---you always receive consideration---a consideration above that accorded the house that does not see the benefit of talking to the merchant when he has time to listen---when he sits down to read THE CANADIAN GROCER.

country to make heavy purchases for the fall trade. The harvest and threshing will mean much to the merchants, but the stock for this trade is already in. After threshing, however, when the farmer gets his cash, then he buys freely and stocks in winter supplies. It is for this trade that the merchants will be preparing for the next few weeks.

Wholesalers report collections coming in well and money is apparently quite plentiful. When the crop of 1909 is placed in the elevators, it is estimated, there will be more money in Western Canada than ever before in its history. Farmers as a rule are better off in the west than in Ontario, and these are the people upon which all the trades in the west depend. The future of the grocery business in Western Canada cannot be estimated. The one great precaution, however, is that retailers should protect one another, and that they should so unite in order to oppose any legislation which would be injurious to the trade in general.

SUGAR—The competition in the west is quite keen between the beet and cane products. The trade is largely in the cane sugar, and the market is strong. Wholesalers report that the shipments in sugar have been heavier this summer than any year previous.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUIT—The demand is heavy for all lines. Peaches, apricots and prunes have a particularly strong market. The fine quality of these goods is the cause of the active trade. Rural merchants are laying in large stocks in preparation for the heavy fall trade.

DRIED FRUITS—The between-season dullness is now showing, and there is little character to the demand except in Valencia raisins, currants in pound packages, and dates. The market is unchanged in price all the way round. It looks as if prices would be dearer later on in raisins and currants as cables from Denia quote an advance of about one shilling per cwt. over previous quotations for Valencia for early shipment. Stocks in Spain of old crop are reported quite exhausted. Cables from Patras regarding currants advance prices one shilling and threepence, the crop owing to the unfavorable weather suffering an estimated depreciation of 15 per cent. under last year.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Evaporated Apples—Advance of 1c.
Rice—Decline in 250 lb. bags.
Sugar—Market strong.

Montreal, Aug. 12, 1909.

The sugar situation is somewhat interesting. It looks as if prices in New York were likely to advance, and if this happens it will likely have a sympathetic influence upon the market here. As it is prices are firm. Valencia raisins and currants may be dearer this coming season, as cables report advances in both crop districts, the latter being due to crop depreciation. Inquiries have improved in tea, and prospects look goods.

Evaporated apples have advanced owing to depletion of stocks.

SUGAR—There is a strong tone to the market. Buying is brisk, and the fact that New York prices may advance, tends to make quotations very firm. Prices this week are unchanged.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—There has been a fair movement in canned goods. Strawberries are moving better at last week's firmer price. Reports have been received from Victoria, of an unusual run of sockeyes, the traps taking from 20,000 to 50,000 fish each lift, and being no sooner emptied than they began to fill again. The extent of the salmon run seems to assure a profitable season for the trade. There is no change in general canned goods prices.

1 lb. flats, per doz.	1.87½

TORONTO — The market in canned goods at this point shows little change from a week ago. Raspberries have not yet been quoted. As a matter of fact strawberries is the only fruit on which new prices are named, and these are firm as named below.

Wholesalers are in a quandary as to what will happen to the canned peas market (new pack.) Reports say the crop will be shorter than at first anticipated, while it is known that some canners are holding a good many thousand cases, and they may all have more peas than the trade is aware of.

Salmon prices are as last quoted for Clover Leaf and Horseshoe brands. Wholesalers here now are issuing figures on other salmon as noted below.

ONTARIO MARKETS

POINTERS—

Sugar—Heavy sales.

Evaporated Apples—Advance in price. price.

Tea—Firm market.

Toronto, August 12, 1909.

Whether it is the great heat, or the fact that the travelers are still off the job, business is so quiet that news of any description is not available. In calling on a good number of the wholesale men, only one was found who looked as if he were anxious to do something, and he had an inkling which came to him in some way that sugars might make another advance. He was rolling it over in his mind, but he was not at all decided as to what to do.

The evaporated apple market is strong on account of small stocks and prices are again a shade higher.

Business is rather quiet generally as the travelers have not yet arrived back on their beats. Next week things will be more lively.

SUGAR—The sugar market is firm and with the heavy demand for preserving purposes the anticipated advance may materialize. At present however, the prices are as last quoted.

A Great Selling Team

¶ Buyers must be moved through several steps to be brought to the buying point.

¶ They must have their attention attracted to the article. They must have their interest in it awakened. They must be informed as to its nature, utility and merits. They must be convinced of its value. They must be moved to action—to closing.

¶ Good salesmen and good trade-paper advertising make a great team to carry the buyer through these several stages to the buying point. Alone, the salesman is at a disadvantage.

consumption of coffee in Canada is gradually increasing, which is the result of better varieties of coffee and more scientific blending. A statement was recently made by a Toronto daily paper that no Mocha coffee was used in Canada. The facts are quite the reverse as some houses deal practically altogether in that variety.

RETAIL HARDWARE ASSOCIATION EXCURSION.

An excursion which is sure to combine business and pleasure in a most acceptable manner will be conducted the last week in August by the Ontario Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association.

The excursion will leave Toronto on Monday, August 23, at 3 p.m., on the steamer Kingston, of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co. Calls will be made that evening at Charlotte, N.Y., and the following morning at Kingston, Brockville, Prescott, Thousand Island Park and other ports on the St. Lawrence River before shooting the rapids. Montreal will be reached on Tuesday at 6.30 p.m.

At Montreal a committee of hardware manufacturers and jobbers will provide a program of entertainment. The details have not all been arranged as yet, but invitations have been received from several concerns, which will be referred to the committee in charge of the program. One or two mornings may be given over to meetings to discuss trade matters, this leaving the afternoons and evenings free for the entertainment features of the program.

The majority of the party will return together on the boat leaving Montreal, Saturday, August 28, at 1.30 p.m., and arriving in Toronto, Monday, August 30, at 7 a.m., this being the opening day of the Toronto Exhibition.

Tickets for the trip can be secured from the secretary of the Ontario Retail Hardware Association, 10 Front Street East, Toronto, the rate being $20 for the round trip, meals and berth being included. A side trip will be made by some of the party to Quebec. Return tickets will be honored at any time up to the close of the season, with stop-over privlieges at any point.

Gentlemen :—

Ship me at once, ten tubs of Easifirst, and a further shipment of forty tubs next week.

I am retailing this lard over the counter for household use, and it is giving excellent satisfaction. Practically every sale I have made has resulted in repeat orders, and many of my customers prefer it to any other lard on the market. Easifirst is one of the best sellers we have on our list, and we are not handling any other lard, either wholesale or retail.

Produce and Provision Situation of the World

Live Hogs Easier in Price with Prospect for Still Further Decline in September—Export Trade Likely to Come to Front Again—Country Raising More Hogs—Packers Refusing Large Butter Supplies—No Export Demand.

The prospects of an easier tendency soon looks fairly hopeful. Interested parties think the market has seen the highest point. Around $8 is the quotation for live hogs at interior points, which is 35c easier than the top figure of the season. On the far southwestern part of Ontario quotations are at $7.85 f.o.b. and some hogs have been offered at isolated points as low as $7.60. These prices are said to obtain in Toronto, though verification could not be obtained. Dealers, however, admit there is a lowering of from 5c to 15c a hundred, and they expect, probably next month, to see a further decline.

Farmers are said to be raising more hogs than for four years past and packers are again looking to the export field. England is said to have experimented with small importations of Chinese hogs with success. The United States has not offered of late sufficient supplies in the English markets, and there appears to be a good opportunity for Canadian pork products in the British markets.

The offerings of butter all over Canada have been freer of late than for some weeks. There is no export demand, however, and packers are not putting away so much. In some sections buyers have refused offerings of butter, because of large stocks on hand. With it all there has as yet been no decline, though it must be confessed there is an exceedingly easier feeling.

The cheese trade is quiet. Business is normal in that demand is easy throughout the country, though in the cheese centres fair quantities are being bought for export.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Orders are on the light side, being of a sorting up character. There is not much incentive to buy just at present as prices are high and the season dull. The ham trade is brisk. Owing to accumulation of stock plate beef in 200 and 300 lb. barrels has declined $1 and $1.50 respectively. For the same reason there has been a decline of ½c in long clear bacon, light and heavy. Otherwise there is no change to the market.

BUTTER—Dairy butter is not in very much demand at present. The market for creamery is lower in the country but prices are yet too high to permit of any exporting at a profit. Pastures are good, and production continues quite large. The market is unchanged this week.

PROVISIONS—Firmer and higher prices are noted in long clear and roll bacons and in short cuts, though on the whole the situation is somewhat easier. The market is thought by many to have reached its highest point and that by another month conditions will be more favorable to trading. While continuing last week's quotations for lard, the expectation is that all grades will advance a quarter of a cent a pound before the week is out. One interesting feature is the fact that though the Toronto price for live hogs is $8 per cwt., outside points have quated $7.85 f.o.b., and even as low as $7.60 was the quotation. This means a decline of 15 cents a hundred, which though it may not mean much to the dealer buying in small quantities, does mean much in the aggregate and certainly looks well in print, for already it has eased up the market considerably. Smoked bacon and cooked hams are the lines most in demand, though some rather heavy calls have been made on short cuts in barrel lots.

BUTTER—Supplies are more plentiful and dealers are not packing extensively just now. In fact some butter has been offered in the country, but refused by buyers because of large stocks. This has had a tendency to ease up the market, though as yet no great decline in prices is noted.

CHEESE—Normal business only is being done in cheese. Supplies, while not large are free enough to meet present demands.

Cheese, new, large	0 12½ 0 12¾
" " twins	0 12½ 0 12¾

EGGS—Freer supplies are arriving in the local market, but the quality has not improved. Hens are out in the stubble. Prices are stationary and unchanged from last week.

Fresh eggs	0 22

POULTRY—Hens are up 2 cents above last week's price, and about three cents higher than last year. They are at the highest figure for a decade for this time of year, and are hard to obtain. Turkeys, too, show an advance of a cent.

Early spring chicken, alive, per lb	0 17
Hens, per lb. dressed	0 12
Turkeys, per lb., large	0 16
Spring ducks	0 10

HONEY—Some fair quantities of honey have come to the local houses during this week, but no sales have been recorded. The price to open will likely be a little easier than 10 cents. Quality is fair, though the dry spell in early summer has not helped the clover honey any either in quality or quantity.

SIMPLY HIS SYSTEM.

"How in Goshen," exclaimed a man to the porter of a Pullman sleeper—"how in Goshen do you manage to keep the shoes all straight when you pile them up in a heap like that before you black them? How in Goshen do you get them all back to the right berths again? Don't you ever make a mistake?"

"No, sah. Ah never makes no mistakes."

"Well, it's wonderful, perfectly wonderful. How do you do it?"

"Ah has mah system, sah."

POORER APPLE PROSPECTS

Government's Report On Canadaian Fruit Crops From July Standpoint.

Some changes from last accounts are noticeable in the fruit crop prospects according to information collected by the Fruit Division of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, supervised by A. McNeill.

Apple prospects during the latter part of June and the month of July declined somewhat, nevertheless this fruit is growing rapidly now and gives promise to be of good size and quality generally. In the Lake Erie district early and fall apples are reported light to medium and winter medium. Talmon Sweets, Ben Davis and Kings are medium as well as Greenings, Baldwins and Russets. Timely rains saved the situation in Nova Scotia, but in British Columbia the crop is irregular and it is stated will not reach the average.

There has been a falling off in the pear prospects during July and only a light to medium crop is looked for. This refers particularly to the Lake Erie, Lake Huron and Ottawa-St. Lawrence districts. In parts of Nova Scotia the prospects are for a medium to full crop and in British Columbia they are a little brighter though the crop will not reach the average.

Plums and Peaches.

American and European plums will be a good average crop in the Niagara District. Japan varieties are not as promising on the whole as last month. Lombards are reported a full crop; Bradshaw, Grand Duke, Gueii and Glass Seedling medium to full crop; Burbank Reine Claude and Golden Drop medium. Plums will be fairly plentiful in all sections with the exception of British Columbia, where the crop is light generally.

There has been very little change in the peach outlook in southern Ontario since last month. Both early and late peaches, with the exception of the Elbertas, which were most seriously affected with the "curl," will yield a good crop. Early peaches are reported medium to full crop this month, and late peaches a little above medium on the whole. Alexanders, Rivers, St. John, Early Crawford and Smock are above a medium crop; Champion and Triumph will average just about a medium crop, while Elbertas will yield only a light to medium crop.

Good Quality In Cherries.

A fairly large crop of cherries of excellent quality has been marketed from the Niagara District. The sour varieties were a full crop and the sweet varieties a good medium crop. The cherry crop in Prince Edward County and in District 3 generally, is exceptionally large and of fine quality. Cherries are also plentiful in Nova Scotia. The crop in British Columbia is below normal.

Grapes are doing well in the commercial vineyards of southern Ontario. There is practically no complaint of injury from the rose chafer or other insect enemies, and the grapes, thus far, are very free from rot and mildew. Correspondents report the Concords to be a full crop; Niagaras and red grapes medium to full crop.

Tomatoes will be a good average crop in Ontario. Early varieties were shipped in large quantities the beginning of last week from the Essex Peninsula. Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island report a medium to full crop; British Columbia a medium crop.

The strawberry crop in Ontario was shortened on account of dry weather. A medium to full crop was harvested in the Niagara District. The sample generally was very good, though somewhat small towards the end of the season. Prices were only fair, though the demand was good.

Raspberries, currants, gooseberries and blackberries are now being harvested in large quantities. The crop on the whole will be medium to full. Prices have been fairly high.

Cranberries in Nova Scotia promise to be a good crop, though hardly as heavy as last year. Cranberries are reported a full crop in Prince Edward Island.

Blueberries are very plentiful in Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Hugh Blain, of Eby, Blain, Ltd., is expected to return next week from a holiday trip to Muskoka.

Before concluding their business on Saturday afternoon, the International Apple Shippers' Association which met at Buffalo this year, decided to convene next year at Niagara Falls, N.Y. This announcement is of some consequence to the fruit growers of the entire Canadian frontier as many delegates from this country attend these conventions.

CARE-WORN BUSINESS MEN.

What Over-attention to Office Duties is Doing—The Need of Exercise.

The recent assertion of a prominent physician that 99 per cent. of the business and professional men in American cities are sufferers from functional heart trouble or chronic indigestion, simply because they will not take any bodily exercise, brings home one of the most astonishing truths of the present day, and one that should be recognized by every man and woman in the country. Every day the metropolitan papers contain scores of notices of the illness of lawyers, bankers, merchants and others of the kind, who have been forced into retirement by the continual strain of business without the saving antidote of physical training.

Any day when business is at its height a physician can point out scores of men on the streets and in office buildings who are sallow and irritable with nervous disorders, and any person may see hundreds of old and young men hurrying about their daily routine with drawn faces and staring eyes, almost on the verge of collapse. In almost every bank, store and office in the city are clerks with hollow chests and trembling hands, whose labors are a constant strain upon them, and whose leisure brings no recuperation. All of these are truly going the "pace that kills." In a short time, no matter what the number of their years may be, they will be decrepit old men.

It has been proven that any recreation, if it is no more than pitching quoits, is of great physical value to the business man. "Every man," says former President Roosevelt, "should have some healthful amusement—something that exercises his muscles and makes him forget himself; something outside of theatres and balls and billiards—something in the open air." There is no reason in the world why any man should not find amusement and exercise to suit his desires and needs. There are games requiring hours, but there are also sports which require very little time, and at least some of them are always readily accessible at small expense.—The Book-Keeper.

WHAT ENTHUSIASM DOES.

You might as well try to thaw out a frozen pipe with an ice cake as to interest a customer in your proposition unless you are interested yourself. If your heart is in your work your enthusiasm will often cause a would-be customer to forget that you are trying to make a sale. Enthusiasm is a great business getter. It is so contagious that, before we know it, we are infected with it, even though we try to brace ourselves against it.

It's easy to drift. Success comes by pulling against the current.

Man's business is to work—to surmount difficulties, to endure hardship, to solve problems, to overcome the inertia of his own nature; to turn chaos into cosmos by the aid of system—this is to live!

Why Tie Up Your Cash?

We want the Grocers of Canada to fully realize that Christie Fancy Biscuits —La Fete, Orange Wafers, Coffee Wafers, Philopenas, Dominoes, Acorns, et cetera, et cetera,---are far superior to any fancy lines manufactured on this continent, and equal in Purity, Nutriment and Quality to the highest grades manufactured in the British Isles. The point is this:---Why tie up your cash when you can buy fresh and pure and in small quantities when you want them? Remember---we're not saying one word against the high and unvarying standard of English fancy lines; but we do maintain, and reasonably, that Christie fancy lines are the equal of the best produced anywhere. As a practical Grocer you know that a sea voyage never adds anything to the flavor of food stuffs. The moral is plain. Stock Christie fancy biscuits when you want the best fancy lines with the right flavor. Don't tie up your cash!

N.B.---Our "Madeira Mixed" and "Cherry Rings" are superior fancy lines.

Flour, Cereals and Confectionery Department

How Equipment Aids in Selling Confectionery — Cleanliness Absolutely Essential—Decline In Flour Prices Due To Arrival of New Ontario Wheat.

Judicious outlay in providing a clean, wholesome corner in the store for the confectionery is to be always commended. A grocer who sells high-class confections cannot afford to let it lie on top of the bare counter where it can be preyed upon by the avaricious house-fly which is usually on hand if not carefully watched. Cleanliness in the confectionery department is essential and unless proper equipment in the matter of showcases, etc., is provided, that care cannot be properly exercised. Those groceries which display their goods attractively and at the same time maintain their appearance have the advantage.

Flour prices this week are somewhat depressed in view of new Ontario wheat coming on the market. Although the quantity is not large, yet its effect is being felt and a lower market is the result.

Wheat cereals are also easier from the same reason, but rolled oats remain as last quoted.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—Although buying is still on the conservative side, millers report a steady, if quiet, demand. Dealers are waiting for the new crop, and until then the market will not change much in character. The coming of the new crop has depressed prices in winter wheat patents, straight rollers and extra, the price now being $6.50, $6.20 and $5.70 respectively.

Winter wheat patents, bbl	6 50
Straight rollers, bb	6 20
Extra, bbl	5 70

Manitoba spring wheat patents, bbl	6 30

FEED—The demand is still active, and the market generally is in good shape. There has been a decline in Manitoba bran of $1. Otherwise the market is unchanged.

" bran, per ton	22 00
Mouillie, milled, per ton	28 00
" straight grained, per ton	32 00
Feed flour, 98-lb. bag	1 55 1 85

ROLLED OATS—No further weakness has developed in rolled oats, and last week's quotations still obtain. An increase in the demand would probably stop any further decline. Other lines are unchanged under a steady, if not over active, call.

Standard oatmeal, bags	2 90

TORONTO.

FLOUR—The market in flour this week is lower as was predicted in last week's issue; and particularly is this the case in new winter wheat flour which some millers have reduced about 50 cents a barrel. Some new Ontario wheat is coming on the market from the Niagara and Essex districts and this is selling from 1.00 up to 1.10. The cause of the decline in flour is due to this situation. There is practically no old Ontario wheat and what there is should be hurried out as the price will not likely be any higher. Old Manitoba wheat flour has declined somewhat in sympathy with the winter wheat.

CEREALS—So far as rolled oats and oatmeal are concerned there is no change to report. Stocks are getting small, however, and as the new crops will not be threshed much before October 1st, there is a possibility of higher prices during September. In view of the new wheat coming on the market rolled wheat is somewhat easier. Toronto firms are offering wheat flakes to outside retailers at from $3.50 to $3.70.

SUGGESTIONS FOR EXPORTERS.

South Africa Trade Commissioners Offers Some Hints to Canadian Manufacturers.

Hints for Canadian firms who are interested in trade in South Africa are given by H. R. Pousette, Canadian Trade Commissioner. He claims that if the following advice is carefully attended to business will be greatly facilitated:

When communicating with South African importers be sure to send catalogues, price lists, and export discount rates, in fact the very fullest information possible.

One particularly necessary point to observe is, that all quotations should be c. i. f. to South African ports, and in sterling, whenever possible, or at the very least the f.o.b. price seaboard, and the shipping weight of each unit of weight by which the article is usually sold, and also the shipping rate by the Canada-Cape steamers.

There is a duty on all catalogues of over 8 ozs. gross weight coming into the South African Customs Union, of 2d. per pound or 25 per cent ad valorem, whichever is the greater. This can be paid in advance by affixing South African postage stamps, obtainable from the Agents General for the various colonies in London; or by remitting the amount by money order to the Postmaster General of the colony to which the catalogues are addressed. Remittances should be despatched not later than by the same mail taking the consignments they are intended to cover. Each packet should bear the following words: "Posted by....., duty sent to Postmaster General.....(Colony)."

Impress upon your correspondents your keen desire to work up a South African connection, and your determination only to send a class of goods adapted to local requirements, and exactly up to specification.

Remember that replies to South African letters take two months consequently there should not be unnecessarily delayed.

Do not forget that you have in this market to compete against English, American and continental firms, who have been in the export trade for centuries, and who through their agents here, and by their excellent methods and system, make business with them easy and pleasant.

It would be advisable when answering South African trade inquiries to at the same time communicate with the office of the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Durban or Cape Town, inclosing catalogues, price lists, and discount rates, so that the local firms may be called upon, or a letter addressed to them requesting their careful attention.

When Mother Sends Johnny for "More of the Same"

When a woman is pleased with her purchase—
Meaning pleased with herself and results,
'Tis mere human nature, feminine human nature at that,
Next time she calls—or sends Johnny,
That it's "for more of the same."

* * *

She has found out the difference in bread, and rolls and pies, Baking Success as against Baking Failure.
Guests have commended her wonderful cooking.
And she's thirsting for more of the same—
Both the praise of the neighbors and the good things.

You can't afford to let Johnny "come a-marching home" with a common imitation—
A FIVE ROSES makeshift.
Mother will feel robbed of the "next-door" jealousy.
Remember the hungry faces around the board—
And a hungry face is an angry face.
And Johnny will help spread the news of discomfiture—
Being a chip of the old block.

Not only the "same" flour—
She wants the same results at every baking, the same praise, same admiration.
Which means same quality—unvarying.
If not unvarying—progressive quality—
Each order better than the Trial Order.
Such as FIVE ROSES flour.

Price Shading can't blot out Disappointment.
Flour is good or no good.
If it be no good, neither Price Concession, Long Terms, nor "Chin Work" can make it better.
Even as common cheese has ruined the ambitions of the cheese trade—
Likewise Cheap Flour will reduce Consumption.
So beware for your Profits, Brother Grocer.

FIVE ROSES is good flour, progressive quality.
Better to-day than yesterday—still better to-morrow.
A steady money-maker, Brother Grocer.
Because the results never make you ashamed you sold it.
Nor the housewife sorry she bought it.
Since there's no profit for YOU on goods not in stock—
Get FIVE ROSES.
Because it means "more of the same"
Immediate Profit—Future Goodwill—
Name and Fame—
And Surplus.

Because it compels a neighbor to inquire, "Who's your Grocer?"
A little higher in price—
But—!
Your first FIVE ROSES order, Brother Grocer.
Let it be SOON.

The Grocer's Encyclopedia From Week to Week

What Cream Cheese Is And The Method of Manufacture—Things Necessary To Be Done For Its Proper Care—Becoming Favorably Known On the Market.

CREAM CHEESE — A commodity which is handled extensively by grocers at the present time is Cream Cheese and to be a successful salesman of it one must know its qualities.

There are, of course, different modes of manufacture for different brands. Some varieties are made from the raw, creamy strippings, others from a mixture of milk and cream. The pressure necessary to press out the whey is only one of from 2 to 4 pounds.

Cream cheese is made in various shapes including oblong, square, and round cakes. At the end of about 12 hours it may be placed on a board or trencher and turned daily until dry. It is often eaten when fresh but if kept it ripens in about three weeks time. Some add a little salt or powdered lump sugar as a condiment when eating it. It is practically cream dried sufficiently to be cut with a knife and is of a soft buttery consistency and will not keep long.

Needs Careful Attention.

In giving some hints as to the care of cream cheese Law's Grocer's Manual states that it should be kept in a cool dry place, for dampness causes mould, and gives the cheese a bad appearance. If exposed long enough to the air or in a draught it is apt to run into a liquid and to become offensive to both the smell and taste although the fashion is not to eat it until decomposition has set in.

The cheese should not be placed on the shelves during the summer months because the heat will cause it to run and affect its flavor, so as to render it unsaleable. It is often made from milk partly skimmed so that the 'real cream' cheese is usually called "double cream" and may be made either by curdling with rennet or from sour cream.

About 8 lbs. of cream will make about 2 doz., 4-oz. cheeses, and of course the best are made from the best quality cream. Cream cheese sell particularly well at summer resorts and in large cities and towns, and are rapidly working their way onto the market.

WHAT OTHERS ARE DOING.

News About Grocers' and Merchants' Associations In The United States.

The grocers of Delaware, Ohio, made an agreement whereby the stores throughout the city will be closed on Wednesday afternoon of each week during July and August as well.

The Cleveland, O., Retail Grocers' association have appointed a committee to urge sale of fruits and vegetables by weight at convention of secretaries at Columbus.

A meeting of a committee from the Grand Rapids Retail Grocers' association and a committee from the Grand Rapids Produce, Trade and Credit association was held recently when the list feature of the asociation was discussed. The association was organized for the improvement of credits and its plan has been in operation about three weeks. It is stated that most of the trade are in line with the association, but that some of the grocers objected to the list feature. The rule of the association requires that bills be paid once a week, and it is explained that while a list is kept of those who fail to pay within the specified time, and consequently are charged cash during delinquency, this is not a "black list," but an "information list," and names upon it do not reflect on the credit or standing of those listed.

Plenty of Lemons on the Market After Last Week's Scarcity and Prices Decline—Good Demand for California Pears — Canadian Vegetables Attracting Attention — No Fresh Water Fish This Week.

MONTREAL

GREEN FRUITS—There is a strong call for California pears, and although the supply is good the demand has raised prices. Quotations are now from $2.75 to $3.50. The better quality plums are slightly higher in price. Supplies of fruit are coming along in excellent shape, while the demand is active. Montreal melons are now appearing on the market. The crop promised to be a splendid one, but the hot weather has spoiled the ripening. Other lines are very little changed in price.

FISH—British Columbian salmon is now arriving in place of the eastern supply. There is naturally a good demand at a price of 17c. Brook trout are very scarce owing to the hot weather. Fishing is extremely light and prices in consequence are very firm. Cod and haddock are still arriving freely, but it is anticipated will soon commence to become scarce. The market in other lines shows very little change.

GREEN FRUITS—Peaches, raspberries, blueberries and lawtons form the bulk of the receipts of domestic fruits arriving this week on the local market, with apples coming well to the front. There are, too, some early samples of stewing plums. Gooseberries and cherries are about done, one or two baskets per day being the total offerings. California Elberta peaches and pears are the best lines offering, with western cantaloupes displacing Baltimores. Bananas and watermelons continue to be plentiful. Heavy consignments of Mediterranean lemons have arrived during the past few days, and have considerably relieved the strain on the market. Demand for lemons during the past few hot days has been somewhat enormous, but supplies are very large and almost every house has reserve stocks. There was almost a lemon famine a week ago, but great quantities have arrived during the past several days. A number of price changes is noted, seasonable lines being much easier.

VEGETABLES — Canadian tomatoes are rapidly supplanting imported lines, and native cucumbers have pushed southern cukes off the market. Potatoes continue to improve, but U. S. stock is yet the dependable line. They are coming nearer home. This week Jerseys are offered, and they are splendid stock. Ontarios are offered from nearby points, and while they show much improvement over a week ago, they are not yet the kind to offer in competition to imported Delawares, being rough-skinned. The early drouth and later on heavy rains caked the clay and prevented steady growth. The later varieties, however, are said to be good in quality and an average crops. Rhubarb, cress and celery are off this week, but with the native green onions, carrots, peas, beets and corn, they will not be missed.

FISH—Once every year there comes a week in which it is almost impossible to get fresh water fish on the local market. Last year it was the first week in August. This year the present week is that period. Strange to say there is no change in prices, although demand is heavy and supplies low. British Columbia sea fish is coming in in small lots, and will help relieve the strain during August. The U. S. cities are again this year looking for our Canadian fresh water fish lines.

DUTIES OF MANFACTURES.

Canadian Delegate at Press Conference Points Out Superiority of United States Methods.

"The trade of Canada is of more importance to Great Britain than the entire trade of South America," said J. W. Dafoe, the editor of the Manitoba Free Press, and one of the delegates to the Imperial Press Conference, "England is allowing that trade to drift beyond her control.

"In Canada you have a market favorably inclined to you. You are only separated from it by the sea, and water transit is the cheapest of all. Your greatest rival has to face what is practically the maximum tariff. And yet British goods are being side tracked, and Americans are winning almost all along the line.

"I say that it is for the British manufacture to find out the reason of this, and to remedy it, if he hopes to save Canadian trade. The day has gone by when you can say that because one line of goods satisfies other British Colonies therefore it must do for Canada. You have to study our needs, and give us not what you think we ought to want, but what we are asking for. You must advertise, and you must have men on the spot to see to your interests. It is no use for a manufacturer to try to keep his trade by sending out catalogues.

Result of Enterprise.

"There are a few lines of British goods which are still generally used. Holbrook's sauce, for instance, is found from one end to the other of Canada. How has it held its own? The story, as I have heard it, is that some years ago that firm sent out a representative to America, and while waiting for business there he crossed over to Canada. He was a week in the United States; he remained three months in Canada. He advertised, he personally presented his goods, he learned the ways of our market, and to-day the firm, I believe, has eight men all the time on the road in the Dominion. What one firm is doing there is opportunity for others to do.

"Some years ago a well-known British-made article of every day use was found from end to end of Canada. It held the market. Then an American competitor came in. The American advertised, he put up his goods in tins with bright pictures on the covers, and he gained a foothold.

"The Canadian agent of the British manufacturer pointed out to his principal that if something was not done their old trade would die. The British maker refused to change. His product was good enough for the rest of the Empire; it should be good enough for Canada. Within two years the Canadian resigned the agency of that once-triumphant British product; the sales had fallen so that it was no longer worth while handling it.

"The British manufacturer does not advertise in Canada, and you cannot hold a market without advertising. Let him come out and see what we demand; let him keep someone on the spot to watch over his interests; let him provide what Canada wants, and a big market is waiting him. But the old way will not do."

System is Everything

Modern business success is built upon System. The house that is ahead is the one that is best systematized in every detail—especially in the selling end.

THE Allison COUPON BOOK SYSTEM

is the most important phase of selling system so far as the grocer is concerned. You can get along without them, but not nearly as well as you can WITH them.

How They Work

A man wants credit. You think he is good. Give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book. Have him sign the receipt or note form in the front of the book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10 — No trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10 and gets another book. No pass books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

Friends—Not Growlers

RISING SUN Stove Polish in Cakes never comes back to you with growls from the housekeeper. It is always made up to the same high standard maintained for forty years, and it is always just right. That's why we have the thousands upon thousands of grocers pushing it everywhere. Grocers don't wish to run the risk of losing a good customer by passing out an inferior stove polish, which is wrong more often than it is right. RISING SUN makes friends for you and for us in every household where you put it.

A strong combination-

¶ An extensive garden of three thousand acres in the heart of Prince Edward County, Ontario; a canning factory without a peer in the completeness of its modern sanitary and mechanical equipment, and the cleanliness and skill of its employees; that is the combination which produces "Farmer Brand" Canned Fruits and Vegetables.

¶ Consequently every can of Farmer Brand is pure in quality and perfect in flavor. Farmer Brand brings and retains for you the quality customers —people who want the very best and are willing to pay a fair price to get it.

The Farmers' Canning Company

Bloomfield, - Ontario

QUALITY

If ESSEX CANNED GOODS were no better than the average, we would say less about them, but because they measure up to a higher standard we can afford to be very emphatic regarding QUALITY. Essex County is one of the very best agricultural sections in Canada, with advantages in growing such crops as Corn, Tomatoes and Fruits seldom equalled in this country. The Factory is thoroughly new and up-to-date, equipped with every facility for doing things right, and equal to an enormously big output of

Essex Tomatoes
Essex Corn
Essex Beans
Essex Peas
Essex Pumpkin
Essex Fruits
Essex Catsup
Essex Jams
Essex Pork and Beans
Essex Apple Butter

In the competition of the canned goods business, we cling tightly to the word "QUALITY", preferring to be always best, rather than second-rate, and in reaching out for a share of your trade, we offer such satisfaction as will give our goods a distinct preference with your customers. You run no possible risk in getting the best, particularly when they cost no more, and all we ask is that you give the "ESSEX BRAND" a trial.

A LIBERAL AND PROGRESSIVE COMMISSION OFFER FOR PUSHFUL PEOPLE

That young man who seizes every opportunity to turn an honest penny during his spare time is likely to soon develop from clerk into proprietor.

That's the kind of young men we are looking for—men who are willing to use some of their spare time in pushing a profitable business proposition.

We want some really pushful local agents for the MacLean Trade Papers, The Busy Man's Magazine and The Financial Post. For those who will push there's good money to be made everywhere in Canada.

The commissions we are offering are extremely liberal. Moreover, they are progressive; i.e., the more subscriptions secured the higher the rate of commission paid.

Hadn't you better get the facts of our plan? Just sit down and write us for full particulars.

Building Up a Permanent Flour Trade

¶ If you just care about to-day's profits and are content to let future business take care of itself you'll be more interested in the price question than the quality argument.

¶ But if you can see farther than your nose you will see the wisdom of talking flour-quality and forgetting the price-question.

¶ Talk Purity Brand — the quality-flour.

¶ Tell your customers that Purity flour consists of only the high-grade constituents of the hard wheat berry—that the low grade constituents are never mixed into this brand.

PURITY FLOUR

¶ Tell them that Purity has more downright quality than any flour you know of—and that is the truth, too.

¶ Tell them that it is always uniform —that the quality never varies—therefore always reliable.

¶ Tell them that it is worth much more in quality than the little extra difference in price.

¶ That's the way to build up a permanent flour trade —one that cannot be won away from you.

¶ Better send in that order for Purity right away.

The Best Canned Goods

There are many kinds in the market all making claims of being the choicest and the highest in excellence, flavor and merit, but

The Queen Quality Leads

WHY?

Because our fruits and vegetables are fresh, palatable, and the finest specimens that can be secured in one of Canada's most fertile and progressive districts.

Because they are uniform in quality, as we supervise the growing of the raw products from seed time to harvest and our inspectors reject everything that is not strictly up to the highest standard.

Because we have the most sanitary and up-to-date process and machinery and no detail is overlooked. We attend to the practical side ourselves and make our own cans of the best tin plate that can be secured.

All progressive grocers stock them and all discriminating customers get in them

Canned Goods Still Leads

We would advise that we are now running heavy on Peas, packing a finer quality than we have ever turned out because of the excellent condition of the raw material, which with our careful handling, fine equipment and unequalled sanitary factory, enables us to far excel in quality any previous year.

These same conditions will apply to the full line of fruits and vegetables which we pack.

Don't be deceived by Brands and Trade Marks similar to ours which some packers are using, trying to place on the market inferior goods on our well-earned reputation.

1909 CROP

"SOLEIL BRAND"

The Retail Trade is invited to ask us for quotations for the famous vegetables, canned goods of the "Soleil Brand," 1909 crop.

The reputation of these canned goods in Canada is justified by the choice and the quality of the vegetables and their mode of preparation, which preserves all the natural taste and delicacy of the fresh articlé.

This constitutes the secret of the success secured wherever these goods have been offered to the consumer.

For prices and other information please write or see either of the following firms, who are selling the canned goods of the "Soleil Brand":

enables you to get trade, to hold trade and to get more with the least expense to yourself.

You don't have to lock up one dollar of capital in handling "SALADA."

And yet its popularity and ever-increasing sale brings you in a permanent revenue of profit.

Because we sell you fresh tea in small or large quantities to suit your requirements, which allows of disposal before payments are due.

And remember the cost is the same to all, whether you buy one case or fifty. There is no occasion to load up and you know large tea stocks eating themselves up are the bane of the grocer.

Of course you are aware that we prepay the freight and ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEE THE SALE. That we positively refuse to sell "SALADA" to the peddler.

THEN THINK OF WHAT THIS MEANS TO YOU (and think hard).

Eaton Advertising Accompanies an Early Enquiry

Strong Indications That School Book Contract is to be Used as an Advertising Lever —Mail Order Education and "Money Saver" Tip Sent to a Man Requiring Information About the New Books—Injustice to the Retailers Throughout the Province.

What may be regarded as a preliminary though none the less significant evidence of the use which the T. Eaton Co. intend making of the school reader contract, recently awarded them by the Ontario Government, has been brought to the attention of this paper by an enquirer for information concerning the new books. Accompanying the reply which he received was a batch of Eaton mail-order literature, samples of which are here reproduced.
